Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 45(c), (d), (e), and (g) (Effective 12/1/13)
(made applicable in bankruptcy cases by Rule 9016, Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure)

(c) Place of compliance.

(1) For a Trial, Hearing, or Deposition. A subpoena may command a person to attend a trial, hearing, or deposition only as follows:

- (A) within 100 miles of where the person resides, is employed, or regularly transacts business in person; or
- (B) within the state where the person resides, is employed, or regularly transacts business in person, if the person
 - (i) is a party or a party's officer; or
 - (ii) is commanded to attend a trial and would not incur substantial expense.

(2) For Other Discovery. A subpoena may command:

- (A) production of documents, or electronically stored information, or things at a place within 100 miles of where the person resides, is employed, or regularly transacts business in person; and
- (B) inspection of premises, at the premises to be inspected.

(d) Protecting a Person Subject to a Subpoena; Enforcement.

(1) Avoiding Undue Burden or Expense; Sanctions. A party or attorney responsible for issuing and serving a subpoena must take reasonable steps to avoid imposing undue burden or expense on a person subject to the subpoena. The court for the district where compliance is required must enforce this duty and impose an appropriate sanction — which may include lost earnings and reasonable attorney's fees — on a party or attorney who fails to comply.

(2) Command to Produce Materials or Permit Inspection.

(A) Appearance Not Required. A person commanded to produce documents, electronically stored information, or tangible things, or to permit the inspection of premises, need not appear in person at the place of production or inspection unless also commanded to appear for a deposition, hearing, or trial.

(B) Objections. A person commanded to produce documents or tangible things or to permit inspection may serve on the party or attorney designated in the subpoena a written objection to inspecting, copying, testing or sampling any or all of the materials or to inspecting the premises — or to producing electronically stored information in the form or forms requested. The objection must be served before the earlier of the time specified for compliance or 14 days after the subpoena is served. If an objection is made, the following rules apply:

- (i) At any time, on notice to the commanded person, the serving party may move the court for the district where compliance is required for an order compelling production or inspection.
- (ii) These acts may be required only as directed in the order, and the order must protect a person who is neither a party nor a party's officer from significant expense resulting from compliance.

(3) Quashing or Modifying a Subpoena.

(A) When Required. On timely motion, the court for the district where compliance is required must quash or modify a subpoena that:

- (i) fails to allow a reasonable time to comply;
- (ii) requires a person to comply beyond the geographical limits specified in Rule 45(c);
- (iii) requires disclosure of privileged or other protected matter, if no exception or waiver applies; or
- (iv) subjects a person to undue burden.

(B) When Permitted. To protect a person subject to or affected by a subpoena, the court for the district where compliance is required may, on motion, quash or modify the subpoena if it requires:

- (i) disclosing a trade secret or other confidential research, development, or commercial information; or

(ii) disclosing an unretained expert's opinion or information that does not describe specific occurrences in dispute and results from the expert's study that was not requested by a party.

(C) Specifying Conditions as an Alternative. In the circumstances described in Rule 45(d)(3)(B), the court may, instead of quashing or modifying a subpoena, order appearance or production under specified conditions if the serving party:

- (i) shows a substantial need for the testimony or material that cannot be otherwise met without undue hardship; and
- (ii) ensures that the subpoenaed person will be reasonably compensated.

(e) Duties in Responding to a Subpoena.

(1) Producing Documents or Electronically Stored Information. These procedures apply to producing documents or electronically stored information:

(A) Documents. A person responding to a subpoena to produce documents must produce them as they are kept in the ordinary course of business or must organize and label them to correspond to the categories in the demand.

(B) Form for Producing Electronically Stored Information Not Specified. If a subpoena does not specify a form for producing electronically stored information, the person responding must produce it in a form or forms in which it is ordinarily maintained or in a reasonably usable form or forms.

(C) Electronically Stored Information Produced in Only One Form. The person responding need not produce the same electronically stored information in more than one form.

(D) Inaccessible Electronically Stored Information. The person responding need not provide discovery of electronically stored information from sources that the person identifies as not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. On motion to compel discovery or for a protective order, the person responding must show that the information is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. If that showing is made, the court may nonetheless order discovery from such sources if the requesting party shows good cause, considering the limitations of Rule 26(b)(2)(C). The court may specify conditions for the discovery.

(2) Claiming Privilege or Protection.

(A) Information Withheld. A person withholding subpoenaed information under a claim that it is privileged or subject to protection as trial-preparation material must:

- (i) expressly make the claim; and
- (ii) describe the nature of the withheld documents, communications, or tangible things in a manner that, without revealing information itself privileged or protected, will enable the parties to assess the claim.

(B) Information Produced. If information produced in response to a subpoena is subject to a claim of privilege or of protection as trial-preparation material, the person making the claim may notify any party that received the information of the claim and the basis for it. After being notified, a party must promptly return, sequester, or destroy the specified information and any copies it has; must not use or disclose the information until the claim is resolved; must take reasonable steps to retrieve the information if the party disclosed it before being notified; and may promptly present the information under seal to the court for the district where compliance is required for a determination of the claim. The person who produced the information must preserve the information until the claim is resolved.

(g) Contempt. The court for the district where compliance is required — and also, after a motion is transferred, the issuing court — may hold in contempt a person who, having been served, fails without adequate excuse to obey the subpoena or an order related to it.

INSTRUCTIONS

For the purposes of this Subpoena and these Requests for Production, the following Definitions shall apply:

1. The preceding Definitions apply to each of the Requests. Any capitalized terms used but not defined herein shall have the meanings given to such terms in the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization and/or Disclosure Statement.

2. The terms used in these Requests are to be given their most expansive and inclusive interpretation unless otherwise expressly limited in a Request. The terms “all,” “any,” and “each” shall each be construed as encompassing any, all, each, and every. The singular form of a word shall include the plural and vice versa. The terms “and” or “or” shall be both conjunctive and disjunctive. The term “including” means “including without limitation.” The present tense shall be construed to include the past tense, and the past tense shall be construed to include the present tense.

3. These Requests shall be deemed continuing in nature. In the event you become aware of or acquire additional information relating or referring to any of the following Requests, such additional information is to be promptly produced.

4. You are required to produce all Documents and all other materials described below that is in your actual or constructive possession, custody, or control, including in the possession, custody, or control of current or former employees, officers, directors, agents, agents' representatives, consultants, contractors, vendors, or any fiduciary or other third parties, wherever those Documents and materials are maintained, including on personal computers, PDAs, wireless devices, or web-based email systems such as Gmail, Yahoo, etc.

5. You must produce all Documents in your possession, custody, or control, whether maintained in electronic or paper form and whether located on hardware owned and maintained by you or hardware owned and/or maintained by a third party that stores data on your behalf.

6. Documents not otherwise responsive to these Requests should be produced: (a) if such Documents mention, discuss, refer to, explain, or concern one or more Documents that are called for by these Requests; (b) if such Documents are attached to, enclosed with, or accompany Documents called for by these Requests; or (c) if such Documents constitute routing slips, transmittal memoranda or letters, comments, evaluations, or similar materials.

7. Documents should include all exhibits, appendices, linked Documents, or otherwise appended Documents that are referenced in, attached to, included with, or are a part of the requested Documents.

8. If any Document, or any part thereof, is not produced based on a claim of attorney-client privilege, work-product protection, mediation privilege, or any other claimed privilege or exemption from production, then in answer to such Request or part thereof, for each such Document, you must:

- a. Identify the type, title and subject matter of the Document;
- a. State the place, date, and manner of preparation of the Document;
- b. Identify all authors, addressees, and recipients of the Document, including information about such persons to assess the privilege asserted; and
- c. Identify the legal privilege(s) and the factual basis for the claim.

9. Documents should not contain redactions unless such redactions are made to protect information subject to the attorney-client privilege, mediation privilege, and/or work-product doctrine. In the event any Documents are produced with redactions, a log setting forth the information requested in Instruction 8 above must be provided.

10. To the extent a Document sought herein was at one time, but is no longer, in your actual or constructive possession, custody, or control, state whether it: (a) is missing or lost; (b) has been destroyed; (c) has been transferred to others; and/or (d) has been otherwise disposed of. In each instance, identify the Document, state the time period during which it was maintained, state the circumstance and date surrounding authorization for such disposition, identify each person having knowledge of the circumstances of the disposition, and identify each person who had possession, custody, or control of the Document. Documents prepared prior to, but which relate or refer to, the time period covered by these Requests are to be identified and produced.

11. If any part of the Requests cannot be responded to in full, please respond to the extent possible, specifying the reason(s) for your inability to respond to the remainder and stating whatever information or knowledge you have concerning the portion to which you do not respond.

12. If you object to any of these Requests, state in writing with specificity the grounds of your objections. Any ground not stated shall be waived. If you object to a particular portion of any Request, you shall respond to any other portions of such Request as to which there is no objection and state with specificity the grounds of the objection.

13. If the identity of Documents responding to a Request is not known, then that lack of knowledge must be specifically indicated in the response. If any information requested is not in your possession, but is known or believed to be in the possession of another person or entity, then identify that person or entity and state the basis of your belief or knowledge that the requested information is in such person's or entity's possession.

MANNER OF PRODUCTION

1. All Documents produced shall be provided in either native file ("native") or single-page 300 dpi-resolution group IV TIF format ("tiff") format as specified below, along with appropriately formatted industry-standard database load files and accompanied by true and correct copies or representations of unaltered attendant metadata. Where Documents are produced in tiff format, each Document shall be produced along with a multi-page, Document-level searchable text file ("searchable text") as rendered by an industry-standard text extraction program in the case of electronic originals, or by an industry-standard Optical Character Recognition ("ocr") program in the case of scanned paper Documents. Searchable text of Documents shall not be produced as fielded data within the ".dat file" as described below.

2. Database Load Files and Production Media Structure: Database load files shall consist of: (i) a comma-delimited values (".dat") file containing: production Document identifier information, data designed to preserve "parent and child" relationships within Document "families," reasonably accessible and properly preserved metadata (or bibliographic coding in the case of paper Documents), custodian or Document source information; and (ii) an Opticon (".opt") file to facilitate the loading of tiff images. Load files should be provided in a root-level folder named "Data," images shall be provided within a root level "Images" folder containing reasonably structured subfolders, and searchable text files shall be provided in a single root-level "Text" folder.

3. Electronic Documents and Data, Generally: Documents and other responsive data or materials created, stored, or displayed on electronic or electro-magnetic media shall be produced in the order in which the Documents are or were stored in the ordinary course of business, including all reasonably accessible metadata, custodian or Document source information, and searchable text as to allow Century, through a reasonable and modest effort, to fairly, accurately, and completely access, search, display, comprehend, and assess the Documents' true and original content.

4. Emails and Attachments, and Other Email Account-Related Documents: All Documents and accompanying metadata created and/or stored in the ordinary course of business within commercial, off-the-shelf email systems including but not limited to Microsoft Exchange™, Lotus Notes™, or Novell Groupwise™ shall be produced in tiff format, accompanying metadata, and searchable text files or, alternately, in a format that fairly, accurately, and completely represents each Document in such a manner as to make the Document(s) reasonably useable, manageable, and comprehensible by Century.

5. Documents and Data Created or Stored in or by Structured Electronic Databases: With the exclusion of email and email account-related Documents and data, all Documents and accompanying metadata created and/or stored in structured electronic databases or files shall be produced in a format that enables Century to reasonably manage and import those Documents into a useable, coherent database. Documents must be accompanied by reasonably detailed documentation explaining the Documents' content and format including but not limited to data dictionaries and diagrams. Some acceptable formats, if and only if provided with definitive file(s), table(s), and field level schemas include:

- a. XML format file(s);
- b. Microsoft SQL database(s);
- c. Access database(s); and/or
- d. fixed or variable length ASCII delimited files.

6. Spreadsheets, Multimedia, and Non-Standard File Types: All Documents generated or stored in software such as Microsoft Excel or other commercially available spreadsheet programs, as well as any multimedia files such as audio or video, shall be produced in their native format, along with an accompanying placeholder image in tiff format indicating a native file has been produced. A “Nativelink” entry shall be included in the .dat load file indicating the relative file path to each native file on the production media. To the extent You have other file types that do not readily or easily and accurately convert to tiff and searchable text, You may elect to produce those files in native format subject to the other requirements listed herein. Native files may be produced within a separate root-level folder structure on deliverable media entitled “Natives.”

7. “Other” Electronic Documents: All other Documents and accompanying metadata and embedded data created or stored in unstructured files generated by commercially available software systems (excluding emails, structured electronic databases, spreadsheets, or multimedia) such as, but not limited to, word processing files (such as Microsoft Word), image files (such as Adobe .pdf files and other formats), and text files shall be produced in tiff and searchable text format in the order the files are or were stored in the ordinary course of business.

8. Paper Documents: Documents originally created or stored on paper shall be produced in tiff format. Relationships between Documents shall be identified within the Relativity .dat file utilizing document identifier numbers to express parent Document/child attachment boundaries, folder boundaries, and other groupings. In addition, the searchable text of each Document shall be provided as a multi-page text file as provided for by these Requests for Production.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AREA COUNCIL OF THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA'S RESPONSES AND OBJECTIONS TO CENTURY INDEMNITY COMPANY'S SUBPOENA DUCES TECUM

The National Capital Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America ("NCAC") hereby responds and objects to Century Indemnity Company's Subpoena Duces Tecum (the "Subpoena") served by Century Indemnity Company ("Century") on or about October 8, 2021.

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

1. In making these responses and objections to the Requests for Production in the Subpoena (the "Requests," and individually each is a "Request"), NCAC does not in any way waive or intend to waive, but rather intends to preserve and is preserving: (a) all objections as to competence, relevance, materiality, privilege and admissibility of any responses and/or information provided; (b) all rights to object on any ground to the use of any of these objections, responses and/or information provided, in any subsequent proceedings; and (c) all rights to object on any grounds to any requests for further responses to these (or any other) document requests or discovery requests.

2. NCAC objects to any and all Requests that require NCAC to undergo the undue burden of producing certain documents that could be obtained from other sources, including the

Debtors. NCAC further objects to the Requests to the extent that they seek production of certain documents that are already available through the Debtors' data site, to which Century already has access. To the extent that NCAC is aware that the documents requested are available through the Debtors' data site, it will not endeavor to produce them.

3. NCAC's failure to object to a Request shall not be construed as an admission or representation that any responsive information exists or that, if such information exists, it is non-privileged. NCAC's failure to object to a Request on a particular ground or grounds shall not be construed as a waiver of NCAC's right to object on that or any other additional ground. NCAC reserves the right to assert additional objections to these Requests as appropriate and to supplement these objections.

4. NCAC objects to the Requests to the extent that they seek information protected from disclosure by the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, the common interest or joint defense doctrine, mediation privilege, or any other applicable rule, doctrine, privilege or immunity or protection from discovery (whether based upon statute, rule, or common law). NCAC will not disclose such information, and any disclosure of information so protected is inadvertent and shall not be deemed a waiver of any such privilege, rule, doctrine, or immunity, pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence 502 and otherwise. In particular, NCAC notes that it is party to a Joint Defense Agreement by and among NCAC, the Ad Hoc Committee of Local Councils and the National BSA and that certain documents and communications among the parties above may be privileged to the extent they are made in furtherance of such parties' common interests.

5. NCAC objects to the Requests as imposing undue burden to the extent that they seek production of certain documents that could be obtained from other sources, including the

Debtors. NCAC further objects to the Requests to the extent that they seek production of certain documents that are already available through the Debtors' data site, to which Century already has access. To the extent that NCAC is aware that the documents requested are available through the Debtors' data site, it will not endeavor to produce them.

6. A statement by NCAC that it will produce information or documents in response to a particular Request is not to be construed as an admission that any responsive information or documents now exist or previously existed, or that any responsive information or documents are within NCAC's possession, custody or control, or that, if such information exists, it is non-privileged.

7. All of NCAC's objections are continuing throughout the responses to the specific Requests set forth below, even when not further referred to in said responses. The objections set forth in the above-numbered paragraphs are incorporated in each response set forth below.

8. NCAC reserves its rights under Bankruptcy Rule 9016, including the right to require any enforcement of the Subpoena before the United States District Court for the District of Maryland (the "NCAC's District Court"). If Century believes that the responses provided herein are inadequate or incomplete, NCAC requests that Century set out in writing its basis for such assertion and that NCAC and Century meet and confer prior to Century taking any steps to seek to enforce the Subpoena before the NCAC's District Court.

9. NCAC objects to the Requests as improper to the extent they purport to require production of documents on or before October 18th. To the extent that NCAC agrees to produce documents, it will endeavor to do so in accordance with the timeline set forth in the Scheduling Order [D.I. 6528].

10. NCAC objects to the Requests as vague, ambiguous and unduly burdensome insofar as they do not specify or provide a range of dates for documents and other communications that they purport to require NCAC to produce. Unless otherwise indicated, NCAC will not produce documents or other communications that arose on or prior to February, 18, 2020, the date that the Debtors commenced their Bankruptcy Cases.

11. Any production made in response to any Request shall be subject to, and governed by, the terms of the Confidentiality and Protective Order [Dkt. No. 799]. For the avoidance of doubt, NCAC shall be considered a “Producing Party,” and Century shall be considered a “Receiving Party,” as defined therein.

12. NCAC submits these Responses and objections without waiving any objections it may have regarding the relevance, materiality, competency, or authenticity of the subject matter of any Request, document request, document or information provided, and without implying that any of the information or documents requested in fact exist or are within NCAC’s knowledge, possession, custody, or control.

13. NCAC, in making its specific Responses, incorporates its general objections into each response to each individual Request as though fully set forth therein.

RESPONSES AND OBJECTIONS TO SPECIFIC REQUESTS

Document Request No. 1: All Documents provided to Your Council Executive Board, Council Executive and/or any Special or Advisory Council Concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, any Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, the Hartford Settlement Agreement and/or the Abuse.

Response to Document Request No. 1: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it asks NCAC for “all” documents concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, “any” Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, the Hartford Settlement and/or the Abuse Claims asserted in the POCs in these Chapter 11 cases, without regard to the relevance of that information to this case. NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents requested have no direct or indirect relationship to any objection that Century has lodged with the Bankruptcy Court in connection with confirmation of the plan of reorganization for which this Subpoena was issued. Nor are the documents requested reasonably related to any matter that might come before the Bankruptcy Court in connection with the plan of reorganization. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will provide relevant and non-attorney client privileged documents responsive to this Request, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 2: All Documents provided to Your Council Key 3 Concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, any Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, the Hartford Settlement Agreement and/or the Abuse Claims asserted in the POCs in these Chapter 11 Cases.

Response to Document Request No. 2: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it asks NCAC for “all” documents concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, “any” Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, the Hartford Settlement and/or the Abuse Claims asserted in the POCs in these Chapter 11 cases, without regard to the relevance of that information to this case. NCAC

further objects to this Request as the documents requested have no direct or indirect relationship to any objection that Century has lodged with the Bankruptcy Court in connection with confirmation of the plan of reorganization for which this Subpoena was issued. Nor are the documents requested reasonably related to any matter that might come before the Bankruptcy Court in connection with the plan of reorganization. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will provide relevant and non-attorney client privileged documents responsive to this Request, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 3: All minutes of Your Council Key 3 Concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, and/or the Hartford Settlement Agreement and/or the Abuse Claims asserted in the POCs in these Chapter 11 Cases.

Response to Document Request No. 3: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it asks NCAC for “all” minutes concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, the Hartford Settlement and/or the Abuse Claims asserted in the POCs in these Chapter 11 cases, without regard to the relevance of that information to this case. NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents requested have no direct or indirect relationship to any objection that Century has lodged with the Bankruptcy Court in connection with confirmation of the plan of reorganization for which this Subpoena was issued. Nor are the documents requested reasonably related to any matter that might come before the Bankruptcy Court in connection with the plan of reorganization. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will provide relevant and non-attorney client privileged documents responsive to this Request, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 4: All minutes of Your Council Executive Board, Council Executive Committee and/or any Special or Advisory Council Concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, the Hartford Settlement Agreement and/or the Abuse Claims asserted in the POCs in these Chapter 11 Cases.

Response to Document Request No. 4: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it asks NCAC for “all” minutes concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, the Hartford Settlement and/or the Abuse Claims asserted in the POCs in these Chapter 11 cases, without regard to the relevance of that information to this case. NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents requested have no direct or indirect relationship to any objection that Century has lodged with the Bankruptcy Court in connection with confirmation of the plan of reorganization for which this Subpoena was issued. Nor are the documents requested reasonably related to any matter that might come before the Bankruptcy Court in connection with the plan of reorganization. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will provide relevant and non-attorney client privileged documents responsive to this Request, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 5: All Documents that Your Council Executive Board, Council Executive Committee and/or any Special or Advisory Council of Your Council reviewed and/or relied upon in evaluation the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, and/or the Hartford Settlement Agreement.

Response to Document Request No. 5: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents related to this request, without regard to relevance of that information to this case. NCAC further objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents subject to the attorney-client privilege and attorney work product. NCAC objects to this Request as the documents requested have no direct or indirect relationship to any objection that Century has lodged with the Bankruptcy Court in connection with confirmation of the plan of reorganization for which this Subpoena was issued. Nor are the documents requested reasonably related to any matter that might come before the Bankruptcy Court in connection with the plan of reorganization. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce responsive, non-privileged documents responsive to this Request, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 6: All Communications among members of Council Executive Board, Council Executive Committee and/or any Special or Advisory Council of Your Council Concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, and/or the Hartford Settlement Agreement.

Response to Document Request No. 6: NCAC objects to this Request as the communications requested have no direct or indirect relationship to any objection that Century has lodged with the Bankruptcy Court in connection with confirmation of the plan of reorganization for which this Subpoena was issued. Nor are the documents requested reasonably related to any matter that might come before the Bankruptcy Court in connection with the plan of reorganization. NCAC further objects on the grounds that producing “all” documents in response to this request would place an undue burden on NCAC. NCAC also objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will provide relevant and non-attorney client privileged documents responsive to this Request, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 7: All Documents (including presentations) and Communications exchanged between the Debtors and members of Your Council Executive Board, Council Executive Committee and/or any Special or Advisory Council of Your Council Concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, and/or the Hartford Settlement Agreement.

Response to Document Request No. 7: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents (including presentations) and communications related to this request, without regard to the relevance of those communications to this case. NCAC objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 7.

Document Request No. 8: All Documents (including presentations) and Communications exchanged between Alvarez and Marsal and members of Your Council Executive Board, Council Executive Committee and/or Special or Advisory Council of Your Council Concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, the Abuse Claims and/or the Hartford Settlement Agreement.

Response to Document Request No. 8: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it asks NCAC for “all” documents, presentations, and communications exchanged between Alvarez & Marsal and members of Our Council Executive Board, Council Executive Committee and/or any Special or Advisory Council of Our Council related to this request, without regard to the relevance of those documents, presentations, and communications to this case. NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors or Alvarez & Marsal. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 8.

Document Request No. 9: All drafts of term sheets for any Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors.

Response to Document Request No. 9: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it asks NCAC for “all” drafts of term sheets for “any” Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, without regard to relevance of those drafts to this case. NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 9.

Document Request No. 10: All Documents Concerning Communications with State Court Counsel, the Coalition, TCC, FCR and/or their counsel Concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, Abuse Claims and/or the Hartford Settlement Agreement.

Response to Document Request No. 10: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents concerning communications related to this request, without regard to relevance of those documents to this case. NCAC further objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product, specifically with respect to “Communications with State Court Counsel, the Coalition, TCC, FCR and/or their counsel.” NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of State Court Counsel, the Coalition, TCC, and/or FCR and can be more readily obtained from one of them. Each are parties in the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of State Court Counsel, the Coalition, TCC, and/or FCR. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will provide relevant and non-attorney client privileged documents responsive to this Request, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 11: All Documents Concerning any request that You support a motion, application, or inclusion of a provision a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors that in any way called for or supported the payment of the fees for the Coalition.

Response to Document Request No. 11: NCAC objects to this Request as unnecessarily overbroad, as several recent versions of the plan have called for payment of the Coalition’s fees. Furthermore, no version of any Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors has at any time “called for” or requested the support of NCAC for the payment of the fees of the Coalition. NCAC further objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product doctrine. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will provide relevant and non-attorney client privileged documents, to the extent that they exist, that were specifically directed to NCAC and specifically sought NCAC’s support of a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors that includes payment of the Coalition’s fees on or before November 5, 2021.

Document Request No. 12: All Documents Concerning the TDPs to be employed with any Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, including all drafts of the TDPs.

Response to Document Request No. 12: NCAC objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of parties other than NCAC, including the Debtors, State Court Counsel, the Coalition, TCC, and/or FCR. To the extent that they are, NCAC objects to this Request on the basis that it is unduly burdensome and responsive documents can be more readily obtained from one of them. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors, State Court Counsel, the Coalition, TCC, and/or FCR. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 12.

Document Request No. 13: All Documents and Communications that BSA exchanged with Your Local Council Concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, the Abuse Claims and/or the Hartford Settlement Agreement.

Response to Document Request No. 13: NCAC objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC further objects on the grounds that producing documents in response to this Request would place an undue burden on NCAC. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 13.

Document Request No. 14: All Documents that Your Council Executive Board, Council Executive Committee and/or any Special or Advisory Council of Your Council reviewed and/or relied upon in evaluating and/or determining the amount of Your Local Council's contribution to the Settlement Trust.

Response to Document Request No. 14: NCAC objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents subject to the attorney-client privilege and work product protection. NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Ad Hoc Committee of Local Councils ("AHCLC") and can be more readily obtained from AHCLC. The AHCLC is a party in the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of AHCLC. NCAC further objects on the grounds that producing documents in response to this Request would place an undue burden on NCAC. Moreover, NCAC has submitted substantial data concerning its assets, asset restrictions, and similar data to assist the active parties in the Bankruptcy Case to assess NCAC's proposed contribution to the Settlement Trust. Upon information and belief, those documents have been available to Century. Responding further, the AHCLC originally provided the amount that NCAC was expected to contribute to the Settlement Trust on June 18, 2021. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce responsive, non-privileged, and non-duplicative documents generated between June 18, 2021 and November 5, 2021, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 15: All Communications among members of Council Executive Board, Council Executive Committee and/or any Special or Advisory Council of Your Council Concerning the amount of Your Local Council's contribution to the Settlement Trust.

Response to Document Request No. 15: NCAC objects to the extent this Request calls for production of communications subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection. NCAC further objects to this Request on the grounds that producing documents in response to this request would place an undue burden on NCAC. Moreover, NCAC has submitted substantial data concerning its assets, asset restrictions, and similar data to assist the active parties in the Bankruptcy Case to assess NCAC's proposed contribution to the Settlement Trust. Upon information and belief, those documents have been available to Century. Responding further, the AHCLC originally provided the amount that NCAC was expected to contribute to the Settlement Trust on June 18, 2021. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce responsive, non-privileged documents generated between June 18, 2021 and November 5, 2021, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 16: All Documents that Your Council Executive Board, Council Executive Committee and/or any Special or Advisory Council of Your Council reviewed and/or relied upon in evaluating and/or determining the amount of Your Local Council's contribution to the Settlement Trust.

Response to Document Request No. 16: NCAC objects to this Request as it is duplicative of Request No. 14.

Document Request No. 17: All Documents authored or generated by Bates White Concerning the POCs, the Debtors, the Abuse Claims against the Debtors, and/or these Chapter 11 Cases.

Response to Document Request No. 17: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks "all" documents related to this request, without regard to relevance of that information to this case. NCAC objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors or Bates White. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No.17.

Document Request No. 18: All Documents Concerning the methodology that was employed to allocate the aggregate contribution by all Local Councils to the Settlement Trust to individual Local Councils including any allocation by percentage or other means of the aggregate contribution to individual Local Councils.

Response to Document Request No. 18: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents related to this request, without regard to relevance of that information to this case. NCAC further objects to this Request as vague and ambiguous as to the Court’s use of the term “the methodology”, which is not a defined term, and whose plain meaning is subject to multiple interpretations. NCAC further objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection. NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of AHLCL and can be more readily obtained from AHCLC. The AHCLC is a party in the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of AHCLC. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 18.

Document Request No. 19: All Documents Concerning the calculation and/or determination of the amount of Your Local Council's contribution to the Settlement Trust.

Response to Document Request No. 19: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents related to this request, without regard to relevance of that information to this case. NCAC further objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents subject to the attorney-client privilege and work product protection. NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of AHCLC and can be more readily obtained from AHCLC. The AHCLC is a party in the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of AHCLC. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 19.

Document Request No. 20: All Documents and Communications that BSA exchanged with any Chartered Organizations concerning the Chapter 11 Cases, a Plan of Reorganization for the Debtors, the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization, the TDPs, and/or the Hartford Settlement Agreement.

Response to Document Request No. 20: NCAC objects to this Request insofar as it calls for NCAC to produce documents between NCAC and Chartered Organizations. NCAC is not NCAC and is not a Chartered Organization, nor are documents between NCAC and a Chartered Organization within NCAC's possession, custody, or control. NCAC therefore objects on the basis that this Request demands documents outside the scope of permissible discovery from a third party. NCAC further objects on the basis that producing "all" documents in response to this Request would impose an undue burden on NCAC. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 20.

Document Request No. 21: All Documents and Communications relating to any agreements between or among the Local Councils, Chartered Organizations and BSA that address in any way responsibility for defending and/or indemnifying claims by persons alleging injury arising from a scouting activity asserted against a chartering organization.

Response to Document Request No. 21: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks "all" documents and communications relating to "any" agreements, without regard to relevance of that information to this case. NCAC further objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents and communications subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection specifically pertaining to documents or communications that "address in any way responsibility for defending and/or indemnifying claims by persons alleging injury arising from a scouting activity asserted against a chartering organization. NCAC believes that any documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, to which the Debtors are a party are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce any non-duplicative agreements between NCAC and a Chartered Organization to which the Debtors are not also a party between June 18, 2020 and November 5, 2021.

Document Request No. 22: All Documents Concerning any claim that Chartering Organizations have asserted against Your Local Council for contribution and/or indemnity for Abuse Claims asserted against Chartering Organizations.

Response to Document Request No. 22: NCAC objects to this Request on the grounds that it is overly broad and vague. NCAC further states that producing “all Documents” in response to this Request imposes an undue burden on NCAC and not proportional to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case and NCAC therefore objects on these additional grounds. In response to this Request, NCAC states that it has not received any specific written demand from any Chartered Organization seeking contribution and/or indemnity for Abuse Claims. As a result, NCAC does not have documents responsive to this Request.

Document Request No. 23: All Documents Concerning any claim, assertion, or allegation that Local Councils generally and Your Local Council specifically took on an obligation to defend and indemnify Chartering Organizations for Abuse Claims or other claims through the terms of the annual charter agreements between the Chartered Organizations and Local Councils.

Response to Document Request No. 23: NCAC objects to this Request in that producing “all Documents” in response to this Request imposes an undue burden on NCAC and the Request is not proportional to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC further states that from and since approximately 2014, the agreement between NCAC and Chartered Organizations contains provisions that may require NCAC to defend and/or indemnify Chartered Organizations in particular circumstances. NCAC states that it will produce exemplars of such agreements on or prior to November 5, 2021 that are in its possession, custody, and control and responsive to Request No. 24. However, in response to this Request, NCAC states that it has not received any specific written demand from any Chartered Organization for Abuse Claims. As a result, NCAC does not have documents responsive to this Request.

Document Request No. 24: The charter agreements entered into by Your Local Council from January 1, 2014 to the petition date with the following Chartering Organizations: (1) the Methodist Church and any group associated with the Methodist Church, (2) dioceses, parishes and/or schools associated with the Catholic Church (3) the Episcopalian Church and any dioceses, parishes, school or other group associated the Episcopalian Church (4) the Lutheran Church and any diocese, parish, school or other group associated with the Lutheran Church (5) The Knights of Columbus. (6) the YMCA, and (7) the Presbyterian Church and any group associated with the Presbyterian Church.

Response to Document Request No. 24: NCAC further states that it is unduly burdensome to produce “all” such agreements and such agreements are duplicative of one another and are otherwise not proportional to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC will not produce other or further documents in response to this Request. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC incorporates its response to Request No. 23 and states that it will provide an exemplar of its agreement with Chartered Organizations from and since January 1, 2014 on or before November 5, 2021 to the extent it exists and is within NCAC’s possession, custody, or control.

Document Request No. 25: All Documents and Communications Concerning the POCs filed by any of the Chartered Organizations in these Chapter 11 Cases.

Response to Document Request No. 25: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents and communications, without regard to relevance of that information to this case. NCAC objects to this Request as certain of the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request, if any, it possesses are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. NCAC

further objects on the grounds that producing “all” documents in response to this request would place an undue burden on NCAC and are not otherwise proportional to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce any responsive, non-duplicative documents in its possession, custody or control, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 26: All Documents and Communications analyzing, assessing, or evaluating the proofs of claim filed by any of Chartered Organizations.

Response to Document Request No. 26: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents and communications analyzing, assessing, or evaluating the proofs of claim filed by “any” of the Chartered Organizations, without regard to relevance of that information to this case. NCAC objects to this Request as certain of the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC further objects on the grounds that producing “all” documents in response to this request would place an undue burden on NCAC and are not otherwise proportional to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce any responsive, non-duplicative, non-attorney client privileged documents in its possession, custody or control, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 27: All Documents and Communications Concerning membership projections, including any Documents and Communications reflecting analysis of the impact that the disassociation of one or more Chartered Organizations from the Debtors and/or Your Local Council would have on the Debtors’ membership levels and revenue projections and/or Your Local Council's membership levels.

Response to Document Request No. 27: NCAC objects to this Request as certain of the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC further objects on the grounds that producing “all” documents in response to this Request would place an undue burden on NCAC and this Request is not otherwise proportional to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce any non-privileged and non-duplicative documents in its possession that were not generated by the Debtors on or before November 5, 2021, to the extent that they exist.

Response to Document Request No. 25: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents related to this request, without regard to the proportionality to the needs of the Bankruptcy case. NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors or Bates White and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors or Bates White. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce any responsive, non-duplicative documents in its possession, custody or control, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 27:² All Documents and Communications Concerning Abuse Claims asserted on behalf of individuals that you were unable to confirm were scouts in Your Local Council.

Response to Document Request No. 27: NCAC objects to this Request as certain of the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC further objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents related to Abuse Claims from individuals not confirmed to be scouts in NCAC and is not proportional to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC therefore objects on these additional grounds. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce responsive documents that are not duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 28: The Database, electronic spreadsheet, data and/or other information that was used to determine the amount of Your Local Council's contribution to the Settlement Trust.

Response to Document Request No. 28: NCAC objects to this Request as the documents appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of AHCLC and can be more readily obtained from AHCLC. The AHCLC is a party in the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of AHCLC. On this basis, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 28.

Document Request No. 30:³ All Documents and Communications that the Debtors sent to Your Local Councils with the Local Council Feedback Template and Mandatory Reporting Procedures for Proofs of Claim filed in these Chapter 11 Cases.

Response to Document Request No. 30: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents and communications related to this request, without regard to relevance of that information to this case. NCAC further objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection. NCAC further objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses,

³ The Subpoena does not contain a “Request for Production No. 29.”

if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 30.

Document Request No. 31: All Documents and Communications that Your Local Council generated in response to the request to complete the Local Council Feedback Template and Mandatory Reporting Procedures for Proofs of Claim filed in these Chapter 11 Cases.

Response to Document Request No. 31: NCAC objects to producing “all Documents” in response to this Request on the grounds that it imposes an undue burden on NCAC and is not proportional to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC further objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection. NCAC further objects to this Request as certain of the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC states that production of the Local Council Feedback Template and Mandatory Reporting Procedures that NCAC prepared for and provided to the Debtors provides a sufficient response to this Request and that such documents are obtainable from, and should be obtained from, the Debtors. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce responsive documents that are not duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 32: All Communications between or among BSA Membership Standards Group and Your Local Councils related to the Local Council Reporting Procedures for any claims based on Abuse, including but not limited to, questions regarding the verification of Proof of Claim data.

Response to Document Request No. 32: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” communications related to this request, without regard to the proportionality of the needs of the Bankruptcy case. NCAC further objects to this Request as the communications requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the communications responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. NCAC therefore directs Century to the Debtors for production of any documents in response to this Request. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce responsive documents that are not duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 33: All incident reports generated by Your Local Council in connection with the Proofs of Claim filed in these Chapter 11 Cases, including any and all supporting documentation attached to those incident reports.

Response to Document Request No. 33: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” incident reports related to this Request, without regard to relevance of that information or its proportionality to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC objects to this Request on the grounds that it is overly broad and vague. Responding further, NCAC objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce responsive documents that are not duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 34: All membership rosters for Your Local Council that correspond to the date of alleged abuse for the POCs that refer to Your Local Council.

Response to Document Request No. 34: NCAC objects to this Request as being vague and overbroad. On its face, this Request seeks “all” rosters for any date on which there is an allegation of abuse. Furthermore, producing documents in response to this Request would impose an undue burden on NCAC and are not otherwise proportional to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC further states that it has produced relevant rosters to the Debtors.

Responding further, NCAC objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 34.

Document Request No. 35: All Documents and Communications between and/or among the [sic] Your Local Councils, the Chartered Organization Representative (COR) (or Institutional Head, where applicable), unit Committee Chair (CC) and/or unit program leader to notify them of the action being taken to remove the alleged abusers identified by the claimants in the Proof of Claim filed in these Chapter 11 cases from participation in Scouting.

Response to Document Request No. 35: NCAC objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. Subject to and without waiving its general objections, NCAC will produce all non-privileged and non-duplicative documents responsive to this Request on or before November 5, 2021, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 36: All Documents and Communications concerning whether assets that are donor-restricted should, or should not be, contributed to the Settlement Trust.

Response to Document Request No. 36: NCAC objects to this Request on the grounds that it is overly broad and vague. NCAC further states that producing “all” Documents in response to this Request imposes an undue burden on NCAC and is not otherwise proportional to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. Responding further, NCAC objects to this Request as the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. NCAC further objects to the extent this Request calls for production of documents and communications subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection. Responding further, NCAC states that the AHCLC originally provided the amount that NCAC was expected to contribute to the Settlement Trust on June 18, 2021. Subject to and without waiving its foregoing objections, NCAC will produce non-privileged and non-duplicative documents responsive to this Request, to the extent that they exist.

Document Request No. 37: All Documents and Communications relating to Your cash and financial assets, including but not limited to bank statements, investment statements, listing of individual assets/holdings and associated market values, appraisals or other indicators of market value, records demonstrating any conditions or restrictions of use and/or encumbrances on the assets and any analysis related thereto.

Response to Document Request No. 37: NCAC objects to this Request on the grounds that NCAC has submitted substantial data concerning its assets, asset restrictions, and similar data to assist the active parties in the Bankruptcy Case to assess NCAC's proposed contribution to the Settlement Trust. Upon information and belief, those documents have been available to Century. NCAC further understands that Century has access to the PeopleSoft system that is maintained by the Debtors, which contains NCAC's financial records. On these bases, NCAC objects to producing any documents in response to Request No. 37. However, NCAC is prepared to meet and confer with Century to determine what additional documents, if any, it can produce in addition to those that are currently in the data room that would not impose an undue burden on NCAC and would otherwise be proportional to the Bankruptcy Case.

Document Request No. 38: All Documents Concerning any insurance policies issued to Your Local Council by Hartford.

Response to Document Request No. 38: NCAC objects to this Request to the extent that it calls for production of documents that are or may also be in the possession of the Debtors. NCAC states that from and since 1978, NCAC has been an additional insured on insurance policies issued to the Debtors. On that basis, any documents responsive to this Request from and since 1978 will also be in the possession of the Debtors and it is unduly burdensome to demand that NCAC produce such documents on a duplicative basis. NCAC has also conducted, and continues to conduct, a good faith search for additional insurance policies issued to it. In connection with such search, all documents that NCAC has identified that would be responsive to this Request, NCAC has shared with the Debtors or their representatives, including the firm KCIC. NCAC directs Century to the Debtors and/or KCIC for any such documents.

Document Request No. 39: All Documents concerning the retained limits and/or deductibles associated with any insurance available to Your Local Council for Abuse Claims.

Response to Document Request No. 39: NCAC directs Century to its response to Document Request No. 38 and incorporates it in full as if fully restated herein. NCAC further states that its practice has been to look to the Debtors' insurance counsel for analysis of insurance policies and, as a result NCAC does not have any Documents responsive to this Request that are not already in the possession of the Debtors.

Document Request No. 40: All Documents Concerning Your Council's responsibility to fund retained limits and or deductibles associated with any insurance coverage that it by rd [SIC].

Response to Document Request No. 40: NCAC objects to this Request as vague and ambiguous because it is not clear what is the Court's interpretation of "deductibles associated with any insurance coverage that it by rd [sic]." To the extent the NCAC understands this Request, NCAC directs Century to its response to Document Request No. 38 and incorporates it in full as if fully restated herein.

Document Request No. 41: All Documents and Communications concerning any liquidation analysis of the Debtors, Local Councils, and/or Chartered Organizations.

Response to Document Request No. 41: NCAC objects to this Request as certain of the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. Responding further NCAC states that it has not undertaken any independent liquidation analysis for the Debtors and on such basis contends that it does not have documents responsive to this Request.

Response to Document Request No. 42: NCAC objects to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome because it seeks “all” documents and communications related to this Request, without regard to the proportionality to the needs of the Bankruptcy Case. NCAC further objects to this Request as certain of the documents requested appear to be in the possession, custody, and control of the Debtors and can be more readily obtained from the Debtors. NCAC believes the documents responsive to this Request it possesses, if any, are duplicative of documents in the possession of the Debtors. Responding further NCAC states that the only documents in its possession, custody, or control that are responsive to this Request were provided to it by the Debtors and NCAC directs Century to the Debtors for these documents and will not produce such documents on a duplicative basis.

Document Request No. 43: All Documents that You relied upon in deciding to support the First Hartford Settlement Agreement, the Hartford Insurance Settlement Agreement and the TCJC Settlement Agreement.

Response to Document Request No. 43: NCAC objects to this Request insofar as it is not a party to any of the First Hartford Settlement Agreement, the Hartford Insurance

Settlement Agreement, or the TCJC Settlement Agreement. NCAC further objects to this Request as vague and ambiguous. NCAC will not produce documents in response to Request No. 43.

Document Request No. 44: All Documents and Communications Concerning the consideration and/or negotiation of a pre-packaged bankruptcy to resolve Abuse Claims against the Boy Scouts of America.

Response to Document Request No. 44: NCAC states that this Request is largely duplicative of Request No. 42. NCAC incorporates its response to Request No. 42 as if fully restated herein.

Document Request No. 45: All Documents that set out Your document retention policies and practices over the last five years, including but not limited to the period over which You retain electronic communications.

Response to Document Request No. 45: NCAC objects to this Request as it calls for documents that may be attorney-client privileged or attorney work product. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce documents any non-attorney client privileged that set out NCAC's document retention policies and practices over the five years prior to November 5, 2021.

Document Request No. 46: All Documents that memorialize any directive or instruction given by You or anyone else to Your Local Council and its staff directing them to retain documents concerning the Chapter 11 Cases.

Response to Document Request No. 46: NCAC objects to this Request as it calls for documents that may be attorney-client privileged or attorney work product. Subject to and without waiving the foregoing objections, NCAC will produce any non-privileged documents responsive to this Request on or before November 5, 2021.

23 Connection with Approval of the Disclosure Statement and 24 Confirmation of the Plan, and (VI) Granting Related Relief 25 (D.I. 6250, filed 5/16/21)

1 THE COURT: Good afternoon, counsel. This
2 is Judge Silverstein. We're here for the continued
3 disclosure statement hearing on Boy Scouts of America, 4 case number 20-10343. Turn it over to debtors'
5 counsel.

6 MS. LAURIA: Mr. Abbott, you're muted.

7 THE COURT: Mr. Abbott, I'm not hearing you.

8 MR. ABBOTT: Sorry about that, Your Honor.
9 I guess I muted instead of unmuting. So again, Derek 10 Abbott of Morris Nichols here for the debtors. Your 11 Honor, we -- we wanted to just sort of organize a 12 little bit at the beginning of the hearing if we 13 might.

14 From the debtors' perspective, Your Honor,
15 there are, I think, four things that we need to do, 16 you know, between today and maybe sometime next week.
17 The first is, obviously Your Honor expressed an 18 interest in hearing some limited discussion on the 19 confirmation issues as a -- as a preview, I guess.
20 Second, we -- we obviously need to -- to work through 21 the voting and solicitation procedures that were 22 proposed.

23 The third thing, Your Honor, is to talk 24 about a schedule to get to confirmation, assuming that 25 the Court ultimately approves the disclosure

1 statement. And the fourth is just a final review and 2 -- and -- and final getting Your Honor to call balls 3 and strikes on whatever remaining disputes there are 4 on the disclosure documents. The parties are 5 currently in -- you know, began last night, and I 6 think we'll be working today and probably through the 7 day and -- and evening to -- to get those documents 8 squared away.

9 It makes sense to the debtors, Your Honor, 10 that that final check of the documents probably occur 11 Tuesday or Wednesday. Ideally, we would -- we would 12 ask the Court for whatever Your Honor can give us on 13 Tuesday with some spillover Wednesday, if needed, just 14 for that final document discussion.

15 The other two things that we think are 16 critical today are -- are the -- obviously the voting 17 and solicitation but then, also, Your Honor, to 18 address scheduling to get to confirmation. The reason 19 we think this is critical today, Your Honor, is that 20 the debtors have proposed a schedule, and Mr. Kurtz 21 and will go into greater detail on it. You know, 22 candidly, we don't expect that it will be uniformly 23 embraced, Your Honor, so we thought that some early 24 discussion would be good.

25 Today is important to us, Your Honor,

1 because that proposed schedule has some things that 2 start to happen in the next few business days of next 3 week -- or early next week. So we thought it would 4 make sense to touch on that. Again, I think Mr. Kurtz 5 will drive the train on that when -- when it's time.
6 But those are at least the debtors' thoughts and 7 priorities, Your Honor, for -- for what it's worth.
8 And obviously, we stand ready to procedure however the 9 Court wishes.

10 THE COURT: Thank you. Those things were 11 all on my list. I would like to start with -- and I
12 -- and first of all, I do agree that any, you know, 13 review and discussion of the disclosure statement 14 documents should happen next week so the parties have 15 an opportunity to review them. And I did ask Ms.
16 Johnson this morning to take a look at my next week, 17 and I will consult with her during a break so that we 18 know exactly what is available. I would like to start 19 with voting and solicitation.

20 MR. O'NEILL: Great, Your Honor. Good
21 afternoon. This is Andrew O'Neill, White & Case, on 22 behalf of the debtors. I guess I drew the -- the 23 short straw or the long straw, depending on your point
24 of view, and get to address these issues. Before I
25 jump in, I would just like to thank Your Honor, again,

1 for accommodating us over these last couple of days
2 and then stay again. It's been a bit of marathon, and 3 that's on the heels of your -- your marathon Monday in 4 the Imerys case, which I suspect we'll hear about 5 today.

6 I just want to let you know we're grateful 7 for your time and your role in this to forge ahead on 8 solicitation while we, you know, parallel path, iron 9 out the disclosure fixes and -- and augment that 10 document that we've discussed with Your Honor over the 11 last couple of days.

12 You know, usually I'm accustomed to 13 solicitation procedures being a little bit of an 14 afterthought. I think most people on this, you know, 15 hearing probably feel the same way. But -- but 16 obviously given what -- what happened on Monday and -- 17 and what you instructed us last night, you know, that 18 -- that's different in this case, and we understand 19 and appreciate your focus on these issues.

20 With -- with that, Your Honor, you know, I'd 21 just like to say, you know, although I wasn't involved 22 in the Imerys hearing, and I know that others on this 23 -- on this hearing will have been directly involved, I 24 think we have a handle and understand some of the 25 issues that are bothering Your Honor based on that

1 hearing and some of the issues that have arisen in 2 that case.

3 All that said, we do think and -- and we'd 4 like to tell you about -- and I'll tell you about some 5 of the major differences between our case procedurally 6 and the solicitation materials in our case. And -- 7 and by that, I mean that I'm -- mostly mean the proof
8 of claim process here, Your Honor, and the master 9 ballot before you, which is fundamentally different 10 than the master ballot in a couple respects from 11 Imerys. It has additional certifications and 12 protections.

13 You know, we -- we know, though, that Your 14 Honor has been putting a lot of thought into this, as 15 well, when -- whenever you have some time in your 16 schedule, given -- given the hearings this week. And 17 -- and you may have suggestions for us, and we're 18 ready to listen. So I -- I'm -- first and foremost 19 I'd like to -- to offer that. So you can stop me at 20 any point if there are things that you want to suggest 21 to us based on your review of the solicitation 22 procedures. And I don't often open a hearing with 23 that --

24 THE COURT: Don't worry.

25 MR. ABBOTT: Yeah, okay. Good. You won't

1 disappoint me, it sounds like, which is great.
2 Because this is very important, Your Honor. We want
3 to get this vote right. The estates have been waiting
4 a long time to send out materials. And, you know, I 5 don't want to be presumptuous, but -- but we think we 6 have a confirmable plan, obviously, that provides a 7 lot of values to -- a lot of value to survivors and to 8 other creditors in these cases and also continues the 9 vital mission of the BSA.

10 And we -- we want to get this solicitation 11 started. I think you even said that yesterday or the 12 day before. So once we've made these revisions to the 13 DS, you know, in a -- in an agreeable fashion, we want 14 to get these packages out. It's a complicated case.
15 As you know, there's over 82,000 unliquidated 16 nonduplicative abuse claims. We need to solicit those 17 folks in a way that -- that makes sense and -- and is 18 not overly burdensome on the estate, but -- but also 19 protects the estate from any fraud or -- or misdoings 20 that -- that some may wish to undertake. So we think 21 we can do that.

22 So what I would like to do, Your Honor, is 23 start with a little background on some of the earlier 24 case milestones that sort of impact the solicitation 25 and have impacted our procedures and how they have

1 been developed, some of the clay we have to work with 2 here, if you will. And then I'll describe some of the 3 critical features of the procedures in the master 4 ballot from the debtors perspective and -- and how we 5 think they'll help insulate the integrity of the vote.

6 After that, you know, probably sadly to you
7 or some on the phone, I'll jump back into our handy
8 110-page chart to address the remaining solicitation 9 objections. But -- but I think in this case, it'll 10 only be the last ten pages or so. So that's how I 11 plan to proceed, Your Honor, but if -- but if you'd 12 like to -- to do something differently, please let me 13 know. I'd -- I'd be happy to --

14 THE COURT: That's fine.

15 MR. ABBOTT: Okay. Fantastic. So, Your 16 Honor, unlike many asbestos cases or asbestos and talc
17 in the Imerys case, we did have a bar date established 18 in this case, as Your Honor well knows. May 2020, our 19 date order was approved, setting November 16th as the 20 date for abuse survivors. And you approved a 21 customized proof of claim form to use for -- with 22 special confidentiality provisions for the submission 23 of those claims.

24 Pursuant to the bar date order, the debtors
25 conducted a multi-million dollar advertising program

1 involving TV, print media, and others that was 2 designed to reach the maximum number of men over the 3 age of 50, which is the primary target audience. We 4 think we reached over 95 percent of those men. During 5 the claim's filing period, Your Honor, the TCC filed a 6 motion to -- to supplement the bar date order to 7 clarify the admissibility of electronic signatures.
8 The debtors did not oppose this relief.

9 However, the -- on September 30th, the 10 coalition filed a motion to revise the bar date order 11 to permit the authority for attorneys to sign claim 12 forms on behalf of abuse survivors. We -- we did 13 oppose that relief. However, that was permitted and 14 also clarifying that electronic signatures were 15 permitted.

16 Unlike cases with no bar date, like Imerys
17 and like so many of the asbestos cases where any party 18 purporting to have a claim could vote, here only 19 claimants that there is a proof of claim on file on or 20 before the bar date can vote.

21 As Your Honor know, these proofs of claim
22 all contain three serious requirements or penalties, a 23 certification that I have examined the information in 24 this sexual abuse survivor proof of claim and have a 25 reasonable belief that the information is true and

1 correct, a declaration under penalty of perjury that 2 the foregoing statements are true and correct, and a 3 potential penalty for fraudulent claim of up to 4 $500,000 or imprisonment for up to five years. Those 5 are heavy, heavy requirements and penalties, Your 6 Honor.

7 As of the November 16 bar date,
8 approximately 82,500 unique timely filed abuse claims 9 have been filed by abuse survivors on account of 10 sexual abuse. This number is now approximately 82,200 11 after accounting for withdrawals. Importantly, Your 12 Honor, I think it's important for the Court to know -- 13 and we checked with our claims agent Omni last 14 night -- that, as you probably suspect but -- but 15 maybe didn't know, there have been a significant 16 number of amendments to these claims in the 17 intervening months since the Bar Date.

18 Specifically, there have been approximately 19 24,000 total amendments, and that includes 20 approximately 17,000 amendments since February 16, 21 2021, which is the -- the date that the last of the 22 declarations of Mr. Schiavoni's proof of claim 23 evaluators were -- were filed. And of course, the 24 amendment standard being what -- what it is in 25 Delaware, there are more amendments coming all the

1 time, and we expect there to be significant amendments 2 all the way up until, you know, the -- the -- the 3 confirmation hearing. So, Your Honor, that sets the 4 table on the bar date.

5 There -- there's also been other activity in 6 this case. And I won't belabor this, but -- but, you
7 know, I think it's important because in this context, 8 there's going to be evidence presented about, you 9 know, handwriting experts and proofs of claim and what 10 they're missing or we're missing or -- or, you know, 11 lazy or nefarious -- call it what you will -- 12 signatures that have been affixed or -- or printed or 13 photocopied.

14 But much of this is -- has already been -- I 15 hesitate to say litigated -- but has been brought 16 before this Court in the 2004 and 2019 context. And 17 as Your Honor, you know, obviously knows, the -- the 18 2004 motion seeking to serve discovery on a sampling 19 of actual claimants, and what we're worried about here 20 are the claimants, not necessarily the attorneys and 21 the aggregators because I think, as Your Honor 22 identified, you've looked back and although, you know, 23 other case have -- have, you know, identified issues 24 with the attorneys and aggregators, no one has really 25 prevented somebody from voting because of their --

1 their -- the way their vote was called or the way it 2 was produced by their attorney.

3 But in any event, there -- there has not 4 been 2004 discovery on -- on the claimants. We do 5 know that -- that Your Honor obviously approved some 6 of the 2004 with respect to certain claims aggregators 7 and then ordered the 2019 statement to be filed by the 8 Kosnoff firm.

9 Your Honor, after the bar date in service of 10 this solicitation, the debtors endeavored to create 11 what we call the solicitation directive. And the 12 important part about the directive was -- was to get 13 back in touch with the attorneys for these 80,000-plus 14 abuse claimants and try to figure out a way to -- to 15 solicit in an effective and administratively efficient 16 manner, and then the best way to get those folks, the 17 claimants, the actual voice to vote.

18 On the bar -- or on the proof of claim form, 19 rather, Your Honor, there was an ability for the 20 claimant to note its law firm and -- and to accept or 21 to allow the debtors to communicate with their law
22 firm. And the debtors did that through the directive 23 to ask what their preferred mode -- mode of 24 solicitation would be.

25 Just as a note, the directive also went out

1 to some claimants where the communications with the 2 firm box was not checked, but in those instances in 3 order to respond on behalf of the claimant, the law 4 firm was required to submit written verification of 5 their authorization from the abuse survivor client to 6 receive the solicitation package on his or her behalf.

7 Those directives, Your Honor, specifically
8 asked if they would prefer to receive a direct ballot 9 or receive -- on behalf of their clients -- or receive 10 a master ballot to vote on behalf of their clients in 11 one centralized document.

12 The directive requested that the law firms
13 voluntarily informed the debtors of their preference, 14 and many firms did. Importantly, Your Honor, because 15 I think this will come up later in the context of 16 whether or not a 2019 is now required for a firm to 17 vote its master ballot.

18 These directive did themselves contain, 19 actually, pretty extensive certifications. Among 20 other things, the directive certification provided 21 that by signing below, I hereby certify that I have 22 authority under law and I have duly valid and 23 enforceable authorizations to vote to accept or reject 24 the plan on behalf of my abuse survivor clients in 25 accordance with my firm's customary practices.

1 Further, it provides I represent each of the 2 abuse survivor clients set forth on the Excel
3 spreadsheet that lists the claim numbers' names, 4 mailing addresses, emailing addresses, and other 5 information regarding my survivor clients that I have 6 received from the solicitation.

7 So Your Honor, it provided more, as well,
8 but I won't continue to read from the certification.
9 But the point is that that directive was sort of an 10 intermediate step for the -- the estates to liaise 11 with these firms that represent the clients and try to 12 understand and confirm that they represented this 13 group of clients and that they would prefer to vote 14 via master ballot.

15 THE COURT: Mr. O'Neill, is that -- is that 16 certification on file -- the format, the template for 17 the certification on file with the Court somewhere?

18 MR. O'NEILL: Yes, Your Honor. It is. And 19 I'm getting a docket cite. Oh, it's Exhibit 11, Your 20 Honor, to the order.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

22 MR. O'NEILL: Sure, and I -- you know, happy
23 to have you read along or you can read at your leisure
24 without me having to belabor it on the Zoom vid. So 25 I'll continue going -- do you want to go over it, Your

1 Honor? I'll wait.

2 THE COURT: I don't recall seeing it, but 3 obviously, I'm reading a lot of documents. But the -- 4 but what you're telling -- is what you're telling me 5 that the -- that these certifications have already 6 gone out and been filled out and been returned?

7 MR. O'NEILL: Correct, Your Honor. Yes.
8 This happened back in April. And just to clarify one 9 point, if the directive went out and did not come 10 back, the debtors will be sending direct ballots to 11 those claimants.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. O'NEILL: So meaning if the firm was 14 unable to certify to these things, their clients are 15 going to get direct ballots, and they can send them 16 in.

17 So Your Honor, one of the effects of that is 18 that working with Omni, the estate has been able to 19 utilize this information to help support and validate 20 the master balloting process. And as a result, we 21 plan to send a total of approximately 19,000 direct 22 abuse claim solicitation packages instead of 23 approximately 82,200, which, depending on where we end
24 up with Mr. Buchbinder later on the form of packaging, 25 in any event, it saves the estate significant money.

1 But if we have to mail hard copies, we're talking -- I
2 can't do the math in my head, but millions of dollars, 3 if not tens of millions of dollars.

4 So Your Honor, so moving to solicitation and 5 what we're asking for from Your Honor today, we filed 6 disclosure statements, as people have been wont to 7 point out over the last couple days, and rightfully 8 so, as well as four versions of the solicitation 9 procedures order and related materials, including the 10 version currently before the Court.

11 While the plan and DS (phonetic) have 12 evolved significantly, as you might suspect, the 13 solicitation procedures, in large part, have remained 14 the same, especially the versions filed on July 2 and 15 last week. There were very few changes, but we've 16 provided red lines to these documents, and they're in 17 your document binder under Exhibit B, and that begins
18 at Page 244 of the PDF numbering to the extent you 19 want to reference the documents.

20 The voting procedures and forms of nonabuse 21 claimants are standard for nonabuse claimants, Your 22 Honor, and have raised a couple of objections that are 23 kind of catch-all objections from the U.S. Trustee's 24 office.

25 But given the nature of the survivor claims

1 pool, as Your Honor well knows, we're stuck with some 2 special procedures for that class, just in order to 3 deal with 80,000-plus unliquidated claimants and how 4 to solicit a group that large with -- with little 5 visibility on the actual claims. So we've -- we've 6 done what most debtors in this position have done, but 7 we've added a few critical tweaks. And I'll -- I'll 8 walk through those with you, Your Honor, just to -- 9 just to give you an idea.

10 First, as noted above, we submitted a 11 voluntary directive intended to streamline the 12 transmission of the solicitation information. Not 13 only has this put us in a position to solicit more 14 effectively and -- and administratively more 15 efficiently, but it created another layer of defense 16 to confirm which of these firms represents the 17 claimants. It took the proof of claim information, 18 put it to these firms, and they had to certify that 19 there were willing to vote on behalf of those folks.

20 Second, given the -- the large number of 21 abuse claimants represented by counsel, we're -- we're 22 going to use the master balloting process. And this 23 is typical. But beyond that, it's important here to 24 give the number of claimants administrative 25 convenience and -- and also, Your Honor, our ballot --

1 our master ballot is not typical. You know, I'm not 2 going to sit here and tell you everybody's done this, 3 so we need to do this. That -- that may or may not be 4 true, but in fact, we're using a master ballot that's 5 a little bit different and unique in a good way.

6 First of all, it's specifically tied to the 7 claimant's proof of claim that that firm -- that are 8 those firm's clients. So the Excel spreadsheet that's 9 attached has a specific dropdown for each client, you 10 know, to vote in the release election and the 11 expedited election. And then a law firm must fill out 12 this box for each client.

13 And second, there will be a claim number for 14 which a claim has been submitted under penalty of 15 perjury for each claim on the exhibit that is mailed 16 to each law firm, along with claimant name, last four 17 of Social Security, and month and year of birth. Law 18 firms will not be able to add claimants to the master 19 ballot. This is not an ad hoc process, Your Honor, 20 were a firm goes through its files and pulls out, you 21 know, 2,000 new claimants so it can juice the vote.
22 That can't happen here. It's -- it's based on the bar 23 date and submission of proofs of claim.

24 And, you know, as I alluded to earlier, Your 25 Honor, in our certification section -- and we -- we

1 can talk about whether this is beefy enough -- but we 2 have eight certifications rather than the three that 3 were on the Imerys master ballot.

4 And -- and if Your Honor would like, we can 5 turn to them now. But I'll -- I'll just submit to you 6 that this includes a robust additional collection of 7 representation regarding representation, the 8 collection of ballots, and the authority to vote on 9 the plan. The plan is defined as the plan, so it 10 means our plan. And a representation that the 11 disclosure statement has been provided to that abuse
12 survivor client. I think you'll find, Your Honor -- 13 and we don't need to read through them together 14 with -- with all these, you know, folks on the hearing 15 and on the call -- but I think you'll find that 16 they're materially different and improved.

17 THE COURT: Let me ask -- let me ask a 18 question, Mr. O'Neill. I do have the certifications 19 and acknowledgements in front of me. I happen to be 20 looking at the clean copy. I realized after I started 21 I wasn't working at -- looking at the red line, and I 22 can find that if that's what other people have been 23 looking at. But -- and I'm specifically looking at 24 the master ballot for Class A, direct abuse claim 25 master ballot. And I think I have a couple of 1 questions before the certifications, but with 2 respect --

3 MR. STANG: Your -- Your Honor? Your Honor, 4 could you tell us the docket number you're looking at 5 so we can all pull it up?

6 THE COURT: Yes, I --

7 MR. STANG: Because some of us have the red 8 line up.

9 THE COURT: I'm at Document 60 --6215.

10 MR. STANG: Okay. Sorry to interrupt.
11 Thank you, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: That's okay. Thank you. 6215, 13 I'm in dash 1.

14 MR. STANG: Got it.

15 MR. O'NEILL: And if you're on the red
16 line, you're in dash 2. Sorry -- sorry to interrupt, 17 Your Honor, but that might be helpful.

18 THE COURT: And I'm on Page 116 of 240.

19 MR. O'NEILL: Okay, Your Honor, would you 20 like me to highlight the -- the --

21 THE COURT: Let me ask -- let me ask some 22 questions. I'm just making sure everybody has time to 23 get to it.

24 MR. O'NEILL: Got it.

25 THE COURT: I don't --

1 MR. O'NEILL: Sorry.

2 THE COURT: Good for y'all that can do that 3 on computer. The -- and I do think it's an important
4 distinction that you've raised that in Imerys, I did 5 not have the benefit -- or some may say not benefit, 6 but I didn't have the benefit of a bar date order, so 7 I didn't have a universe of claims in front of me,
8 regardless of what you think of those claims. I 9 didn't have a universe of claims in front of me. And 10 so we were in situation where the master ballots went 11 out to law firms, and -- and law firms were -- well, 12 the number of claims that they -- that they returned 13 was a stranger -- a stranger basically to the Court, 14 in terms of what number they -- they returned on their 15 ballots.

16 So there certainly was less clarity about 17 what -- where -- how ballots were generated and the 18 source and the basis for the claims on those ballots.
19 So I -- I do acknowledge that that's quite frankly a 20 material difference. I really do think it is a 21 difference. And let me ask a couple of questions with 22 respect to the certification.

23 First question I have is it's -- it says
24 the -- the -- the prefatory language is, by signing 25 this master ballot, the undersigned certifies on

1 information and belief that the following statements
2 are true and correct. And some of these statements -- 3 maybe all but at least some of these -- I don't think 4 should be on information and belief. I think -- not 5 the way I think of it as a pleading kind of -- how you
6 would use that in a pleading. Some of these things 7 are true or they're not true, and they're -- and they 8 should be able to be validated, the easiest one, for 9 example, seven: I've provided the disclosure statement 10 in hard copy, flash drive, or electronic format to my 11 abuse survivor clients.

12 The attorney did that or didn't do that and 13 can verify that. And I recognize maybe his assistant 14 did it or something, but nonetheless, I think that's 15 something that should not be on information and 16 belief. That's the statement. They did it or they 17 didn't do it. And actually, I like the fact that they 18 had to do it, so I appreciate that. The abuse 19 survivor may be overwhelmed by -- by getting that 20 document, but I think that's appropriate. So --

21 MR. O'NEILL: And -- and we -- we --

22 THE COURT: -- I'm wondering what -- the 23 base -- why -- do we need information and belief? And 24 on which one of these do we need information and 25 belief?

1 MR. O'NEILL: I think we're -- the debtors
2 are prepared to just strike that entirely, Your Honor, 3 and not monkey with which of it applies to -- what 4 does it apply to and what doesn't it apply to.

5 THE COURT: Okay. The -- another question I
6 have, then, with respect to what this certification
7 could be -- and quite frankly, I'm up to hearing
8 discussion about it because I haven't had to think 9 through these issues before.

10 To the extent -- and -- and I have 11 conflicting views on this. Should this certification 12 be made as an Officer of the Court? These are being 13 made by attorneys. As an Officer of the Court 14 pursuant to -- let me say it this way. Should it be 15 expressly made -- these certifications be expressly 16 made as an Officer of the Court pursuant to and 17 subject to all applicable rules of professional 18 conduct that any attorney may be subject to?

19 And the reason I'm asking this is because I
20 think those kinds of statements convey to the signer 21 the seriousness with which this document is being 22 signed and reminds the signer -- and let me say right
23 here. I do not believe every attorney perhaps needs 24 to be reminded. But it reminds the signer of the 25 import of what they're signing.

1 And on the other hand, I could make the 2 argument that when the attorney is signing for the 3 client, they are acting as the client, not necessarily 4 as the lawyer. And therefore, I think that has 5 ramifications in terms of down the line discovery 6 or -- or subjecting yourself to questions that your 7 client would have to answer.

8 So I'm -- I'm throwing it out there. I
9 recognize you don't realize what questions I'm going 10 to ask. But it -- the thought I had as I read this as 11 to the capacity in which the lawyer, employing the 12 master ballot, is certifying -- and in this instance, 13 I do think he's certifying as a lawyer and perhaps 14 should be reminded of the seriousness of which I would 15 take such a certification.

16 MR. O'NEILL: And -- and, Your Honor, I -- 17 my reaction to that is, if that is what Your Honor
18 thinks -- or rather, if that would make Your Honor 19 more comfortable with our process and the eradication 20 of any fraud or bad behavior, then I think that the 21 estates would be comfortable with that, that the 22 debtors would be comfortable adding language to that 23 effect. I -- I -- I understand entirely your thrust 24 here, which is to put some more seriousness behind it
25 so you're not just signing something. You're doing it

1 as an Officer of the Court, and the expectations of 2 that weight of being an Officer of the Court are 3 therefore on you when you sign this.

4 I -- I -- I think it's a -- it's sort of a
5 middle ground between making this subject to penalty 6 of perjury. And, you know, I think this could be an 7 appropriate middle ground. Obviously, we're happy to 8 hear from others if anybody thinks it's inappropriate, 9 but seems to me that Your Honor has been contemplating 10 this since Monday, and it's not coming out of the blue 11 on this -- this call, so --

12 THE COURT: Yes, but contemplating this 13 since all of Monday and -- the other way to look at 14 it. So I don't know if this has been done in any 15 other circum -- any other cases. Again, whether it 16 has or hasn't is not influential, necessarily. But 17 it's a -- it's a thought I had.

18 MR. O'NEILL: I mean --

19 THE COURT: I don't know if any others have 20 thoughts on this and want to weigh in or not.

21 MR. STANG: Your Honor, I have my hand -- 22 it's Mr. Stang. I have my hand up.

23 THE COURT: Mr. Stang?

24 MR. STANG: Your Honor, we are definitely
25 living in a post-Imerys hearing world. There's no

1 doubt about it. And this order with -- with all due 2 respect to everyone on this call, was done with some 3 maybe less awareness of some the problems that can 4 arise in these situations. Certainly, for me this -- 5 what happened in Imerys at the hearing that I -- we 6 represent -- we have representation of Imerys. While 7 I wasn't on the call, Ms. Grassgreen participated in 8 the hearing, and I heard about it in details.

9 I think the word that stood out from all of 10 Mr. O'Neill's presentation was integrity. We have got 11 to be sure that the process has integrity, but as 12 important -- and this is critical to Mr. -- Dr.
13 Kennedy, Mr. Humphrey, and the seven other committee 14 members. This will be probably the only instance, 15 other than maybe the proof of claim process, where a 16 survivor can truly say, I have been heard. This is -- 17 this is the time. This is probably the last time in 18 this case where they will be able to have -- speak 19 their own voice. And so integrity is really 20 important.

21 And so I think the highest standard -- I 22 mean, I didn't hear you say Officer of the Court as 23 some kind of middle ground to penalty of perjury, the 24 way Mr. O'Neill stated it, but we should have layer 25 upon layer upon layer here.

1 And I want to make one thing absolutely 2 clear. While the TCC opposes this plan, this has 3 nothing to do with my comments on the first day about 4 mass tort lawyers and what impact it may have on the 5 case. This is about survivors. And we need to be 6 sure that whoever is submitting a master ballot using 7 a process that does not bear that client's signature 8 on the ballot has every level of protection that their 9 voice is being accurately heard.

10 So I have lots of comments on the 11 certification part, Your Honor. I will hold back on 12 that, but as for this Officer of the Court, applicable 13 rules of professional conduct, thumbs up, thumbs up.
14 Penalty of perjury, thumbs up. This has got to be 15 rock solid as we can make it as far as the 16 certifications are concerned. Thank you, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Schiavoni? You 18 need to unmute.

19 MR. SCHIAVONI: So I'm not quite sure how 20 you intend to proceed here. I thought you were going 21 to hear proponents of the form of order and then 22 opponents of it. I mean, I'm happy to proceed on this 23 line-by-line however, but --

24 THE COURT: Well --

25 MR. SCHIAVONI: -- I would like to be heard

1 at some point in a --

2 THE COURT: Of course.

3 MR. SCHIAVONI: -- (inaudible) way. And -- 4 and I'd like to make a proffer of evidence, and I'd 5 like to offer evidence, also, as part of that, so --

6 THE COURT: We'll get to that, and, you
7 know, that's a good question about exactly how this 8 part should proceed. But I will absolutely give you 9 an opportunity to speak. I'm throwing out some -- 10 some thoughts out there. And I realize that some 11 people have question -- all types of issues with 12 respect to voting, and we're going to get to those.

13 MR. SCHIAVONI: So let me, then, take your 14 invitation and just comment on this, on whether or not 15 -- you know, Your Honor, I did sit through and listen 16 to Tom Bevan's testimony. I know Tom Bevan from other 17 matters, and we've read his prior depositions from 18 other cases. You know, I don't know how you could 19 listen to -- well, let me put it differently. My case

21 THE COURT: Let's be careful because he's 22 not here.

23 MR. SCHIAVONI: That's -- that's fair
24 enough. That's fair enough.

25 THE COURT: Okay?

1 MR. SCHIAVONI: I think -- here we -- here's 2 my concern, without making it specific to him, but 3 it's -- it's, like, I think that there are -- there 4 are lawyers who think that there's nothing wrong at 5 all with what they did. And that the description that 6 we sort of heard when you asked him about, you know, 7 what was done to vet the claims, and his -- and the 8 responses we got about, well, all I needed was sort of 9 a thought that it was possible we had a claim, if you 10 remember that as part of the vetting.

11 And then it was even looser than that, a 12 sort of good-faith sort of basis for it. And then 13 questioning about, well, gosh, did you get any, you 14 know, conflict waivers? And it's like, no, of course 15 not, okay?

16 Does anyone think really that the 17 certification would have changed the vote from that 18 fellow? I -- it -- you know, or not -- not with 19 respect to him personally, but does Your Honor -- I 20 think you have to sit back and think about this, about 21 whether or not fundamentally self-certification to a 22 lawyer who's going to take 40 percent as -- as part of 23 a locked-up coalition, you know, of the money here 24 wasn't going to change anything.

25 It's, like -- you know, Your Honor, as part

1 of the, you know, the decision about -- and the advice
2 Your Honor gave to the parties about how they should 3 sign the proofs of claim. Your Honor admonished folks 4 that the proofs of claim should, you know, really be 5 signed by the claimants. Your Honor was going to 6 allow attorneys to do it, but if they did it, they 7 were admonished on the record that, like, they really 8 needed to vet the claims. And you have the evidence 9 before you on what happened. Does -- you know, you 10 can -- you can put belt and suspenders on the 11 certification, but if it's -- at the end of the day, 12 it's a self-certification that doesn't allow any 13 testing by the Court. Does it get us anywhere? Does 14 it change anything?

15 THE COURT: It's a fair question. It's a 16 fair question. Then the -- the situation might be do 17 we allow master ballots at all, but the -- I'm not 18 sure what the in-between position is, but I hear that.
19 I hear that, and it's a fair question, and something 20 I've thought of. And that's why I'm having this 21 discussion because I thought of this since all of 22 Monday, okay?

23 MR. SCHIAVONI: I think this --

24 THE COURT: And I'm not sure what exactly to 25 do with this. So --

1 MR. SCHIAVONI: (Inaudible).

2 THE COURT: -- Mr. Rose -- oh, I'm sorry.

3 MR. SCHIAVONI: I'm sorry, I thought
4 yesterday Your Honor was half maybe suggesting or 5 maybe I'm reading too much into it that the history of 6 these master ballots and, you know, I think, you know, 7 it is true that they've been used in mass tort cases 8 for some time.

9 There's been a couple of cases where the -- 10 those issues were tested, not as broadly as here, to 11 be clear, and when I get an opportunity to make my 12 overall presentation, I'd like to talk about those.
13 But the real background on this is that this process 14 sort of start, like, it was used by indentured 15 trustees --

16 THE COURT: Um-hum.

17 MR. SCHIAVONI: -- you know, who have -- 18 it's an entirely different kind of background where 19 they have --

20 THE COURT: Right.

21 MR. SCHIAVONI: -- you know, a contractual 22 obligation, you know, delegated authority, and they 23 would, like, the practice was for them to use master 24 ballots. And it was picked up, you know, by some here 25 in some of these mass tort cases and used, and then,

1 there were some challenges to it. But there, you
2 know, there has not been a court that's looked behind 3 it.

4 I don't know that there's any precedent for 5 someone trying to change their vote so that it would 6 kind of reveal kind of what was happening or 7 precedent, frankly, for what we have here as far as, 8 you know, the evidence on the proofs of claim.

9 So yeah, you are going to hear me argue that 10 master ballots should not be used here or at least not 11 used in particular circumstances.

12 THE COURT: You're back, okay, I'm sorry. I
13 was frozen there for a bit. I don't know if everybody
14 else was or not. I'm familiar generally with master 15 ballots in the context of indentured trustees, with 16 master ballots in the context of shareholders, equity, 17 a proxy fight in CD and Co (phonetic) and that kind of 18 thing. I don't know how they got imported. I'm sure 19 some enterprising mass tort lawyer said, here's 20 something we can use to help in a particular case.

21 But I hear the point. I'd like some others'
22 thoughts on it. I will say sort of connected to this 23 whole idea, especially in a situation where there's 24 actually going to be, if this ballot is approved, a 25 party can elect into a $3,500 settlement, in essence,

1 of their claim.

2 That's a whole other level of complication 3 here, to make certain that the client understands that 4 they've settled their claim and that the lawyer has 5 authority to settle their claim for $3,500. And I 6 recognize, again, people have issues that, but to 7 throw things out there, that, to me, is another level 8 of complication to this.

9 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor --

10 THE COURT: (Inaudible), oh.

11 MR. SCHIAVONI: Yeah, just, you know,
12 another that's -- and you'll hear me talk about this, 13 but another thing that flows into is the fact that the 14 voting bloc for which the master ballots are really 15 going to be used, the attorneys' fees are being -- are 16 embedded in the plan, so that the -- it creates, I 17 think, a conflict between the lawyers and their voting 18 clients.

19 You heard Mr. Molton yesterday talk about 20 what's in his letter, but I think he came at it from 21 the wrong side because his retention letter, if you 22 remember, went out to the Coalition, all their 23 clients, okay? And you know, they claim there's, 24 like, 50,000 of those clients. Most of them, the vast 25 bulk of them, affirmatively opted out of retaining Mr.

1 Molton.

2 So it's like the statement in the letter,
3 retention letter, that says you may seek a substantial 4 contribution claim, that could bind the actual 5 technical Coalition members, but there's a relatively 6 small number of those. I forget whether it's 14 or 7 17,000 is the claim. The bulk of them affirmatively 8 opted out, so now, we have the debtor putting that in 9 the plan, encouraging -- and it's pretty clear, it's 10 to lock up the votes of the voting Coalition members 11 to deliver this vote that they're talking about.

12 And when we objected to the fees in 13 connection with the RSA we set out for Your Honor, we 14 gave you all the case law about the conflict that 15 poses, really, for a lawyer, you know, when he has a 16 direct self-interest in something -- to inject that 17 into the balloting, it does inject yet another level
18 of complication for the Coalition to use master 19 ballots.

20 THE COURT: Mr. Rosenthal, you've had your 21 hand up for a while.

22 MR. ROSENTHAL: Thank you, Your Honor.
23 Michael Rosenthal of Gibson Dunn on behalf of the AIG
24 companies. Your Honor, I want to address the specific 25 question you raised. And while I don't think my 1 answer is directly on point, I think by analogy it may 2 be.

3 I fully support that these certifications
4 should be -- either as Officers of the Court or more 5 appropriately, I think, under penalty of perjury. We 6 have some examples of this in the asbestos context.
7 You know, the Court may know as the case law has 8 developed as the years have gone by that courts 9 hearing asbestos cases, including your colleague, 10 Judge Cary, when he was on the bench, you know, have 11 insisted on fraud prevention measures to prevent 12 fraudulent claims from being asserted.

13 Now, that was not in the context of voting, 14 but it was in the context of asserting claims against 15 trust. But I think it has the same impact. Those 16 fraud prevention measures include certifications, but 17 they also include audit rights, and they include the 18 ability to hold a lawyer to account for filing claims 19 that are inappropriate.

20 And it is that last mechanism that causes, I 21 think, the lawyers to pause before they submit claims 22 that they don't believe are appropriate or that they 23 don't have support for. And that's, you know, that 24 panoply of fraud prevention measures is what Judge 25 Cary ordered in the Miramonte case.

1 THE COURT: Miramonte?

2 MR. ROSENTHAL: Um-hum. And what have been 3 ordered in any number of cases dating to the original 4 case that set this up was the Garlock case out of the 5 Western District of North Carolina. So I offer that, 6 and I think that here requiring that does make these 7 lawyers stand back and have certainty or at least 8 investigate these claims enough to be able to say,
9 yes, I'm entitled to both these claims. I'm entitled 10 to make the election because I've spoken to my client
11 about it. I am committing them for something.

12 THE COURT: I'm aware generally of Miramonte 13 and the issues that the United States Trustee and 14 others have been raising in the various cases. And I
15 assumed this was an issue we would get to with respect 16 to TDPs. I do wonder whether there's something we can 17 borrow from it to put in the ballots. And I don't 18 view the fact that this issue was not something I drew 19 attention to specifically at proof-of-claim time, 20 although I do recall admonishing lawyers of their 21 responsibilities in signing the proof of claim.

22 I don't consider, you know, the horse out of 23 the barn. This is another -- this is another step, 24 and I think we should impose appropriate admonitions 25 here. And I want to say, again, particularly because

1 I know I have members of the plaintiffs' bar on this 2 Zoom cast, and I'm not impugning the integrity of any 3 particular plaintiff's lawyer, and I don't want to 4 suggest that I'm doing that.

5 I'm addressing an issue that I've not had to 6 address before and, quite frankly, haven't really seen 7 in my 35 years of practice of how we should be 8 handling the ballots, particularly in this master 9 ballot situation where we do have lawyers voting for 10 their clients. And here, perhaps resolving a claim in 11 that very same vote.

12 MR. STANG: Your Honor, just on that 13 element, there are retainer agreements that are on 14 file with the Court that -- some of which talk 15 about -- and I had put aside the certification that 16 was done earlier in the case, the retainer agreements
17 sometimes, and I had the authority to settle the case.

18 But we all know from the rules of 19 professional conduct that you have to consult with 20 your client regarding a settlement. The client has to 21 have informed consent, and you know, this idea of the 22 $3,500 election, as you've pointed out, is a whole new 23 wrinkle.

24 Someone's got to talk to the client about 25 that. I don't think you can rely on something that

1 was done in April -- I think it was April -- when the 2 $3,500 expedited payment wasn't even in most people's 3 constellations. It certainly wasn't there at the time 4 of the execution of the retainer agreement.

5 So I think you're right. The different 6 elections, be it 3,500, the releases, whatever after 7 check-the-boxes are going to be, adds a complication 8 on the informed consent aspect of this.

9 THE COURT: Mr. Smola?

10 MR. SMOLA: Thank you, Your Honor. I just 11 wanted to give the Court plaintiffs' lawyers' 12 perspective on this for just a moment.

13 THE COURT: Um-hum.

14 MR. SMOLA: This plan and the impact of a 15 yes vote is significant. It potentially compromises 16 that individual's rights against a local council. It 17 potentially compromises that individual's rights
18 against a charter. It presumably turns down an offer 19 of $3,500. All of these things have to be conveyed 20 under all of the rules of ethics to every client, and 21 it needs to be signed off on by every client.

22 And it's particularly important in this case
23 because a yes vote from a victim doesn't just impact
24 that victim. This court's going to be deciding issues
25 involving non-consensual third-party releases. So

1 those yes votes, that consent, and the integrity of 2 that consent is absolutely critical.

3 So I would endorse every possible mechanism
4 this Court seeks to employ to ensure the integrity of 5 the vote. Thank you, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Thank you. Okay.

7 MR. GOODMAN: Your Honor. Do you see my 8 hand up?

9 THE COURT: Oh, I'm sorry, Mr. Goodman. I
10 hear you. There you are. Okay.

11 MR. GOODMAN: Thank you, Your Honor. Eric
12 Goodman, Brown Rudnick, on behalf of the Coalition.
13 Your Honor, I would just like to state our 14 understanding as to how this is supposed to work so 15 there's no ambiguity on these issues. And before I 16 even get into that, I did want to correct a statement
17 that Mr. Schiavoni said earlier, and I've heard him 18 say this several times, and it is not true that, you 19 know, tens of thousands of clients represented by 20 Coalition firms affirmatively opted out of being part 21 of the Coalition. That is false. You know, to my 22 knowledge, I'm not aware of any "opt-outs." You know, 23 so I just wanted to correct the record on that point.
24 Your Honor, if you look at the master ballot
25 solicitation method, there are really two parts of it.

1 I don't know if the Court has -- what you have in 2 front of you. I'm looking at Docket number 6215-1.
3 This is on Page 7. It's Section 5A, and 4 notwithstanding my tendency as a draftsman to go from 5 number to letter to number, there's a 5AA in the whole
6 and then a 5AB.

7 As Coalition counsel, I'm really not 8 terribly focused on 5B. That's the provision that 9 would have firms claiming that they have authority
10 under applicable law to vote. I'm actually --

11 THE COURT: Sorry, Mr. Goodman. I'm not 12 following you. You're in document 6215-1, and what 13 page are you on?

14 MR. GOODMAN: I'm on Page 24 of 240.

15 THE COURT: Ah, in the -- I got you, Page 16 24.

17 MR. GOODMAN: Yeah, I just want to 18 correct --

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. GOODMAN: -- I think there's a -- so I'm 21 looking at 5AA.

22 THE COURT: Um-hum.

23 MR. GOODMAN: And it's --

24 THE COURT: I have AA, yeah.

25 MR. GOODMAN: Yeah, and that's -- I'm

1 actually not terribly thrilled or concerned about B.
2 I'm much more focused on A. From our perspective, the 3 master ballot solicitation method permits law firms 4 to, first, find out from the client how they want to 5 vote. Second, cast the votes based on that direction 6 as provided by the client. Third, report that vote on 7 a master ballot, and then, submit the master ballot to 8 Omni.

9 Under these procedures, Omni is to send the 10 disclosure statement package to each law firm, but 11 each law firm must transmit and make those materials 12 available to the client. The client decides how they 13 will vote. The language in 5A, which describes the 14 master ballot solicitation method, states that each of 15 the survivor shall have indicated to the firm his or 16 her informed decision on such vote.

17 That's something we added. That's something
18 the Coalition insisted on. Unless a firm has clear 19 authority to vote on behalf of its abuse survivor 20 clients, and I'm not saying any do, each survivor must 21 communicate to his or her firm how he or she is 22 voting. And the votes must be cast in strict 23 accordance with the client's instructions.

24 The Coalition firms will recommend that 25 their clients vote yes, but -- and I want to be very 1 clear on this -- we will not and do not guarantee that 2 100 percent will vote yes. There have been multiple 3 filings in this case where the Coalition has stated 4 that it would use reasonable efforts to advise and 5 recommend. You've seen phrases like meaningful and 6 informed participation on voting decisions. That's 7 our language. That came from us.

8 Survivors are entitled to make their own
9 decision. I don't know how many times I have to say 10 that, and I will keep saying it. Votes should be cast 11 based on the survivor's decision. Now, why is this 12 important here? We are trying to avoid 13 disenfranchisement. When you make firms a voting hub 14 or a polling location, to use a modern analogy, the 15 result is a process that runs more efficiently than 16 any alternative that I have seen. It works.

17 And we would not be here supporting 18 procedures if they were not efficient and if they were 19 not designed to be implemented in a way that would be 20 successful in this particular case. We're trying to 21 use the best tools at hand.

22 If survivors have questions, and I think 23 almost all of them will, they can and they will 24 contact their attorneys. And despite the time spent 25 on the disclosure statement, I must say, respectfully,

1 it's a challenging document for a layperson to 2 understand and so may be the plan summary.

3 I think a lot of the survivors here are 4 going to look to their attorneys for help in figuring 5 out what to do. And when the Coalition firms say, as 6 they have, that they support the plan and will 7 recommend that their clients vote yes, that is real 8 value in a mass tort case. All of the progress in 9 this case hinges on that. The Hartford settlement, 10 the TCJC settlement, future settlements with insurers, 11 the plan architecture for chartering organization all 12 depend on survivors voting to accept the plan.

13 Otherwise, there can be no (inaudible)
14 injunction, and without that, this entire plan fails.
15 So we do want to use the best tools available, and we 16 also know that if and when we get to plan
17 confirmation, dissatisfied parties, and I know there 18 are a number of them who are here today, are going to 19 object, and they may challenge the vote.

20 We understand that going in. You would have 21 to be crazy not to, and we know that this has to be 22 done right. We know that every I has to be dotted, we 23 know that every T has to be crossed, and we expect 24 that this will be an issue at confirmation. And we're 25 going to be prepared for it.

1 Last point I want to make, Your Honor, there 2 was a bar date in this case as Mr. O'Neill noted at 3 the beginning of his presentation. The proofs of 4 claim here were filed under penalty of perjury, and 5 those claim forms make it abundantly clear that the 6 claims asserted are for sexual abuse. They're not 7 generic claims.

8 And I will note that many, many of the 9 amendments that Mr. O'Neill mentioned that have been 10 filed since February were filed to add clients'
11 signatures to the claim form. I think it's premature, 12 frankly, for any party to be challenging votes at this 13 stage or even bringing up that issue for the simple 14 reason that we don't know who is going to show up and 15 vote.

16 Even in cases with very, very robust voter
17 turnout have never seen 100 percent tort victim
18 participation. And if past events are any indication 19 of future events, I would expect that the survivors 20 that put the most time, the most effort into 21 completing the claim forms are the ones that are the 22 mostly likely to vote. That is true in most mass tort 23 cases, and I have no reason to expect a different 24 result here.

25 I'm happy to answer any questions the Court

1 may have, but we feel very strongly that solicitation
2 procedures like these are necessary, extremely helpful
3 in a case like this, and you know, these are things 4 that should be done with the utmost integrity. And 5 anyone who's suggesting otherwise, I respectfully
6 disagree. Thank you.

7 MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, this is Andrew
8 O'Neill, I seemed to have started a cavalcade of sort 9 of opening statements, and I would like to get back to 10 my presentation, if we could do that. And I, you 11 know, if Your Honor, you know, wanted to continue to 12 talk about the certification, that's fine, but it 13 seems like we'll get to it in other parts of the 14 discussion when we get to some of the objections. So 15 if I could continue, Your Honor?

16 MR. STANG: Your Honor, in that regard, I 17 just -- you have not, I think, actually ever spoken to 18 my partner, Debra Grassgreen. She would like the 19 address the Court on the issue of the use of master 20 ballots, and Ms. Grassgreen has the unique status that 21 she was a personal -- she was a creditor of PG&E.

22 Her home was burned down, and she can tell 23 you something about how master ballots worked in that 24 case and the experience of an actual fire victim as to 25 the master ballot process vis a vis her lawyer. So if

1 you want to do that now, she's ready. If you want to 2 put that off, I just want you to know that she'd like 3 to address the Court on that personal experience she 4 had.

5 THE COURT: Well, Ms. Grassgreen, I'm sorry, 6 I thought Mr. Stang was going to say that your 7 experience was in some case. I'm sorry it was as a 8 personal creditor of PG&E. I will hear you. I am
9 hearing -- because I did ask the questions yesterday 10 about the use of master ballots, and so I will 11 certainly hear you. I will say that I've -- no, I 12 won't say that. The -- but let me know because I 13 don't want to forget this.

14 I'm glad -- I'll ask Mr. Goodman. I'm glad 15 Mr. Goodman referred us to paragraph 5AA because I 16 think the language in there is more -- and I do recall 17 reading it -- I think it's more -- it's phrased 18 differently than the certifications, and I think it's 19 actually helpful language. And it may be that we can 20 take parts of that and use it, as well.

21 Ms. Grassgreen? And then, we will get back
22 to Mr. O'Neill.

23 MS. GRASSGREEN: Good morning, Your Honor.
24 Debra Grassgreen, Pachulski Stang, and, yes, my family
25 lost its home and my husband and my son were trapped

1 in the fire, so it's a pretty personal issue to me.
2 But the experience that I had with respect to a lawyer 3 who had multiple clients who had actually signed an 4 RSA in that case was not on the committee I think it's 5 just important to share so that we can figure out as 6 we go through this process how we communicate with the 7 clients of firms that have, you know, multiple 8 clients.

9 Because what happened to me was that I
10 opposed the plan in PG&E. I voted against it, but I 11 had an attorney who had signed an RSA and agreed to 12 recommend it and not oppose the plan. So I was in the 13 situation where I had a lawyer who could not take my 14 instructions.

15 Now, I was unusual because I was involved in 16 the case, and I understood the case, and I'm an 17 experienced bankruptcy lawyer who's appeared before 18 Judge Moncalli (phonetic) many times, and I was able 19 to represent my own family's interests individually.

20 But -- and an unsophisticated client who is 21 a client of a lawyer who makes a recommendation, how 22 are we going to communicate to them what do they do 23 and how the lawyers are going to deal with that 24 ethical problem. It wasn't addressed in PG&E, and 25 what happened in PG&E was there were lots of clients

1 who voted yes, voted no, but if they had the same
2 lawyer, there was a conflict, and their voices weren't 3 heard.

4 My voice was only heard because of who I am,
5 so I just wanted to share that experience with you. I 6 mean, it happened to me, you know, and I called my 7 lawyer, and my lawyer said I agreed not to oppose the 8 plan, and oh, if I oppose the plan for you, this 9 person, client, wants me to support the plan.

10 So how are we going to help survivors 11 understand that the decision isn't being made for 12 them, either in reality or effectively, because of the 13 master ballot process and because of the joint 14 representation. That's what I wanted to share, that 15 particular personal experience. It's a very difficult 16 one, Your Honor, but that's what happened to me.

17 THE COURT: Well, I think there's a -- if I
18 heard you correctly, if you -- agreeing to recommend 19 the plan is not agreeing to deliver a yes vote.

20 That's how I view it. And if a client instructed 21 their lawyer that their vote was no and their lawyer
22 refused to check the no box, I think that lawyer --

23 MS. GRASSGREEN: So it's a different --

24 THE COURT: -- has an issue.

25 MS. GRASSGREEN: My vote was accurately

1 recorded as a no vote. It's not the voting, but I had 2 an objection to the plan. I had an objection. And so
3 the clients, somehow we need to, under the appropriate 4 rules of professional conduct, make sure that they 5 understand that just because they're part of a group 6 that's represented by one lawyer, and it doesn't -- 7 this isn't at all unique to the Coalition. It's 8 unique -- it's for any lawyers that are representing 9 multiple clients -- that if they --

10 THE COURT: Right.

11 MS. GRASSGREEN: -- want them to raise an 12 objection, if they disagree with the recommendation, 13 that the lawyer may not be able to represent them in 14 that disagreement. I think that's the concern and how 15 do we communicate that.

16 MR. STANG: Your Honor, I would add that in 17 the RSA, which I acknowledge has expired, but I have 18 no idea what the agreements are between the FCR, the 19 Coalition on the issue. The RSA had a specific 20 negative -- two negative covenants. One was the firms 21 could not object or take any other action to interfere 22 with the acceptance of the plan and could not solicit 23 approval or acceptance of, encourage proposed file, 24 any vote that was for anything other than the admitted
25 plan.

1 So it's not just the recommendation part.
2 There were negative covenants in the RSA. And again,
3 I don't know what the terms are of whatever agreement 4 that now exists between the Coalition and the FCR and 5 the debtor, but it was in the original RSA. Thank 6 you, Your Honor.

7 MS. GRASSGREEN: And it may be as simple, 8 Your Honor, as in the communications that go out to 9 survivors to explain to them that if your lawyer is 10 representing more than one survivor and those clients, 11 some want to support the plan and some want to oppose 12 the plan, you may have to get a different lawyer.

13 I mean, I don't know what else you can say, 14 but I don't think an unsophisticated survivor would 15 understand that. I understood it, obviously, I'm not 16 your normal victim in a mass tort case.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. This raises 18 issues that are not unique to the mass tort case.
19 Every lawyer who's ever had multiple clients has 20 conflict rules to work through and issues to work
21 through with respect to multiple representations, 22 hopefully worked out in the beginning of the 23 representations, but I have -- and lawyers have their 24 state law ethical duties.

25 Whether I can be -- and I think I cannot --

1 be the personal guarantor that every client has chosen 2 the right lawyer and that every lawyer is respecting 3 their professional obligations is something that I 4 said probably at other points in this case and 5 certainly in other cases that there are state law
6 rules, there are disciplinary council, there's all 7 kind of structures surrounding that.

8 So I have to give this some thought. I
9 think we've talked about this as much as we can.
10 Let's move on, see what other issues we have, and I 11 will be giving all of this some thought, but I, of 12 course, appreciate what I'm hearing on this call, 13 which is that each individual survivor's vote needs to 14 be appropriately reflected in a ballot, counted 15 appropriately.

16 And what I'm going to be giving thought to, 17 and I'm sure it's going to come up in other aspects of 18 this, is can we take a vote so that at confirmation, 19 challenges of whatever nature people want to raise, 20 there's an ability to do so and have a vote that we 21 can look at to apply those challenges to. So that's 22 what I'm trying to think about, as well, as we go 23 through this process.

24 For example, there is challenge to the 25 $3,500 expedited distribution and questions about

1 whether that is going to sway the vote and whether it
2 should. Well, we're going to know the answer to that 3 question when we get the vote and whether the votes of 4 the survivors who choose the $3,500 distribution swing
5 the class. We'll know that. There are things we can 6 know once we see the vote and who's voted.

7 There may be -- and that's what I'm thinking
8 about. Is there a way that at confirmation, if people 9 are going to challenge the vote, that we have the 10 information necessary to answer the questions that 11 will arise? So I'm thinking about that, as well, in 12 connection with how the vote goes out and the 13 information that we ask for in the ballot.

14 I'm going to go back to Mr. O'Neill.

15 MR. O'NEILL: Thank you, Your Honor. And we 16 agree with much of what you said, and you'll hear me 17 actually iterate that, I think, throughout this 18 discussion. You know, there are a lot of things that 19 people have raised that we just don't believe are a 20 today issue or are a front-end solicitation issue. It 21 might well be a back-end issue with the voting report 22 or, you know, a matter of slicing and dicing the 23 information in connection with confirmation 24 objections.

25 We think we are position to do that at that

1 point, but again, our theme is we would like to begin 2 the solicitation, and we have procedures in place,
3 including the master ballot, which allow us to do 4 that. Mr. Goodman hit on this, but remember, it's the 5 claimants that gave us the ability to contact their 6 law firms and have their law firms select the method 7 of voting.

8 We are pro-suffrage, we are also wanting to 9 do this the right way, but we acknowledge that people 10 get to choose how they want to vote. So we're trying 11 to sort of juggle all those balls, Your Honor, and I 12 think we've done a good job as we'll discuss.

13 So I don't want to set off another round of 14 discussion with this very talkative crew on the 15 certifications at this point. I just -- my last point 16 on the certifications is that it has a built-in audit 17 procedure for the debtors to require a power of 18 attorney or other written documents be provided to the 19 debtors.

20 So you know, and we talk about this, Your 21 Honor, but perhaps, you know, we can use that on the 22 backend to, you know, just double check in a couple 23 instances what, you know, what certifications have 24 been made and if there's a valid authorization for the 25 attorney for be voting.

1 So Your Honor, in sum on my opening remarks,
2 I think the debtors submit these procedures are 3 appropriate and protective given the unliquidated 4 claims pool that we're dealing with in this case. And 5 again, I think what we've provided in our procedures 6 are the only way that we are going to get to 7 confirmation on the schedule that we've proposed. Our 8 schedule is typical in these matters.

9 Again, you know, there's an objection on 10 that from the TCC, though I'm not sure it's live, I'm 11 not sure what their objections are, given their 12 involvement in the RSA. But it seems that there may 13 be some. So in any event, with that, Your Honor, what 14 I'd like to do, and my idea was to sort of imitate 15 yesterday's hearing and the day before where we go 16 through this chart and discuss the outstanding 17 objections because that seemed like a fairly orderly 18 way to do it. And although I'm, to be completely 19 candid, a little bit loathe to have multiple people 20 jumping in, I guess, you know, that's the process by 21 which we can do this.

22 I know Mr. Schiavoni noted before that he 23 has some evidence that he would like to proffer or 24 other evidence that he will be providing. The main 25 Century objection, Your Honor, comes at sort of the 1 end of the chart, which is to say that they have some 2 other objections, but number 67, which is kind of at 3 the very end of the chart, I think we probably could 4 wait until then for the evidence to come in and you 5 know, we'll see what happens when the evidence does 6 come in.

7 I think we'll have something to say, and 8 others might, as well. Or we could do it now, at the 9 front end, and just get it out of the way and then 10 move into the objections.

11 THE COURT: Why don't we go through the 12 chart.

13 MR. O'NEILL: Very good. Okay. Thanks, 14 Your Honor. So the first -- and it's number 60 on my 15 master chart, that's page 107. And you'll see the 16 title is solicitation procedures master ballot 17 procedures. That may sound a lot like what we've just 18 been discussing for the last 45 minutes, but in fact, 19 it's more specific than that and tailored.

20 The main thrust of this objection is that 21 there's a problem with ballots -- master ballots being 22 submitted by the same firms that have the same
23 plaintiffs on them. And we actually have a procedure 24 that deals with this, Your Honor. First of all, it's 25 not likely to happen very much, just given the way

1 that we've designed the master ballot where specific 2 proofs of claim will be provided on their attachment
3 with the ballot that they actually get to vote.

4 But in the event there is overlap and 5 there's a conflicting vote that Omni will do research 6 on the proofs of claim, they'll go back and double 7 check everything. And in the event that that's not 8 sufficient, then they will require both firms to show 9 proof that they actually represent that client and 10 have the authority to make the vote.

11 And based on that, the debtors will be able 12 to determine which is the valid vote. To the extent 13 that we can't, the vote will not count. So that's the 14 procedure. We think it's the best way to proceed in 15 these limited instances where there'll actually be a 16 conflicting vote.

17 Really, the other objection under this 18 category, Your Honor, it's actually from Century but 19 it's not going to implicate the evidence is that we 20 forfeited the obligation to police the solicitation 21 process.

22 I think that's probably a general comment.
23 It sounds familiar from what we've heard. But this 24 isn't specifically with respect to requiring the last 25 four digits of the Social Security number. That

1 actually is a part of the ballot in an attachment to 2 the ballot. So we are requiring that.

3 The next objection, Your Honor, on the chart
4 --

5 THE COURT: Well, let's wait, and let's see 6 if there are any further outstanding objections with 7 respect to those two issues.

8 Mr. Stang?

9 MR. STANG: Your Honor, I'm not sure if -- 10 the way this is broken up, the objections, I'm not 11 quite sure when to address paragraph 5A because it 12 contains a number of things. I have some very 13 specific comments about the exact wording of 5A, and 14 you know, some -- I'm just not sure which pigeonhole
15 that would fit into as we go along. But if you want 16 me to go through 5A, there are about three or four 17 things I would comment on. They don't go to whether 18 or not there should be a master ballot. We're past 19 that one.

20 THE COURT: Mr. O'Neill, does 5A fall 21 anywhere within here or the order fall anywhere within 22 here?

23 MR. O'NEILL: I'm not aware of what that 24 objection would be. We haven't seen any language from 25 Mr. Stang, so I'm not sure what exactly he's referring

1 to.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Why don't we put at the 3 end of this the form of order? And that way, 4 everybody can comment on whatever issues they have 5 with the form of order.

6 MR. O'NEILL: Very good, Your Honor. And it 7 sounds like the form of order, which will approve the 8 solicitation procedures hopefully, and will have some 9 emendations or something with respect to language in 10 certain sections.

11 MR. STANG: Yeah, I guess it's -- Your 12 Honor, it's actually a solicit -- 5A is in the 13 solicitation procedures, which is an exhibit to the 14 order. I just have comments on 5A. Whenever it's 15 time for me to make those specific comments, I'll do 16 it. I just --

17 THE COURT: Well, I went through the form of 18 order and the solicitation procedures, and I've got 19 some markups, too, so we're going to get to that.

20 MR. STANG: Okay.

21 THE COURT: So that will be the time when 22 everyone can comment on the form of order.

23 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Thank you.

25 MR. O'NEILL: Thank you, Your Honor, and I

1 apologize to Mr. Stang and the Court. There was one 2 more sort of objection in this category, and that's 3 just a timing issue, which is that if there are 4 duplicative votes on master ballots, that the parties 5 have 14 days instead of 10 days to resolve the 6 dispute.

7 And the reason it's 10 days rather than 14,
8 Your Honor, is that 14 is the entire amount of time
9 that Omni is going to have to generate its report. So 10 there needs to be some time on the backend to just do
11 the final product. I'm not even sure that Mr. Stang 12 is pursuing that anymore, again, but it is here on the 13 chart, so I thought I --

14 THE COURT: Is that an issue for anyone? I
15 don't hear anything. Let's go to the next issue.

16 MR. O'NEILL: Great. So the next category 17 is called solicitation procedures proposed dates and 18 timelines. Again, I think I just don't know if the 19 TCC is pursuing this at this point. But certainly, 20 the U.S. Trustee's objection here that Labor Day is 21 implicate and therefore, it's not a good schedule is 22 mooted at this point, sadly.

23 So the thrust of the TCC objection, Your 24 Honor, was that 43-plus days that we've afforded for 25 people to vote is not enough. We certainly think it

1 is. Again, most of the population of voters will get 2 substantially more than the 43 days, up to -- well, 3 I'm looking at my colleague, but 50 or so. In any 4 event, we don't think additional time is necessary.

5 And again, as Your Honor knows, and I'll 6 come back to this siren song again, is that we need to 7 get this going and our schedule is tight. So that's 8 why we're doing this on the schedule we're doing. But 9 also footnote that and say this is a completely normal 10 solicitation period.

11 THE COURT: Mr. Schiavoni?

12 MR. SCHIAVONI: So Your Honor, this -- I 13 will come back to this when we get to make our general 14 objections, but if you just think about this for a 15 second as a practical matter, okay? The Coalition 16 firms, which are locked up in this bloc to vote, many 17 of them are very small firms with only three or four 18 lawyers, but they have thousands and thousands of 19 claims.

20 In the 2004 motions, we brought this out
21 about just, like, temporally, how they were voting 22 hundreds of claims a day and how putting aside, you 23 know, the testimony we haven't obtained from those 24 lawyers yet, but just the impossibility of vetting the 25 claim in that period of time.

1 Apply that here to the use of a master
2 ballot, instead of individually just handing them each 3 ballot and express their views, they're going to poll, 4 you know, a firm with two or three lawyers is going to 5 poll thousands and -- like, 7,000 claimants in a 6 matter of 43 days and get their individual views.

7 I mean it just masks what's really going to 8 go on here. You know, it's, like, the lawyers for the 9 Coalition are going to vote as a bloc.

10 THE COURT: Mr. Rosenthal?

11 MR. ROSENTHAL: Yes, Your Honor. I don't 12 want to repeat what Mr. Schiavoni said, but I think 13 there are two issues implicated here. One is the 14 schedule generally, and obviously, we want to talk to 15 you about the schedule generally. We think that there 16 should be significantly more time allowed.

17 But I agree with Mr. Schiavoni that because 18 of the two-step process required in a master ballot 19 situation and all of the communications that have to 20 go between not just the debtor and the law firm, but 21 the law firm and each of its multiple clients and the 22 explanations and everything, this is why in a master 23 ballot situation, you generally give, you know, more 24 time in any event, and certainly in this particular 25 case, you would think that it would take quite a bit

1 of time for people to vote hundreds if not thousands 2 of claims in a master ballot format on a fully 3 informed basis.

4 THE COURT: Mr. Stang?

5 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor. I'm 6 looking at it from the perspective of actual 7 survivors, and while I appreciate Mr. O'Neill's need 8 for moving this case along, you know, if he'd listened 9 to Mr. Molton and me and Mr. Patton (phonetic) about 10 the original Hartford deal, the BSA wouldn't be in the 11 time crunch they're in. But that's an aside the 12 point.

13 THE COURT: You have the second point.
14 Let's move on and let's stay with the issues.

15 MR. STANG: I will, but he keeps on invoking 16 it, so that's important to understand. You have 17 untold numbers of letters from prisoners who have 18 explained to you the difficulties in getting mail and 19 sending mail out. People should have as much as time 20 as is reasonable, and 60 days is reasonable.

21 Likewise, I am told by state court counsel
22 from time to time that their clients don't use email, 23 they use snail mail. They can be hard to get ahold 24 of. You've had some exposure already through the 25 letters to some of the communication issues that

1 survivors have. We need to afford these folks a 2 reasonable period of time.

3 Just remember the mission of the Boy Scouts
4 and this case includes and fair and equitable 5 treatment of survivors. We shouldn't for over 13 days
6 deprive those folks of an opportunity to make a 7 meaningful vote. Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Thank you. This --

9 MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, understood, and 10 look, we understand Mr. Schiavoni's role here, 11 obviously, and Mr. Stang. You know, we'll leave that 12 one alone, but I think, you know, part of this is what 13 the schedule's going to be. Mr. Rosenthal is right, 14 and I think, you know, if we can keep it on the right 15 side of, in our view, 60 days, that would be best, 16 obviously, but we're willing to be flexible on this,
17 obviously, as it pleases the Court.

18 THE COURT: Okay. I was going to say, we 19 can consider this with the overall schedule, but I 20 will say, this is a complicated case, and counsel need 21 time to speak with their clients and for their clients
22 to have an ability to understand what they're doing 23 and determine their -- what their vote's going to be.

24 And I actually am aware of the prisoner 25 issue, as well, because I've noticed several of those

1 letters. I'm not sure exactly how to do this to make 2 certain they all get the mail appropriately. But I 3 think 60 days is probably more in the ballpark for the 4 additional time. But we're going to consider this in 5 the context of an entire schedule.

6 And as for lawyers with small shops, they 7 took on the clients. They're going to have to figure 8 out how to appropriately represent them.

9 MR. O'NEILL: Thank you, Your Honor, and 10 agreed, they can work the phones, and we'll take this 11 up in conjunction with the scheduling.

12 The rest of the objections up until the U.S.
13 Trustee are in the order of sort of me, too -- the TC 14 wanting to get access or be part of the process when 15 votes are looked at for irregularities. And we think 16 we've addressed all of these with language in the 17 solicitation procedures, but I'll defer to Mr. Stang 18 to see if they have any outstanding objections of this 19 ilk.

20 MR. STANG: Your Honor, to the contrary.
21 There are a whole number of paragraphs that originally 22 had us, the Coalition, and the FCR having rights
23 regarding extension of deadlines to vote. I mean I 24 can go through each subparagraph, but there was a host 25 of things that collectively the Plaintiffs' interests

1 and the debtor had to coordinate on, like, extending 2 the bar date, dealing with votes that seem to be 3 invalid.

4 And they changed all that to just being the 5 debtor. So we can go through each subparagraph, but I 6 felt like they were trenched. Maybe they have an 7 agreement with the Coalition and the FCR as to what to 8 do because they're now supporters of the plan, but I 9 thought it was actually retrenchment.

10 MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, I think what we've 11 defaulted to instead of parties participating in the 12 process is to make a voting report -- it available in 13 the voting report. And then, I believe there are 14 notice provisions to be heard for parties on that 15 voting report.

16 But you know, this again, I think is 17 something we can talk about with Mr. Stang. I think 18 that neither the TCC nor the Coalition nor the FCR are 19 directly included. So that's currently the state of 20 play.

21 THE COURT: The issue that this raises is 22 another issue I've been thinking about recently in 23 connection with solicitation procedures, which is how 24 much discretion should the plan proponent be given to 25 vary dates, extend deadlines, accept a late ballot,

1 permit withdrawal of a ballot, and what's the role of 2 -- and should the voting and the solicitation agent 3 be, like, a third party neutral, or is there some 4 advocacy, if you will.

5 And this was something that certainly became 6 highlighted, as well, in Imerys is how does a debtor
7 use their discretion? Are they using it selectively 8 or not? Are they using it to favor the outcome they 9 want? And is it okay if a debtor does that, to 10 promote confirmation of a plan?

11 MR. O'NEILL: So Your Honor, that's a great 12 question, and I didn't articulate it well at all 13 before, but I think what I meant to say was what we 14 landed on is for full disclosure of these decisions in 15 the voting report, so that parties are put on notice 16 and can see what was done and it can be discussed 17 about, you know, discussed in an open forum.

18 So instead of going through the TCC and the 19 Coalition and others who obviously get the flavor on 20 this hearing, they're not going to agree on anything.
21 Maybe, hopefully, they will be by then, but at this 22 point, we don't know how a process could work with 23 that dynamic. So instead we've decided to put it in 24 the voting report, and then, people can have at it.

25 And that's part of this back-end process

1 that I think Your Honor favors and is part of 2 transparency in this.

3 THE COURT: I'm not sure if I favor it or 4 not. I think that's where it ends up sometimes. No, 5 front end would be better so that we're not dealing 6 with these issues on the back end. But including it 7 in the report is a minimum, and I've required that 8 since I've been on the bench.

9 There are no undisclosed extensions,
10 decision-making, anything that requires discretion.
11 Nothing should be within the sole discretion of the 12 debtor. Everything has to be subject to reporting and 13 court approval, if necessary. Should others have an 14 opportunity to weigh in? I don't know if it makes it 15 more or less difficult because each party's going to 16 weigh in.

17 Presumably if people are weighing in, it's 18 not neutral, it's not becoming neutral. It's become 19 partisan, if you will. Why should people disagree?
20 If someone wants to file a late ballot, what are the 21 reasons people are disagreeing over that? It's 22 because it doesn't serve their interest.

23 So I'm not ready to cut it out because, 24 again, I haven't had the benefit of thinking this 25 through. I don't know that I want every late-filed-

1 ballot issue coming in front of me. I don't know that 2 that's an effective use of time or it needs to happen.
3 And so it's this balancing act, only becoming an issue 4 in -- well, this in particular, is it neutral or not,
5 is something I've been thinking about for well over a 6 year in different contexts.

7 But I shouldn't be solving a singular issue,
8 you know, with a sledgehammer. It's not to procedures
9 and practices, and I recognize that. So --

10 MR. O'NEILL: And I'll add to that, Your 11 Honor, the sledgehammer, again, it's voting. We don't 12 know what's going to happen or which of these issues
13 will be implicated. That's part of the trick here, 14 and so the sledgehammer, you know, might be the wrong
15 approach, although I --

16 THE COURT: Absolutely.

17 MR. O'NEILL: -- take Your Honor's points 18 about, you know, certainly looking backwards with the 19 benefit of Imerys on parties' interests. So I think 20 our proposed procedures do give that period for people 21 to come in and challenge what was done, and I think 22 that that's an appropriate way to do this, not that 23 Your Honor wants to deal with one-off issues, but 24 that's currently how it's constructed.

25 If there's a better mousetrap to vet that,

1 we can continue to think about that. But we don't 2 think it's a free-for-all with 1,000 professionals 3 each looking at a ballot that came in, you know, for 4 some really good reason it was late, but it should be 5 accepted. It's not a, you know, this is going to 6 make-my-case or kill-my-case issue that people, you 7 know, are thinking about it that way.

8 And again, that's why Omni in the first 9 instance has the decision-making on many of these 10 issues.

11 THE COURT: Just want to make sure Omni has 12 a fulsome report as to what has -- votes they've 13 counted, votes they haven't counted, and why. Any 14 extensions, anything that varies from the approved 15 process needs to be accurately reported.

16 MR. O'NEILL: Understood, Your Honor, and we 17 will make sure that happens. So Your Honor, -- oh, 18 Mr. Stang's hand.

19 THE COURT: Mr. Stang?

20 MR. STANG: Your Honor, I really appreciate 21 what you just said. At the beginning of the case, we 22 had a little tiff with Omni because a certain 23 communication was included with the notice of the 24 commencement of the case that we thought was an 25 inappropriate communication by the debtor to 1 creditors.

2 And Omni informed me that in that 3 circumstance they were an agent of the debtor, and the 4 debtor told them to include the letter from BSA with 5 the notice of commencement of the case, and that's 6 what they did. So they have a capacity where they are 7 working as your claims agent.

8 THE COURT: They do.

9 MR. STANG: I don't know if it's noticing 10 agent, claims agent where they said to me, we're an 11 agent of the debtor, and I pointed out they have 12 responsibilities as an entity doing the clerk's work, 13 if you will. But I appreciate what you just said
14 because Omni needs to really understand that, you 15 know, they are not to be taking instructions from the 16 debtor in making decisions on this. At least that's 17 my read on what you said.

18 THE COURT: Well, that's the question. So 19 it used be before there were claims agents, right, 20 that ballots went to the debtor, you know. There's 21 this whole cottage industry that sprang up, but it
22 used to be ballots went to the debtor, and the debtor 23 reported. And that's why I say when I've been 24 thinking about these issues, you know, is the 25 balloting -- I'm not sure that Omni is a -- is acting

1 in a clerk's capacity when it's doing balloting.

2 Think about it in the nonbankruptcy context,
3 in a proxy statement, right? The company hires
4 somebody to do the balloting. So I'm raising issues.
5 I'd love the benefit of thoughts people have. I'm 6 really serious about that because I think these are 7 all issues that we've taken for granted over the 8 years, but then, occasionally, there is a problem.

9 On the other hand, if it's a singular
10 problem, I don't want to hit it with a sledgehammer.
11 But it used to be, of course, that ballots went to the 12 debtors. They solicited, they reported, they 13 presumably made decisions that we maybe knew or didn't 14 know anything about.

15 Mr. Rosenthal?

16 MR. ROSENTHAL: I'm sorry, Your Honor, I'm 17 very confused because I'm an old-time bankruptcy
18 lawyer. You know, I don't understand why a voting 19 deadline doesn't mean a voting deadline, and ballots
20 that come in by the voting deadline get counted. You 21 can -- we've always been able to change your vote, and 22 the last vote you make counts if it's in before the 23 voting deadline. And then, why is that any different 24 from a bar date?

25 THE COURT: Bar date.

1 MR. ROSENTHAL: Yeah, you can file a claim 2 after the bar date, but you have to show some 3 excusable neglect. You have to show some basis for 4 not getting it in timely. I just think if you go away 5 from it -- look, I'm speaking more generally than 6 specifically on this case, but you asked for views.

7 THE COURT: Um-hum.

8 MR. ROSENTHAL: I think if you go away from 9 having a voting deadline that's a pretty hard 10 deadline, you're just asking for mischief because 11 people, you know, people end up saying, well, she's 12 not going to kick it out anyway, I'll file it, you 13 know, I'll file it five days before the hearing, or 14 I'll see what the general tendency is, and then, I'll 15 file something. I think that's asking for more 16 problems than it solves.

17 THE COURT: I think that's a fair point.

18 MR. O'NEILL: I think it is a fair point, 19 and I think that is what we're proposing to solve for 20 with our voting report and having to account for what 21 that would be. And I agree with Mr. Rosenthal, 22 generally, on late-filed claims.

23 So Your Honor, I think moving along from 24 that topic to the rest of the objections in this 25 section, 62. There are some old objections from the

1 U.S. Trustee's Office that I believe are not -- no 2 longer live.

3 I'll let Mr. Buchbinder speak to that, but 4 we have been exchanging emails with his office on what 5 we understand to be his last couple of comments, and 6 one objection, which they will be pursuing, and it's 7 later in the agenda.

8 So I -- unless Mr. Buchbinder says
9 otherwise, I'll move on.

10 THE COURT: Mr. Buchbinder?

11 MR. BUCHBINDER: Thank you, Mr. O'Neill, for 12 letting me speak for myself. One issue that I have 13 remaining here on number 62 was the Rudy Sweetwater 14 issue, and you can see what the debtor wrote in that 15 column, Your Honor, by revising it to be subject to 16 the entry of the confirmation order. It's a minor 17 point, and if you want to punt it to the confirmation 18 hearing, I'll defer to your discretion.

19 THE COURT: If it's really a confirmation
20 issue, let's push it. I'm looking for it.

21 MR. BUCHBINDER: It's the Rudy Sweetwater
22 issue. We can do it now or we can do it later. I'll 23 leave it to you, Your Honor. And I doubt it will 24 actually be raised here as a practical matter.

25 THE COURT: Well, do you want to remind me

1 what the issue is? I'm sorry.

2 MR. BUCHBINDER: The issue is if no one in a 3 class votes --

4 THE COURT: Ah.

5 MR. BUCHBINDER: -- (inaudible), the class
6 is deemed to consent to the plan.

7 THE COURT: Yeah, isn't there language that 8 qualifies that, that if the plan is confirmed with 9 that in it -- I don't generally approve that in 10 advance. You have to ask for it, and I thought there 11 was -- I thought I read language that said subject to 12 a confirmation order approving this.

13 MR. BUCHBINDER: They revised it to that, 14 Your Honor. If you're fine with that for today and 15 move it to the confirmation hearing, I'm fine, too.

16 THE COURT: I'm fine with that today, and we 17 can move that to the confirmation hearing. Thank you.

18 Mr. Patterson, I saw your hand was up.

19 MR. PATTERSON: Thank you, Your Honor. I'm 20 on the West Coast. I'm three hours behind everybody, 21 but I just wanted to go back to the voting deadline 22 issue, and I'm looking at 6215-1 at page 33. And this 23 is the order, and I guess we're ultimately going to 24 talk about the order and the procedures. But I just 25 wanted to note that 6215-1, page 33, paragraph 8, and

1 --

2 THE COURT: I've got that circled, yeah.

3 MR. PATTERSON: Okay. Then, we're going to 4 get to it, Your Honor. I'll reserve.

5 THE COURT: What's your concern, though?

6 MR. PATTERSON: Well, it seems to me that a 7 change of vote, withdrawal, or modification should 8 really be pursuant to court order. And the voting -- 9 the request for confirmation can include a request for 10 deviations from the vote as tabulated by the voting 11 agent and the debtor can make its case why some should 12 be in, and some should be out, and why they should be 13 modified.

14 But to Mr. Rosenthal's point, I think, you 15 know, presumptively, we're using the voting deadline 16 as the voting deadline. So that's my thought on that 17 one, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Thank you. Those are the words 19 I had circled in that provision, and Rule 3018 tells 20 us how to deal with -- actually, doesn't even say 21 after voting, but in my mind, I've sort of made that 22 line of demarcation, that you can do what you want 23 ahead of time, but afterwards, you shouldn't be able 24 to change it without coming to the Court.

25 MR. PATTERSON: Right, and that's not -- and

1 with respect to changes that take place prior to the 2 voting deadline, I assume that the voting report will 3 also reflect that, but --

4 THE COURT: It should.

5 MR. PATTERSON: -- I agree with Your Honor.
6 It's where the votes lay at the voting deadline that 7 is presumptively the vote tabulation that the agent 8 provides.

9 THE COURT: I think that's correct, and it 10 results in the least mischief, and parties just 11 shouldn't wait till the last minute to vote.

12 MR. O'NEILL: We can make an appropriate
13 change to accommodate that, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Schiavoni?

15 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, I just wanted to 16 deal with this issue about the voting agent. I mean I 17 do think you've got some visibility in sort of some of 18 the things that's happened with -- as this voting 19 agent cottage industry has developed, you know, 20 there's a lot of money behind it. They're picked by 21 the debtors. There's a lot of, you know, world series 22 tickets get exchanged and you know, lot of -- you 23 know, all that kind of stuff goes on.

24 But the main thing is the voting agents
25 have, you know, really feel beholden to the debtors

1 and they, you know, increasingly feel beholden to an 2 outcome. They should be independent in how they're 3 handling things. But whatever one's view is on that, 4 you know, transparency, sunlight is the answer to a 5 lot of things on this.

6 One particular issue here, you know, just to 7 show you where there's a problem is this whole sort of 8 like procedure to elect to use a master ballot, you 9 know, we wrote the debtor and said, gees, you know,
10 we'd like -- you know, and I think we separately may 11 have written Omni, saying, you know, we'd like to see 12 copies of, you know, the elections, particularly with 13 regard to AIS.

14 You know, Your Honor's aware that there's 15 particular concerns about AIS, with conflicting 2019
16 statements about it. We had Mr. Kosnoff making public 17 statements that he controls those, you know, that 18 those votes should not be voted on a master ballot, 19 and we would have liked to have had those documents, 20 so we could have had an informed discussion here 21 about, you know, in a practical, direct way how those 22 decisions are being made.

23 Is someone like -- you know, it's the 24 largest single bloc of Coalition votes. It shows up 25 in all of their representations that have been made in

1 connection with the LDS and the Hartford settlement
2 and the restructuring support agreement that one law 3 firm is going to deliver the entire group of those and 4 represents -- they represent all of them.

5 And you know, we've put before the Court
6 written statements by Mr. Kosnoff, granted in the form 7 of tweets about his views otherwise, but also in the 8 form of his 2019 statement on this, and you know, 9 we -- but we don't have the documents that would have 10 shed light on it, you know, the documents exchanged 11 with the voting agent, you know, with respect to that.

12 So I can't have an informed discussion on 13 that right now. We could take from the Coalition how 14 -- what's the answer on that, how that's come down.
15 Are they are going to vote by master ballot or not?

16 MR. O'NEILL: Yeah, Your Honor, first of 17 all, I just want to clear the record that Mr.
18 Schiavoni did receive those directives, so you know, 19 what you just heard is completely inaccurate and --

20 MR. SCHIAVONI: No, we don't have the 21 responses from the Coalition. We don't have, like, 22 Mr. Kosnoff's submission -- response, we don't have 23 that.

24 MR. O'NEILL: My understanding is that you 25 do, Mr. Schiavoni. So maybe there's some confusion on 1 your end.

2 I think, Your Honor, what Mr. Schiavoni's
3 inadvertently done is led us into the next objection, 4 which is about the solicitation procedures directive.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. O'NEILL: And you know, this was from 7 the TCC, and again, I'm not sure this is a live 8 objection. I know we helped, or we worked with the 9 TCC to craft the directive, and they were involved in 10 that. But maybe Mr. Stang has a different view.

11 THE COURT: Mr. Stang, any --

12 MR. STANG: Your Honor, I apologize.

13 THE COURT: -- (inaudible) this?

14 MR. STANG: Mr. Lucas, in my office, was 15 really involved in this, and I think he's going to 16 have answer whether we still have an issue with this.

17 THE COURT: Mr. Lucas?

18 MR. LUCAS: Yeah, I'm sorry, Mr. O'Neill,
19 could you state that one more time? I apologize.

20 MR. O'NEILL: Oh, sure, Mr. Lucas. How are 21 you? I was just saying that there's -- it could be an 22 old and cold objection from the TCC because I know you 23 all worked on the directive.

24 MR. LUCAS: Yes.

25 MR. O'NEILL: (Inaudible) indication of the

1 survivors' proof of claim or whether the debtor should 2 contact the debtor. I think essentially -- well, hold 3 on, let me just read it carefully. The debtors'
4 procedures involve an attorney solicitation.

5 It appears that you were objecting to the 6 directive, that -- rather than take the word of the 7 attorney on whether they should get the master ballot 8 on account of the claimant, we should go back to the 9 proofs of claim to review and see if they were one of, 10 I think, 95 percent that said they were represented by 11 counsel and wanted communications distributed to 12 counsel and defer to that for master balloting 13 purposes.

14 MR. LUCAS: I believe that we worked that 15 out because I think that the default was that the 16 master ballot, along with the survivors who would be 17 listed on any master ballot, would be sent to the 18 attorney to the extent that the proof of claim 19 reflected that the survivor said that the attorney may 20 be contacted instead of the survivor. So that is 21 correct.

22 MR. O'NEILL: Right, that was sort of the 23 follow up. Got it. Okay. Thanks, Mr. Lucas, for 24 clearing that up. So I think, Your Honor, that that 25 answers that question. I think -- I don't know if Mr.

1 Lucas or Mr. Stang, I still see Mr. Lucas loud and 2 clear here.

3 But the next objection --

4 MR. STANG: Hold it. If this was leading 5 into my objection, Your Honor, could we have an 6 answer, then, to is AIS voting on a master ballot or 7 not? I mean putting aside the representation I've 8 been given the documents, which I can't find, but 9 it's, like, is AIS voting on a master ballot? I mean 10 if you're --

11 THE COURT: Well, I think that conversation
12 should take off offline. I think it's -- I don't see 13 why there should be any lack of transparency over 14 which firms are going to use a master ballot. Those 15 directives are there. If Mr. O'Neill says they've 16 been shared, if you can't find them, share them again, 17 and let's find out.

18 But I don't know that that's something that 19 has to be here in the disclosure statement hearing.

20 MR. LUCAS: Your Honor, this is John Lucas.
21 I'd just like to state for the record that the TCC
22 would like copies of the results from the directives.
23 If they were shared with others, the TCC would like 24 them, too, please.

25 THE COURT: Again, it seems to me there's no

1 reason why they should not be shared. If there's 2 confidential information in them, people can deal with 3 that appropriately as they have with other things, but 4 -- meaning the survivors' confidential information.

5 MR. LUCAS: Well, for what it's worth, Your 6 Honor, you know, obviously, the TCC or the counsel to 7 the TCC, my firm, has full access to all the proofs of 8 claims. We've seen the proofs of claims, and so with 9 respect to a survivor's name and all that sort of 10 stuff, you know, we have been authorized by the Court 11 to see all that information.

12 But obviously, if there's something else,
13 we're willing to discuss it. We're not looking to get 14 an advantage, but we would like to see how the 15 directive process resulted or how it turned out, and 16 to make sure all the steps are being followed.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Again, I'm not sure
18 that's a disclosure statement issue, but you've heard 19 my views that I think -- I don't see a reason why 20 those directives would not be shared in an appropriate 21 way.

22 MR. O'NEILL: That's fine, Your Honor, and 23 the debtors have no problem with that, obviously, 24 subject to the confidentiality issues you described,
25 which may not apply to Mr. Lucas and the TCC. We're

1 obviously happy to share with Mr. Buchbinder at the 2 U.S. Trustee's Office and others. So --

3 MR. SCHIAVONI: But Your Honor, if I may, I 4 mean just most respectfully with regard to this, if 5 we're going to discuss what procedures are proper 6 here, isn't it directly illustrative of how they work 7 to know whether the largest bloc of votes here, which 8 is hotly disputed among their own lawyers in 9 conflicting 2019 statements, are going to be voted, 10 you know, under what's been already submitted as a 11 master ballot or not? Because it'll give great 12 guidance on how this procedure's going to apply 13 otherwise.

14 THE COURT: Why not, for purposes of your 15 argument you're going to make to me, just assume 16 they're going to vote by bloc and let's -- we'll talk 17 about it by master ballot?

18 MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, again, it's clear 19 that Mr. Schiavoni has some issues with the AIS. And, 20 you know, he's got rights down the line to potentially 21 designate those votes, also. So there are options
22 here, and we don't think it's indicative of anything 23 with respect to our general procedures and our form of 24 master ballot or the process to use master ballots.

25 So we can -- I'm sure he will talk about it

1 later in his larger presentation. So I'd like to,
2 then, move along, Your Honor, if that's --

3 THE COURT: That's fine.

4 MR. O'NEILL: Thank you. So Your Honor, the 5 next item on the chart is 64, and that is on page 111.
6 And this is -- is or was or still is from the TCC, and 7 it, I think, dovetails with a lot of what we heard 8 from Mr. Stang over the last couple days about 9 isolating information, about local councils, and 10 figuring out what the claim amounts are for particular 11 local councils.

12 Essentially, the objection wants us to, I 13 think, go out and try to research and find out for the 14 holders of proofs of claim that haven't listed their 15 local council, what that is for purposes of their 16 ballot, which, you know, as a general matter, we're 17 just -- we're not in a position to do that.

18 We had a proof of claim process. It was 19 very fulsome. The TCC participated, and you know, if 20 people didn't list a local council, they didn't list a 21 local council. If that comes up later during the TDP 22 process, it can come up during that process, when 23 their claim is allowed and valued under the TDP.

24 But you know, to require additional work and 25 I'm not even sure what that work would be, short of a

1 new bar date or something along those lines, this is 2 inappropriate. We also don't see any need, Your 3 Honor, to list local councils or do any upfront work 4 to try to segregate claims into different silos based 5 on local council.

6 So the ballot is a ballot for the BSA
7 bankruptcy case, and they are voting on the BSA 8 bankruptcy plan. And so the Debtors are not inclined 9 to do anything with respect to the ballot in terms of 10 adding local councils or charitable organizations, for 11 that matter, which, I think, is another objection that 12 may be placed in a different category, but the same 13 argument applies.

14 THE COURT: Mr. Stang?

15 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor. This is 16 one of the important ones. Certainly -- and Mr.
17 Patterson will have a lot of say about this, and I'm 18 not going to step on his agenda or -- I shouldn't say 19 agenda, his issues. But the Debtor -- the proof of 20 claim form did ask for local councils. I don't think 21 it asked for chartered organizations, but we think 22 that should be included, too.

23 I'm not asking the Boy Scouts to go out and 24 research my claim. If I had put down my local 25 council, then, tell me which one it is. But if

1 they're going to use preprinted ballots for people 2 with barcodes and all that kind of good stuff, they 3 could fill that in for someone.

4 From my perspective -- and we could, when we 5 get the claim form, check my ballot against my claim 6 form to see if I did put down the local council. But 7 it's really important to know the local council for 8 the creditor and the charter for the creditor. Mr.
9 Patterson will explain to you why.

10 But as Mr. O'Neill has pointed out, there
11 have been lots of amendments. I think he said there 12 were thousands and thousands of amendments. We get 13 questions every day. I have more information, do I 14 need to amend my claim now, when do I need to amend my 15 claim now. So we don't know if everyone is sensitive 16 to adding more information than is necessary for the 17 best analysis of how the voting turns out. This is 18 what Mr. Patterson's going to talk about.

19 So it's not a big -- I don't know why it's a 20 big deal to ask a survivor to put down the name of 21 their local council, if they know it, and to put down 22 the name of the chartered organization, if they know
23 it. I am not suggesting that if I don't know the name 24 of my local council that my ballot doesn't count. I'm 25 not saying that. But for people where this has been a

1 -- I think someone sometimes uses the term iterative 2 process, and people are going up to the attic to find 3 the box to see if they have their Boy Scout card that 4 might have the name of the local council on it. I 5 mean, people should be able to update the information 6 on something like this.

7 Now, Mr. Patterson, I think will --

8 THE COURT: Okay. I'm unclear -- I guess
9 I'm unclear. I thought the objection was you wanted 10 the debtor to put information on the ballot. Now, I'm 11 hearing you want the survivor to be able to put 12 information on the ballot it returns. Which is it?

13 MR. STANG: If the debtor -- I think it 14 would be simplest if the debtor knows the local 15 council information and if it is doing some kind of 16 individualized ballot that it should carry that 17 information over from Bates White (phonetic) and put 18 in on my ballot, so that it's clear.

19 I don't have to go take the ballot and go
20 check the proof of claim to see what my local council
21 is. If they know it and they can technologically do 22 it, it would be a nice gesture on their part of 23 include it, so that all of us, as we're looking at the 24 ballots from different perspectives, will have it 25 right then and there.

1 If they don't have the information because 2 it's not on the proof of claim, I'm not asking Mr.
3 O'Neill to go do a search for my local council, but if 4 that is already in their database, put it on. If it's 5 not in their database, leave it blank, and let the 6 survivor fill it in, if the survivor, since the filing 7 of the proof of claim, which was November of last 8 year, has since discovered the name of his local 9 council. That's what I'm asking for.

10 THE COURT: And what's the import of that if 11 they do? Let's say --

12 MR. STANG: I --

13 THE COURT: -- the proof of claim didn't 14 have that information, and now, the survivor has 15 figured it out or remembered, what's the import of 16 that?

17 MR. STANG: I could tell you, but Your 18 Honor, this is something that Mr. Patterson it's near 19 and dear to his heart, and we share his views on this, 20 so could I kick it over to him?

21 THE COURT: Yes. Mr. Patterson?

22 MR. PATTERSON: Thank you, Your Honor, Tom 23 Patterson for Zalkin and (inaudible) firms. The issue 24 that we're talking about right now is kind of the 25 endpoint of a series of issues, not the starting

1 point, so that's why, I think, in part, your 2 discussion with Mr. Stang was somewhat awkward because 3 you're wondering why are we talking about this.

4 So here's our issue. Because of the nature
5 of the BSA liability, we talked about this yesterday
6 with the exemplar claims and so forth, it is not a 7 situation like the standard mass tort case where I, 8 Tom Patterson, have a claim against the debtor, and in 9 the opioid case, all of the manufacturers of opioids, 10 because I took a bunch, and all of the drug stores, 11 because I went to CVS and Rite Aid and Walgreens and 12 so forth. That's not this case.

13 What this case is is a survivor has a claim 14 against a local council, against a chartered 15 organization, and against the BSA. So for purposes of 16 master mortgage, when this Court assesses whether or 17 not the release provisions are approved by the vast 18 majority of the affected creditors, the affected 19 creditors have to be, for those purposes, measured by 20 people who claims against a particular local council 21 or a particular chartered organization.

22 And that's particularly true where they are 23 themselves being treated differently. Local councils 24 are making different contributions, they have 25 different kinds of a liabilities, they have different

1 asset bases.

2 And so a creditor making a decision whether 3 to release the Orange County council is making a 4 different decision from the creditor in Ohio, who's 5 making a decision whether or not to release the 6 applicable Columbus, Ohio, local council that they 7 feel was responsible for the abuse they suffered.

8 And so our view is that this isn't a 9 classification issue, but our view is that when the 10 debtor tabulates the votes, when Omni tabulates the 11 votes, it's important that the report reflect the yea 12 or nay votes for the plan divided by the affected 13 local councils and chartered organizations, if 14 applicable.

15 And the reason for that is even more 16 significant because there are -- we talked about 17 Exhibit F yesterday, Your Honor. Exhibit F was the 18 very long report that had the unique and timely claims 19 and the non-barred unique and timely claims.

20 THE COURT: Yes.

21 MR. PATTERSON: That was at Docket 6213, 22 page 369. And I think the debtor was doing to -- the 23 Court had some modifications to that report. I 24 believe it was going to updated and modified. But if 25 the Court just looks at an example of that. For

1 example, so with regard to the Greater St. Louis area,
2 I'm just picking, I think, the fifth or sixth one 3 down.

4 There are 921 unique and timely filed
5 claims, and 64 non-barred unique and timely filed
6 claims. So when we ask who voted in favor of the plan
7 and who didn't vote in favor of the plan, for master 8 mortgage purposes, there's a lot of information that's 9 important to know.

10 First, who's affected by that local council
11 release? And second, what was the vote among the 64
12 people, if I'm still on the right line, the 64 people 13 who actually have preserved the claim against the 14 local council? Because again, if what we got was 15 52,000 votes in favor of releasing the Greater St.
16 Louis council, it's meaningless. If what we got was 17 850 votes in favor of releasing the Greater St. Louis 18 council, that's meaningless.

19 What's really meaningful and who's really 20 affected by that release, who is making a judgment
21 about I'm going to give up something to get something?
22 It's someone who has preserved a timely claim in the 23 tort system or still has the right to file a valid 24 claim in the tort system.

25 The person who doesn't have a claim against

1 that local council because they weren't in that 2 geographic area or the person who let their claim
3 against that local council lapse and didn't file it
4 and now it's time barred, their decision is should I 5 get something for nothing or should I not get 6 something for nothing. Something for nothing sounds 7 better than not something for nothing. So I'll take 8 something for nothing.

9 And the real master mortgage question is the 10 people who are giving up something for something and 11 that's why the vote tabulation has to reflect this.
12 Now, the issue that you were talking to Mr. Stang 13 about, it's kind of the backend of that issue because, 14 as has been reported, a great number of claimants 15 didn't name their local council when they filled out a 16 proof of claim. And so we have kind of a backend 17 question -- what to do with that.

18 We could, as Mr. O'Neill said, if they 19 didn't list a local council, they didn't list a local 20 council. Their vote would not be tabulated, recorded, 21 or reflected for purposes of figuring this test out.
22 We can do it that way. That's one way to do it.

23 Another way to do it is to say, well, you 24 filled out your proof of claim form, but now -- and 25 you weren't asked to list this information, but we're

1 going to give you another chance to provide that 2 information because we're using it in a different 3 context, and if you want to name it now, you can name 4 it now.

5 But -- and you know, I'm happy to discuss 6 that issue with the Court, but that issue is sort of 7 the backend issue. The front-end issue is really the 8 key to the case, which is are people who are adversely 9 affected by the release of the local council the ones 10 who are voting in favor of releasing local council.

11 And now, we can disagree at confirmation
12 over the importance of this information. The debtor 13 can tabulate, but we can't disagree over the 14 importance of this information at confirmation if we 15 don't have it at confirmation.

16 And so it seems to me that this is an 17 important piece of information that the Court should 18 have, and I assume the debtor would want. If all the 19 classes come in and all the people who have preserved
20 their timely claims against local councils are 100 21 percent in favor of giving up those rights in favor of 22 this plan, then, that's meaningful information for the 23 Court. And if they're not, that's meaningful
24 information.

25 We can argue about whether it's dispositive

1 and all the rest of it, but that's tomorrow. I think 2 the key is today to make sure that we put in place
3 structures that give us that relevant information.

4 THE COURT: Thank you. Let me hear a
5 response from the Debtors.

6 MR. O'NEILL: Yeah, thank you, Your Honor.
7 I think the response is this. Mr. Patterson has laid 8 out one of his confirmation objections. He's spoken 9 passionately about it and what he thinks the 10 information will be that he'll use to support it.

11 The information is already there, Your 12 Honor. We're getting votes on the plan, and then, on 13 the backend, if we need this information, if Your 14 Honor thinks that this is a valid argument and it's 15 something that the Court needs to look into, we will 16 have all the proofs of claim, and at that point, they 17 will all be amended with the latest and greatest 18 information reflecting not just local council but, you 19 know, 1 of the 41,000 chartered organizations.

20 And the Court can choose to use that 21 information how it likes, and the Debtors will be able 22 to slice and dice it how it likes. But to add a new 23 ability to select the local council or chartered org 24 in a ballot is inappropriate, it's expensive, and it's 25 not necessary. We carefully built a bar date program

1 and bar date notice and bar date for folks to file
2 their claims and name their local council or chartered 3 org if applicable.

4 I don't think we now need to add a line item
5 on a ballot that would have them do that further. I 6 think it creates confusion in addition to all the 7 issues I just noted before. If parties want to, you
8 know, amend their ballot, they can do that. Mr.
9 Patterson can advise his clients that haven't filled 10 out that portion of their ballot -- I'm sorry, their 11 proof of claim to do so.

12 And then, at the end of the cases or I 13 should say at the end of solicitation, in conjunction 14 with confirmation, if this is going to be an issue, we 15 can try to create a matrix with 250 local council and 16 41,000 chartered organizations and how people in those 17 -- with -- that marked their proofs of claim -- by the 18 way, which will not be validated, vetted, allowed, or 19 evaluated claims. That will happen under the TDP by 20 the Trust, how those should be evaluated.

21 Your Honor, we don't think this is 22 necessary. I think actually Mr. Patterson got 23 frontend and backend issues mixed up. So we disagree, 24 and we think the ballots are fine as is.

25 THE COURT: Okay. I can hear everyone, but

1 I can't see anyone anymore. We're working on that.

2 Let me ask this question because this goes to sort of 3 what I said before, are we going to have the 4 information -- thank you -- are we going to have the 5 information we need to have, in the event we need it, 6 at confirmation, and are we going to have an ability 7 to -- for people to make the arguments they need to 8 make and have the data they need it to be based on?

9 And is what I'm hearing is that the debtor 10 has a database that it will -- that it can slice and 11 dice and come up with these -- the categorization and 12 the vote by categorization if need be?

13 MR. O'NEILL: Oh, to be clear, Your Honor, 14 we don't think that will be necessary, but we have, 15 though Omni, the database of the proofs of claim and 16 as they'll be amended at the time of confirmation, 17 which have a line for local council and a line for 18 chartered organization. And then, you'll have a 19 voting report that lists by proof of claim who voted 20 yea, who voted nay. So necessarily, we have that 21 information.

22 And the question of whether we need it, 23 whether Your Honor wants to see it is a question for 24 another day, we feel. We dispute the legal premise, 25 but we acknowledge that it's a confirmation issue.

1 But we will, I think, be in a position to have what we 2 need.

3 THE COURT: And for others to have what they 4 need. So that'll be a discovery issue where if people 5 want that information, it will be provided to them.

6 MR. O'NEILL: Correct.

7 THE COURT: Mr. Zalkin?

8 MR. ZALKIN: Thank you, Your Honor. I just 9 want to point out to the Court that -- and I'm sure 10 you understand -- that many, many, many of these 11 survivors cannot remember what their council -- who 12 their council was or --

13 THE COURT: Yes.

14 MR. ZALKIN: -- or who was the chartered
15 organization. And one of the things, when we filled 16 out the proof of claims and those were filed, we were 17 told that we would be able to get rosters from the 18 local councils or from the BSA that would help our 19 clients remember or identify councils and sponsoring 20 organizations.

21 That hasn't happened. We've had a great 22 deal of difficulty with getting that kind of 23 information. So I would ask that the Court please 24 ensure that there be a process where that kind of 25 data, to the extent it exists, to the extent it can be

1 provided, will be provided as we were told it would 2 be, so that we can help our clients to the best of our 3 ability and their ability identify these local 4 councils and these sponsors. Thank you.

5 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Patterson.

6 MR. PATTERSON: Your Honor, the issue of 7 whether or not -- they should have led with -- was 8 this issue of whether people should be given the 9 ability to put the name on the ballot at this point.
10 And I mean it just really seems to me that what we're 11 trying to do is ensure at the confirmation process 12 that we have the highest quality of information that 13 we can with respect to who the folks are and who 14 they're not.

15 And a situation I don't want to get into is 16 a situation where we don't ask for this information 17 now. We have, as we know, 20,000-odd ballots that -- 18 or pardon me -- claims that didn't list a local 19 council. And then, the debtor has a metric for 20 saying, well, here's who they really are. We know who 21 they are because we know what their geographic area 22 is, and we're going to assign them to a local council.

23 So if the debtor doesn't want to ask for 24 that information now, then, it seems to me that's it.
25 We're not going to, then, ask for it later when they

1 need it or come up with a second-best alternative 2 later on when the debtor thinks they need it or want 3 it. This is the time to find out whether we're going 4 to get that information.

5 MR. MASON: Your Honor? Ricky Mason on -- I
6 don't know if you can see me.

7 THE COURT: I can.

8 MR. MASON: Okay. I didn't want to cut my 9 friend, Mr. Patterson, off, and I apologize. I just 10 want to briefly respond. First of all, we do disagree 11 vehemently with Mr. Patterson's statement of the 12 standard for a master mortgage determination of 13 whether the local council releases, assuming the plan 14 is voted in favor of, whether that's satisfied.

15 It sounds to me like he wants to create, 16 frankly, not just 250 subclasses, one for each local 17 council, but potentially thousands of additional 18 subclasses, depending upon the chartered organization
19 releases. And we don't think that's appropriate.
20 That's obviously an issue for confirmation, but I 21 didn't want to let the moment pass by being silent and 22 having folks assume that we agree.

23 I also think that if we have additional 24 lines on the ballot, we're doing two things. We're 25 sort of heading in the opposite direction of what, I

1 think, Your Honor has appropriately tried to do, which 2 is simplify things. I really do worry that the 3 debtors or Omni getting ballots with local council
4 information filled in, what happens if there's a 5 conflict between the information on the ballot and 6 what's in the proof of claim?

7 The proof of claim is really where the 8 action occurs with respect to the identification of 9 the local council. As Your Honor heard, the proofs of 10 claim are being amended as people find additional 11 evidence of which local council is involved in the 12 alleged abuse. That's the process by which a local 13 council should be identified, if it's necessary at the 14 confirmation hearing. And I think we heard Mr.
15 O'Neill say that the debtor has that information
16 available should the Court decide that it's required.

17 With respect to Mr. Zalkin's statement about 18 rosters, we've had numerous iterations of roster 19 requirements on the part of local councils and 20 certifications and providing information to the extent 21 that folks have it into a database.

22 So I'm not sure if Mr. Zalkin has access to 23 that, but local councils with -- working with the TCC 24 and others have undertaken over a year's worth of 25 effort in that regard. And frankly, that roster

1 information, together with the proof of claim 2 information, ought to obviate the need to have the 3 information on the ballot, as well. Thank you, Your 4 Honor.

5 THE COURT: Thank you.

6 MR. LUCAS: Your Honor, may I just jump in 7 here really quick because I want to follow up with 8 something that was just said by Mr. Mason.

9 THE COURT: Yes.

10 MR. LUCAS: Because I think it's important.
11 Under the third and fourth stipulations extending the 12 preliminary injunction, there were processes or 13 procedures put in place to deal with the limited 14 production of rosters. And so while the TCC worked 15 hard with the debtors here to try to arrange a 16 process, we were unable to address, I think, sort of 17 the point that Mr. Zalkin was raising.

18 For example, a survivor just doesn't know, 19 doesn't recall, you know, when he was abused when he 20 was ten years old. You know, it wasn't impressed upon 21 him by his parents to remember his local council. And 22 so in that context, there aren't rosters being 23 searched for for that individual because the process 24 that's set up, it's, you know, survivor, you know, the 25 survivor says, I list local council X, and then, so

1 the proof of claim is sent to local council X, and 2 local council X is looking for the roster that has 3 that survivor's name on it, if it exists.

4 But when the survivor doesn't know, then,
5 there's no search being done, and no search has ever 6 been done for that right there. And so there is a big 7 gap and there's a big hole there, and I think that's 8 what -- and I'm putting words in Mr. Zalkin's mouth, 9 but I think that's one of the big limitations here 10 about trying to locate rosters, which the TCC has been 11 asking for and trying to work to get since the 12 committee's appointment in March of 2020.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I don't remember
14 this issue being brought in front of me. I remember 15 hearing about it here and there. I don't remember it 16 ever being brought in front of me. So I think the 17 question in front of me now is am I going to require 18 the Debtors to put a line on the -- to include a line 19 on the ballot for local -- for survivors to add 20 information to about their claim.

21 And I'm not going to require it. And one of 22 the reasons I'm not going to require it is because I 23 don't want some survivor to think that they have 24 amended their proof of claim by doing that.

25 MALE VOICE: Exactly.

1 THE COURT: Okay? And that they therefore 2 don't have to provide any further information to 3 perhaps the settlement trustee, perhaps somebody else
4 to help validate their claim. I don't want them to be 5 under any misapprehension about what -- and that's why
6 I asked what's the import of putting that information 7 on a ballot, and I think the answer's going to be 8 none.

9 So I don't want there to be any 10 misunderstandings out there. So I'm not going to 11 require it. But what I am hearing, of course, number 12 1, is a dispute over the relevant standard of what I 13 will have to decide at confirmation with respect to 14 third-party releases. But to the extent that this 15 information is relevant to my decision, if the Debtors 16 don't have it, they don't have it. And that would be 17 problematic.

18 So I'm not going to require it. I will also 19 say that once -- and I even hate -- hesitate to say 20 this -- once I approve a disclosure statement, as far 21 as I'm concerned, it could start now. Once 22 discovery's open on confirmation, it's open on any 23 information that is relevant to confirmation. People 24 can seek discovery.

25 Okay. Next issue.

1 MR. O'NEILL: Thank you, Your Honor, and we 2 appreciate that. I think that also when we get there,
3 we can discuss it, but I think that also addressed a 4 couple of later objections that are down in number 65
5 of the same nature or ilk. So thank you for that.

6 I'll ask a question to the Court, if Your 7 Honor would like to take a break for five or ten 8 minutes or keep going. We've been at it for two-and-9 a-half hours.

10 THE COURT: Let's take a ten-minute break.

11 MR. O'NEILL: Okay. Very good, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Good idea.

13 MR. O'NEILL: Okay.

14 THE COURT: And parties can look through and 15 see what additional specific disclosure statement
16 objections remain outstanding. Thank you. What time
17 is it? I've got 3:31. Why don't we just say 3:45
18 we'll be back? Thank you.

19 (Whereupon a recess was taken)

20 THE COURT: This is Judge Silverstein.
21 Going back on the record.

22 MR. O'NEILL: Hello, Judge Silverstein.
23 Thank you. Is everybody back, or should we wait a 24 couple more minutes, I see? I guess we have who we 25 have. Should we get started?

1 THE COURT: Yeah, we can get started.

2 MR. O'NEILL: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.

3 I think the next item is Item 65 on Page 111 of the 4 chart. And excepting the sort of objections at the 5 bottom that we discussed with respect -- or in respect
6 of Number 64, just prior to the break, the idea behind 7 these objections is that instead of temporarily 8 valuing the claims at $1 for voting purposes that the 9 Court should create some sort of proxy value based on 10 the TDPs or otherwise to value the claims for voting 11 purposes in that manner.

12 And of course, the objectors use 1126 as the 13 justification for doing so, arguing that we can't 14 properly determine amount of voting for -- for 15 confirmation purposes.

16 You know, as Your Honor knows, I think, you
17 know, this started in H. Robinson (phonetic) and Johns 18 Manville (phonetic), and it's been a long-used 19 mechanism, where you have, like here, tens of 20 thousands of unliquidated claims that are not going to 21 be evaluated by the estate for allowance but rather by 22 the trust, which is going to be administered by a 23 trustee post-effective date.

24 There are some arguments made about various 25 ways you could do it. I'd submit to Your Honor that

1 they're all premature, given that the TDPs have not 2 even been approved, and many of the same, you know, 3 parties to this objection and on the phone or on the 4 screen plan to object vociferously to those TDPs.

5 So picking and choosing one or another
6 scaling factors or a base amount or some other proxy 7 for value for claims, which again, haven't been fully 8 evaluated and are not complete, as we discussed -- 9 many are amending their claims, as we speak, and will 10 going forward -- is not a good way to do that. And we 11 submit there is no good way to do that. That's why 12 the $1 proxy is commonly used.

13 So Your Honor, I can allow others to give 14 you their point of view, but you know, I just leave 15 you with -- and I know that all the precedent in this 16 area, you know, is -- is not perfect, as we've 17 identified earlier in this -- in this discussion. But 18 in this case, there -- there really is no other way to 19 do it.

20 The one case that's cited by the objectors 21 for this proposition is Quigley, and of course, in 22 Quigley, the evaluated at confirmation because it felt 23 it had to do that because it wasn't abundantly clear 24 from the voting percentages that, you know, in 25 addition to numerosity, which was clear, that the

1 amount would be satisfied. Here, we hope to be in the 2 good position of -- of not having ambiguity on that 3 point, but I would submit that, you know, again, if -- 4 if necessary, this could possibly be done at 5 confirmation with more information at that point. But 6 right now, the $1 proxy is the way to go out with 7 these station procedures.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Patterson?

9 MR. PATTERSON: Right, Your Honor. I still 10 think I'm right, but I haven't got anybody interested 11 in this in this case. And so we concede this point.
12 But I still think I'm right.

13 And to Mr. O'Neill's point that I spoke 14 passionately, I felt a little remonstrated for that.
15 I think it's because I talk a lot with my hands. My 16 sister once said that the way to shut me up was to tie 17 my hands, and so I apologize for that. I try to 18 maintain appropriate decorum. But on this issue, Your 19 Honor, we're down to a dollar a claim it is.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Okay, so it sounds like 21 that issue is not a today issue, in any event.

22 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, you have our 23 written objection to this, and we stand on that --

24 THE COURT: Ah.

25 MR. SCHIAVONI: Sorry. We stand on our

1 written objection. I'm not going to belabor it. I
2 think Judge Gerber's observations are directly on 3 point. There's clearly going to be a vote that is 4 close here, no matter what, and you know, what Gerber
5 observed, Judge Gerber observed, was that, you know, 6 when that's the case, you've got to basically, you 7 know, wait the votes.

8 The acknowledgement -- admission, I'll call 9 it -- that the estate has done nothing to "evaluate 10 the claims" that you just heard, they certainly -- and 11 in the subsequent statement that they haven't "fully 12 evaluated the claims" is the situation we have here.
13 The debtor's done nothing to evaluate the claims. And 14 that's being used as the base to vote when there's 15 clearly evidence that there's a systematic problem 16 with the -- with the proofs of claim.

17 So we stand on our written objections. I do 18 think, in a way, the way the debtor has sort of broken 19 up this sort of way to argue it, you kind of missed 20 the forest in the trees, and I'm going to save my 21 remarks for the next -- next of their bullet points, 22 our bigger picture points.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let me say this,
24 which is that I -- given where we are, I will approve 25 it with the dollar going out. But that is not to say

1 that people are precluded from raising the issues at 2 confirmation about whether that's the appropriate way
3 for me to -- for the votes to be counted.

4 And -- but I'll make another observation, at 5 least, with respect to the insurance companies. My 6 understanding is different than in Imerys. My 7 recollection is that, here, the insurance companies 8 are placed in a separate class. And so their 9 individual vote will not be overrun, if you will, by 10 the votes of the survivors.

11 So certainly for purposes of voting, I'm not 12 sure whether insurers will have the ability to raise 13 that particular issue in -- on that -- raise the 14 dollar issue on voting issues. Maybe for something 15 else, and I'm going to hear from you, Mr. Schiavoni.
16 But I'll -- I'll point that out, and that is different 17 than in Imerys, where they were lumped together so 18 that -- so that personal injury claimant's votes, in 19 fact, are going to -- could outstrip and control the 20 class. That doesn't happen here.

21 MR. SCHIAVONI: Thank you, Your --

22 THE COURT: Mr. Patterson's client's 23 obviously in a different situation. They're in the 24 same class. Mr. O'Neill?

25 MR. O'NEILL: Thank you, Your Honor, and I'm

1 -- I won't respond to much of what Mr. Schiavoni said,
2 but I'll just say there were no admissions there. I 3 was just stating what everybody knows here, which is 4 that the TDP process by the trust is going to be the 5 only full evaluation of these claims during these 6 cases.

7 So Your Honor, moving on to 66, I don't know
8 that we have an issue with the TCC at all on this 9 cover letter, but I'm -- as I sit here, and I could 10 have missed it, given what's been going on this 11 afternoon, but I -- I don't know that we have a letter 12 from them.

13 But I think that we are not opposed to it 14 pursuant to the -- the discussions over the last two 15 days, but we -- we obviously need a draft of something 16 before it can be agreed to.

17 So that leaves Mr. Buchbinder's objection,
18 Your Honor. You know, I guess -- I guess I'll start 19 by saying, you know, there's -- I'll state the 20 obvious. There's a lot of claimants in this case, and 21 even with the -- the procedure with the master ballot, 22 which -- which saves us from sending, you know, a full 23 package to tens of thousands of people, Mr.
24 Buchbinder's office is still saying that we should 25 send a full package of paper, over 1,000 pages, to the 1 voting parties in these cases.

2 To us, this is not just a case of, you know, 3 administrative or expense savings for the estate, but 4 it's also just wasteful. Sending over 1,000 pages to 5 people in this day and age is not appropriate. It's 6 not the trend in the case. Mr. Buchbinder backs that 7 up, I think, with a -- with a request for not a CDROM 8 but a -- a thumb drive, which is what some courts have 9 done.

10 We think the link is perfectly sufficient,
11 Your Honor. It's how most of us access documents
12 these days, well, at least, you know, us people 13 sitting in conference rooms on a, you know, hours-long 14 court hearings. But I think the vast majority of the 15 population is in that same boat.

16 I don't want to belabor this point too much,
17 Your Honor. I think maybe you have a perspective. So 18 I'll just defer to Mr. Buchbinder if he wants to argue 19 this.

20 THE COURT: Mr. Buchbinder.

21 MR. BUCHBINDER: Thank you, Your Honor.

22 David Buchbinder on behalf of the U.S. Trustee.

23 Frankly, Mr. O'Neill, in his tone and his attitude, 24 expresses his entire lack of understanding for the 25 82,500 abuse claimants in this case. I'll start with

1 that.

2 Bankruptcy Rule of Procedure 3017(d) is 3 quite explicit. And it reads in part, except to the 4 extent that the Court orders otherwise with respect to 5 one or more unimpaired classes of creditors or equity 6 security holders, the debtor in possession shall. And 7 then it goes on to say mail the solicitation package
8 to all of the impaired creditors. There's no
9 exception here for cost savings. There's no exception 10 here for the fact that they're going to get master 11 ballots from attorneys.

12 And let's go back to that issue and the 13 certification for a moment. It would appear that in 14 the certification, the debtor is attempting to pass 15 off its duty to serve hard copies of the solicitation 16 package to the abuse claimants through the attorneys 17 who are going to recommend to them to vote for the 18 plan. I don't have a problem with that, but the 19 problem I have with that, as was pointed out by many 20 of the other parties in the earlier discussion this 21 afternoon, was despite the certification and despite 22 the comments about additions to the certification to 23 act as a deterrent, there isn't going to be any real 24 practical way to police that these personal injury 25 attorneys have actually sent the solicitation package

1 in some form to their clients. That's the debtor's 2 responsibility.

3 And it's one thing to propose a master
4 ballot where the attorney who represents multiple 5 clients will report the votes of his or her clients.
6 But it's another thing to say that that means that 7 those clients received the materials they needed to 8 analyze to determine how to tell their attorney how to 9 vote.

10 Bankruptcy Rule 3017(d) authorizes
11 summaries, but it doesn't authorize them in lieu of a 12 solicitation package.

13 Additionally here, many of the abuse
14 claimants, based upon the hundreds of letters that 15 have been sent to the Court, are incarcerated
16 prisoners. Outside of those letters, other prisoners 17 have from time to time filed pleadings, indicating to 18 the Court how difficult it is for them to receive 19 materials or to send them back. The incarcerated 20 prisoners among other issues have limited or no access 21 to computers, or when they do, they only have limited 22 time periods where they can access the screen. Those 23 folks have to have hard copies of the materials.

24 Additionally, many of the abuse claimants
25 are elderly. Many of them are computer-illiterate.

1 They still read pieces of paper. The debtor here has 2 told us that it's going to cost millions of dollars to 3 send these packages to people. Frankly, that's 4 poppycock. They try to compare this case to Takata
5 and to PG&E. I was involved in both of those cases, 6 and each of those cases had millions of creditors, not 7 82,500 plus the trade creditors and insurance
8 companies. There are many ways in which the debtor 9 could print the solicitation package to economize its 10 expenses. It could be printed on newsprint. The 11 pages could be printed two up, back to back, and it 12 would be -- look like a prospectus in its material, 13 but that would be the least expensive way to produce 14 it and to mail it, and everyone would have their hard 15 copy. They would get their summaries. They'll get 16 their letters from whoever's going to tell them to 17 vote for or against the plan, but they'll have all the 18 information that the code and the rules entitle them
19 to. And we can't pass this off to the third-party 20 attorneys for all the various reasons stated by other 21 counsel.

22 Finally, Your Honor, if the debtor thinks it 23 can't afford to comply with the requirements of the 24 Bankruptcy Rules of Procedure in this regard, then 25 maybe it ought to be rethinking the chapter it is in.

1 Thank you.

2 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Stang.

3 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor. I just 4 wanted to point out that if we do put in a letter, 5 that letter per the procedures goes to the attorneys,
6 who will then communicate only the disclosure 7 statement to their clients, not the entire 8 solicitation package. So this may be what we do at 9 the end, when we go through the order, but since we 10 were talking about the letter, the way they've done 11 it, the letter doesn't have to go to the -- to the 12 clients. Only the disclosure statement goes to the 13 clients if it's done through the attorneys.

14 The attorneys get it, but they only have to 15 send out the disclosure statement, which of course has 16 the plan, you know, attached.

17 THE COURT: Okay, thank you. Response, Mr.
18 O'Neill?

19 MR. O'NEILL: Yeah. No, thank you, Mr.
20 Stang. We can make that clarification. That 21 certainly wasn't the intent to -- to prevent the 22 letter from going along with the disclosure statement.

23 To Mr. Buchbinder, what we're hearing from 24 Omni is that this would cost the estate over $3
25 million to send paper. I think maybe we could, you

1 know, quibble about that number based on different
2 methods of printing. But I think what's more
3 important here is that everybody in this case, all 4 claimants are getting the notice of confirmation
5 hearing. And on that notice, printed writ large, is a 6 phone number, and they can call Omni, and they can 7 request a paper copy to be delivered to them free of 8 charge.

9 Nobody is relying on the attorneys, although 10 they have that obligation if they're going to certify 11 to the vote, to show their clients the disclosure 12 statement in order to -- to Mr. Stang's point, the 13 entire solicitation package.

14 We are giving people the option to self-15 help, if they want a paper copy. But for the vast 16 majority of people -- and we think it is the vast 17 majority that aren't going to do that -- we think the 18 current mode of solicitation is sufficient, Your 19 Honor.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Buchbinder, let me
21 ask you a question, and as parties will know, I fit -- 22 apparently, I fit into the old category because I'm a 23 paper person.

24 The -- I see the rule. I'm looking at it.
25 But I know that in the past, I have been asked to

1 approve -- and I'm sure I have approved -- used to be 2 CDRoms. Then it used to be a flash drive. I don't 3 know what else you can put it on these days, you know,
4 pair of glasses you could send somebody. I don't 5 know.

6 But I've been asked to do different things,
7 right? And as long as there's an option for someone 8 to request paper and it is free to them, and maybe we 9 could even make certain that it gets sent out by 10 overnight so there's not a loss of time to review the 11 papers, are we meeting the spirit of the rule, which 12 was obviously drafted at some prior point in time?

13 And I've also, I should say, then had 14 situations where the ballot, probably the letter from 15 the committee, I forget, the notice, certain other 16 things, certain portions were sent by paper, and then 17 the rest was either on some electronic format or you 18 could request paper.

19 Are we not meeting the spirit of the rule?
20 And I'm with you in terms of paper for anybody who 21 wants it. And I want to make sure they get it timely 22 and in enough time to review it. But I recognize I'm 23 a dinosaur. So if there are people who, in fact, 24 would review it online or would review it in some 25 other fashion, are we not meeting the spirit of the 1 rule?

2 MR. BUCHBINDER: Thank you, Your Honor. I'm 3 also a dinosaur, and in most cases, I wouldn't 4 disagree with a word that you've said. But we need to 5 look at the nature of the abuse claimants in this 6 case. Many thousands of them are elderly, very 7 elderly, in their 60s, 70s, and 80s. Many of them, as 8 we've noted, are incarcerated. Many of the elderly 9 ones, I would venture to guess, may live in assisted 10 living or other types of facilities where they don't 11 have access to computers, where they -- or where they 12 can easily request the paper copies.

13 And, as Mr. Humphrey pointed out to us 14 yesterday, there are 82,500 individuals who are going 15 to be mistrusting this entire process if they don't 16 get the papers. This is a different mix of creditors
17 here. This is a unique class of claims, and they need 18 to be served with hard copies for all of these 19 reasons.

20 There has been no declaration filed as to 21 the cost, but you know what, the cost to these 22 individuals over the decades that they have suffered 23 is immeasurable. And so the debtor can afford to pay 24 the bill for them. Thank you.

25 THE COURT: Okay. I'm convinced. Mr.

1 Buchbinder is correct. I think the unique mix of 2 creditors here, which does, at least has been 3 represented to me, skewed towards older and would make 4 sense, given that the debtor has consistently said
5 that its more current measures to prevent abuse means 6 that there are less victims who are younger. I'm 7 going to require paper. It is an expense, but quite 8 frankly, 3 million in this case -- it sounds horrible 9 -- it's a small number in this case. Mr. Ryan?

10 MR. RYAN: Your Honor --

11 THE COURT: You need to unmute.

12 MR. RYAN: Yeah, can you hear me now, Your 13 Honor?

14 THE COURT: Yes.

15 MR. RYAN: I wasn't sure when to raise this, 16 but now that we're on the topic of putting things in 17 the mail is just the issue of -- of those who aren't 18 creditors -- you know, the charter organizations who 19 aren't creditors whose rights are getting affected, 20 and I wasn't sure when Your Honor wanted to address 21 that part of -- of solicitation or notice.

22 THE COURT: We're going to have to deal with 23 that, and, Mr. O'Neill, when did you plan to deal with 24 that?

25 MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, we had

1 communications with Mr. Ryan. I'm not sure exactly 2 what he's referring to, but I think what we assumed 3 was that in the communication that we were putting 4 together with -- with the assistance of Mr. Ryan, that 5 that would contain all the -- the necessary 6 disclosures and other things that he was looking for.
7 We plan to have that, you know, prepared and then 8 approved as part of the order, as part of the 9 solicitation materials so that we could have it sent 10 out to the relevant parties as part of this process.

11 MR. RYAN: And that's the issue, Your Honor.
12 It's to whom are they going to send because it's -- 13 the procedures right now were drafted, you know, with 14 a different -- a different -- a different world. And 15 so there's a call to send out solicitation packages to 16 indirect abuse creditors, which there are 16,600. But 17 there are 40,000 chartered organizations who are going 18 to, whether they're creditors or not, their rights are 19 going to be affected by this plan or -- or purported 20 to be affected by this plan by -- by moving them into 21 certain categories and -- and affecting their rights
22 as additional insureds, and giving them releases. So 23 I think they need to know.

24 THE COURT: There's going to have to be some 25 notice to them directly. Anyone whose rights are

1 going to be affected by that.

2 MR. O'NEILL: We agree, Your Honor, and all 3 41,000 chartered orgs will be getting the 4 communication that we are working on with Mr. Ryan, 5 which -- which will be comprehensive. We devoted 6 quite a bit of time to this over the last couple days, 7 discussing what will be in it, and we plan to work in 8 good faith to make it plain English and to make it 9 useful, and all 41,000 will get it.

10 MR. RYAN: That sounds perfect, Your Honor.
11 I just wasn't sure when to raise and just make sure 12 that we had the -- the mailing part of the mechanics
13 done.

14 THE COURT: Thank you. Well, if your crew
15 skews younger and you want to suggest a different 16 method, I will consider that for you. Mr. Lucas.

17 MR. RYAN: I was going to say, Your Honor, 18 it may be -- it may be that -- that for -- for -- for 19 -- I don't know how -- how young church elders skew.
20 I won't pretend to know that for -- for -- for all 21 these churches. But it may be that a hybrid of 22 sending out a paper notice and a link so we're not 23 adding another million eight to -- to the expense cost
24 is -- is something that I think is probably a good -- 25 maybe a very good solution for -- for -- for the

1 chartered organizations and not ring up, you know, a 2 forest of dead trees that the Boy Scouts could 3 otherwise preserve.

4 THE COURT: Mr. Lucas.

5 MR. LUCAS: Thank you, Your Honor. I wanted
6 to follow up on something that Mr. Buchbinder was 7 saying, and it goes into the Court's ruling just now, 8 and I think it's important to understand.

9 As we've said before, my firm receives calls 10 and inquiries -- calls, emails, and inquiries from 11 just a great number of prisoners, people who are 12 incarcerated who are survivors. There are 13 approximately at least 2,000 survivors that have filed 14 proofs of claim that are incarcerated. And so when 15 this paper is going to be sent to them, the 16 solicitation package, in addition to putting the exact
17 address and the prisoner number, which you know, I 18 obviously -- debtors can only supply to the extent 19 it's on the proof of claim.

20 In addition to that, it's important to say
21 that there are legal materials inside on the cover.
22 When my firm communicates and asks questions, we put 23 that so that it gets to the survivor. Otherwise, 24 sometimes it's -- it's stopped, it takes -- there's 25 delay, and it doesn't go directly to him or her, and

1 it takes a while. And so that's -- again, that's 2 maybe something that we could talk with the BSA's 3 counsel about just to ensure, as has happened with the 4 number of communications that we have had.

5 And then I had a follow-up question about 6 the paper ruling, Your Honor. The solicitation -- you 7 know, under the master ballot process, it's -- it's 8 the Plaintiff lawyers or -- or their state court 9 counsel, if you will, that are going to be sending the 10 solicitation packages. Does that mean that the 11 Plaintiff's lawyers are sending the solicitation 12 packages in paper to their respective clients?

13 THE COURT: Well, I would think it -- on a 14 normal master ballot, CD kind of thing, bond issuance 15 kind of thing, I think the ballots are -- the paper is 16 given to the -- to the agent, who then follows it on.
17 But the packages are delivered. I don't know. Y'all 18 can work on that and how you want it done, but that's 19 how I think it's normally supplied. I think the 20 debtor's supposed to do it.

21 It may be that it's duplicative and we 22 should not task the Plaintiff's lawyers with doing it.
23 We should think about that. If the -- I certainly 24 don't think that they should be getting two packages, 25 one from the debtor and one from the -- their

1 attorneys. That's a waste, and that's confusing, and 2 they shouldn't get two packages. So if you want to 3 talk further about which you think is better or how 4 that should work, that's fine.

5 In terms of the prisoners, please work with 6 debtor's counsel and then with Omni. I have seen some 7 of those letters. I have seen the -- the issue about 8 sufficiently noting legal documentation. Some prisons
9 may -- may do it differently. So notwithstanding 10 everyone's best effort, it still may not get there. I 11 understand that notice issue. It's a problem. But 12 let's do the best we can to get the information to 13 that -- to everyone, and we have to hope the Bureau of 14 Prisons on the federal level and whatever state 15 equivalents there are is going to get the information 16 to these -- to these parties. We can -- have to do 17 the best we can. Mr. Smola.

18 MR. SMOLA: Your Honor, I just -- to follow 19 up on Mr. Lucas' point, there are many, many men in 20 this case who have not told their families about their 21 abuse. And if they receive a solicitation package to 22 their home that is focused on abuse, that is going to 23 harm them further. We specifically have in our firm a 24 way in which we keep track of which men find mail to 25 their home acceptable and which do not. And I will 1 tell you the vast majority do not.

2 THE COURT: Do not.

3 MR. SMOLA: So -- so the -- the problem I
4 foresee is hundreds, if not thousands, of phone calls 5 about why an individual -- an individual's spouse who 6 they haven't told about their abuse just received a 7 solicitation package about their sexual abuse. Thank 8 you.

9 THE COURT: So Mr. Buchbinder, does this -- 10 does -- I find that somewhat compelling.

11 MR. BUCHBINDER: I'm giving it serious
12 thought. I did have a couple of suggestions before 13 Mr. Smola's comment. One would be to take the 14 attorney certification -- take the service of the 15 solicitation package out of the certification -- out 16 of the attorney certification, and the second would be 17 to put on -- a legend on the envelop legal documents.

18 But Mr. Smola seems have a -- have made a 19 good point. And this is a very difficult issue 20 because he's -- this is one where, you know, I'm 21 thinking back to Fiddler on the Roof, and the scene in 22 Fiddler on the Roof where all of the men are talking,
23 and Reb Tevye looks at the first one. He says, you 24 know, you're right. And the second guy says 25 something, and then Reb Tevye says, you know, you're 1 right, too.

2 Everyone's right here. The rules are the 3 rules, and Mr. Smola is not wrong. And we need to 4 find a -- we need to find a viable compromise that 5 works for everyone because we do have, as I indicated, 6 the many thousands of elderly people, some of whom may 7 or may not be in Mr. Smola's category, who still would 8 want to get paper copies. So we have a difficult 9 quandary here, and I do understand Mr. Smola's well-10 made statement.

11 MR. SMOLA: So I -- I would just point out
12 to the Court that we have about 4,000 clients, about 13 800 to 900 fall into the category of not capable of 14 using email. And -- and we have clearly are -- 15 defined those clients in our firm, and they'll receive 16 a paper copy from us if they want one. So but even 17 within that group, some don't want mail. They only 18 want to communicate via phone, so it's -- it's a very 19 complicated issue.

20 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Patterson?

21 MR. PATTERSON: Your Honor, I wasn't going 22 to address myself to this issue, so I'll let this 23 issue go. I'd like to be heard subsequently.

24 THE COURT: Okay. I -- I'd like the parties 25 to talk and present me hopefully with some kind of 1 agreed way to do this. I -- I am sensitive to the -- 2 to the fact that many of the survivors are older, and 3 therefore, maybe not be as technologically savvy. But 4 I think Mr. Smola's point is excellent, well taken, 5 and we don't want to create more angst for the 6 survivors by sending something to their home which 7 they do not want sent to their home, invading their 8 privacy further. And -- but we have to make certain 9 that they get appropriate notice.

10 So I'd like the parties who understand these 11 issues to talk. I'm not trying to avoid making a 12 call. I'm just trying to make sure I'm sufficiently 13 informed in giving the parties who really understand 14 the concerns -- the issue. I am willing to break from 15 the rule in this circumstance, and make sure -- but I 16 want to make sure that the survivors get what they 17 need to make the decisions. I see Mr. Beckett, who 18 has his hand up.

19 MR. BECKETT: Yes, Your Honor. Richard
20 Beckett on top of -- or representing about 165
21 Claimants. In addition to the matters that Mr. Smola 22 brought forth, we also have a couple of Claimants who 23 are homeless, and we're able to get in contact with 24 them because we have means of getting a hold of them.
25 But if they go out in the mail, I don't think they'll

1 ever receive the materials.

2 THE COURT: So another complication. Well, 3 it certainly looks like the lawyers need to be 4 involved in this process, and I think that's what has 5 to happen. And to the extent that we need some 6 separate type -- and maybe it's a separate type of 7 certification of how they reach their clients, then 8 maybe that's what we do. And they can indicate 9 whether they were able to do it by mail or email or 10 phone or whatever. But we'll know that they have 11 reached their clients, and I would like some subset of 12 you, including Mr. Smola and Mr. Beckett if you're 13 interested, speaking with Mr. Buchbinder and the 14 debtors' counsel, and let's come up with the best we 15 can do under the circumstances, mindful of the rule 16 but mindful of the privacy concerns and mindful of the 17 need to reach these men.

18 MR. BECKETT: Thank you, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Thank you. Oh, Mr. Lucas?

20 MR. LUCAS: Just, Your Honor, a thought. We 21 will work with debtors' counsel and the others that 22 you referenced earlier, but I -- as I'm looking 23 through some things here, I just wanted to let the 24 Court know, I think that there are ways in using the 25 proof of claim to substantially narrow the issues and

1 to ensure that the communication or the disclosure of 2 the notice or how -- whatever it's going to be -- gets 3 to the survivor and the survivor, his or herself, as 4 opposed to somebody in his or her family that might 5 not know about the abuse. And so I -- I do think that 6 there are ways -- you know, we might not be able to 7 deal with every single person, but I do think that 8 there are ways to substantially narrow this problem.

9 THE COURT: Okay, thank you.

10 MR. O'NEILL: And -- and, Your Honor, we 11 pledge to work with Mr. Lucas and Mr. Beckett and Mr.
12 Smola and also Mr. Buchbinder to figure this out. I 13 think it's -- it's complicated. There are people who 14 have opted out for confidentiality purposes, law 15 communications. So there's a whole bunch of 16 categories of people that would -- not similarly 17 impacted by this. So we appreciate Your Honor's, you 18 know, thoughts on this, and we'll -- we'll work to put 19 together a sensible protocol based on what we've 20 heard.

21 THE COURT: Thank you.

22 MR. O'NEILL: Okay. Your Honor, I think 23 with that we're -- we're to Number 67 on the chart on 24 Page 113, which is the sort of string of Century 25 objections, which -- which Mr. Schiavoni has referred

1 to. I -- I believe that he has the intent to put on 2 witnesses, so I think with that, I'll let him proceed 3 to that, and we'll -- we'll deal accordingly on the 4 debtors' side and any other parties that want to cross 5 or otherwise deal with these witnesses.

6 THE COURT: Mr. Schiavoni?

7 MR. PATTERSON: Your Honor, may I -- I
8 apologize for interrupting, but just before we get to 9 that, could I finish off our prior discussion with a 10 couple --

11 THE COURT: Oh, I'm sorry. Yes.

12 MR. PATTERSON: No, no, it's -- thank you,
13 Your Honor. When we talked about the master mortgage 14 and what would need to be shown, I may have said but 15 may have neglected to say that it may also be relevant 16 with regard to chartered organizations, particularly 17 those that have become contributing chartered 18 organizations, now that those amounts are going to be 19 earmarked, to know who of the claimants who are -- who 20 have viable commission against that entity and then 21 what percentages are those claimants in particular 22 voting to give a chartered organization a release. So 23 I may have said that, but if I didn't, I wanted to 24 ensure it.

25 Second, Your Honor, the plan, as Your Honor

1 has indicated, has a provision allowing claimants to 2 elect for the $3,000 or so distribution, similar to 3 the general and secured creditors, although for them I 4 think it's $50,000. Our view is that people who make 5 this election are fundamentally in a different 6 position from those whose claims are going to go
7 through the TDP and be subject to the settlement trust 8 and so forth.

9 And so our view is that that group should be 10 separately classified. I would urge the debtor to do 11 that because I think it's an obvious case. It's an 12 administrative convenience class. The code provides 13 for it. Encourage the debtor to do it, but if the 14 debtor doesn't do it, we'll file an appropriate motion 15 to be heard at confirmation to designate the people 16 who make the election as a separate class so that 17 those people's votes, again, are not counted towards 18 the various other provisions that the rest of the 19 creditors are going to be tied up with.

20 THE COURT: Thank you. And I'm not 21 surprised to hear that, having read the papers. But 22 as I said, we'll know who that is, and that's sort of 23 the objective is to -- to make sure the people have 24 the information they need to make the arguments that 25 they will -- will make.

1 MR. PATTERSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Mr. Moxley, I see your hand.

3 MR. MOXLEY: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

4 I'm Cameron Moxley of Brown Rudnick on behalf of the 5 Coalition. Your Honor, given Mr. O'Neill's comment
6 that he would be turning the podium over to Mr.
7 Schiavoni, who, I understand, intends to call 8 witnesses, we do just want to note for the Court that 9 we have some very limited objections to the witness -- 10 to the witnesses that may be called. I don't want to 11 interrupt Mr. Schiavoni's presentation if he is 12 calling witnesses at the top but to be heard, if I 13 could, Your Honor. Or if he plans on presenting some 14 things, you know, before witnesses are called, I will 15 be heard before the witnesses are called. Thank you,
16 Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'm going to let 18 Mr. Schiavoni make his presentation, and we'll see 19 where you fit in, Mr. Moxley.

20 MR. MOXLEY: Thank you, Judge.

21 MR. SCHIAVONI: So, thank you, Your Honor.
22 Tancred Schiavoni for Century Indemnity. Your Honor, 23 I do think there is -- although the -- the Circuit has 24 not directly address the -- the use of master ballots, 25 they have -- they have, in fact, touched on it in a

1 very important way that I think gives guidance in the 2 Combustion Engineering decision. In that decision, 3 the Court reversed -- even though there was a majority 4 vote in favor of the plan -- the Court reversed and 5 remanded for several reasons, but including an 6 1129(a)(3) reason for good faith based upon how the 7 balloting went forward in that case.

8 And if you remember from the facts of the 9 case, there was an effort there by the debtor to put 10 together a -- a bloc group of claimants in advance of 11 the bankruptcy and then bring them into the bankruptcy 12 to bring about a yes vote. And the group they put 13 together, so the Circuit says, were claimants that 14 were either unimpaired or had only "slightly impaired"
15 claims. They refer to them as "stub claims."

16 And that ended up being the voting majority 17 in the case. They happen to control in that case the 18 -- the official committee, and there was an ad hoc 19 committee in the position effectively of -- of where 20 the official committee is here, made up of Mr. Cassin 21 (phonetic) and some other groups of claimants who 22 represented mesothelioma claimants. And they appealed 23 the plan, and they appealed it on, you know, among 24 other reasons on how the balloting was done.

25 And the Third Circuit, in looking at the 1 balloting in that case, observed that the 2 consequence -- the consequence, you know, of the 3 "debtor" balloting in the manner that they did was 4 that it -- that a group of Claimants that 5 "represented" a voting majority, despite holding in 6 many cases only a slightly impaired stub claims, were 7 the ones that carried the vote at the end of the day.

8 That's on 244 of the decision, which is 391 F.3. The 9 Court found that, accordingly, the monitoring function 10 of 1129(a) I think (10), which requires that at least 11 one class of impaired Claimants must accept the plan 12 "may have been weakened." And -- and then it went on 13 to say enabling a manipulation of the voting process, 14 and that's on Page 243.

15 And then the Circuit went on to talk about 16 "the chief concern with such conduct is that it
17 potentially allows a debtor to manipulate the Chapter 18 11 confirmation process by -- by engineering literal 19 compliance with the code while avoiding opposition to 20 the -- to a reorganization by truly impaired 21 claimants."

22 Here -- and then -- and then the Court, as 23 part of -- as part of the remand specifically directed 24 as part of the remand that discovery be directed at 25 that issue or -- or the Court be able to develop a

1 full record with respect to it.

2 It is very hard, Judge, to look at this 3 record that you have before you and not see that 4 guidance called directly into play. The Court has 5 before it in evidence, based on prior proceedings, the 6 email from the head of the coalition at the time the 7 coalition was formed that was submitted to the U.S.
8 Trustee by the official committee.

9 That -- that email is blunt, it's direct,
10 it's to the point about why the coalition was formed.
11 It's -- it's disparaging in its nature to the 12 claimants themselves and to the members of the 13 committee, and it talks specifically about how the 14 purpose of the coalition was to form a voting bloc -- 15 a voting bloc in favor of -- of -- of basically 16 gaining control of the case. I think that's the exact 17 words that Mr. Kosnoff used, gaining control of the 18 case. And that's what they did. They gained control 19 of the case.

20 And we now have -- that -- that's the fact 21 pattern that we sort of start with here, the voting, 22 the solicitation procedures, and the plan that's 23 resulted from this, from the -- from the claims that 24 they generated -- and if you remember in that proof of 25 -- in that -- in that email, he goes on to say how

1 they're going to focus, you know, on generating these 2 claims.

3 And then Mr. -- Mr. Kosnoff has since 4 submitted a sworn 2019 statement acknowledging that 5 the point of what he was doing was trying to generate 6 invalid claims from statute of limitations states. He 7 doesn't call them invalid, but he says he was directly 8 trying to solicit claims from -- from states where the 9 statute of limitations had run.

10 So that's -- that's the sort of base that we 11 start with here. Then what -- the result that comes 12 from it, the plan and the solicitation procedures, are 13 exactly what you would -- that flow -- and it's very 14 similar to what the Circuit saw. The Circuit saw in 15 the Combustion Engineering case a use of master 16 ballots by this ad hoc group to deliver the bloc that 17 they promised pre-petition and that they promised to 18 get the -- get the plan done, and they got a plan that 19 they wanted and a plan that favored disproportionately 20 paying those kinds of claimants.

21 Here, we have a plan and solicitation
22 procedures that calls for claimants to get paid, 23 curiously a number that's a -- you know, somewhat -- 24 you know, two to three times above what the 25 advertisements were for the cost of buying one of 1 these claims early on, 30 -- this $3,500 number, to 2 vote and be completely, you know, un -- unreviewed.

3 There's no scrutiny on the $3,500 claims.

4 So you have that class going into the vote.
5 You also have going into it the -- a plan designed by 6 these folks that is specifically directed at the kinds 7 of claims that they -- they put together. It has very 8 low scrutiny, and there'll be evidence, if Mr. Green 9 stays in, that there's a -- the trustee put in has a 10 close connection, we believe it will show to the group 11 that was put in to basically approve their claims.

12 The other thing it's going to have is it's 13 going to have imbedded in the plan, just like it was 14 imbedded in the RSA, requirements that the fees
15 incurred by the Coalition -- even if that's really 16 what it is -- but at least $10 million as a lump sum 17 is going to be paid in fees, and then a mill -- almost 18 $950,000 a month on a going forward basis. By the 19 way, it's going forward post-confirmation for at least 20 some period of time, I believe, how that is phrased.

21 You heard that I misrepresented somehow that 22 there -- how folks opted out. I didn't. Go back.
23 It's in the record. It's in the record of the 2019 24 submission by the coalition where they were 25 specifically proffering what the evidence was that

1 Brown Rudnick, in fact, represented these groups.

2 And what they had to do as part of that, is 3 they had to go out -- the firms that were part of the 4 "coalition" purportedly represented somewhere in the 5 neighborhood of 50-or-60,000 Claimants as a result of 6 the advertising campaign. They had to go out to those 7 folks, and they had to get affirmative consent to the 8 Brown Rudnick engagement. And they -- they -- they 9 post they have a sort of consent letter that they 10 have, and they told you as part of the 2019 submission 11 that they had obtained a certain amount of consents 12 and that they were still getting others and that they 13 were going to make a secondary submission on it. And 14 they did. They did just that.

15 And what they did was, they went out to 16 those folks, that 50-to-60,000, and they said, will 17 you agree to this? Will you agree to be a part of the 18 "coalition" and in essence fund the Brown Rudnick
19 fees? The coalition, as it's now represented, doesn't 20 have 50,000/60,000 members in it. It has a much 21 smaller number, and that's represented by the most 22 recent 2019 statements that they filed. It's a number 23 -- I don't have it on the tip of my tongue, but 24 it's -- it's somewhere below 20,000. I think it's 25 17,000 or some -- somewhere in that neighborhood.

1 That means that the other 40-to-50,000 Claimants that 2 that group represented turned down the request to -- 3 to, you know, be members of the coalition and agree to 4 pay these fees.

5 What the plan does in putting those fees
6 into it is that it -- it overrides -- it's, like, 7 these -- these lawyers all represented people who were 8 asked, do you want to pay? Do you not want to pay?
9 And they're told in the letter that if you say no, it 10 won't be part of what you're going to pay. And large 11 numbers of them, the vast majority of them, said no.
12 And they've now put in a plan a provision that 13 requires them to vote yes, so that -- it's, like, that 14 is both a secondary provision that's going to tie 15 directly into what I believe the Circuit looked at as 16 far as the inducements here to create a situation 17 where you have a minority -- where you have these 18 lesser impaired claims taking control of the case and 19 voting and raising a good faith challenge.

20 Now, we've put before the Court, in 21 connection with the RSA, specific case law about the 22 conflict posed by having a lawyer both getting -- 23 being offered a financial inducement as part of 24 something as well as making recommendations to their 25 client. And although it's a little sort of worded

1 differently from the RSA, we're in exactly the same
2 situation. It's like here, the Coalition is going to 3 make a recommendation to support the plan, and they're 4 -- and they have a financial inducement, those 5 lawyers, to do so.

6 And there's no mistake about why that was 7 arranged that way. It was arranged exactly that way, 8 I think you will in evidence confirmation, for the 9 very reasons that the voting bloc group was arranged 10 in -- in the Combustion Engineering case. And in 11 fact, you'll find some of the same lawyers involved.
12 Mr. Rice was involved in that case, and you'll find 13 Mr. Rice is involved in this case in the Coalition.

14 So it's some of the same reasons. It's 15 something that really -- it affects the vote. It has 16 the potential to taint where the case is going to go 17 overall.

18 You have here -- the Court, remember, in 19 Combustion Engineering, referred the matter back to 20 say let's -- we're remanding for further record
21 developed on that. Here, the Court has a record.
22 It's like we developed a record in connection with the 23 2004 process, showing -- I think we made more than a 24 prima facie case that there was significant problems
25 with how the proofs of claim were put together. I

1 think there's some acknowledgement of that, perhaps.
2 I don't want to put words in your Judge's -- in Your 3 Honor's mouth, but to the extent there's a ruling 4 about the 2004 case is a basis for them to go forward.
5 I think there's a recognition that what we put forward 6 was legitimate evidence that there's a significant 7 problem here. Putting aside the fact that we're 8 dealing with a case where the claims went from 245 in 9 the tort system and maybe another 1,000 or 1,500 10 asserted to the -- to the -- whatever that number is.
11 My math is bad, but 2,000 claims to over 82,000 claims 12 and allegations such as $100 billion now of liability 13 generated by a process controlled by the people who 14 generated these claims and generate them through an 15 advertising system that was found to have fundamental 16 misrepresentations made in connection with it.

17 The claims that we put before Your Honor on 18 evidence that was uncontested in the prior proceedings 19 was that attorneys submitted proofs of claim affixing 20 electronic signatures that had nothing to do with that 21 claimant. There's examples of handwritten signatures
22 that are completely forged or -- well, I guess forged 23 is the right word. They're the same signature on 24 hundreds and hundreds of claims.

25 There's other evidence of -- that -- that we

1 put before the Court, showing that the aggregator 2 itself was the one that was affixing signatures and -- 3 and reviewing the claims. That -- that evidence, we 4 asked for the ability, we were cautious, we were 5 careful about how we proceeded on this. We asked for 6 2004 discovery before going on and making further 7 conclusions. It was targeted, what we were after.

8 And Your Honor, we didn't sit on our rights.
9 We brought this early. We brought it up at every 10 single opportunity that we thought this was an 11 important issue. It was an important issue to us 12 especially because the -- the -- the concern that 13 these very claimants, this very bloc was generating a 14 plan that was set to kind of create liability where 15 liability didn't exist and would infect the process of 16 creating -- of creating the plan.

17 Well, we have the plan that it generated,
18 and we never got really to test those claims. We -- 19 you know, Your Honor gave us the right to issue the 20 discovery to the -- to the aggregators. We did so as 21 fast as we could after the -- within 48 hours of the 22 orders being issued. That discovery is going to come 23 back, you know, the document portion of it next week.
24 Your Honor asked us to hold off on the specific 25 discovery directed at the lawyers that were -- you

1 know, that we revealed what they were engaged in, and 2 that was based upon -- you know, like we didn't just 3 run off and issue subpoenas to them. We put before 4 the Court very specific evidence about what was going 5 on.

6 Further, we put before the Court the results
7 of what was coming out of these claims on the back 8 end, and Your Honor has all that. We needed that 9 further discovery to sort of tie some other links
10 together. We did not want to run out and file, you 11 know, large numbers of objections to proofs of claim 12 without having more specificity. We tried to be 13 careful about this. And you know, we now are where we 14 are.

15 We would -- we don't think that the 16 solicitation procedure should go forward or 17 solicitation without some effort to vet the claims. I 18 mean, the entire solicitation process is supposed to 19 be one under 502, where the claims are presented and 20 there's an ability really to legitimately test them.

21 You know, despite what Mr. O'Neill said -- 22 and granted, you know, I -- whether he speaks for the 23 whole debtor or not, it's an admission of candor here 24 that there was no evaluation by the debtor of these 25 claims. And there was no need to. Once they reached

1 a deal to cap their liability, it's like there was no
2 -- there was no need to. And in fact, the whole plan
3 was to basically work with the Coalition to come
4 forward. That is what it is, and if that's acceptable 5 to the Court, so be it. But that's a situation we 6 face them now.

7 The procedures that they've put forward, I
8 mean, we would say that the solicitation shouldn't go 9 forward until our discovery gets to go forward and 10 complete itself. And we'd be prepared to move as fast 11 as possible to do that, but we can't move faster than 12 what the rules provide us on when we could serve the 13 subpoenas.

14 You know, on the -- on the -- you know, some 15 of the lawyer depositions, it's like we would have 16 started with Mr. Kosnoff, who made specific 17 allegations and didn't identify some of the people 18 that he was referring to as a way to go forward. We 19 do think that discovery is necessary. Mr. Kosnoff 20 actually posted a tweet, saying why is it taking so 21 long for someone to serve a subpoena on me. If one -- 22 I mean, that is among the more crazy tweets he's 23 issued, but I don't think -- it's like there's any -- 24 he's so over the line at this point that there's any 25 reason to hold back from that.

1 As far as the procedures that you have in 2 the face of the evidence that you have before you,
3 what we effectively have through these procedures is a 4 self-certifying process, a process whereby, you know, 5 the -- the councils certify that they've complied.
6 And Your Honor, I don't think that complies, 7 ultimately, with the gatekeeping function that you
8 really have under 3018.

9 The ballots allow anybody to claim -- any 10 one of these lawyers to claim that they're authorized 11 agents but without any proof to establish that in any 12 of these cases.

13 We know from looking -- in the Coalition's 14 case, the -- the -- you know, the ballots -- the 15 retention agreements have been produced. In the case 16 of AIS, there's direct -- there's actually a 2019 on 17 file, saying that the AIS lawyers do not have 18 authority to use a master ballot. But these 19 procedures -- you asked me to assume how they're done.
20 The procedures allow self-certification that they can 21 go ahead -- one of the three firms can go ahead and 22 ballot them. It's -- the self-certifying nature of 23 the procedures is just inconsistent with how this 24 should work. Whatever's done should be transparent so 25 that the Court -- if they're going to vote a master

1 ballot, they should provide the proof that they could 2 get to vote, each one of these -- each one of these 3 clients, so it can be tested by both the Court and the 4 other parties.

5 There's no requirement of showing that 6 counsel's authorized to cast the votes on any of these 7 votes here. There's no requirement that any of the 8 counsel comply with Rule 2019, and Your Honor, that is 9 a mechanism that when I said that some courts have 10 touched on this, Judge Fitzgerald towards the -- maybe 11 the second half of her tenure in these cases started 12 to issue rulings that she would only accept ballots if 13 there was, I believe, an individual proxy for the 14 specific case. And she also required Rule 2019
15 submissions in those cases.

16 There's a -- there's a -- I don't have the 17 ruling right in front of me, but there's a ruling on 18 this, I believe, in federal Mogul (phonetic). It was 19 -- it was a sort of unusual ruling because it required 20 these submissions to be made, but then you had to make 21 a showing in order to see them. So it's like -- but 22 they're -- but they were -- but they were made, the 23 Rule 2019 submissions. It allowed the Court to assess 24 itself whether or not they had proof.

25 We don't think that's the way to go here, to

1 be clear. We think that there's sufficient evidence 2 before the Court on, in this case, like when the 3 Coalition came back and asked that the -- that the 4 certification process for the proofs of claim be 5 changed to allow lawyers to certify instead of 6 claimants, there was significant back-and-forth 7 argument about whether that should happen or not.

8 And as part of that, the record is robust 9 with the Court -- and with an exchange among the 10 parties -- let me put it that way -- including the 11 Court that, you know, basically, the use of the 12 attorney proofs of claim signatures should -- I don't 13 know how -- it's not exactly what Your Honor said -- 14 but should be the exception rather than the rule. And 15 that by doing so, among other things, the lawyer was 16 putting themselves at risk that they would -- they 17 would -- they would waive any privilege over what they 18 did to vet the claims. That was the basis of the 2004 19 submission, that by -- by -- in large blocs, the 20 lawyers doing this, they were exposing themselves to 21 being questioned about what they, in fact, did to vet
22 the claims. And given the enormous volumes of claims 23 and the small number of lawyers --

24 (First audio ends)

25 (Second audio begins)

1 MR. SCHIAVONI: -- almost a prima facie
2 suggestion that it was impossible for them to have 3 vetted the claims, that besides the fact of like the 4 rapid fire submission of them. But with that evidence 5 before the Court to -- for the debtor to suggest that 6 just more certification is adequate in this situation, 7 it just -- it -- it's -- it's in context of this case,
8 it just doesn't make sense. It doesn't hold water.

9 It's, I think, a little like what you saw in 10 Emeris (phonetic). It's the situation that the Third 11 Circuit that the Third Circuit in W.R. Grace
12 (phonetic) referred to, that the Court shouldn't hide 13 its eyes to what's right before it, that large numbers 14 of lawyers in this coalition, you know, or large 15 numbers of proofs of claim were signed by lawyers who 16 didn't really -- who -- who either gave their 17 signature page to an aggregator or the aggregator 18 signed the -- signed it.

19 Meanwhile, the attestation under oath of 20 what they did was made under oath. It wasn't even -- 21 it wasn't a certification or as a member of the bar.
22 It was under oath, and -- and it came with a warning
23 and the admonition of the Court about the importance 24 at that point of doing it.

25 And with all of those warnings, we still got

1 the result we did. I don't think further 2 certifications is what would deliver what you need to 3 have here. Of all the -- all the stuff you've heard 4 about these solicitation procedures, the one is you
5 haven't really gotten any kind of, like there's no 6 evidence before you or anything else to suggest what's 7 the problem with sending out ballots to individually 8 balloting these folks?

9 From everything I've heard, it's almost more 10 laborious and more intensive to do a master ballot and 11 go through various hoops in the process than to just 12 send out individual ballots to the individual 13 claimants and get back the results, whatever they are.
14 And the one thing I think you've sort of seen, or I've 15 seen, or I thought I've seen from these proceedings, 16 from the several claimants who have spoken pro se is 17 there really is like a wide view on -- on how they 18 would come out on things.

19 So I don't know how if I was a lawyer
20 representing them I could individually poll them 21 otherwise, or recommend that they all vote one way or 22 the other. I think it's -- they've got -- the ballots 23 should go out individually, and if Your Honor is not 24 going to do it that way I think the self-certification 25 doesn't work for those firms who haven't provided

1 direct evidence to the Court that can be tested that 2 they really have authority to do what they're doing.

3 AIS would be one example of that, but others
4 would be those firms that we have the retention 5 agreements from all of them in evidence before the 6 court on the 2019 submissions, and the bulk of them 7 don't contain a joint engagement waiver or a joint 8 engagement description of the risks.

9 And, you know, I -- I did hear Your Honor 10 and I took it to heart that this is not the court to 11 address ethics issues or what -- what not among the 12 parties, but 3018 vests this Court with the -- with 13 the gatekeeping function of deciding who should get to 14 vote. And here when you have the engagement letters 15 directly in front of you, and they don't contain 16 waivers, it's -- I -- I think you can make that 17 decision. It's not a close call. It's like that -- 18 those -- those waivers are required in every state.

19 So, Your Honor, with those -- with all of 20 that, you know, you've heard our argument that we 21 think that, you know, some discovery further ought to 22 go forward on the claims and that master ballots ought 23 not to be used. If we had been permitted to complete 24 the discovery, we would -- just to make a short 25 proffer, Your Honor, we would -- we would have

1 proffered the results of what we got from the -- from 2 the aggregator firms. We would have proffered the 3 results of the testimony from them and the testimony 4 from the lawyers associated with the filings of the 5 proofs of claim. We have before Your Honor in these 6 prior matters concerning the proofs of claim, the 7 declaration of Eric Specland (phonetic). That's at 8 1975-4. That was admitted into evidence, and of Paul
9 Hinkland (phonetic), which is 1975.3. That, I 10 believe, was also admitted into evidence. We would 11 move into evidence Mr. Cosanov's (phonetic) verified 12 statements, which is 5917 and 5919.

13 If there's no objections, I would -- I would 14 move those statements into evidence.

15 THE COURT: Thank you. Okay. Let me hear 16 from others.

17 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, --

18 THE COURT: Okay. You're not (inaudible).

19 MR. SCHIAVONI: -- hold on. I'm -- so, Your 20 Honor, I'm just not sure about -- it's like is the -- 21 is there no objection to the move of the --

22 THE COURT: Is there any objection to what 23 Mr. Schiavoni wants me to review, which is the 24 declarations of Mrs. Specland (phonetic), Hinton 25 (phonetic), and, too, Cosanov (phonetic) statements,

1 the 2019s.

2 MR. SCHIAVONI: I think the -- the --

3 THE COURT: Or the declarations.

4 MR. SCHIAVONI: -- the two declarations I
5 referred to were already in evidence in connection --

6 THE COURT: They were --

7 MR. SCHIAVONI: Right.

8 THE COURT: -- in connection with the Rule 9 2004. I recall them. They're still sitting on my 10 desk somewhere.

11 MR. SCHIAVONI: And I -- so what I -- I'm 12 moving afresh, and I -- I ask to make that part of the 13 record here, but I'm moving afresh with regard to Mr.
14 Cosonov's (phonetic) verified statements.

15 THE COURT: Yes.

16 MR. SCHIAVONI: 5917 and 5919.

17 THE COURT: Mr. -- Mr. Moxley?

18 MR. MOXLEY: Yes, Your Honor. Good
19 afternoon, Cameron Moxley, again, Judge, from 20 (inaudible) for the Coalition.

21 Your Honor, we would object to the Court's 22 consideration of Mr. Specland (phonetic) and the other 23 declarations that Mr. Schiavoni had previously raised 24 in the 2004 context and seeks to now raise in 25 connection with the disclosure statement (inaudible)

1 procedures hearing.

2 Your Honor, there are a few reasons. They 3 all go to relevance. I'll be very, very brief, Judge.
4 First, these declarations were all submitted and -- 5 and made in January and February of 2021, more than 6 seven months ago, Your Honor. As you heard from Mr.
7 O'Neil, at the beginning of the solicitation procedure
8 presentation today, Judge, there have been thousands 9 of amendments to the proofs of claim in the 10 intervening seven months.

11 Those declarations, Judge, frankly, are now
12 stale because many of those amendments, as you heard 13 throughout the proceedings today, involved a change 14 where the signature previously of a lawyer is now the 15 claimant's signature. So those declarations are 16 simply outdated and mooted, Judge, by intervening 17 events.

18 To the extent, and I understand, as I
19 mentioned previously, that I understand Mr. Schiavoni 20 intends to or is considering at least calling one or 21 more of those witnesses to testify today. Your Honor, 22 to the extent that those witnesses have updated 23 analysis or opinions that they wish to share with the 24 Court in the course of this hearing, we would suggest, 25 Judge, that -- that they not be allowed to do so and

1 object to their doing so because those witnesses would 2 have failed to update their expert written reports in 3 accordance with Rule 26(a)(2)(b)(1), Judge, which 4 requires that experts provide a written report, which 5 sets forth all of that expert's opinions including all 6 of the reasons and bases for those opinions.

7 So on the one hand, Judge, just to 8 summarize, on the one hand the prior declarations, if 9 being admitted now, they're mooted. They have very 10 little evidentiary value. If there's updated 11 opinions, those updated opinions have not been shared 12 with the parties and shouldn't be heard on the fly 13 today, Your Honor.

14 Your Honor, more fundamentally, we would 15 just note that none of these witnesses, which, you
16 know, Your Honor may recall from the earlier 2004 17 proceedings, these -- these -- these opinions go to 18 analyses of, you know, handwriting experts or meta 19 data analyses of signatures and when those signatures 20 were put on a document, those types of things.

21 None of those declarations, Judge, set forth 22 an opinion that any of the proofs of claim should be 23 disallowed. They don't -- they don't actually serve 24 any relevant purpose other than the purpose of -- of - 25 - of -- that Mr. Schiavoni has argued that there needs

1 to be sort of further investigation. But Century in 2 its own pleadings, Judge, and I would just point Your 3 Honor to Docket 5214 where Century itself said that 4 this is not the time to disallow any particular proofs
5 of claim. So it's just not the right forum, Judge, 6 for these issues to be raised, and we don't think that 7 there's a basis for the Court to consider these 8 declarations now or to hear from these witnesses in 9 the course of this proceeding. Thank you, Your Honor.

10 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, briefly, of 11 course, there's no evidence at all that anything's 12 been amended, let alone any of the proofs of claim 13 reviewed by our experts. So I don't think you can -- 14 I don't think the coalition can moot the relevancy of 15 a witness through non-presentation of evidence. Okay?
16 It's like plus and besides that, look, the testimony 17 is being offered for what happened. It's like the 18 same lawyers are going to be asked to self-certify 19 here, so I -- it's like it's directly relevant to 20 what's before the Court on procedures and what 21 procedures ought to be put in place.

22 THE COURT: Thank you.

23 MR. SCHIAVONI: I take it there's no -- but 24 I do take it there's no objection from -- from the -- 25 from Brown Rudnick (phonetic) to the -- Mr. Cosonov's

1 statements coming into evidence.

2 THE COURT: Mr. Moxley?

3 MR. MOXLEY: Your Honor, we don't take a 4 position on Mr. Cosonov's statements. We are 5 concerned with respect to the experts that Century 6 wishes to move into evidence.

7 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Kurtz, I've seen 8 your hand up. Do you have an objection to the 9 evidence? I'm sure you have other things to say, too.

10 MR. KURTZ: Yeah, no thank you, Your Honor.
11 Glenn Kurtz, White and Katz (phonetic) on behalf of 12 the debtors. I'm only raising my hand on the 13 evidentiary issue Mr. O'Neil will be handling the 14 substance here. We have a slightly different 15 objection. We don't have an objection to the 16 introduction. We don't have any objection, by the 17 way, to the verified statements of Cosonov (phonetic).

18 We have an objection, a limited objection to 19 the use of the expert declarations. I wanted to give 20 a little background on how they got here. They 21 weren't -- they weren't produced for or appended to 22 the objections to the voting solicitations procedure.
23 They were cited to some extent but only as -- mostly 24 at least as a historical matter for 2004 and in 2019
25 applications.

1 And we had -- it wasn't briefed. There was 2 no explanation how it would be relevant to the voting 3 procedures. It looked to us as if it was an effort to 4 disallow claims, although they specifically disavowed
5 that in papers, alternatively, maybe, to designate 6 votes, but the votes haven't been cast yet. So that 7 would be premature. We don't know who will vote, and 8 we don't know what the bonafides will be of anybody at 9 the time that they come to vote.

10 The debtors certainly have an interest in 11 ensuring that only valid claims are voted. That can 12 be assessed only after the votes are cast, and then, 13 of course, that will have to be noticed to the 14 specific abuse victims so that they can be heard on 15 the issue. That has not happened in this motion. No
16 one has joined issue on this proof. There's been no 17 discovery on it. It came up for the first time last 18 Friday when Mr. Schiavoni indicated this should be on 19 a witness list.

20 So notwithstanding what we think would be 21 valid objections to introduction, we're only -- we're 22 only offering a limited objection to using it for 23 anything other than the belief of Century that they've 24 uncovered potentially invalid claims. We don't think 25 it would be appropriate for the court to actually make

1 findings with respect to the validity of proofs of 2 claims or with respect to the issues of voting unless 3 we have votes and then only subject to a hearing that 4 has noticed the right parties. We think that's all 5 premature.

6 So I'm not even positive Century is asking 7 for findings, but it sounded like it was at least 8 brushing up on that subject. And so we object to the 9 use for -- for -- for that purpose. We don't think it 10 would be appropriate to make factual findings that 11 there were invalid votes.

12 We don't think that there's anything about 13 the -- the investigation, which sounds like it's still 14 going on and therefore may be a little premature that 15 -- that has to do with the procedures themselves, as 16 opposed to instances where we have claims. We would 17 ask that it be limited to the use of -- of -- of -- of 18 just Century's views on -- on potential defenses to 19 certain proof of claims that will have to be raised 20 later if at all.

21 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, the declarations
22 I cited are in our solicitation objection. You can -- 23 they can be found at Docket Number -- I think it's -- 24 if I read -- yeah, Docket 3857 on Page 10 of that 25 docket number, page 11, page 12. Mr. Kurtz, you can

1 find them there. They're discussed at great length
2 over three or four pages there, and in the argument
3 section. And they were provided within the rules, you 4 know, at the -- at the time they were admitted into 5 evidence without objection by Mr. Kurtz's client or 6 anyone else. And those declarations were also and 7 those witnesses were specifically noticed on the 8 agenda in accord with the Court's, you know, 9 requirements for scheduling witnesses.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Let me interject here. I 11 -- I -- I recall the testimony and the -- and the -- 12 from the previous hearing. I don't necessarily thing 13 that because it was introduced in a previous hearing 14 that it gets introduced here. I don't consider 15 discreet issues to be rolling. Like this isn't like a 16 rolling evidentiary record from the beginning of the 17 case until now.

18 But let me -- let me say this. One of the 19 reasons I didn't grant the Rul3e 2004 motion with 20 respect to the depositions of the individual 21 claimants, well, there were several reasons, but one 22 of them was I needed a context in which that discovery
23 should be taken. And I didn't think the Rule 2004 24 openness gave me a context in which it -- in -- in 25 which it should be taken.

1 I also said that I didn't think that the 2 movants had shown that the -- I forget what they're 3 called now, but the subgroups, the population 4 subgroups, the six to seven population subgroups would 5 give a basis to file mass claim objections, which is 6 one of the reasons that those motions was filed. And 7 that the case law related to surrounding and I'm 8 remembering Judge Fagone's (phonetic) decision out of 9 Maine, the case law surrounding what to do with, for 10 example, a proof of claim that was -- where the 11 signature was an issue. And his cases I think had to 12 do with signatures in mortgage cases in the 2008
13 mortgage, you know, debacle.

14 The -- the result wasn't disallow a claim.
15 That was not the result of those cases where there was 16 issues where the signatory did not have knowledge, 17 supposedly. It wasn't disallow the claim. So there 18 were many reasons why I didn't permit the discovery at 19 that time. We're having a context now. We're having 20 a context in connection with confirmation where if 21 there are issues for voting purposes we can have that 22 discussion, and I permitted some discovery to start.
23 And once confirmation discovery starts, you can take 24 confirmation discovery.

25 So I think that's where -- that's where we

1 are. We don't know who is going to vote. We don't 2 know how the vote's going to turn out. We don't know 3 if the counsel who have said they can deliver certain 4 votes can deliver them. We don't know.

5 I've already heard argument, you know, we 6 shouldn't let the $3,500 expedited discovery be the 7 tail that wags the dog. Can probably make that 8 argument without any discovery, but you can see how 9 much of the coalition group is in the 3500. We're 10 going to have that information, and I think it would 11 be appropriate for appropriate parties to be able to 12 do that discovery.

13 Now, I'll say this again because I have to 14 think about it. The insurance company is not going to 15 be voting in that group. Their vote is not going to 16 be decided by the votes of the survivors. So I need 17 to think about the context in which the insurers can 18 use that information. There may be another context in 19 which you can use that information. But I understand 20 the issue. I did have an expressed some concern about 21 the way some of these claims were generated. I've 22 permitted discovery with respect to the aggregators to 23 understand how it was generated.

24 And if it creates a problem for the vote, 25 once we get the vote in, although you don't have to 1 wait to take discovery, if you don't want to, until we 2 get the vote in, we're going to have to deal with it.

3 But maybe the vote won't be influenced that way. I 4 don't know. I just don't know, but I think the 5 context matters. I think we need to understand these 6 arguments in the context in which they're going to 7 arise when it comes to voting, which is the combustion
8 engineering issue, the Quigley (phonetic) issue.
9 Let's -- let's -- let's consider it.

10 And if there needs to be discovery around 11 the certifications that counsel are going to file with 12 respect to their master ballots, so be it. I would 13 hope we don't get into side issues, but if we're going 14 to go there, we'll go there. So I'm -- I'm -- I'm not 15 going to stop the master ballots from going out. I'm 16 going to see where they end up, and that could delay 17 things. I don't know. But the debtor has decided to 18 go out with master ballots. People are saying we 19 should. I do have some concern about going out with 20 individual ballots given the discussion we just had 21 about ways to deliver the ballots to individual 22 survivors and to ensure their confidentiality. So I 23 do have concerns about individual ballots at least in 24 some circumstances.

25 So I understand the issues, but in terms of 1 I'm looking at what you -- the relief you want from 2 it. I'm not going to go with individual ballots here.

3 I -- I -- that could leave us in a situation where we 4 have problems at confirmation. But it's what the 5 debtors requested. Given the discussion we just had, 6 I'm not going to in the first instance send out those 7 individual ballots.

8 If there's a separate, and maybe there needs 9 to be, as I said before, some separate certification 10 page that we need to do to get more information from 11 law firms that are sending out the master ballots or 12 that are submitting the master ballots, I'm okay with 13 that.

14 And, yes, I recognize that I cannot police 15 people's ethical -- whether they follow their ethical 16 obligations or not, but there may be a consequence if 17 what I see in front of me suggests that we had a 18 problem. And I'm going to deal with it on voting.

19 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, I'm not going to 20 -- I'm not rearguing anything, but just, you know, I - 21 - so I hear your ruling on the master ballots. You 22 know, the alternative step you could take is to 23 require that everyone who files a master ballot by 24 doing so is 2019.

25 THE COURT: I actually think that's fine.

1 MR. SCHIAVONI: And -- and --

2 THE COURT: I don't have a problem with 3 2019.

4 MR. SCHIAVONI: -- and has to file a
5 complaint 2019 statement.

6 THE COURT: I have no problem with that.
7 They should file a 2019 if you're going to do a master
8 ballot. I think that's perfectly acceptable, and I 9 see no reason why a law firm should have a problem 10 doing that.

11 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, just to try your 12 patience on just one further thing, okay, the -- look, 13 I -- I hear why the -- the claimant 2004 was denied.
14 Okay? The whole concept of us filing at that time the 15 two different 2004s were they were coming at this from 16 the two ends of the pipeline. The one was -- that was 17 denied was let's see what comes out and test certain 18 proofs of claim. And -- and Your Honor found 19 statistically that didn't work or wasn't -- wasn't -- 20 didn't provide sufficient support and denied it.

21 But the other one was still getting at the 22 same point of what proof of claim challenges could be 23 filed but in a different way. It was trying to 24 identify the sources of the proofs of claim, okay, by 25 who was generating them and where the problems were to 1 target objections at that.

2 Now, you're -- you know, we're not before 3 you on a request to file an omnibus relief there, but 4 in part that was the point of that discovery, to file
5 clusters of it. So we're pursuing the aggregator 6 discovery. We'll pursue it with light speed, but Your 7 Honor said we have to come back to you on some of the, 8 you know, on the other part of it with lawyers, and 9 I've got the -- the problem with lawyers, deposing 10 them, okay, but to get at the problem faster if we 11 could have relief from two or three, to allow two or 12 three to go forward, that would just allow us to move 13 at a quicker speed and get at the answer I think 14 quicker.

15 THE COURT: I don't think you need my 16 permission to proceed with confirmation discovery. So 17 you should proceed with it, and if parties have 18 problems, they can file a motion for a protective 19 order. I want it all brought on quickly, and I'll 20 deal with it, but recognize, again, that the case law
21 even around -- am I going to throw out people's proofs 22 of claim because they hired the wrong lawyer? That's 23 a good question. And -- and the case law that I read 24 in any event, doesn't suggest that. It would give 25 parties an opportunity to amend their claims, and I

1 understand I don't have evidence. But there's 2 representations in front of me that some 20,000 I
3 think was the -- was the number plus have amended
4 claims.

5 My guess is because of the signature lines, 6 some of the lawyers corrected that. So that's the 7 issue I'm struggling with is what would I do with the 8 information that you gave me, and I'm not saying I
9 can't be convinced. I'm saying we looked at the law, 10 and we -- at the time, and we independently, and we 11 didn't see case law that suggested that you could 12 disallow these claims, which was really the basis for 13 the motions, as I recall.

14 Now, if there's an issue, I understand the 15 issue with voting. That's perhaps a little bit of a 16 different issue, but, again, disenfranchising 17 claimants because of an action their lawyer took or 18 didn't take, assuming, of course, the underlying 19 validity of the claim. And that's the -- you know, 20 that's the -- the issue. If somebody has a valid 21 claim, would I throw it out because their lawyer mass 22 produced a signature.

23 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, I -- I
24 understood that is how you focused on it, but that was 25 really not the direction we were going in there. It's 1 like the context was -- to give context to it, was we 2 did subsequently give you this declaration of Verona 3 Stensonson (phonetic) who was one of the people who 4 worked in the boiler rooms.

5 THE COURT: I do recall that.

6 MR. SCHIAVONI: And the point here was not 7 to disallow -- like I got it, a big fish net could go 8 out and it could pick up some valid claimants and it 9 could be picked up in a bad way by an aggregator or 10 something, but the guy could still have a valid claim.
11 I understand that, but the point is that somebody 12 working at $15 an hour, it's like that's where the bad 13 claims may be concentrated. That's what -- that's 14 what we were trying to get at.

15 THE COURT: And I'm going to let you do it
16 now.

17 MR. SCHIAVONI: All right. Thank you, Your
18 Honor.

19 THE COURT: Later than you want, but I'm 20 going to let you do it now, and we'll see how the vote 21 comes back.

22 MR. O'NEILL: Thank you, Your Honor. So if 23 I -- if I'm following correctly, and I don't want to 24 give you more than you need because I feel like you 25 kind of got to the conclusion already.

1 So I was going to correct the record on 2 quite a few things that Mr. Schiavoni said, but I'm -- 3 I'm not going to do that, not just because I take 4 visual cues like somebody shaking their head no, but 5 because it was my inclination.

6 So I think what we'd propose, Your Honor, is 7 we have some work to do to clean up the certification, 8 and I think the order. We have several people that 9 are in on the discussion about how to properly 10 distribute packages, vis-à-vis paper packages versus 11 other options versus no option, if somebody opted for 12 confidentiality. And we will take all of that on and 13 move it along, Your Honor.

14 On -- on a general matter we heard you loud
15 and clear that -- that we'll proceed with the master 16 ballots and that you expect firms that submit master 17 ballots to submit a 2019 statement, either before or - 18 - or -- or when they submit that master ballot.

19 THE COURT: No later than contemporaneously.

20 MR. O'NEILL: Okay. Thank you for that 21 clarification, Your Honor. We'll get to work on that, 22 but I think just for the sake of completeness, there 23 were two more objections on the chart. One is Ms.
24 Wolff, and I think this is number 68 at page 115.

25 And I believe this is moot, Your Honor,

1 because it's -- it's about the (inaudible) plan.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Is Ms. Wolff on the 3 phone? I haven't seen her today.

4 MR. O'NEILL: Okay. We'll -- we'll move
5 along, Your Honor, and then 69 was from a pro se 6 claimant, and I'm not sure if that person is on the 7 phone, pro se claimant 242. And this was Docket 8 Number 6027. And this is about the bar date notice by 9 publication in the Prison Legal News.

10 I think, you know, our view is that the bar
11 date noticing procedures were -- were sufficient. I 12 think we've taken some counsel on this call from Mr.
13 Buchbinder, which is good counsel about prisoners and 14 their unique needs in terms of receiving materials.

15 So we'll endeavor to -- to make the packages 16 that they get going forward marked with something that 17 -- that notes the urgency of the contents, Your Honor, 18 so hopefully that fixes this going forward.

19 THE COURT: Which objection was that?

20 MR. O'NEILL: This is Number 69, Your Honor, 21 on Page 115.

22 Oh, you know what, Your Honor, it's been 23 pointed out to me that this is listed number 70 as 24 well, and it's been resolved.

25 THE COURT: Was it resolved?

1 MR. O'NEILL: Apologies, again. This piece
2 that I'm talking to you about has not been resolved, 3 the part under Number 70 miscellaneous has been 4 resolved. But you've heard the debtor's position.
5 I'm not sure anyone is on the phone on this topic.

6 THE COURT: Okay. Was our -- the pro se
7 claimant who filed the objection, did he use his name?

8 MR. O'NEILL: We might have it, but we think 9 it was redacted, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Okay. If there is a pro se 11 person, someone representing themselves who filed this 12 objection with respect to notification to men in 13 prison, I'm happy to hear from you. I'm not hearing 14 anyone. Mr. Lucas, I see your hand.

15 MR. LUCAS: Thank you, Your Honor. I -- I'm 16 sorry for the -- sort of the process question, just 17 going forward with respect to the Court's ruling about 18 the 2019 statements, but I -- I just sometimes foresee
19 some of the -- nothing is simple, I think, sometimes 20 unfortunately.

21 Should the counsel presume that they can 22 file the list of their client's names under seal, or 23 just file the list of the proofs of claim numbers or 24 something like that to identify the list of their 25 clients?

1 THE COURT: Don't we -- do we have -- didn't 2 we go through this before in this case about 2019
3 statements.

4 MALE VOICE: This is (redacted name).

5 THE COURT: (Redacted name.) Yes.

6 MALE VOICE: I am Abuse Claimant 242, and I
7 -- I mentioned this objection to re-publish the bar
8 date notice in Prison Legal News in my filing.

9 THE COURT: Okay. And your concern I take 10 it is that certain men in prison did not receive the 11 previous notice?

12 MALE VOICE: That's correct. I cited a
13 letter to Your Honor that was previously on the docket 14 to that effect. And so I don't know how widespread 15 that actually is, but it -- I -- based on the filings 16 and other public discussion it seems plausible that it 17 may have happened.

18 THE COURT: Thank you. I do recall 19 receiving at least a couple of letters with respect to 20 -- from men in prison with respect to notice issues.
21 I'm going to say this, that to be effective notice, it 22 may be that it needed to be received by a man in 23 prison. And there may be an argument that, in fact, 24 notice wasn't appropriate. And there might not be 25 that would have an effect. Let's put it that way.

1 Claims may not be channeled. They may have 2 outstanding claims post reorganization. It will 3 depend on the circumstance and their particular notice
4 issue.

5 I probably would not be the first judge to 6 recognize that persons who are incarcerated have 7 difficulty getting notice, and I would suggest that 8 the debtor consider along with others here whether any 9 further or different notice might be preferable so 10 that they don't end up post-confirmation with any 11 significant number of notice issues.

12 So I appreciate your bringing that forward, 13 (redacted name). And as to whether there should be 14 any kind of notification if the -- if -- which I 15 assume, but I don't recall, that you're going to do 16 publication notice of confirmation hearing, et cetera, 17 you might consider publishing that in the Prison Legal 18 News.

19 MR. O'NEILL: Thank you, Your Honor.

20 MALE VOICE: Thank you.

21 THE COURT: Thank you. Thank you, (redacted 22 name).

23 I thought I saw another hand before. Mr.
24 Patterson?

25 MR. PATTERSON: Your Honor, I'm just not

1 sure where we ended up with certification. I gather
2 the debtor is going to work on it, but I thought it
3 might be helpful just to round out that discussion 4 with a couple of other views. It -- it really seems 5 to us that, one, because the certification is going to 6 cover voting potentially settling the claim with the 7 $3,500 election, potentially opting out or not opting 8 out of a release, this certification now covers a 9 number of very important decisions and it really seems 10 to us that the appropriate way to deal with it is to 11 require a power of attorney specifying that the 12 attorney has the right to make -- vote with respect to 13 each of those three issues in order for it to be 14 valid.

15 There are -- there are -- the way the 16 certification is worded, it is self-certification, but 17 it's also self-certification in the sense that the 18 person represents that they -- they have the 19 authority. And I can see situations where people say, 20 well, I thought I did have the authority. I thought I 21 had it under applicable law, or I had it under this 22 argument or that argument. And now we're sort of in a 23 situation where the Court is upset because the person 24 didn't have the authority. They're upset because they 25 thought they did. There's a question about it, and it

1 just seems to me that the proper way to deal with this 2 to seal it all off is to just require up front that 3 master ballot requires a power of attorney from the 4 applicable client with regard to each of the three 5 items.

6 MR. O'NEILL: Yeah, Your Honor, this is 7 Andrew O'Neill for the debtors. We think that -- we 8 appreciate Mr. Patterson and his ideas about ways to - 9 - to beef up the certification.

10 Rule 9010(c) does not require a power of 11 attorney to vote. The -- the -- the election of your 12 treatment under a plan is tantamount to part of the 13 plan voting process. So is giving releases. This -- 14 this strikes me as something that we don't need.
15 Furthermore, we already have, which I described 16 earlier, the audit available to the debtor, where we 17 can request authorization to see the power of attorney 18 or authorization that attorneys have to vote on behalf 19 of their clients. So we think we're already covered 20 here, Your Honor.

21 MR. GOODMAN: Your Honor, this is Eric
22 Goodman. I don't know if you can see my hand up or 23 not.

24 THE COURT: Yes.

25 MR. GOODMAN: I just wanted to point out

1 again I'm back to my favorite paragraph 5(a)(a), and,
2 again, I'm annoyed that it doesn't go 5(a) and then 3 (1), but it is what it is.

4 Firms that are reporting, sorry, under 5 section B to have the authority to vote, which, again, 6 is very different than authority to cast a vote that 7 the client is making, would require a power of 8 attorney. That's already in the procedures, but if a 9 firm is simply transmitting the vote as cast by the -- 10 or as made by the survivor client serving as sort of a 11 voting hub if you will, that that does not require a 12 power of attorney. Nor do we think that it should 13 under the procedures.

14 The other thing that I would like to just 15 call to the Court's attention, these -- these 16 procedures were put together back in the -- I think in 17 the May/June timeframe, the coalition, the debtors,
18 and the TCC all having input onto these issues. And I
19 -- I think that on -- on this point we did get it 20 right, that if you are simply communicating the vote 21 to -- to Omni from the clients that that would not be 22 something we required.

23 Mr. Smola?

24 MR. SMOLA: Your Honor, I'm just going to 25 harken back to what I said earlier. A yes vote

1 compromises a client's rights against their local 2 counsel, compromises a client's votes against a 3 charter, and it waives, presuming they don't elect the 4 $3,500 option. It -- it declines an offer, so a power
5 of attorney is sort of a -- a -- normally in a 6 conventional personal injury case, you would want that 7 in writing.

8 You would want a release of the local 9 counsel claim. You would want a release of the 10 charter claim. Your client would sign off on that.
11 You could never sign off on that as -- as the attorney 12 for the client. The client has to sign off on that.
13 Here we're in a different setting where a yes vote 14 effectively waives those rights and sort of almost 15 doubles as a release. I think a power of attorney is 16 sort of a bare minimum here, and I think it should be 17 required.

18 THE COURT: Mr. Schiavoni?

19 MR. SCHIAVONI: Yeah, I mean, Your Honor, to 20 the extent we ever were to become a settled insurer, 21 it would be very important for us to have a power of 22 attorney to know that these releases have effect. And 23 it -- it makes it more difficult to become a settled 24 insurer without having that power of attorney. That's 25 one.

1 Two, I -- like I'm completely mystified by 2 this description in the solicitation procedures about 3 how individual claimants provide the ballot to the 4 balloting hub, and then -- and then they sign a master 5 ballot. If -- to the extent they have it, I -- I just 6 don't even understand what that means. If -- if they 7 have a ballot from the individuals, that should just 8 be -- like why isn't that just made part of -- it 9 could be bundled up by the voting hub law firm and -- 10 and given to the -- you know, to the claims agent as 11 proof of the vote. It's like to -- to demonstrate it.

12 I -- I don't even understand what's 13 contemplated by a communication of voting that doesn't 14 get produced. I mean that would seem to be part of 15 it, and then, third, this audit right, to make it like 16 the only person who gets to see the audit is the 17 debtor who is self-interested in the outcome, it -- 18 like it would seem to me that should be transparent 19 and part of the report by the -- by the agent, you 20 know, what was found and -- and then those -- those 21 results produced as part of the report.

22 [crosstalk]

23 THE COURT: I will tell you what I'm 24 intrigued by is that the -- the parties that are 25 suggesting and supporting the power of attorney are

1 Plaintiff's lawyers.

2 MALE VOICE: Right.

3 THE COURT: So they don't seem to have a
4 problem with it.

5 MR. O'NEILL: Well, Your Honor, it's -- it's 6 required under the certification. I just want to be 7 clear because I think the waters got a little muddy
8 here. It's -- it's required.

9 THE COURT: What's required?

10 MR. O'NEILL: A power --

11 THE COURT: A power of attorney?

12 MR. O'NEILL: We're just not requiring them 13 to provide it with every -- as with respect to every 14 vote that they're providing.

15 THE COURT: Oh, well, if it's required, why 16 shouldn't they provide it? Why shouldn't it be in the 17 backup?

18 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, it's not 19 required. It's not what the order says. 5(A) says a 20 power of attorney or other written documentation to 21 that effect may be requested by the debtors in the 22 debtors' discretion. It doesn't say it has to be a 23 power of attorney.

24 THE COURT: Mr. Zalkin?

25 MR. ZALKIN: I would just like -- I -- I'm

1 just echoing what Mr. Smola said. I think this is too
2 vital and too critical and as -- as an attorney
3 representing the survivors in this case, I -- I agree.
4 I think a power of attorney should be required, and we 5 would have no problem with that.

6 THE COURT: Mr. Goodman?

7 MR. GOODMAN: Your Honor, I just wanted to 8 point out something that -- it's obvious to me, and I
9 just want to make sure that it's clear to the Court.
10 There are a number of state court firms involved in 11 this case that are supportive of the plan.

12 There also are a number of firms in this 13 case that want nothing more than for the plan to be 14 voted down and will be objecting to the plan, and will 15 be taking whatever course of action they deem 16 appropriate to prevent the Boy Scouts from confirming 17 a plan that includes a channeling injunction for the 18 benefit of the local counsels and chartering
19 organizations.

20 The attorneys that you have heard speak in 21 favor of this are all a part of the opposition to the 22 plan. So I think, you know, the fact that they are 23 speaking up in unison with the insurance companies on 24 this issue I think speaks to sort of their collective 25 interest and what they're trying to accomplish at this

1 point in the case. So I don't want the Court to be 2 under the impression that the state court counsel that 3 you haven't heard from necessarily agree with Mr.
4 Smola on this issue.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let me hear from 6 anybody who disagrees. Mr. Goodman, does the 7 coalition disagree, and if so, why?

8 MR. GOODMAN: Again, Your Honor, on the 9 power of attorney issue, if law firms are purporting 10 to be acting as the voter, if they are voting for the 11 client, a power of attorney is unequivocally required 12 under the procedures as proposed.

13 THE COURT: Show me where. Show me where 14 that is.

15 MR. GOODMAN: That's in 5(A)(B).

16 THE COURT: Okay. So if it's required, but 17 -- but -- but the discretion is simply to -- for the 18 debtors to -- for the debtors to request it, and if 19 it's required, then why can't we just have it attached 20 as back-up to the master ballot?

21 MR. GOODMAN: Again, Your Honor, not all law
22 firms who use the master ballot and I would say 23 probably most of the coalition firms are not 24 purporting to be voting for their clients. This is 25 under the 5(A)(A) section. The firms that are simply 1 collecting and recording the votes that are conveyed 2 to them by the survivors and filing out a master 3 ballot that may say that 80 percent or 82 percent or 4 85 percent of their clients are voting yes, and the 5 other portion of their clients are voting not, you 6 know, the folks who are transmitting the vote, 7 collecting the vote, communicating with their clients 8 about what the plan means and offering the 9 recommendation, answering questions, those people

10 under 5(A) (A) in performing that function are not 11 required to require every single one of their clients
12 to execute a valid power of attorney in order for them 13 to perform that function.

14 And -- and -- and, frankly, Your Honor, I 15 think that the request to try to impose that 16 obligation on the firms in these cases is really 17 intended -- intended, that may be a little bit harsh.
18 I think it would have the effect of potentially 19 disenfranchising a lot of voters on these issues. And 20 that's why I -- I don't think it would be appropriate 21 in that context.

22 THE COURT: And why would it disenfranchise
23 them?

24 MR. GOODMAN: Well, again, I -- I could back 25 to the -- you know, just the -- the nature of the 1 claimants, the challenges that exist in terms of 2 communicating with certain survivors.

3 I mean if you go back to the statements made 4 earlier about survivors being in prison, what this 5 would do is it would say, look, I can get my client on 6 the phone. The client can tell me how he or she wants
7 to vote on the plan, and I could record that. If I 8 have to take the additional step of requiring that 9 claimant to sign a valid power of attorney in order 10 for me to record their vote, as it is conveyed to me 11 as -- as the attorney, I do think that would have a 12 chilling effect.

13 THE COURT: Okay. So what if the lawyer 14 then had to keep a log of its communications so that 15 it could show that, in fact, it had received 16 instruction from its client?

17 MR. GOODMAN: Your Honor, you're speaking my 18 language. As I -- I said earlier, we know what we're 19 up against in this case. We know what the various 20 parties' objectives are, and, you know, to think that 21 someone would be coming into this without dotting 22 every "i", crossing every "t" and maintaining an 23 appropriate record, if and when this is challenged, I
24 think you can definitely expect that a lot of firms 25 are going to do that for -- for that very reason.

1 THE COURT: Mr. Smola?

2 MR. SMOLA: Your Honor, I was going to -- I
3 was going to echo that. This Court will have 4 affidavits from me and the lawyers in my firm about 5 the communications we had with homeless clients. It 6 will have the dates, the times, the instructions we 7 provided them, the advice we provided them, the 8 options they had, and it will say how they instructed 9 us to vote on their behalf.

10 And for those clients that require that, we 11 will have affidavits from lawyers. Otherwise, we will 12 have power or attorneys.

13 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Stang?

14 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor. Just -- 15 I assume at some point we will go back through the 16 order because there would be some miscellaneous things 17 we pick up, but two things. I can't tell from 5(A) 18 how the firm shows that it was the hub, using Mr.
19 Goodman's terminology, or actually exercising, or -- 20 or -- or voting? It -- it's not clear to me now one 21 differentiates that so we know whether a valid power 22 of attorney is necessary. That's point number one.

23 Point number two is it allows the firm to 24 collect and record the votes through customary and 25 accepted practices. We saw when the coalition went

1 back initially contacted its constituency that it did 2 it on a negative notice. You're a member the 3 coalition unless you tell us you're not.

4 So I don't know what each -- and I'm 5 speaking about all the law firms. I am not picking on 6 the coalition law firms. I simply don't know whether 7 law firms say to their clients, I'm going to assume 8 you're going to vote per my recommendation or vote no
9 per my recommendation unless I hear from you 10 otherwise. I mean I don't know what their custom and 11 practice is.

12 So I laud Mr. Smola, not just because he has 13 a client on the creditors committee, but because he's 14 right. There needs to be a record here. There are 15 references throughout this order that people can 16 communicate with their clients by phone and record 17 their votes that way, by talking to someone. Now, if 18 it's a homeless person, maybe there needs to be an 19 affidavit that you don't -- the person doesn't have an 20 address, but I can't really on the firm's customs and 21 practices, and a negative notice vote on this plan
22 should be addressing and tell people, I think, today 23 whether that's an appropriate way of soliciting votes.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I did actually 25 circle those words, through customary and accepted

1 practices. I don't know what means. I think there's 2 a balance, and I'm not sure it's my place to interfere 3 with communications that lawyers have with their 4 clients in all kinds of different ways.

5 MR. SCHIAVONI: I -- I just think a negative 6 (inaudible).

7 THE COURT: I do think there needs to be -- 8 there needs to be because of this plan, which has 9 multiple parts as Mr. Smola has said and as I said at 10 the very beginning of this -- of today's hearing, that 11 this has settlement authority for $3,500. It grants 12 releases, not only to the debtor but to third parties 13 if approved. There was something else I said in the 14 beginning. I don't remember anymore, but these -- 15 this isn't just a vote yes or no on a plan. It's, 16 essentially, authority to settle a claim or not -- or 17 not to accept an offer. I mean that's -- it's one of 18 the other.

19 So if parties want to do it by power of 20 attorney, that might be the appropriate way to do it.
21 If they want to -- I think there needs to be a record.
22 That's what this suggests. They're going to collect 23 and record, collect and record is an affirmative 24 obligation. I'm going to reach out to my client. I'm 25 going to collect a vote, and I will therefore vote the 1 way my client tells me to do. I'm not voting for him

2 with the power of attorney. And if you're going to 3 reach out and collect and record a vote, I think it's 4 an affirmative vote.

5 MR. GOODMAN: Your Honor, I'm sorry I didn't 6 want to interrupt.

7 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, does --

8 THE COURT: Mr. Goodman?

9 MR. SCHIAVONI: -- affirmative mean
10 expressed? Is that what you mean by an affirmative 11 vote, an expressed vote, not negative notice.

12 THE COURT: I think they need to talk to 13 their client. I think they need to talk or reach out 14 to their client and find out how their client wants to 15 vote.

16 Mr. Goodman?

17 MR. GOODMAN: Your Honor, just to clarify a 18 few points, I think Mr. Stang's comment was 19 inaccurate. There is no one who is a member of the 20 coalition on negative notice.

21 THE COURT: Great.

22 MR. STANG: No, initially. Initially, Mr.
23 Goodman, that's the way it was done initially.

24 THE COURT: I recall how this -- I recall 25 how this played out.

1 MR. STANG: Yeah, I said initially.

2 MR. GOODMAN: All right. Well, so long as 3 we're clear on that point. Your Honor, again, the -- 4 the language that we inserted in here, and it's 5 important from our standpoint it's clear that people 6 have to make an informed decision on this plan.
7 Survivors are entitled to make an informed decision, 8 and that means to me that they are providing 9 affirmative guidance to their counsel as to how they 10 want to vote.

11 So I do not support and I would not support 12 negative notice in this context.

13 THE COURT: Okay. It seems like we're in 14 agreement. That's a first.

15 MR. SCHIAVONI: But -- but -- but, Your 16 Honor, how is -- how is that to be documented? Is that 17 like a document that gets turned over to the 18 (inaudible) agent?

19 THE COURT: I think there should be some 20 kind of backup to the master ballot that has some kind 21 of chart that references how they got the affirmative 22 vote from their client, that they are recording, or if 23 they are voting on behalf of their client, their power 24 of attorney.

25 MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, I think we may be

1 able to accommodate that on the exhibit to the ballot, 2 and figure out a nifty and thoughtful way to do that.

3 THE COURT: Yeah, I'm not going to get into 4 the weeds on that. I think we have agreement now on 5 how to proceed and I'll let the parties figure out how 6 to document it.

7 MR. O'NEILL: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Thank you.

9 MR. O'NEILL: Thank you for your time. I
10 think we're at the end of the agenda.

11 THE COURT: I think --

12 MR. O'NEILL: Or am I wrong?

13 THE COURT: -- Mr. Stang had some concerns
14 with the order --

15 MR. STANG: We were going to go back to the 16 order.

17 THE COURT: -- we haven't gone through.

18 MR. O'NEILL: Oh, I apologize. I apologize.

19 MR. STANG: Your Honor, we may have touched 20 upon them, but you had also done your own circling you 21 just said a moment ago.

22 THE COURT: Yeah, I'm looking.

23 MR. STANG: So I think a lot of the things I 24 was going to say have been picked up in the course of 25 this. I just -- I don't know how you want to proceed.

1 MR. PATTERSON: Well are we also talking
2 about the schedule at this point, Your Honor?

3 THE COURT: We haven't done that.

4 MR. STANG: Your Honor, we also had the 5 issues about some discussion of confirmation issues,
6 as they may relate to the solicitation going out. I
7 know you addressed that in part, but you did say I
8 thought late yesterday you would consider limited time
9 argument on that. I don't know if people still want 10 to pursue that.

11 MR. ABBOTT: Your Honor, Derrick Abbot. If 12 I may be heard quickly. We had talked a little bit 13 about that at the beginning of the hearing. Obviously, 14 we are at the Court's pleasure, but it is critical to 15 talk about scheduling and how we get from now to 16 confirmation in terms of discovery and those sorts of 17 things. And I know Mr. Kurtz is anxious to address 18 those, and I'm not sure which the Court would prefer 19 to do first.

20 THE COURT: We're going to take scheduling,
21 and I'm looking through the order.

22 MR. PATTERSON: The confirmation schedule,
23 Your Honor, is at Document 6216 and the red line page
24 5 of 7.

25 MALE VOICE: Well, wait a minute, are we on 1 scheduling or are we on the solicitation order review

2 as a final kind of recap?

3 THE COURT: I think let's finish up with the 4 solicitation order and the solicitation procedures,
5 which I think also include the timing. I know I 6 reviewed it somewhere. It's here on page 5 of the 7 order.

8 MR. SCHIAVONI: You had suggested that you 9 might entertain an hour or something of argument on 10 the -- the legal merits, Your Honor. It's like we do 11 think there's a direct link between some of the legal 12 merit issues on what's going to be done, what findings 13 are going to be pursued, and the -- the schedule.
14 Like the two things are linked, just like how you 15 addressed with what ended up being a sort of core 16 issue with the RSA, that, you know, it's like where 17 you admonished us and we probably should have listened 18 to you about let's focus on what we're doing here, so 19 to speak.

20 I don't know you probably have a more
21 articulate way to put it, I'll hand it to you, okay,
22 but I do think that maybe scheduling is not a 6:00 23 argument for tonight, that like if it would -- we 24 could have that hour discussion after an hour on the 25 legal merits. You might find that we -- like there's 1 a lot of efficiency built into it. It's -- it's not a

2 delaying measure, but it's like I do think there's a 3 link between, you know, how broad like what we're 4 doing is and what -- what time we need to do it. So, 5 you know, doing the two together might make some 6 sense.

7 Ms. LAURIE: Your Honor, this is Jessica
8 Laurie (phonetic) if I may step in for just a moment 9 with a couple of thoughts on that. One, the reason we 10 encouraged the Court to raise the scheduling today is 11 because the debtors' schedule that we put out, and we 12 understand that Your Honor is inclined to grant a 60-13 day solicitation period, so there may be some 14 adjustments to that. But the schedule that the debtor 15 put out does contemplate that document discovery 16 requests I believe are due the 27th, so four days from 17 now.

18 And I do think also in light of Your Honor's 19 statements today concerning, you know, we need to get 20 confirmation discovery up and running, it is -- it is 21 open now that we provide some guidance with respect to 22 that issue before we go into the weekend. So that is 23 why we had suggested that confirmation scheduling be - 24 - be addressed today. I think as Mr. Abbott said at 25 the outset of today's hearing, we have a lot of work

1 to do still on the disclosure statement, including 2 communications with parties, including working through 3 some of the plain English disclosures.

4 We do envision ourselves coming back before 5 the court. We would love to have Tuesday with 6 potential overflow for Wednesday. But I do think 7 we're not suggesting that we're closing things out 8 tonight. We just wanted to address some issues that 9 are particularly timely.

10 MR. SCHIAVONI: But, Your Honor, it begs the 11 question to know what discovered issue as to what -- 12 what is going to be at issue. It's like the two 13 things are directly tied. This is like a friend of 14 mine as a trial lawyer once said if I had a little bit 15 more time to pack, I would pack less, and, you know, 16 having this argument four days from now or three days 17 from now, it's like I just think you're more likely to 18 get a more efficient. We can send out blunderbuss 19 discovery as fast as possible, I suppose, but it's 20 like I think just we're talking three or four days 21 here to have a discussion that might make it a lot 22 more logical about what discovery is sought.

23 MS. LAURIE: And, again, Your Honor, I think 24 that's my point. Right now we don't -- we may not 25 need a deadline of next week with respect to

1 discovery, but we do think we should broach the issue
2 from a timing perspective so that parties actually 3 have the ability to refine discovery based upon the 4 timeline. That's all we're suggesting.

5 MR. SCHIAVONI: But the discovery is driven 6 by what the substance is, not by the timeline. It's 7 like what discovery is going to be needed.

8 THE COURT: And you think that we're going 9 to narrow the view on that? I thought the position 10 was the plan should not go out or the plan should go 11 out.

12 MR. SCHIAVONI: Well, Your Honor, I thought 13 you made it clear that you were going to rule on 14 solicitation, on the disclosure statement and to the 15 extent you're going to issue it you're going to issue 16 it. But you were going to entertain an hour on -- on 17 argument about what was -- whether or not the plan 18 should go out or not, and that would involve pure 19 legal issues about what the -- what is really going to 20 be in the plan, what findings are going to be sought 21 and what not. You know, if you remember with the RSA, 22 it's like as Your Honor focused the parties on this is 23 what the -- this is what the finding would be, and as 24 it narrowed, it lessened the discovery. There's some 25 issues here about the findings that are required that

1 would -- would -- would require tremendous amounts of 2 discovery and that if they're going to be -- it's like 3 I think we would want to be heard as part of that hour 4 discussion, substantively on whether those are 5 appropriate or not. But if they're deemed not to be 6 appropriate, I think you ought to hear as part of that 7 argument the discovery associated with them because 8 the -- the two are tied together.

9 It's like if, in fact, it's like as in the 10 coalition's pleadings all insurance issues are going 11 to be decided in this case and that, you know, broad 12 and comprehensive findings are going to be made in 13 that regard, you know, no surprise we're going to need 14 a lot of discovery. Okay? And we're going to need 15 some time for that. If it's going to be narrower than 16 that, and, no, contrary to what the coalition has said 17 in its papers, we're not going to be seeking -- 18 they're not going to be seeking findings on binding us 19 on all insurance issues, less discovery and less time 20 is needed. And I'm not asking you to decide that 21 issue right now in a five-minute back and forth.

22 But I am suggesting that hearing us on an 23 hour on that would be use -- it ties right into what 24 this discovery is and what the schedule will be.
25 Otherwise, the scheduling discussion is just going to

1 be in the abstract. The Boy Scouts want to get out as 2 fast as possible, and how can we do it before the year
3 is done? It's going to be a discussion in the 4 abstract and not tied to what actually needs to be 5 done in the case.

6 THE COURT: Okay. I see Mr. Brown. I see 7 your hand.

8 MR. BROWN: Thank you, Your Honor, and good
9 afternoon. Thank you for staying long and late, a 10 long day. Just contextually, I thought it might be 11 helpful and Ms. Laurie (phonetic) referenced this.
12 The -- the current scheduling order, and I also think 13 there was -- there's a couple before you. The one 14 that was referenced was 6216, but then there was an 15 amended one filed, which is 6320. I think the debtor 16 is proposing the later one, which has even shorter and 17 more brutal deadlines, but we'll deal with that when 18 we deal with that.

19 But in any event, the thing that I just 20 wanted to highlight is what is -- is put an 21 exclamation point on what Ms. Laurie (phonetic) said.
22 These were all -- all the dates in the debtor's 23 proposed scheduling order for plan discovery and the 24 like were based on a much shorter solicitation period, 25 which I think the Court has already indicated is not

1 going to pass muster. So right now the current 2 scheduling for the solicitation date is October 4, and 3 the voting deadline is November 16.

4 So we're already completely blown out of 5 what the debtor is proposing just based on the 6 solicitation timeframe alone. And so I think that's 7 -- it's important to view what -- what's being said 8 here in terms of the wisdom of understanding what's 9 going to be at issue and how taking a little more time 10 to consider that is really a non-issue in terms of the 11 overall timing of this because we're already not 12 anywhere, we're already out of the land of the 13 debtor's proposed order.

14 THE COURT: Mr. Kurtz?

15 MR. KURTZ: Thank you, Your Honor. I think 16 you put your -- your finger on it when you said don't 17 we already know what they're going to be seeking in 18 discover? The plan is the plan. Everybody knows what 19 the objections are. We've been hearing about them for 20 a long time. We've been hearing about them for a 21 week. Mr. Schiavoni has confirmed their ability to 22 get their requests out. If they believe by something 23 that happens next week that they can limit some of 24 that discovery, we would be very pleased to hear that.
25 I don't really expect to receive a call like that.

1 The schedule is really critical at this 2 point, and before I address what the schedule should 3 be and why we think it's more than enough time because 4 it will be modified. What's on record will be 5 modified based on the 60-day solicitation period here.
6 I just want to highlight why the timing here is so 7 important, and that's that the debtors are running out 8 of cash.

9 By the end of the first quarter, the debtors 10 are projected to no longer have the cash necessary to 11 fund a full financial contribution to the plan. If we 12 had a December 31 emergence, and I realize that's 13 pretty aggressive at this point, but maybe still 14 achievable, the debtors contribute $59 million in 15 cash.

16 By the time we get to March, the end of 17 March, the contribution drops to 26 million. By the 18 time we get to May 1st, the contribution is at zero.
19 So delay here impairs recovery for abuse victims and 20 also may render the plan not feasible without 21 adjustments that would require further concessions to 22 a deal that was lengthy in achieving, difficult and 23 hard fought, in -- in mediation.

24 So the schedule is basically case critical 25 here, and although I am sure that the parties

1 legitimately would like to have some more time to 2 engage in discovery notwithstanding their request that 3 we delay this discussion until next week. I'm also 4 sure that delay is a goal for the objectors because if 5 the objectors can get delay and they can time out the 6 plan, they don't have to win on the merits.

7 So delay is -- is -- is -- is also a goal in 8 and of itself. Now, I recognize that the plan that we 9 have the schedule on the plan that we had proposed, 10 was not maybe overly generous with the calendar, and 11 the good news is it's going to get longer based on the 12 Court's remarks about a 60-day solicitation. I think 13 we're going from two and a half months or so to 14 approximately three and a half months. So everybody 15 gets more time without even having to fight about it.

16 And -- and those objecting to relief almost 17 always want more time, but I know that everybody 18 always completes the work they have to complete within 19 the time period that's provided. That's true in every 20 case. That's certainly been true in this case. The 21 objectors have repeatedly told this Court that they 22 didn't have enough time to object, only to file 23 absolutely comprehensive objections and argued 24 absolutely comprehensive objections within the 25 scheduled time, and without failing to raise any one

1 of their objections. So we can get there.

2 It's important to note we're not starting 3 from scratch. The debtors have provided a substantial 4 amount of discovery in this case. We've produced a 5 lot of documents. We've provided depositions. The 6 objectors have been working on their objections.
7 Frankly, for months, we've heard about them. We've 8 heard about them this week. And we are confident that 9 the objectors will mount the same challenges in the 10 same way on any schedule, whether it's two and a half, 11 now three and a half months or two and a half or three 12 and a half years, we're going to see the same 13 challenges.

14 And we believe that the three and a half 15 months or so that we would be proposing now coupled 16 with the discovery they've already had, and the fact 17 that they have been free to seek confirmation 18 discovery and, in fact, they have done that to some 19 extent is adequate.

20 It will keep the cases on track to 21 paraphrase Your Honor from this week, and, frankly, 22 when parties have deadlines, they tend to get to 23 resolutions leading up to or at the date of the 24 deadline. And that tends to mean that matters will 25 resolve faster if we have a tighter schedule than they

1 will otherwise. So I would submit that maybe some 2 pressure here would actually help, but in any case I 3 understand why the objectors would want more time even 4 without the interest in delay. But I would submit 5 that when you balance the relevant interests and 6 consequences to a delay, it is -- it's better to have 7 the lawyers work hard than it is to -- to -- to have 8 reduced recoveries to abuse victims and potentially a 9 step backwards where we have to restart with a plan.

10 We had suggested a number of interim dates 11 that were directed towards a confirmation hearing on 12 December 9. That's no longer, I think, on the table.
13 We would reset those interim dates working backwards 14 from a confirmation hearing that we would hope to get 15 as soon as we could after the -- after the 16 solicitation period. We can talk to everybody about 17 it. We tried to have a dialog about interim dates 18 before. We got no, no, no -- we got objections to the 19 timeline but no suggestions on how to allocate the 20 work within the timeframe we were proposing. But 21 we'll give people another crack at that. We'll try to 22 be flexible. We think we -- we know the best way to 23 sort of leave enough room to get it done, but we think 24 there's more than enough time. I think everybody on 25 this hearing has probably tried a confirmation case on

1 less than three and a half months even without getting 2 all of the discovery they've had so far. And given 3 the cash drain here, we think it should be set, and it 4 should be set as soon as it can be.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Well, Mr. Kurtz, are you
6 -- I heard two things there I think at the end. One, 7 we'll work with everybody to come to a schedule, and,
8 two, we should schedule it as soon as possible. So is 9 there -- is there a proposal? And I will confess I 10 don't have the right document in front of me so I'm 11 going to need to take a break if I need to get it.
12 But I'm -- I guess I need clarification on where you 13 were there at the end.

14 MR. KURTZ: Right. So -- so what I -- what 15 I would like to impose, in effect, on the objectors, 16 is a confirmation hearing date from which we can work 17 backwards. Where I think we can work with people if 18 they'll work with us this time, they didn't last time 19 would be to populate the dates between now and then.

20 THE COURT: On the interim dates.

21 MR. KURTZ: So as to allow for the -- the 22 work to be done in a productive way.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

24 Mr. Ryan? It's frozen to me. I'll come 25 back.

1 Mr. Rosenthal?

2 MR. ROSENTHAL: Yes, Your Honor. I think 3 Mr. Plevin is going to talk about the -- the 4 scheduling issues, but I -- I do want to correct the 5 record. Mr. Kurtz spends a lot of time talking about 6 delay, delay, and how he gave the insurers an 7 opportunity to participate, the objectors, and no one 8 said anything. I -- I asked him a very specific 9 question. Is your December 9 date inflexible? And he 10 said, yes, it's inflexible. That period of time, Your 11 Honor, at that point it was just a question from his 12 perspective of moving an already impossible schedule 13 and moving things around that already impossible 14 schedule.

15 We need more time to do discovery, and just 16 because the debtor delayed in filing the plan and is 17 where it is in the case does not mean, Your Honor, 18 that the Court can ignore the due process rights of 19 the objectors and prevent the parties from taking the 20 discovery they need to present their case. So I'll 21 leave it there because I know Mr. Plevin wants to 22 address the specifics of the schedule.

23 THE COURT: Mr. Plevin?

24 MR. PLEVIN: Your Honor, my first question 25 is whether we're talking about the schedule now or

1 whether we're talking about when we're talking about 2 the schedule because I'm a little confused about which 3 we're doing.

4 THE COURT: I guess we're somewhat -- we're 5 somewhat talking about the schedule.

6 MR. PLEVIN: Because one of the -- the 7 reason I ask that is we have -- if we're going to dig 8 into the schedule and talk about the debtors' 9 schedule, as compared to the schedule that we proposed 10 in our papers, and by the way I never heard from Mr.
11 Kurtz even though I sent in the brief that had the 12 insurer's proposed schedule.

13 So I don't know who he was wanting to have 14 dialogue with, because I never heard from him, but we 15 proposed a very specific schedule keyed to the 16 approval of the disclosure statement, and I can walk 17 through our proposed schedule and the debtors' 18 proposed schedule and explain why theirs is not 19 workable and ours is. And I'm prepared to do that 20 now, but I do know it's 6 p.m. and I don't think this 21 is going to be over any time soon. And I really don't 22 see what the difference is between arguing this today 23 or tomorrow.

24 I do agree with Mr. Schiavoni that one of 25 the things I was going to say is it's important to

1 know what we're litigating here, and there were some 2 comments made yesterday by Your Honor that suggest we 3 may have a lot more litigation on our hands than we 4 hoped and that has ramifications for the schedule. So
5 if the Court can give me some guidance as to whether I 6 should just dive in for the next half-hour or not, I'd 7 appreciate that.

8 THE COURT: Okay. The question with respect
9 to what discovery is necessary, and I guess what I'll 10 need some more input on is probably around the 11 findings related to the insurance that the debtors 12 seek in the plan, and whether they're really legal 13 issues we're talking about because some of them I view 14 that way, and -- or whether they're factual issues.
15 And I say that because, for example, and I don't have 16 the findings right in front of me -- well, but I 17 probably do, but not in the way that I marked them is 18 -- and I think we've had this discussion before, you 19 know, whatever the words, magic words are, fair and 20 reasonable around the -- the values in the TDPs, 21 whatever that finding is.

22 There's an argument as to what one should be 23 able to do with that finding, right, but that's more a 24 legal issue to me than an actual factual issue. So I 25 would want to understand why people think that's a

1 factual issue rather than a legal issue because I'm 2 not, as I said, going to be interpreting someone's 3 policy that says here's the loss language in their 4 policy and, in fact, whatever number I come up -- 5 whatever number's in the TDP is -- equates to whatever 6 the definition is in the policy that says here's what 7 the debtor bought. Okay?

8 So those are the kinds of things I'm trying 9 to get my head around, but that's an easier one for me 10 because an insurance policy is here is the insurance 11 the debtor wants, here's the insurance the debtor got.
12 That's what they bargain for. It's the contract. If 13 someone has a contract that says, for example, what 14 I'm covering is the distribution amount in a 15 bankruptcy proceeding and not the allowed -- not the 16 full value of someone's claim who doesn't get paid.
17 Well, then that's the insurance that the debtor 18 bought. They bought a product, and that's what it 19 was.

20 So I'm not going to be making those 21 decisions. So I'm at somewhat of a loss of what 22 people think those findings mean and what they think 23 that they're going to then equate to. So those are 24 the kinds of things I've been thinking about in terms 25 of the findings that people are asking me to make, and

1 I am not on a policy-by-policy basis going to be 2 making those decisions. I don't see it. Maybe I
3 could be convinced that I'm misunderstanding
4 something, but those are the kinds of things I don't 5 see. And I don't think that either increases or 6 decreases the coverage that's available. I think it's 7 what it is.

8 And that's my goal, what it is. I don't 9 call that insurance neutrality. Forget that term. I
10 think it's been misused. I recognize I'm a newcomer 11 in this field, but I think it's confusing and it's 12 been misused. And I look at it, and I see, yes, can I 13 decide, perhaps, that the values for confirmation that 14 are contained in the TDP are appropriate? Yeah, I 15 think I can decide that.

16 If you want to morph it into something else, 17 I'm not sure I get to do that, or that that's 18 appropriate. So those are the kinds of issues I'm 19 talking about. Probably shouldn't talk off the cuff, 20 but that's the easiest one to -- to talk about, and 21 now all the hands are raised. So that's -- there's 22 some thoughts.

23 Here's what I'd like to do. I'd like to 24 take a few minutes break here. I'd like to get the 25 relevant document in front of me with the scheduling

1 order, which for some reason I don't have. My 2 apologies. I'd like to make sure I have, which I
3 thought I did, Mr. Plevin's filing, because I do 4 remember seeing an alternate schedule.

5 So if you could tell me what docket item
6 that -- the two documents I need are to have in front
7 of me, I would like to get them during the break so I 8 can be more intelligent on the scheduling. But in 9 that context, broader context of these findings, what 10 are the factual issues that are really in dispute 11 versus the legal issues?

12 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, can you see why 13 we wanted to tie this to our one-hour argument on the 14 legal merits of the plan. It's like that's really the 15 reason. It's to tie the two together. We just 16 thought it would be more efficient, and it's -- and 17 maybe not doing it when everybody is, you know, tired.
18 But that was the thought. It wasn't going to delay -- 19 like we weren't looking for a lot of delay on that.
20 It's just we thought the two would tie together.

21 MR. ROSENTHAL: And I think, Your Honor, it 22 -- I'm sorry to bug in, but I think it will also give 23 you a sense of the answer to the question you just 24 asked because the findings are one thing, but some of 25 the other arguments relate to whether -- whether the

1 TDP values and criteria are actually fair and 2 reasonable and/or improperly inflate the value of the 3 debtors' abuse liability, which is -- which is 4 somewhat of a factual issue. And so I think if you
5 understand the full scope of what we're trying to say, 6 whether you decide that it's patently unconfirmable or 7 not, I think you've already given us your -- your -- 8 your initial perspective on that.

9 But I think we were trying through some of 10 these -- some of the argument that you said you would 11 listen to, to set a framework for you and provide some 12 -- some guidance on things that would relate to these 13 scheduling issues.

14 MR. PELVIN: Your Honor, while I agree with 15 both Mr. Schiavoni and Mr. Rosenthal, I can I think 16 try to answer your question on a go forward basis when 17 we come back. One question I can answer quite easily 18 for you is that our scheduling brief with the proposed 19 schedule is Docket Number 6060.

20 MR. KURTZ: And, Your Honor, Glen Kurtz. I
21 can direct you to our schedule at Docket Entry 6320.

22 THE COURT: 6320 and 6060.

23 MR. KURTZ: Yeah, 6320.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Let's take -- let's take 25 ten minutes.

1 MR. RYAN: Your Honor, can I make one
2 suggestion for the break?

3 THE COURT: Mr. Ryan?

4 MR. RYAN: Is we also look at Your Honor's
5 calendar. We've already added 17 days. I think 17
6 days is a December 26th trial start date. That's not 7 going to happen. So I think a rational discussion 8 about a -- what our schedule is also involves Your 9 Honor looking at her calendar and it's in January at 10 this point.

11 THE COURT: Yeah, which is not a good
12 calendar, but I'm going to pull it out.

13 Okay. Let's take ten minutes. We're in 14 recess.

15 (A recess was taken from 6:15 p.m. to 6:26 16 p.m.)

17 THE COURT: Okay. This is Judge
18 Silverstein. I've got the two different schedules 19 now, which, obviously, are nowhere in harmony and or 20 for that matter close.

21 And if we weren't virtual, I'd have you in 22 chambers to have a discussion. But that's not an 23 option. I'm -- I had thought maybe -- maybe just 24 wishful thinking that from the discussion earlier 25 today that maybe we weren't going to be meeting

1 tomorrow and that we were going to be continuing until 2 sometime next week and take up further issues with the 3 exception of the scheduling issue and et cetera.

4 Maybe that -- maybe that -- as I say maybe that was 5 wishful thinking.

6 I think I probably need to hear argument on 7 some of these issues, and provide some preliminary 8 thoughts on them, and I'm not going to start that 9 tonight. The -- but I also think it's necessary to 10 get this matter scheduled for confirmation, and it's 11 not going to be in -- let's see.

12 MALE VOICE: December 7th.

13 THE COURT: Well, it's not going to be on 14 December 7th. It's not going to be --

15 MALE VOICE: 9th, 9th.

16 THE COURT: It's not going to be 217 days
17 after approval of the disclosure statement either, 18 which is what I think is in the insurer request.

19 MR. KURTZ: Your Honor, I don't know if you
20 have any -- any room in your schedule for January.
21 That would leave some substantial time and we can -- I 22 don't want to -- I don't want to argue right now about 23 the time --

24 THE COURT: Right.

25 MR. KURTZ: -- but we all know that people

1 can get the work done with whatever time period we 2 have but we have to work backwards.

3 THE COURT: I do agree that people can get 4 stuff done in the amount of time that you give them.

5 MR. KURTZ: Right.

6 THE COURT: Believe it or not, I have an 7 insurance coverage trial in January, which some of you 8 are involved in, which quite frankly I had moved to 9 accommodate where I thought Boy Scouts might fall when 10 we were looking at this many months ago. So it's been 11 moved once already, and I've got to give this some 12 thought.

13 What I'd like the parties to think about, 14 and I think every party has acknowledged that this is 15 one of, if not the, most complex cases that they've 16 probably dealt with in their bankruptcy careers, as it 17 brings together many issues, many challenging issues, 18 each one of which on their own would make any case 19 complex. And to the extent that people are adding on 20 sort of the wish list of what they would like to an 21 already complex case, it not only adds that many 22 layers of complication but increases, quite frankly, 23 the time that the parties and the Court need to 24 prepare for the case, as well as ultimately to decide 25 it.

1 coming back tomorrow/ What was the -- what was the 2 thought, Ms. Laurie (phonetic) when you thought about 3 this, or Mr. Abbott at the beginning of the day?

4 MS. LAURIE: I'll tell you what our original 5 vision was, but, obviously, we'll take guidance from 6 Your Honor. I think we had hoped to get through 7 solicitation and scheduling issues today. We've heard 8 other people's views on that. I think our view had 9 been we would work on the documents and then come back
10 subject to your schedule on Tuesday, split Tuesday 11 between the confirmation-type arguments that you may 12 need to hear and then clean up on the disclosure 13 statement document itself to the extent that there are 14 lingering issues.

15 THE COURT: That's kind of what I thought.

16 MR. SCHIAVONI: Judge, could I plead for 17 Friday off?

18 THE COURT: Well, that's what Ms. Laurie
19 (phonetic) had thought we -- and that's where I 20 thought we were going to so.

21 MR. KURTZ: I mean, Your Honor, I don't 22 think the debtors have any dire need for -- for -- for 23 Friday subject to getting some schedule plugged in. I 24 think if there's some way that Your Honor can find 25 time in your schedule for a confirmation hearing, we

1 can probably then at least have a dialogue with -- 2 with the objectors on how to populate the interim 3 dates. We'll either get somewhere or we won't, and we 4 can resubmit. But, you know, I don't know that we 5 have to tie them. I think we need a schedule no 6 matter what happens, no matter what kind of guidance 7 we get, which we'll appreciate, of course, but it's a 8 little -- we're probably sort of in a standstill until 9 we know what we're working against.

10 MR. PLEVIN: But, Your Honor, I would ask 11 you not to pre-judge at this point when the 12 confirmation hearing is going to be until you hear the 13 arguments about the discovery that's needed and the 14 sequencing of events. Obviously, you can have a date 15 in mind, but I would urge you to have an open mind and 16 not tell us what that date is so we can argue to you 17 how much time we need and why.

18 MR. KURTZ: I mean the debtors are burning 19 cash. It just doesn't work to --

20 THE COURT: I understand that. I understand 21 that, and there's more people that want the debtor to 22 pay for them, so you know.

23 MR. KURTZ: Right.

24 THE COURT: Maybe that shouldn't be the 25 case. I don't know.

1 MR. KURTZ: With or without those numbers
2 the cash is going out the door. So the calendar
3 matters, and I know that there's an interest in delay
4 but it's not in the interest of the estate. And all 5 we're looking for is dates. If it has to move because 6 somebody convinces Your Honor of something, so be it, 7 but I don't think that's what's going to happen.

8 MR. RYAN: Your Honor, with all respect,
9 it's not about delay. Mr. Kurtz is just inflaming
10 everything. There's no reason -- a schedule is a 11 schedule, and it leads to a confirmation hearing. You 12 may not agree that it should be a 200-day schedule.
13 You may agree that it should be, you know, whatever, 14 somewhere between where the debtor has proposed and -- 15 and -- and -- and where the insurers have proposed.

16 But at least hear the various arguments 17 about how to effectuate a timely schedule that -- that 18 -- you know, that doesn't put -- it's not about making 19 the lawyers work too hard. I mean the lawyers will 20 have to work as hard as they have to work, but some of 21 these things are just unrealistic deadlines that -- 22 that need to be changed to accommodate an orderly
23 process.

24 MR. BROWN: Your Honor, this is Ken
25 (inaudible). Not to get into the weeds --

1 MR. KURTZ: Your Honor, I've literally tried
2 cases.

3 MR. BROWN: -- on this, and if I could 4 speak, Mr. Kurtz, because you've been saying a lot in 5 generalities and you've been casting some aspersions
6 about people doing this just to slow down the process.
7 Your Honor, just by way of example, and there's a
8 reason that Mr. Kurtz is only speaking in generalities 9 and hasn't referenced a single actual thing that the 10 debtor is trying to impose on folks here, but just as 11 an example, the order that you have in front of you, 12 the one that the debtor was trying to get you to 13 impose on everyone sets the last date to serve written 14 discovery as September 27, and then the last day to 15 respond to that discovery four days later on October 16 1.

17 That is just one example of the breakneck, 18 nauseating pace that the debtor is trying to impose on 19 everyone. This is not about scheduling, as much as it 20 is about not allowing people to have the time to do 21 what they need to get due process here. All you have 22 to do is look at this order to see the multiple -- the 23 multiple examples of just completely unrealistic
24 deadlines. But four days after you propound discovery 25 to respond to it? That's heading one.

1 MR. KURTZ: Your Honor, it doesn't take four 2 days to take your prior objections and reintroduce
3 them into a new document. It's a little silly to talk 4 about due process. I've literally tried cases from 5 complaint to trial in 20 days, and I'm sure other 6 people have as well. Chrysler was a major case. I 7 think we went -- in 18 days we had that trial. We 8 were in the Second Circuit within a few days after 9 that and the Supreme Court after that.

10 It's not hard, and there's no generalities.
11 I put in all the dates that seemed appropriate when we 12 work backwards from a confirmation hearing date. I 13 said we'll resubmit with new interim dates working 14 backward from a new confirmation hearing date, but 15 these are all doable, and primarily the discovery is 16 going to be coming from the debtors and we'll comply 17 with it.

18 MR. PLEVIN: Your Honor, the discovery won't 19 all be coming from the debtors. It will be coming 20 from other parties. We're going to propound discovery 21 on other parties, and just by way of one other example 22 in addition to what Mr. Brown said, we're supposed to 23 have rebuttal experts reports submitted nine days 24 after the affirmative reports.

25 The idea that you can get a -- you can get

1 an affirmative expert report, review it, decide who to 2 -- what kind of rebuttal you need, recruit a rebuttal 3 expert and have that rebuttal expert turn a report and 4 do all of that in nine days is just not -- it's not 5 feasible. It's not practical. It doesn't happen that 6 way.

7 MALE VOICE: Can we -- can we resume on 8 Tuesday? Because I think the weekend, cooler heads 9 will think about this over the weekend about how if 10 you glom on less, less discovery is necessary. It's 11 like I think we have some guidance on that, and 12 Tuesday may be we have a-- you know, a little bit more 13 time, we pack less, more efficient. It's like we're 14 going to achieve something on Tuesday.

15 THE COURT: Okay. I'm -- can tell you at 16 this moment in January I don't have three days for 17 this confirmation hearing. So I cannot give the 18 debtor something in January today.

19 What I'm going to do is assuming you guys
20 can still hear me because I can't see anybody.

21 MIXED VOICES: We can hear you.

22 THE COURT: Okay. What I'm going to do is 23 I'm not going to give a schedule, a date today, 24 because, debtors, I can't give you what you want.

25 I'm going to look at my schedule. I'm going

1 to consider the filings, and I'd like the parties to 2 think about, again, what kind of findings they need 3 because I think that can make a difference in what the 4 discovery is going to be.

5 So we're going to resume -- I also think 6 parties need time to take a look at what we've done to 7 date on the disclosure statement and get all of that 8 resolved.

9 So looking at my schedule, on Tuesday I can 10 have you back here. I do believe I have a couple -- 11 well, I do have a couple of things schedule. I will 12 see if I can move them. One might just be a status
13 conference. We'll take a break, but I'll have you 14 back here at 10:00 on Tuesday, and we can carry over 15 on Wednesday probably starting around noon.

16 I have something I do not think I can change
17 that morning, and then I do understand that you guys 18 are in mediation, some of you, Thursday and Friday.
19 So I would suggest you use that time well. That's 20 what we're going to do.

21 I will entertain argument, I guess, first, 22 and --

23 MR. PLEVIN: Your Honor, argument on the 24 scheduling or on the --

25 THE COURT: On the issues that you think

1 that I can resolve and get out of the way for 2 confirmation or that will convince me that I should 3 not send this plan out at all.

4 MR. RYAN: Understood.

5 THE COURT: So I'll take that first, and 6 I'll have ideas on scheduling assuming you don't 7 convince me.

8 Mr. Rosenthal, I will keep an open mind.

9 MR. ROSENTHAL: Thank you.

10 THE COURT: Mr. Patterson, I see your hand.

11 MR. ROSENTHAL: But I think, Your Honor, one 12 thing you said is very -- is -- is -- is interesting, 13 and I would hope the parties would think about it. I 14 think you're absolutely right, if you can still hear 15 me.

16 THE COURT: I can.

17 MR. ROSENTHAL: You're kind of frozen, but 18 to the -- that one of the things that drives the 19 schedule are the findings. And if those findings 20 weren't required there would be less time required, 21 and so, you know, fairness and reasonableness are 22 evidentiary issues about the TDPs and the values, and 23 the like, and they -- they will take required 24 discovery. And that's one of the things that is 25 driving the longer schedule.

1 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Patterson?

2 MR. PATTERSON: Your Honor, I just wanted to 3 say that we're kind of new to the litigation fight 4 here. We have not taken substantial discovery from 5 anybody. We haven't received any, although my guess 6 is that something will come our way, so we just hope 7 you'll keep an open mind that we -- it's not that 8 we're sitting here with reams of information that 9 we've, you know, deposed people or had document 10 discovery from anybody. We'll do the best we can, and 11 we -- we appreciate, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Harron?

13 (crosstalk)

14 THE COURT: Oh, I'm sorry.

15 MR. BROWN: It's Ken Brown.

16 MR. HARRON: I think Mr. Rosenthal is 17 suggesting a false premise, which I just couldn't let 18 sit. Implicit in his comment is absent the findings 19 and with some form of neutrality this case resolves 20 quickly. And Mr. Rosenthal and I both know that we 21 have a case exactly like that in North Carolina, 22 completely insurance neutral, claims are passed 23 through to the insurers and Mr. Rosenthal is taking 24 stuff to the Fourth Circuit. Eliminating the fight 25 over the findings will not eliminate the insurers

1 fights.

2 MR. ROSENTHAL: Well, obviously, we disagree
3 with that, Your Honor, but that's for another day.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MALE VOICE: (inaudible) Circuit apparently.

6 MR. HARRON: We couldn't be more neutral in 7 that case, and we're at the Fourth Circuit.

8 THE COURT: I'm really worried about what's 9 going to be in front of me and what parties are going 10 to request that I have to decide.

11 Mr. Brown?

12 MR. BROWN: Something, again, we can pick up 13 on Tuesday, but one of the things that we're very 14 concerned about in terms of the timing here is, you 15 know, the debtor has referred to all the documents 16 that they've already produced and why normal discovery
17 timelines don't matter because of that. The thing 18 that is important to keep in mind as we go through 19 this is that that was produced in the context of, much 20 of it, in mediation, and there's a data room. And 21 virtually everything in the data room has been 22 designated confidential.

23 We have been trying since last week to go 24 through the process with the debtor to get this stuff 25 undesignated so it can be used in some practical way,

1 but we haven't gotten anywhere. And you would think 2 that a debtor who is trying to impose breakneck 3 deadlines would be going out of its way to deal with 4 things like that. And we feel like all we're getting 5 is stone-walled. Right now, we can't use any of the 6 so-called, you know, discovery that has thus far been 7 propounded. (inaudible) is going to be filed under 8 seal and we're going to have a sealed courtroom.

9 MR. SCHIAVONI: Well, let's take a break for 10 the day.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. KURTZ: Your Honor, that's -- that's 13 just not true. We didn't produce the discovery. My 14 understanding is we've been requested to help 15 facilitate a discussion with other parties that may 16 have designated materials as confidential. We said we 17 would do that. They then sent us literally hundreds 18 of pages of documents that we haven't yet had an 19 opportunity to even go through. The debtors have not 20 done that, and it's just an inaccurate statement that 21 was just made.

22 THE COURT: Okay. We're going to adjourn
23 until Tuesday at 10:00, and parties should use the 24 time well to turn documents that the disclosure 25 statement and other documents that need to be turned,

1 and I know people are worked around the clock to do
2 that. And should consider what we can achieve.

3 I, last August, not this past, the year
4 before, had two complete valuation trials with parties
5 had about three weeks to prepare for. On the other 6 hand, I've got some cases where the discovery disputes 7 get in the way, and they prolong things. And that's 8 not bad faith discovery disputes. That's just regular 9 old discovery disputes. So we're going to find a 10 happy median. We're going to recognize that this 11 debtor is burning cash, and I have no reason at all to 12 believe that Ms. Lauria or whoever told me that, it's 13 probably Mr. Kurtz, is inaccurate in what they're 14 saying, no reason to believe that.

15 And I don't think that benefits anybody, so 16 we're going to balance, clearly the due process rights 17 of all parties against what's necessary in this case.
18 And that's where we're going to leave it.

19 So thank you very much. Enjoy your Friday
20 away from here. I will see you Tuesday morning.

21 MALE VOICE: Thank you, Your Honor. Have a 22 nice weekend.

23 THE COURT: Thank you.

24 MALE VOICE: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Thank you.

1 MALE VOICE: Thank you, Your Honor.

2 (Whereupon the hearing adjourned.)

1 (Proceedings commence at 10:11 a.m.)

2 THE COURT: Good morning. This is Judge
3 Silverstein. We're here on the continued disclosure
4 statement hearing in Boy Scouts of America; Case 20-10343.

5 I would remind everyone who is not speaking to 6 please make sure your audio is muted. And I will turn it 7 over to debtor's counsel.

8 MR. ABBOTT: Thank you, Your Honor. Derek Abbot
9 of Morris Nichols Arsht & Tunnell for the debtors.

10 Your Honor, we appreciate the break we had gotten 11 in the hearing. I think the parties had been hard at work.
12 I'm going to turn it over to Ms. Lauria to detail that for 13 you and get the hearing started if I may.

14 THE COURT: Thank you.

15 Ms. Lauria?

16 MS. LAURIA: Thank you, Your Honor. Jessica
17 Lauria, White & Case, on behalf of the debtors.

18 Your Honor, we just wanted to provide you with a 19 brief update of what the parties have been up to since we 20 last saw you on Thursday of last week. In particular, as we 21 indicated at that hearing, on Friday afternoon we circulated 22 to the objecting party's revisions to the disclosure 23 statement as well as disclosure statement exhibits that were 24 intended to address the court's statements on the record last 25 week as well as various concessions and agreements that were

1 made during the course of last week's hearing. That was 2 Friday.

3 On Saturday we circulated to the parties the plan 4 English chartered organization summary that had been 5 discussed at length last week. Then on Sunday we distributed 6 to the parties revisions to the solicitation procedures.

7 We received comments from parties on Friday,
8 throughout the weekend. We were on the phone with the TCC 9 until very late last night in an effort to try to continue to 10 narrow the issues that would show-up back before the court.
11 We did, in fact, as you probably saw, filed a number of 12 documents in the early morning hours this morning. Again, we 13 had wanted to file those earlier, but also wanted to give 14 folks the opportunity to comment on them and try to reflect 15 those comments as much as we possibly could.

16 Walking through, sort of the, what I will call, 17 baskets of documents that are left with respect to the 18 disclosure statement we believe we have substantially 19 resolved the objections to the disclosure statement. I 20 believe we saw an email from the TCC early this morning or 21 maybe it was late last night indicating that we still have 22 four or five issues outstanding with them. There may be some 23 cats and dogs with other objectors. Your Honor, it's our 24 intention to work during the breaks today and, frankly, 25 throughout the course of today to try to narrow those even

1 further so that we can minimize or eliminate what comes back 2 in front of the court.

3 On the chartered organization plain English
4 document I know Mr. Ryan is still reviewing that document.
5 We also received a number of comments from insurer parties.
6 I don't believe that all of those have been incorporated as 7 of yet. So we will continue to work today on addressing 8 those comments and making sure that we communicate with Mr.
9 Ryan during breaks to get all of his feedback.

10 Finally, Your Honor, on the solicitation
11 procedures you may have seen the TCC filed an emergency 12 motion with respect to one change the debtors are proposing 13 there. So we do have one significant issue outstanding that 14 will likely need to come back in front of you at an 15 appropriate time today or tomorrow and that's pertaining to 16 the $3,500 expedited distribution.

17 I think after listening to argument last week and 18 having a greater understanding of the complications that 19 would present to particularly individuals that represent 20 hundreds if not thousands of claimants in terms of advising 21 those claimants whether to accept a settlement in the context
22 of a ballot. We thought it made sense to remove it, but you 23 will be hearing argument, I'm sure, on that point either, 24 again, later today or tomorrow whenever the court would like 25 to hear that argument.

1 Other than that the TCC did file their own
2 alternative version of the solicitation documents. I hope I
3 am not going out on a limb by saying I don't think that so 4 much reflective of the distance between the parties other 5 than the point I just noted versus the fact that there was a 6 lot of material being passed back and forth yesterday and we 7 just didn't have the opportunity to drill down on all of the 8 issues on solicitation procedures.

9 So I think we're also hopeful that we can narrow 10 the issues on the solicitation procedures. So what comes 11 before the court ultimately is something much less than may 12 have been reflected in the filings. So that is where we're 13 at on the documents.

14 As far as today goes, I mean, we heard the court
15 last week I think we have, sort of, three big things coming 16 up.

17 One is to the extent the court would like to hear 18 a preview of some of the confirmation objections I think we 19 heard you last week, Your Honor, to suggest that certainly 20 with respect to insurance issues you would like to hear some 21 argument around that because of the impact that may have on 22 the confirmation schedule. We think that many, if not all, 23 of the other confirmation objections were teased out during 24 the course of our three days together last week. So it's 25 really the insurance ones that the court will need to hear,

1 but, obviously, defer to Your Honor on what would be useful
2 for you to hear today.

3 We also have scheduling. We would propose to go 4 to that after the confirmation objections, again, simply 5 because we're still working through some of the document 6 issues and would like to close out some of that before we 7 come back to the court.

8 Finally, whatever remaining document issues and 9 certainly the expedited distributions placement on the ballot 10 or not and the classification issues will need to be 11 addressed at some point.

12 So that is where I think we see ourselves this 13 Tuesday morning.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I appreciate the work 15 that has, obviously, been done over the course of the last 16 few days. I have not had an opportunity to review everything 17 that was filed last night. I have quickly run through the 18 redline of the plan and disclosure statement, but that is 19 about it.

20 So I think we should start with the confirmation
21 objections, in particular the insurance issues. I don't know 22 if the insurers have coordinated. I would say that in 23 looking at some of that over the weekend it seemed to me that 24 the insurers were not necessarily aligned on all issues. I 25 could be wrong, but I think there were a few cross issues.

1 So I think I will hear from insurers, hopefully have 2 coordinated some.

3 Mr. Lucas, I see your hand.

4 MR. LUCAS: Thank you, Your Honor. I just wanted
5 to confirm one thing that Ms. Lauria said that the TCC did 6 file its alternative version of the solicitation procedures, 7 but after reviewing the debtor's markup that was set late 8 last night I just wanted to let the court know that the 9 issues have been narrowed substantially and that if there is 10 a break today hopefully we could resolve the rest of them.

11 As Ms. Lauria said, there is the 3013 issue which 12 does go to the procedures to some extent and that is still 13 outstanding. But a lot of the issues have been narrowed and 14 I haven't been able to confirm that with White & Case yet 15 today, and wanted to, at least, convey to the court and to 16 White & Case that there has been progress.

17 THE COURT: Fabulous. Thank you.

18 Mr. Rosenthal?

19 MR. ROSENTHAL: Good morning, Your Honor. Michael 20 Rosenthal of Gibson Dunn for the AIG Companies.

21 Your Honor, in response to your question the 22 insurers have coordinated to a great extent. I think that 23 what you are going to hear is a presentation from me followed 24 by one from Mr. Schiavoni, and then Mr. Plevin; however, 25 there may be others that want to lend their voice. We

1 have -- hopefully we won't be duplicating for Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay, thank you.

3 Let's go ahead then and get started.

4 Mr. Rosenthal?

5 MR. ROSENTHAL: Thank you, Your Honor. First, let 6 me say we appreciate all -- can you hear me?

7 THE COURT: Excuse me, yes.

8 (Off record discussion)

9 THE COURT: Mr. Rosenthal?

10 MR. ROSENTHAL: Thank you. Your Honor, we 11 appreciate all the time Your Honor has devoted to this case, 12 not just last week but since the inception of it. I have to 13 say I agree with Your Honor, the statement you made last week 14 that at least from my perspective and over 40 years of 15 bankruptcy practice I haven't seen a case as complicated and 16 also as gut wrenching as this case.

17 We are truly witness to an American tragedy. The 18 abuse of children by trust Boy Scout leaders across the 19 country. We agree with statements that Your Honor has made 20 that scouting is a mission that should be preserved, but that 21 doesn't mean, Your Honor, that the debtor gets a free pass to 22 ignore the requirements of the bankruptcy code or applicable
23 law. I know it's tempting to approve the disclosure 24 statement and move this case along, but there are some 25 factors I hope that you would consider before you do that.

1 First, Your Honor, as a prudential matter, we 2 don't believe it's wise for the debtors to send out a vote on 3 a plan that does not represent anything close to a global 4 consensus. This plan is opposed by the insurers, most of the 5 insurers, the TCC, many of the chartered organizations, and a 6 significant number of claimants.

7 There is just too much uncertainty including about 8 the vote at this point. This may result in the debtors have 9 well less than the requisite support they need to obtain 10 acceptance of the plan and the entry of the channeling
11 injunction. If that is the case the debtors would have wasted 12 tens of millions of dollars in administrative fees and months 13 on an overall confirmation process.

14 The ultimate resolution may be a new plan, but it
15 also may be a liquidation of the debtors; therefore, it's a 16 scheduling matter. We believe that it might make sense for 17 the court to delay approval of the disclosure statement for 18 two to three weeks to allow further mediation to occur. That 19 mediation might result in additional settlements perhaps, 20 Your Honor, in light of guidance you may be willing to 21 provide today or tomorrow or in a more comprehensive deal 22 with chartered organizations.

23 Importantly, though, those deals may require 24 amendments to the plan and additional disclosures. And if 25 solicitation has already begun re-solicitation may be

1 required which will delay the process further. And, Your 2 Honor, we do not believe that a short delay on entry of the 3 disclosure statement order will actually delay the case.

4 Even if you took the disclosure statement order 5 under advisement for a couple of weeks we could begin 6 discovery now so it wouldn't delay the overall confirmation
7 hearing. And even under a January or February confirmation 8 hearing scheduled, and you will hear more about the schedule 9 later, there still would be ample time for a 60 day voting 10 window that Your Honor indicated was appropriate.

11 Second overview point, Your Honor, is I know you 12 don't believe that you are ruling on the terms of the plan at 13 this time, and I heard your statement that you don't intend 14 to decide coverage issues even at confirmation, but the 15 proposed plan findings you are being asked to make by the 16 debtors and the supporters of the plan tell a different 17 story.

18 These findings, coupled with the criteria for 19 allowance of claims by the trust, are an attempt to alter the 20 insurance contracts and obtain awards through this bankruptcy 21 far in excess of what could be expected in the tort system.
22 We will talk more about that later.

23 I fully realize, Your Honor, that this is your 24 courtroom and you can allow the disclosure statement to go 25 forward without telling us whether you will make the required

1 plan findings, but in doing so you should understand that, 2 among other things, its sending a clear message to the 3 claimant professionals that you might enter these findings
4 and that will embolden them to take even more unreasonable
5 stances in this case including in mediation.

6 One of the principal reasons for that, Your Honor, 7 is that the plaintiffs' representatives see in this case the 8 opportunity to use Your Honor to overturn decades of 9 insurance neutrality precedent which they can then trump not 10 just in this case, but in every subsequent mass tort case.
11 That strategy, Your Honor, makes it extremely difficult to 12 reach a global settlement because many insurers like AIG are 13 only willing to do a deal that is both economically sensible 14 and insurance neutral. It doesn't create a precedent that 15 could be used against them in other cases.

16 In order to put these Chapter 11 cases back on 17 track toward a global resolution, Your Honor, we believe the 18 claimants representatives need to hear a clear no from Your 19 Honor on your willingness to enter the findings. We will 20 talk about the findings more.

21 Third, Your Honor, allowing the debtors to move 22 forward with a plan that contains the disputed findings will 23 alter the confirmation timeline. Mr. Plevin will talk about 24 how that will extend the timeline. Basically, Your Honor, 25 the debtors and the other supporters of the plan have chosen

1 to put this before you and that has consequences. One of the 2 consequences is that additional discovery will be necessary.

3 Finally, Your Honor, I can get to the crux of 4 what, you know, I told you I wanted to talk to you about. I 5 had hoped to be able to persuade you that approval of the 6 disclosure statement is sending us all down a futile and 7 expensive path which is exactly what the Third Circuit's 8 decision in American Capital Equipment sought to prevent.

9 I recognize this is likely to be an unpersuasive 10 argument today, but alternatively what I'd like to do, Your 11 Honor, is provide you a roadmap for what to look for when 12 reviewing the plan. And when considering this roadmap ask 13 you to keep an open mind about what you can tell the parties 14 today about what you are willing or unwilling to do at 15 confirmation.

16 So let's talk about the principal confirmation
17 defects of the plan. They fit into three buckets.

18 The first is the coalition fees. The plan 19 contemplates, as we discussed last week, without requiring 20 any showing of substantial contribution, the payment of the 21 coalition's fees. Your Honor said that this was inappropriate 22 when you denied the RSA, the RSA provisions that dealt with 23 it. The plan proponents have chosen to ignore your ruling 24 and a question that I would ask Your Honor is how does one 25 evaluate duplication of effort and substantial contribution

1 where the coalition and the TCC both have incurred fees on 2 behalf of the same constituents, but in furtherance of 3 countervailing interests.

4 Second principal defect, Your Honor, relates to 5 third-party releases. There are a number of issues
6 concerning the discharge of non-debtors such as the propriety 7 of the channeling injunction and third-party releases under 8 Section 105 in the Third Circuit's Continental Airlines
9 decision which will require close scrutiny of the non-debtors 10 contributions to the trust.

11 Among other things, in this plan there are not 12 only the usual issues with third-party releases, but also the 13 unusual issue that the abuse here occurred not at the hands 14 of the debtors, but by perpetrators who were directly 15 overseen by the non-debtor local councils and chartered 16 organizations. So really the debtor's abuse liabilities are 17 derivative of these non-debtor entities as opposed to the 18 other way around which is the usual way this arises in mass 19 tort cases.

20 Third, and getting to the heart of the insurers' 21 objection, the plan impermissibly alters the contractual 22 rights of the insurers and requires you to decide coverage 23 issues at the confirmation hearing as it attempts to bind the 24 insurers to liability for abuse claims now despite Your 25 Honor's repeated statements that you would not be deciding

1 coverage issues, despite the fact that this court has no 2 jurisdiction to determine personal injury claims, and despite 3 the fact that the actual determination of the claim values is 4 going to be made way down the road by the settlement trustee 5 applying in his sole discretion and within wide ranges the 6 criteria and values that you are being asked to approve.

7 The attempt to alter insurance contracts and 8 binding insurers is accomplished in three ways; by assigning 9 non-debtor insurance interest, by inflating the debtor's 10 abuse liability, and through the insurance prejudicial 11 findings.

12 Turning to that first aspect the plan requires the 13 assignment of non-debtor rights under insurance policies in 14 violation of any assignment clauses in those policies. We 15 are not aware of any case law or rule that permits this 16 assignment absent consent. The debtors haven't cited any.

17 In Combustion Engineering the Third Circuit
18 plainly held that the assignment of such non-debtor
19 contractual rights is not permitted under Section 1123(a)(5) 20 or any other code section over any assignment clause. The 21 debtors have cited Federal-Mogul, but in Federal-Mogul the 22 Third Circuit expressly distinguished Combustion Engineering
23 because unlike in Combustion Engineering, Federal-Mogul dealt 24 with debtor insurance rights only.

25 The debtors claim that they have fixed this with a

1 savings clause that allows the non-debtor insureds to retain 2 their insurance and pursue their rights on behalf of 3 claimants and then turn over the proceeds to the trust. But 4 to the extent that these work at all, and it's unclear they 5 do, this is merely a de facto assignment of insurance rights 6 and an impermissible work around that contravenes the 7 applicable Third Circuit law.

8 THE COURT: Why is that? Why would that be an 9 impermissible workaround?

10 MR. ROSENTHAL: Because we think it accomplishes
11 the same thing, Your Honor. It's the same -- its effectively 12 assigning the rights to the insurance to the trust. It's 13 just a different way to do it.

14 THE COURT: Well sometimes there are different 15 ways to do things that make them permissible. And if we're 16 talking about a technical assignment versus a workaround 17 assignment if a party decides that they are going to go and 18 pursue the insurance and then provide the proceeds to the 19 trust what is wrong with that workaround?

20 MR. ROSENTHAL: Your Honor, I think it gets us to 21 the same goal, but I hear Your Honor's statement and it may 22 be that the way it ends up being structured may actually be 23 an acceptable workaround.

24 The final issue, Your Honor -- the second point I 25 want to raise, Your Honor, in addition to non-assignment of

1 the -- the assignability of the non-debtor rights relates to 2 the inflation of abuse liability.

3 The TDP's are expressly designed to inflate the 4 debtor and local councils abuse claim liability and then pass
5 those inflated claims onto the insurers for payment. This 6 strategy was rejected by the Third Circuit in Global Industry
7 Technologies which expressly found that by inflating claims 8 well above historical norms the debtors were, effectively, 9 modifying their prepetition insurance policies by altering 10 the debtor's risk profile.

11 The insurers aren't attempting to limit their 12 liability, Your Honor. Rather, their argument is entirely 13 different. Their argument, consistent with GIT is that 14 bankruptcy doesn't expand their liability and that a plan 15 that does so is unconfirmable. I want to give you some 16 examples of how the TDP's inflate the liability.

17 Let's start with the expedited distribution. The 18 expedited distribution has now been increased from $1,500 to 19 $3,500 and it's available simply by signing a proof of claim 20 without any additional showing of proof and most importantly 21 without any of the ability of the settlement trustee to go
22 behind and investigate the proof of claim. That is a process 23 accepting a claim at face value with absolutely no party
24 having the right to contest it, that's wholly inconsistent
25 with Section 502. Even the trustee, even the settlement

1 trustee, Your Honor, doesn't have the right to object to 2 these claims.

3 THE COURT: So let me ask you, Mr. Rosenthal, is 4 your objection there, and I realize you may have some points
5 on that, that the $3,500 is being offered or that the $3,500
6 would be binding on the insurance company in some future 7 coverage action?

8 MR. ROSENTHAL: It's that it would be binding on 9 the insurance companies in a future coverage action. So what 10 we're basically saying, Your Honor, is that these claims are 11 subject -- should be subject to objections. Some of these 12 claims may be fraudulent claims. They shouldn't be paid the 13 $3,500.

14 What is happening here is that the trust may be 15 paying tens of thousands of claims that would not be 16 compensable in a tort system at all and that this court would 17 disallow if there was no -- you know, if an objection was 18 filed and the court found that there is no basis for the 19 claim.

20 THE COURT: But from a practical perspective 21 perhaps paying $3,500 for a claim, a no look claim, might be 22 less expensive then evaluating that claim for the trustee to 23 evaluate that claim, and make a determination, and then pay 24 the valid claims, and then not pay the not valid claims. So 25 this is, I view it, through convenience class kind of issue.

1 MR. ROSENTHAL: Perhaps, Your Honor, but giving 2 the trustee even a right to object to the claim, even a right 3 to object to the claim would have some -- would have value in 4 terms of causing people to be, I think, more honest about the 5 claims that they assert.

6 You know, one of the things that we talked about 7 before were the fraud prevention measures in Maremont. So 8 those measures aren't applied to every single claim. The -- 9 you have to prove some things, you have to provide some 10 information when you file your claim, but the value of the 11 measures is that there are audit rights.

12 So to somebody who gives you information and if 13 you randomly check it and you find out that it's not 14 appropriate you can actually -- you have remedies -- you have 15 an audit right and you have remedies. Here, the failure to 16 allow the objection means that all those claims just get 17 paid.

18 THE COURT: I think it's a fair comment. What I 19 am trying to tease out from it is, I guess, two things. One, 20 I hear the antifraud concerns. That is something I am
21 concerned about. So I hear that. Second, what I think I'm 22 also hearing is the insurers don't want to be stuck with 23 $3,500 times 10,000 claims for which the settlement trustee 24 is going to seek coverage and argue that you are bound by the 25 $3,500 -- your client is bound by the $3,500 figure.

1 MR. ROSENTHAL: That's correct, Your Honor. And 2 it gets even worse with the next example I am going to give 3 you.

4 THE COURT: This example, though, I think is a 5 fair comment to say, I think it would be hard-pressed to, for 6 me to say that $3500 is recoverable absolutely under an 7 insurance policy on -- it might be a fair settlement. I
8 don't know.

9 In that sense, I suspect I would be approving this 10 because of the convenience class factor, and whether a 11 convenience class factor could bind an insurance company, you 12 know, you may get a fair and reasonable finding, but I don't 13 see how that binds an insurance company down the line, given 14 the basis on which I think I would approve that. So, I think 15 there are two issues there that the insurance companies are 16 fairly raising.

17 MR. ROSENTHAL: We'll talk about some of that with 18 the findings.

19 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

20 MR. ROSENTHAL: Let me go to the second example of 21 how the TDPs lead to inflated claim amounts. And it relates 22 to what must be shown to have an allowed claim, and we're 23 talking not about the $3500.

24 So, in the tort system, BSA sex abuse claims would 25 require a showing of negligence on the part of the debtors or

1 another protected party. That would mean that if this Court
2 were reviewing the claim under Section 502, you could not 3 allow it without a showing of negligence. This follows from 4 the uncontroversial bankruptcy principle that, by and large,
5 bankruptcy relies on underlying state law to determine 6 whether a claim should be allowed or disallowed.

7 Not so under the TDPs. Under the TDPs, a showing 8 of negligence is not required to obtain a base recovery.
9 And, remember, base recoveries can be significant. So, the 10 base recovery for a penetration claim, for example, is 11 $600,000.

12 Instead, under the TDPs, a claimant receives an 13 enhanced recovery from the base if it's capable of showing 14 negligence. When combined with the requested finding that 15 the TDPs are fair and reasonable, based on the evidence 16 presented, how can this not be an attempt to alter the 17 insurance contracts?

18 Effectively, this makes the TDPs a strict-19 liability TDP when the underlying tort is not a strict-20 liability tort; it requires negligence.

21 Before the debtors entered into the agreement with 22 the coalition and the FCR, the debtors -- the TDPs actually 23 required the settlement trustee to disallow a claim if he 24 found that the evidence submitted does not support a viable 25 claim against a protected party in the tort system. The

1 coalition and the FCR completely re-drafted the TDPs so that 2 now a showing that a claim would be compensable in the tort 3 system is no longer a threshold requirement.

4 Instead, the trustee must now pay claimants, even 5 if they can't demonstrate negligence. And what had been a 6 requirement for a claim is now an aggravating scaling factor, 7 which would increase recoveries.

8 The next area in which -- and if you have 9 questions, Your Honor, let me know.

10 THE COURT: Well, somewhere over the weekend, I 11 had written down a note to myself that said, well, what do 12 the insurance companies want that will get them to not object 13 to this plan?

14 Is this the list that I'm getting or is this just 15 the objections that I'm going to hear, but even if you get 16 all this, you're still going to object, your clients are 17 still going to object to the plan?

18 MR. ROSENTHAL: Your Honor, I can't --

19 THE COURT: Maybe not a fair question to ask --

20 MR. ROSENTHAL: I can't commit --

21 THE COURT: -- but this is the sort of a lens for 22 which I'm hearing objections.

23 MR. ROSENTHAL: I hear that and I can't commit to 24 that now; obviously, that's a client decision.

25 THE COURT: Sure.

1 MR. ROSENTHAL: But also obviously, what you're 2 hearing from me are the principal concerns of my, you know, 3 of my client and of other insurers.

4 THE COURT: Fair enough.

5 MR. ROSENTHAL: And to the extent that those 6 concerns are addressed, I think, you know, the client will 7 have to evaluate what their position is.

8 THE COURT: Fair enough answer.

9 MR. ROSENTHAL: So, the third area, Your Honor, 10 deals with the treatment of claims that are barred by the 11 statute of limitations. Under the TDPs, the trustee is not 12 permitted to zero out time-barred claims. This is despite 13 the fact that the debtors' claims expert, Bates White, 14 believes that approximately 59,000 claims are presumptively
15 barred by the statute of limitations and not entitled to a 16 recovery.

17 Again, Your Honor, I want to draw the difference
18 between the TDPs and Section 502 and how would you apply it.
19 You, Your Honor, I think, would be duty-bound not to allow a 20 claim that was barred by the statute of limitations. Here, 21 those claims are allowed.

22 Federal District Court Judge Watson of the 23 Southern District of Ohio just ruled last Wednesday in a case
24 involving abuse at Ohio State University that although there 25 was no question that unspeakable abuse had been inflicted on

1 over 300 victims, the cases could not move forward because 2 the statute of limitations had expired.

3 So, the allowance of claims that are otherwise 4 time-barred, effectively, allows claims that would not be 5 compensable in the tort system and that would not be 6 allowable by Your Honor if you were reviewing these claims.

7 THE COURT: Did Judge Watson do that on an 8 aggregate basis or did he do that on a claim-by-claim basis?

9 MR. ROSENTHAL: I think he did it -- I don't know, 10 Your Honor. I don't know. But I know it was 300 claims that 11 were the subject of that.

12 Finally, Your Honor, separate and apart from the, 13 you know, allowance of claims that would not be allowed in 14 the tort system, the insurers have an issue with the broad 15 discretion granted to the trustee to increase claim values
16 based on aggravating factors. Now, he can also decrease 17 factors, based on mitigating factors, but there's a nuance, 18 but important difference in the trustee's discretion in this 19 regard that, effectively, will result in increasing the 20 claims, more than in decreasing them.

21 In the case of aggravating factors, the trustee is 22 almost directed to increase this claim value somewhere 23 between an established range. So, you have to increase it by 24 somewhere between X and Y.

25 With respect to decreases, however, the trustee

1 has almost unlimited discretion to decide not to decrease the 2 claim value at all from the base matrix value. There's no 3 recommended -- you know, there's no range that he has to 4 decrease a certain amount if this mitigating factor comes 5 into play.

6 The only instance where there is a range relates 7 to statute of limitations. So, there is a recommended range 8 for a decrease with statute of limitations, but in some 9 states, the reduction based on a "statute of limitations" bar 10 is as low as 30 percent. So, while there's a reduction, he's 11 still allowing the claim at a considerable amount.

12 In one of the --

13 THE COURT: Do you think there can be no scaling 14 factors for the statute of limitations at all for states 15 which currently do not have an open window?

16 MR. ROSENTHAL: I think that there, I think that 17 the proper way to handle those claims is to defer them, the 18 way this plan does, to see if the window opens. If the state 19 passes survivor legislation.

20 If, however, it does not, I think the proper way 21 to handle it is either to disallow them entirely or to allow 22 them with a significant reduction, a very significant 23 reduction, over 90-percent reduction. And I think a 24 claimant --

25 THE COURT: And I haven't, and I'm not sure it's

1 in the disclosure statement, to know the basis upon which 2 each state was placed in a category, but -- and that's, I
3 assume, information that I would get at confirmation, but I
4 hear you on the "statute of limitations" issue, which is why 5 I asked if it's a binary yes-or-no or if there could be some 6 kind of scaling factors, but I hear you on that.

7 MR. ROSENTHAL: One of the mitigating, scaling 8 factors the trustee can consider is allocating responsibility 9 between protected parties and other responsible, non-10 protected parties. This is really sort of an apportionment 11 issue. You know, these -- it's sad to say, but some of these 12 claimants have suffered abuse unrelated to Boy Scouts and 13 applicable law would apportion liability so that claimants 14 are not paid more than once for the same claim.

15 Here, the trustee has discretion to apportion, but 16 no requirement to do so. And at least so far, there is no 17 provision that actually requires a claimant to certify what 18 other defendants the claimant might have recovered from or 19 have a claim against, so that the trustee can even attempt to 20 determine BSA's allocable share.

21 And this is, Your Honor, one of the crux issues in 22 the asbestos context, where claimants file claims against a 23 debtor and they have also filed claims against other non-24 bankrupt defendants and against other trusts created by 25 debtors who previously went into bankruptcy, and it's the

1 failure to disclose those which makes it difficult to 2 appropriately value the share of the debtor.

3 So, all these factors, Your Honor, we believe will 4 expand the quantum of abuse liability well beyond the actual 5 abuse liability and any of the projections produced by Bates
6 White. So, they value abuse liability between 2.4 billion
7 and 7.1 billion, based on their opinion that only roughly 20
8 percent of the claims filed to date are entitled to a 9 recovery at all, much less than the 100 percent that are 10 entitled to recovery under the TDPs.

11 And under GIT, this inflation of plans alters the 12 debtors' risk profile and is clearly a modification of 13 insurance contracts, which this Court does not have the power 14 to approve.

15 THE COURT: So, I thought I had the Global 16 Industrial case out here with me -- I don't -- but my 17 recollection of Global Industrial is that at the circuit
18 level, the Court was looking at appellate standing. No, I'm 19 sorry, the Court wasn't looking at appellate standing; the 20 Court was looking at Bankruptcy Court standing and the 21 Bankruptcy Court had determined that the insurers did not 22 have standing to raise certain confirmation objections.

23 And the Third Circuit, looking at bankruptcy
24 standing, said a couple things, but the quantum of liability 25 raised by the silica-based claims, which had increased from a

1 couple hundred to 6,000 or something like that, meant that 2 the bankruptcy judge should have permitted the insurance 3 companies to participate in confirmation and raised issues 4 regarding whatever they wanted to raise issues on, but, in 5 particular, I think there were fraud issues, and remanded for 6 that purpose, notwithstanding that the bankruptcy judge 7 apparently had made extensive findings, based on other 8 parties' objections, very similar objections.

9 I don't think the Third Circuit said that the 10 potential for an increase in liabilities means a plan is not 11 confirmable or that, or necessarily that -- well, I don't 12 think they said it was not confirmable. I think they said 13 the insurance company had to be able to participate and raise 14 the issues and then Global Industrial doesn't end up in front
15 of the Third Circuit again, so I think the insurance 16 companies end up settling, as I recall. We did take a look 17 at what the subsequent history was to see what happened, 18 because it would have been interesting.

19 So, I think the insurance companies are using 20 Global Industrial a little bit differently than I read it. I 21 read it to give the insurance companies bankruptcy standing 22 to raise the issues they were not permitted to raise below in 23 Global Industrial, but it doesn't mean that there's no 24 confirmable plan out there simply because there may be some 25 increase in quantum.

1 But I view that differently as I think what you're 2 going to argue to me on findings, so where am I wrong on 3 that, Mr. Rosenthal?

4 MR. ROSENTHAL: Well, I think on the point that 5 you were just raising, one of the statements you made the 6 other day was you think insurance neutrality is a misused
7 term or maybe a misunderstood term.

8 You know, I conflate two concepts. I conflate
9 standing, and I think I've said this to you before, I 10 conflate standing with the principle that you are altering 11 the insurers' rights, and that if you -- and that what was 12 really happening in GIT was that the Court said you're 13 increasing the quantum of liability. In that case it was 14 silica.

15 In this case, the increase is from 1700 claims to 16 82,000 claims, something like that.

17 But it's not that increase that we're complaining 18 about. It's actually not that increase. Those are claims 19 filed (indiscernible) bankruptcy, right.

20 It's more the alteration of the contracts, the 21 standards by which claims are evaluated. And so, it goes to 22 the specific points we were talking about when we were going 23 through the specific items of allowing items that are time-24 barred, of allowing claims that don't prove the essential 25 elements of a cause of action: negligence.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. ROSENTHAL: Okay. Now, let's talk about 3 insurance findings. Your Honor, however the Court defines 4 "insurance neutrality," we think the plan turns it on its 5 head and requires the Court to make confirmation findings
6 that, (A), are unnecessary to confirmation, and, (B), strip 7 away key, contractual rights and coverage defenses of the 8 insurance.

9 Quite simply, Your Honor, the findings seek this 10 Court's blessing today for inflated claim determinations that 11 Mr. Green or some other settlement trustee will make down the 12 road with respect to each abuse claim. These findings will 13 be used to support the inevitable argument by the settlement
14 trustee to the coverage court that this Court effectively 15 entered a judgment about the validity and amount of each 16 claim, a judgment that, as you know, you are not making -- 17 you told us that -- and that you're jurisdictionally 18 incapable of making about a personal injury claim.

19 You know, so I would (indiscernible) the finding 20 issue or the CliffsNotes version of that is that none of the 21 findings are required and all alter the insurers' rights, 22 which this Court has no authority to do.

23 So, let me go over the three insurance findings
24 that are problematic.

25 THE COURT: Yeah, let me get my ...

1 (Pause)

2 THE COURT: Where can I most easily find them?
3 I had them marked in my RSA, which I don't have 4 here.

5 MR. ROSENTHAL: In the plan --

6 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

7 MR. ROSENTHAL: -- if you go to the conditions 8 preceding the confirmation and then --

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MS. LAURIA: Your Honor, if you have the 11 blacklines that were filed last night, I can give you the 12 precise page preference if that would be helpful.

13 Sorry, Mr. Rosenthal.

14 It's Docket 6385-1.

15 THE COURT: Uh-huh. Okay.

16 MR. ROSENTHAL: And, Your Honor --

17 MS. LAURIA: In the PDF, it's 107.

18 THE COURT: They're in the conditions preceding.

19 (Pause)

20 MR. ROSENTHAL: So, the first finding, Your Honor, 21 if you've found it, is Finding R. I think it's R. It's a 22 finding that the TDP allowance procedures are fair and 23 reasonable, based on the evidence presented to the Court and,
24 specifically, the finding is, you know, the procedures 25 including the trust, the TDPs, pertaining to the allowance of 1 claims and the criteria included in the TDPs pertaining to 2 the calculation of the claim amounts, including the claims 3 matrix, base values, maximum matrix values, and scaling 4 factors are fair and reasonable, based on the evidentiary

5 record offered to the Court.

6 To us, at least, it's clear how this, that this 7 finding alters the insurers' rights and how it will be used
8 against the insurers. The settlement trustee will bring a 9 State Court coverage action and argue that the Bankruptcy 10 Court, based on evidence presented to it, because it's got to 11 be based on the evidentiary record, found that the procedures 12 and criteria for allowance are fair and reasonable and that, 13 therefore, the determination of claim amounts that flow from 14 those procedures and criteria, you also blessed and bind all 15 non-settling insurers to whatever number the settlement 16 trustee has determined is the appropriate amount of a 17 particular claim.

18 This finding an effectively a determination that 19 every personal injury claim allowed by the trustee has your 20 stamp of approval, because you've approved the procedures, 21 the criteria, they're fair and reasonable, you've had a 22 record.

23 But, Your Honor, as you know, you don't 24 constitutionally have the jurisdiction to do anything of the 25 sort. And it's also clear why, even if you were inclined to 1 make this finding and had authority to make it, substantial 2 discovery would be required.

3 They're asking you to make the finding based on 4 the evidence. At a minimum, you can't possibly make the 5 evidentiary finding without, as a matter of fairness and due 6 process, giving objectors a reasonable opportunity to gather 7 and provide their evidence in opposition to the evidence that 8 we know will be presented by the coalition and the FCR.

9 If you move to the next finding, Your Honor, this 10 really fortifies; Finding S fortifies the first one. That 11 finding is that an abuse claimant's right to payment is the 12 amount at which such abuse claim is allowed under the TDPs.

13 And in my outline, I have highlighted "is the 14 amount at which is allowed." So, effectively, this finding 15 confirms that from your perspective, the claimant's right to 16 payment is the amount determined by the settlement trustee; 17 that's what it says, "claimant's right to payment is the 18 amount at which it is allowed."

19 And you made it a point to say, last week, that 20 you weren't going to be evaluating individual insurance 21 policies in determining whether an insurer right or might not 22 have to pay a, as a result of the bankruptcy. But if you 23 look at this finding, Your Honor, it's asking you to make 24 precisely that determination. It's asking you to determine 25 now that a claimant is entitled to be paid the amount at 1 which its abuse claim is allowed under the TDPs.

2 THE COURT: Well, don't I have to find that?
3 Don't I have to make a finding that relative among claimants,
4 at least, right, that the amount that the settlement trustee 5 determines is the allowed amount of their claim -- "allowed 6 amount" is, I guess, a loaded term -- is the amount of the 7 claim so that, in fact, a pro rata distribution can be made?

8 MR. ROSENTHAL: I don't think you have to, Your 9 Honor. I don't think you have to make that as a confirmation 10 finding. I think this is an agreement -- what the TDP is, is 11 an agreement among the claimants and the FCR as to how 12 they're going to allocate whatever value comes into the 13 trust. And I don't think that your stamp of approval on that 14 can be -- is inappropriate and can be terribly misused.

15 THE COURT: Well, this is the Fuller-Austin issue, 16 right, this second one here?

17 MR. ROSENTHAL: This is the Fuller-Austin issue, 18 but the way the finding is structured, it's more than the 19 Fuller-Austin issue, because it's not just -- because the way 20 it is structured, in conjunction with the first finding 21 you're talking about is, you know, is the amount at which 22 it's allowed under the TDPs.

23 It really does -- let me give you an example, and 24 there's another -- T is a different finding, you know, that 25 the plan and trust distributions procedures were proposed in

1 good faith. But what I really want you to focus on, I think,
2 is if you suspend reality for a second and you take yourself
3 off of this bench and you put yourself on a --

4 THE COURT: Can I do that? Can I really do that?

5 MR. ROSENTHAL: Well, you may not want the second 6 part of my assumption.

7 (Laughter)

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. ROSENTHAL: And you put yourself on a state 10 coverage court bench --

11 (Laughter)

12 MR. ROSENTHAL: -- where, you know, you are 13 looking at bankruptcy. And what you see in bankruptcy -- 14 because you're not a bankruptcy lawyer -- is a confusing
15 amaze of Code provisions that is, you know, overseen by a 16 bankruptcy judge, a thoughtful bankruptcy judge.

17 Now, from that seat, Your Honor, can you honestly 18 tell me that after reviewing the findings that you would have 19 entered if you agree with the proponents, you would not be 20 inclined to conclude that the Bankruptcy Court had stamped 21 its approval on the claim values. I think you would conclude 22 that you stamped your approval on the claim values.

23 And that's precisely why the coalition and the 24 FCR, with the support of the debtors, want these findings.
25 And it's also why the insurers think it's important not only

1 that the plan, you know, be insurance-neutral, but that you 2 give direction to that Court to say, yes, I am confirming the 3 plan. I am doing my job. I am approving the plan under the 4 confirmation requirements, but I am not, I am not determining 5 whether any insurer is liable for them. I am not actually 6 determining the claim values. I am not finding that the TDPs 7 represent judgments.

8 Remember that Mr. Zalkin told the Court that he 9 had been told by the claimants' representatives that what 10 they were trying to do is, and what they thought they would 11 get out of this case, is get Your Honor to issue findings and 12 orders that effectively represented judgments, with respect 13 to the claims.

14 THE COURT: So, what do you think I can do?

15 MR. ROSENTHAL: I think you can approve the plan.
16 If you believe it's appropriate, I think you can confirm the 17 plan. And, you know, say the plan has been proposed in good 18 faith, the plan complies with the provisions of the 19 Bankruptcy Code that are in 1129, but not bless the claim 20 determinations that come out of the TDPs. You know, that, 21 Your Honor, is something that should be reserved for -- the 22 TDPs can do whatever they want, but when they go to collect 23 from insurers, they will have to demonstrate that those 24 claims are entitled to be covered under the policies. And 25 they shouldn't be able to rely on your findings in any way,

1 shape, or form, to make that argument.

2 Now, you raised a good question. Is there an 3 intermediate position that you might be able to take, the 4 plan treats everyone the same, you know, that treats
5 substantially similar claimants the same?

6 Maybe. But I think if you did that, you would 7 have to make it very clear that that was the extent to which 8 you were going. You were not putting your stamp of approval 9 on the amounts that came out of those TDPs or that they were 10 covered by insurance.

11 I'm not even sure you need to do that. This is 12 not a 524(g) case. You don't have to make 524(g) findings.
13 That would be required in 524(g), but this is not a 524(g)
14 case.

15 THE COURT: Well, I have to say that I don't know 16 that sitting here, I know every finding I need to make to 17 confirm a plan, because I don't know exactly what objections 18 are going to be posed to me in what fashion, and that's hard 19 to know until we see them, until we know what the vote is, 20 until we see what issues are raised. And so, that's why it's 21 hard to anticipate -- I wouldn't say there's a vacuum -- I've 22 heard a lot of confirmation objections, but I haven't heard 23 them in the context of a solicited, voted plan that's in 24 front of me.

25 And I can anticipate that I would need to make

1 some findings for confirmation purposes and on a record
2 that's built at confirmation with respect to the TDPs and 3 maybe the values in the TDPs, depending on the objections 4 that I get.

5 MR. ROSENTHAL: If you are going to make the 6 findings, I would think you would need to consider all the 7 evidence, but, I mean, this goes to the point that, you know, 8 we don't think that these findings truly have anything to do 9 with confirmation and they bring with them, a total, in terms
10 of timing and cost. And, you know, they put you, frankly, 11 right in the middle of claim determinations, with respect to 12 personal injury claims, which I don't see how you can do.

13 I mean, if you make a finding that the, you know, 14 that $600,000 is the appropriate base amount and that the 15 range for -- and that that should be allowed, notwithstanding 16 no finding of negligence, and that the range for a 17 demonstration of negligence should increase that by X or Y, 18 and you're giving the trustee full discretion to determine 19 whether it's X or Y or somewhere in between, Your Honor, I 20 think you are effectively putting your finger on these claims 21 in a way that certainly a coverage court may very well think 22 you've made the determination now, even though the actual 23 determination of the amount is not going to be made later by 24 the trustee.

25 And I think that's the opposite -- I think that

1 alters the insurers' rights, to -- that alters the insurers'
2 rights, and it is something that Your Honor cannot do in 3 bankruptcy and does not need to do.

4 THE COURT: Well, I don't see how I would be 5 determining and fixing the amount of any particular claim, 6 but I do think, again, depending on the objections I get,
7 that I may have -- that I have to determine that the TDPs set 8 up an appropriate process for the settlement trustee to 9 exercise his discretion within. It's not grammatically 10 great, but okay.

11 So, because we don't send the claims to a trust 12 with no guidance on how to evaluate them; there has to be 13 guidance on how to evaluate them, so that all of those claims 14 are evaluated consistently and share appropriately from the 15 pot. So, I can't just say, hand them over and say, figure it 16 out, with no guidance; with no guidelines, nobody 17 understands.

18 Well, maybe I could -- I don't know -- I guess 19 that's what a judge does all the time, but I don't think 20 that's the way this is historically done.

21 MR. ROSENTHAL: I don't think courts get down into 22 the weeds and say -- I mean, are you going to get down and 23 say that the base value should be X for this kind of abuse
24 and Y for the other kind of abuse? Are you going to make a 25 judgment about the amount of the uplift or down lift that

1 occurs for certain factors?

2 Because if you get it, if you think that you can 3 or should get into that, I think you're, with respect, Your 4 Honor, I think you're going far beyond what you are -- not 5 just what you're permitting to do, because I -- but I
6 think -- not what you're constitutionally permitted to do,
7 jurisdictionally permitted to do, but what you're permitted
8 to do under the Bankruptcy Code.

9 Because you said it a couple times, you can't 10 alter the rights of the insurers. The insurers have the 11 right, you know, under their contracts they have many rights, 12 including the right to, you know, participate in settlements
13 and approve settlements, the right to take over the defense 14 of these claims. You know, they -- what you're effectively 15 doing is forcing them to come, because they don't know what 16 effect a State Court will have, based on what you rule, but 17 they have a strong suspicion. My example is exactly what a 18 State Court would do. They have to come here and litigate 19 not only the appropriateness of what you're being asked to 20 do, separate and apart from the values, but also the values.

21 THE COURT: Well, would you agree with me that I 22 may have to determine an aggregate number, an aggregate value 23 for the claims in some context at confirmation?

24 MR. ROSENTHAL: Why do you think you need that?
25 No one has asked you for that.

1 THE COURT: I kind of thought somebody had.

2 MR. ROSENTHAL: They had before, but I don't think 3 there's anything currently on the table for that.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. ROSENTHAL: Look, I think --

6 THE COURT: This is why it's hard to have a 7 discussion in the abstract.

8 MR. ROSENTHAL: Do you know how the TDPs, how most 9 TDPs work?

10 Most TDPs, well, I'll -- most TDPs, you know, they 11 apply similar criteria. Most TDPs that we know recently are 12 asbestos-related, but, obviously, you know, there are other 13 mass torts that have become more prominent in terms of cases.

14 So, what the TDPs generally do is they do treat 15 everyone similarly situated in a similar manner. That's 16 something that 524 would require. But, at the same time, 17 they do that and they don't need, necessarily, to have 18 estimates of the overall value, because they pay to the 19 claimant, they do an assessment of what the assets are at the 20 time, and they pay to the claimant a payment percentage -- 21 not the full amount of the claim -- but a payment percentage, 22 based on the assets at the time.

23 And if they subsequently collect additional assets
24 from additional insurance or if they had other real property 25 assets and they sold that real property and they subsequently

1 are able to pay a supplemental distribution on account of 2 that claim, then they would make another assessment three 3 months down the road or a year down the road and say, okay, 4 we paid the claimant 10 cents on the dollar, because that's 5 all we had on day one. We thought we were going to have, you 6 know, 80,000 claims. We had a claims expert. We thought we 7 were going to have 80,000 claims and based on the information 8 that we got from the claims expert, we were able to make an 9 initial distribution of X percent on the dollar. As further 10 monies come in, we can supplement that distribution.

11 So, while there are determinations made by the 12 trust from time to time about what the claims would be, and 13 those are used for determining the payment percentage, 14 primarily, so, you know, in some cases, Your Honor, courts do 15 make estimates of claim values. In other cases, they do not.

16 In that, you know, Garlock case from six or seven 17 years ago, and it turns out to be a lot longer now, the 18 parties, there was a huge fight about what the claims 19 estimates were, because the parties were worlds apart. And 20 the debtor pressed for an estimation and there was a lengthy 21 estimation process in that case. The result of the 22 estimation actually led to a settlement, but that's not the 23 case in every case.

24 So, Your Honor, let me just -- I thank you for 25 your time. I know it's taken quite a bit of time, and I am

1 happy to answer any more questions you have, but I will just 2 say in closing, we agree with the debtors that further 3 mediation may very well bear fruit, but, unlike the debtors, 4 we believe that so long as the possibility exists that Your 5 Honor might embrace the insurance prejudicial provisions and 6 findings, the claimant representatives have every incentive
7 to be, frankly, unreasonable, even at the expense of outcomes 8 that would be better for everyone in the case, because their 9 desires, and I mentioned this at the outset, I believe their 10 desires exceed the four corners of this case. They want to 11 make new precedent that they can use in other cases.

12 But without a true global settlement, these cases 13 will drag on for months, possibly years, through appeals, and 14 during that time, legitimate claimants will suffer the 15 consequences as they wait for meaningful compensation.

16 So, we believe that approval of the disclosure 17 statement and commencement of solicitation, without at least 18 a strong admonition that the proposed findings render the 19 plan unconfirmable, not only imposes an obstacle to a global 20 resolution and a quick exit, but it leads the debtors down a 21 costly and expensive path to solicit votes on a plan that's 22 not confirmable, in our view.

23 Your Honor, thank you for your time. I appreciate 24 your thoughtful questions.

25 THE COURT: Thank you.

1 Mr. Schiavoni?

2 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, I was candidly going 3 to rely upon, stand on my papers, but if you could just hear 4 me for 10 minutes, I would appreciate that.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. SCHIAVONI: There is an overlay I would just 7 like to put on Mr. Rosenthal's comments. I would like to 8 bring Your Honor back to my argument about Combustion
9 Engineering and the reversal that took place in Combustion 10 Engineering, because I think it's important in how one looks 11 at this case as one goes forward.

12 Your Honor, in Combustion Engineering, what the 13 Court -- there's a key phrase in there, from my perspective, 14 that the Court talked about, and what it talked about there 15 in giving guidance on how to look at these kinds of cases is 16 it looked at the elaborate steps that the debtor had taken 17 with this group of claimants that had, as it terms, either 18 stub claims or weak claims or potentially non-compensable 19 claims, in order to sort of jimmy up a majority vote for a 20 plan.

21 And what the Court said in there was something to 22 the effect -- I don't have the exact quote in front of me -- 23 was that one could, by, you know, individually, you know, 24 take steps that look like they comply with the Code, but 25 overall, those steps combined, were -- in that case, the

1 Court was concerned -- were really intended to avoid the 2 purpose of the overall Code. And in there, what they were 3 focused on was the importance of an affirmative vote by an 4 impaired class and whether they really had an impaired class 5 there or not; in other words, an individual, if you just 6 looked at it step-by-step, they might comply and on other 7 things, not comply.

8 Your Honor has earned a well-founded reputation as 9 a balls-and-strike judge who takes each issue presented to 10 her and tries to call it fairly, and that's appreciated by 11 everyone. But if you look at how these different steps over 12 time combined, and then you look at the result on the back
13 end, which is what you hear from the TCC talking about a 14 hundred-billion-dollar payout here. And you see it in 15 various other papers and it's inflamed the claimants.

16 It's like, and then you compare it to with what we 17 started here, which was a Defendant in the tort system, which 18 had definite problems and, you know, even if there was only 19 one abuse claimant, it was a horrendous problem, but when 20 they filed, they had 275 claims and a thousand alleged, and 21 within just a few months, they generated 80-plus-thousand 22 claims through the use of these, you know, for-profit 23 aggregators.

24 And now, we're on a path where they're saying 25 they're going to get a -- it's like they think they've got a

1 plan where they're basically saying they're going to hand it 2 to a trustee at the end of the case and he's going to prove-3 up claims and, you know, you've heard it from the TCC,
4 there's a hundred billion dollars that's going to come out
5 the back end. And if that happens, that will cause enormous 6 damage, enormous damage beyond the scope of this case. The 7 notion that one can just print money and it not have an 8 impact is wrong. It will have tremendous damage.

9 But let's just look at some of the components on 10 how we got there. But as a starting point, just in some of 11 the exchanges that you had with Mr. Rosenthal, I want you to 12 think about how this term "TDP" evolved and really what it 13 is, okay. It's a trust distribution procedure. It's just 14 that. It's how a settlement trust, you know, allocates money 15 out among its claimants.

16 It's not too different from in regular District
17 Court litigation where you have class actions, money is paid, 18 and then the settlement trust makes and allocates out the 19 money. And the Plaintiffs' lawyers can have wide discretion 20 in sort of how they make those allocations, how they spread 21 the money around among their various claimants.

22 They can, in that sort of situation, if that's all 23 that's happening, they can have the trustee, you know, make 24 various presumptions in their favor and, you know, they have 25 wide discretion on how they might allocate money.

1 What these are, and what the word "TDP," it means
2 trust distribution procedure. It doesn't mean trust 3 adjudication procedure.

4 It's like the findings that Your Honor is being 5 asked to make and what's embedded in the TDP, itself -- and,
6 you know, there's various texts in there that they want you 7 to approve -- converts this into just that, from just an 8 allocation procedure among the claimants about how they're 9 going to allocate the money among their claimants, into a 10 trust adjudication procedure where, effectively, you know, a 11 gentleman selected by the claimants with procedures picked by 12 the claimants is then going to, quote, determine the 13 liability of the debtor.

14 And it's utterly and completely at odds, that 15 process, with what's contemplated by the insurance contracts
16 here. In large measure, it explains the entire difference 17 between why there were 275 claims in the tort system when the 18 case started and why there's 80-plus-thousand claims right 19 now.

20 In the tort system, and under the policies, there 21 was a process, whereby, someone with a stake in the game 22 would first make an assessment about, you know, whether or 23 not the claim should be settled or not. If it wasn't settled 24 immediately, it would be, then, presented in the tort system, 25 where the burdens of proof would be placed on the Plaintiff

1 and various levels of proof would be required and good claims
2 would be, you know, vetted out from bad claims. That's a 3 process that's tied to, and built into, how the insurance 4 contracts work.

5 This trust distribution procedure, if all the 6 Court is approving is, look, this is how they're going to 7 pass the money out among the claimants -- fine -- but if it's 8 converted into a trust adjudication procedure, it's 9 completely different from the tort world. No amount of 10 presenting evidence about what a particular claim might get 11 or might not get in the tort system changes the fundamental 12 nature of this, which is, there is not an independent, you 13 know, judicial official with the Rules of Evidence and the 14 burden requirements set in the tort system, making an 15 adjudication of what the claims are worth.

16 The TDP specifically, basically, makes the -- 17 flips the presumptions and the burdens of proofs on their 18 head. There's even a provision in the TDP that says that if 19 the trustee effectively determines that there's no evidence 20 at all supporting a claim, the claim (indiscernible) be 21 dismissed; instead, the claimant shall be given an 22 opportunity to sort of rummage through the Boy Scouts' files 23 that are turned over to try to, then, come up with some 24 evidence to make a claim out of what he finds in the files of 25 the Boy Scouts.

1 It's utterly and completely a different procedure
2 than in the tort system. It's not an adjudication procedure
3 at all; it's an allocation procedure. And what the claimants
4 have tried to do in drafting these TDPs is flip it around 5 into an adjudication procedure.

6 Now, when I say Your Honor calls balls and strikes
7 going through, I think you did, you know, and let's walk
8 through some of those. When the bar date order was presented 9 to the Court, the Court, you know, looked at that order, I
10 think, strictly under the Code and Your Honor made decisions 11 and approved the proofs of claim as it went forward.

12 But what happened?

13 It's like the proof-of-claim form, in fact, only 14 has a few questions about the claims. There's a number of -- 15 you know, there's like 15 questions in total. There may be a 16 little more, you know, I'm not -- I don't want to bind myself 17 to 15, exactly, right -- but the bulk of the questions, 18 numerically, are things like: Where did you go to college?
19 Where do you live? Things like that.

20 The questions about the claims only come down to a 21 couple. As we argued then and we've argued on appeal, there 22 was no requirement in the proof of claim that sufficient 23 facts be laid out in order to establish the elements of the 24 fact a claim against the debtor in the various states in the 25 union.

1 And as you heard from Mr. Rosenthal, it's like, 2 that's not insubstantial because there is not strict 3 liability for these types of claims. One has to establish in 4 the different states, different levels of evidence, including 5 negligence, and there's not strict liability.

6 I think what Your Honor, in a show of your further 7 diligence, I think you said at one point you looked at, you 8 pulled some random proofs of claim to look at yourself. And, 9 you know, I have every sense that you looked at a variety of 10 them. They tell different stories and different levels of 11 detail, but the bulk of them really just lay out that the 12 person, you know, to the extent they do this -- by the way, 13 many don't even assert abuse by Boy Scouts or in Boy Scouts.
14 There's a whole package of claims that just talk about abuse 15 in their families.

16 But the ones that do talk about Boy Scouts or say 17 something about it, you know, many of them just laid out 18 that, in fact, the person was abused and not much further.
19 So, the proofs of claim, themselves, you know, provided the 20 most bare-bones, you know, setout of what the claim was 21 about.

22 Overlay on that, that there was, you know,
23 extremely comprehensive confidentiality put over the claims 24 so that, you know, one is effectively, completely prohibited 25 from -- there's no way that we can take the information even

1 in the proof of claim and we can't speak to spouses or family 2 members or others, you know, referred to in the proof of 3 claim, because all of the contents of the proof of claim are 4 deemed confidential.

5 So, the ability of third parties and the debtor 6 to, you know, but mostly third parties, to investigate the 7 claim, based upon what the proof of claim, you know, the 8 contents of it, which, to begin with, are incredibly bare-9 bones, is incredibly restricted. You know, we tried, Your 10 Honor.

11 You know, even if the proof of claim said that I 12 was abused, you know, in a public spot where others were 13 witnesses, we couldn't take the proof of claim and send a 14 private investigator to speak to other people and say, look, 15 this was asserted in a proof of claim that this happened on 16 this day by Mr. Johnson, did it happen?

17 We would breach confidentiality under the proof of 18 claim to, you know, even pursue that investigation. So, the 19 ability to investigate the claims on this very sketchy proof 20 of claim was incredibly restricted.

21 We tried to deal with that in a responsible manner 22 by the 2004 motions that we brought before the Court and 23 trying, selectively, to get at groups of claims, how they 24 were prepared and to get at individual claimants, you know, 25 to establish, you know, some of the bona fides of the proofs

1 of claim.

2 We've not been able to take depositions. And, you
3 know, I've got it, Your Honor is sort of suggesting perhaps 4 maybe now we can do it, but it's like we have not been able 5 to do any testing of the proofs of claim directly and the 6 ability to test the proofs of claim for what they say is 7 incredibly harshly restricted by the confidentiality
8 provisions.

9 So, what do --

10 THE COURT: Let me ask this question. Let me ask 11 this question, Mr. Schiavoni: Isn't the insurance companies' 12 involvement with the proofs of claim inconsistent with the 13 position that the trust distribution procedures don't matter, 14 that they shouldn't matter to the insurance companies, 15 because they should be insurance-neutral, that I shouldn't be 16 making any decisions.

17 Because if I'm not making any decisions with 18 respect to the trust distribution procedures, why do the 19 insurance companies care about what's in a proof of claim?

20 MR. SCHIAVONI: So, Your Honor, I think I'm sort 21 of building to that kind of -- to give you the answer to that 22 question.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. SCHIAVONI: Because the bottom line, is the 25 proofs of claim are completely untested at all. It's like,

1 we then -- and this goes to, again, Combustion Engineering,
2 that each step along the way might, might have been proper,
3 but in combination, what does it give us, okay?

4 It's like, so the next step here is the Court, you
5 know, decides to send these out, you know, with each claim, 6 with each proof of claim getting one vote without any of them 7 tested. And a key element of 502, the whole thought on how 8 502 would work was that if proofs of claim are out there and 9 then people vote based on it, that, in essence, there's some 10 validity to the vote because all parties in interest would 11 have had an opportunity to kind of test who's voting, so to 12 speak, right. That's like a core element of 502 was that the 13 reason why you get a vote, like, votes would be allowed is 14 because people could object to the people voting, okay.

15 But if there's been no ability to test the votes 16 and then, you know, we then have the vote going out without 17 any of these, it's like without really knowing whether this 18 is a good vote or not, because no one has really been able to 19 test the votes.

20 And what's happened is like what's happened, I
21 think, in Combustion Engineering. The debtor has aligned 22 itself with a group that purports to, you know, bring about 23 the majority vote and it's then an untested vote, based on 24 the proofs of claim, because we didn't have the ability to 25 test it.

1 And what, then, is embedded in that?

2 Exactly what the Circuit was sending back for 3 discovery in Combustion Engineering; a plan comes out that 4 has incredibly loose distribution procedures. Again, I don't 5 think they're adjudication procedures; they're distribution
6 procedures.

7 The claimants didn't embed in here, and the 8 debtors certainly didn't, requirements that, you know, 9 strongly encourage the vetting out of good claims and bad 10 claims. That's not -- it's like you'll hear evidence on what 11 these proofs of claim do, but that's not what they do.

12 It's not like they've appointed, you know, a 13 former head of the FBI to run the trust; they've appointed 14 someone who you'll hear evidence about, and if it's somebody 15 else, it's someone still, nonetheless, who effectively is 16 going to be controlled under these governance procedures by 17 the so-called TAC in how they're going to make decisions.

18 This is -- it's -- the procedure that ends up 19 coming out of the plan, you know, is one that approves these 20 lesser claims. And again, this is the complaint, 21 fundamentally, that was being made by the Kazan claimants,
22 who prevailed in Combustion Engineering, that the plan
23 process then was hijacked by who was being allowed to vote.
24 And you know, so that's the sort of -- I don't know if we're 25 on the third or fourth step here that combines together on,

1 you know, a path where one might have said -- again, each one
2 of these was, you know, in good faith, decided by the Court.
3 But where does it leave us, you know, ultimately, and sort of 4 where the result takes us.

5 So, you know, then what happens is the debtor 6 also, as part of the plan, in agreement with the coalition, 7 to get their vote, agrees to assign their -- all of their 8 rights to object under 502 to the -- to this trustee. They 9 do it without the consent of the insurers. And that -- you 10 know, in an insurance coverage court, like that would be like 11 a really, really important, you know, right of ours.

12 In writing these contracts, the contracts directly 13 tie the consent to settle, you know, to -- you know, to 14 the -- it's an essential right to the contract. It's like, 15 when folks issued insurance policies, they didn't issue a 16 blank check machine to their policy holders to settle cases 17 willy-nilly, any way they wanted. It -- they said, to the 18 extent they took on a defense obligation and an indemnity
19 obligation, it was -- it's absolutely tied in the contract 20 that it's we would get -- it's like we can make a decision to 21 settle or we get to defend the case.

22 We didn't say you can -- you could settle 23 eighty -- you could create a system where you could get out 24 from your liability and create a system where you have -- you 25 could then willy-nilly, you know, settle 82,000 cases for any

1 dollar volume you have. But that's embedded in the plan, 2 that, without our consent, they're assigning all of their 3 objections to the claimants, to the claimants' appointed 4 trustee, to impose and -- or decide.

5 And how is he doing it? Well, I don't think 6 anyone can look at those trust distribution procedures, at 7 the end of the day -- and again, I don't think the focus, 8 frankly, should be whether X amount for this kind of claim or 9 Y amount is a fair amount. I think it ought to be on how the 10 decision is made to determine that, if it's going to -- if 11 it's going to, you know, bind us and apply to us because 12 it's -- the procedure is not any -- you know, again, it's 13 nothing like what's in -- we would anticipate in the tort 14 system. It's simply the plaintiffs themselves basically 15 applying procedures that they have blessed, agreed upon, I 16 would say drafted if we had the evidence, you know, to 17 confirm that, that the trustee presumptively will give them a 18 claim for almost anything.

19 Even on the statute of limitations, by the way, 20 he's given really sort of wide-ranging ability to basically 21 deem the statute of limitations as set aside. You know, and 22 it's not just a scaling factor down. It's like he can set it 23 aside, but -- in very -- you know, based upon the exercise of 24 his judgment. That's not at all what would happen in the 25 ordinary course.

1 And it's like -- now there's two other things I'd 2 just like to build into this before we come to the end. And 3 it's like, yeah, you're going to be asked to make good faith 4 findings in connection with the plan itself and how the 5 debtor and local councils acted. And we did talk about this 6 a little bit in connection with the disclosure statement.
7 But look at -- it's like you will get evidence that you will 8 see about what -- when they were negotiating with their money 9 on the line -- and they had money on the line because the 10 policies for half the period of time have significant 11 retained limits and/or deductibles, where they were directly 12 liable, the nondebtors, the nondebtor local councils and the 13 Boy Scouts.

14 And what's the deal they struck? The deal they 15 struck that they was at arm's length was they settled the -- 16 they settled this volume of claims somewhere -- if you -- I 17 don't think this is a fair way to sort of analyze like how 18 the money is changing hands, in some ways. But it's like 19 three to $6,000 a claim, if you just -- if you spread it 20 equally. And that's what they paid, that's what they 21 negotiated at arm's length when their money was at issue.

22 And you saw it when we walked through for the 23 individual local councils that many of them are not even 24 contributing a single retained limit/deductible -- whatever 25 one wants to call it -- for, you know, even one policy that

1 falls in those periods. It's like that would reflect what 2 they thought the claims were really worth.

3 But when they turned the pen over and gave it to 4 the claimants to say go draft a TDP, okay, it's like they 5 generate something that, you know, theoretically, from what 6 they say, generated a hundred-billion-dollar outcome. That's 7 not consistent with -- it's in no way consistent with, you 8 know, looking at those TDPs as, quote, an "adjudication" of 9 their liability.

10 It's like I -- you know, you'll hear evidence from 11 this on us [sic], but it's like I don't think one can say 12 that, if the local councils settled for $3,000, and as part 13 of that capped its liability, and then turned around to the 14 trust -- the claimants and said, okay, draft a TDP and pick 15 your trustee to decide what the insurers should pay, that the 16 Court can turn around and enter a finding that says that that 17 trust adjudication procedure represents what the debtor is 18 liable for or what the local councils were liable for. If it 19 was, they should be putting a lot more money in.

20 And you know, you heard some argument before that 21 this was us arguing out of, you know, two sides out of our 22 mouth about what they all ought to pay. Hopefully, you've 23 heard a little bit more about this and you understand now 24 what I'm talking about. It's like they can't be saying that, 25 if they paid not even a full deductible or retained limit,

1 you know, to resolve their claims in total, that somehow 2 it -- you know, what they're giving the trustee represents 3 their, quote, "actual liability."

4 So, yes, that finding is completely toxic to us
5 because of how we think the plan here has, step by step, you 6 know, abused what the Code is really intending. And there's 7 a series of bankruptcy objections that are built into how 8 these steps sort of combine, you know, including that we 9 think the vote will fundamentally be bad at the end of the 10 day, but that make these findings just terribly toxic.

11 And they do something else. It's like it's 12 created this specter you have in front of you of not just the 13 insurers objecting, okay, because of -- like it's made the 14 case virtually impossible to settle with the claimants if 15 they are to think that they, themselves, will decide what all 16 the claims are worth. I mean, one can imagine, you know, 17 what that kind of discussion would be like.

18 And Judge, God knows we've tried -- we have worked 19 to settle this case. I mean, Mr. Ryan and I worked very hard 20 in the Blitz case and we settled a very difficult case 21 together. And as I know, your patience with me as an 22 adversary has been epic, and I appreciate that. But I 23 just -- trust me that we've -- you know, we've worked very 24 hard to try to resolve the case. It's made almost impossible 25 by this dynamic.

1 And it's not just us, it's the claimants
2 themselves are at each other's throats over this because 3 there's no process by which -- you know, none of them -- 4 neither constituency is able, really, to stand up and say we 5 need an aggressive procedure here to whittle down the claims 6 or to focus the money on the more high-value claims. They're 7 almost institutionally -- and I'm not -- in some ways, I'm 8 not even faulting them for this. But it's against -- you 9 know, it's like they'll be called traitors by their own 10 constituency if they do it, but it's like they're unable to 11 do it.

12 The U.S. Trustee we've reached out to on this.
13 And I mean no fault, the U.S. Trustee is doing a fine job.
14 But they're not going to step forward into that role. You 15 know, so there's no one else in that role in the tort system.
16 It would be us doing that.

17 And to be clear, the debtor had that option. All 18 right? You know, you heard in Imerys how, at one point, 19 Imerys -- J&J stepped forward and said, you know, lift the 20 stay, let the cases go forward in the tort system. There 21 were CIPs before the debtor. You know, you heard, I think, 22 even some evidence during the RSA how Hartford put forward, 23 you know, a claims procedures that just passed the claims -- 24 the tort system. All of those were rejected because this is 25 just more favorable, letting the claimants decide what their

1 own claims are worth and having the Court issue a finding 2 that hey get to adjudicate -- that that adjudication then is 3 binding on the insurers.

4 And yes, it's like will a subsequent state court
5 case -- court be confused about that? Absolutely. It's like 6 absolutely. And that was -- you know, in some ways, it's one 7 of the teachings of that Fuller-Austin decision is just sort 8 of, you know, how the trial court there was confused in the 9 first instance by, you know, 1129 findings, you know, without 10 any description of really what they were about being 11 presented to the, you know, court there.

12 So, look, that's an overlay on what Mr. Rosenthal 13 said. I -- you know, it's -- it makes -- all of this 14 infects, you know, what's necessary for discovery because, 15 you know, it's like the claimants are asserting that 16 basically all coverage issues need to be side -- decided 17 here. It creates a nest of complex evidentiary issues.
18 It -- you know, for instance, like the complete blocking of 19 us from getting any evidence at all about how the TDPs were 20 negotiated, if that's even, quote, the right word to be 21 applied here, when they otherwise were going to seek findings 22 on the -- you know, that they were not in good faith. It's 23 like we'll have motions on all of those issues and just -- 24 it's just making it incredibly difficult to deal with this in 25 a three-month period.

1 I mean, in three months, to package these issues,
2 for them to then come out and say there's a hundred billion 3 dollars' worth of liability on the back end, it's like these 4 findings are just utterly unnecessary. They're 5 unprecedented, really, because other courts have looked at 6 this as distribution procedures and not adjudication
7 procedures.

8 And if you go back through most of the mass tort 9 cases that have been decided, yes, it's true that like, by 10 the time they got to confirmation, the cases -- more or less, 11 many of them had resolved themselves to the extent appeals 12 were taken. You know, not many of them got through to like 13 post-claim, you know, adjudication.

14 What's made this one just particularly difficult 15 to -- you know, to reach any settlement is that the claimants 16 are taking a strong run at like having this Court decide that 17 these are adjudication procedures. And it's like just made 18 it impossible for folks to decide things. So that's an 19 overlay.

20 I have one brief argument I'd like you to consider 21 on -- you know, on -- I do think some of the findings should 22 be dropped, you know, or the Court should have encourage them 23 to be dropped because it's going to infect discovery going 24 forward. We'd ask you to -- perhaps to keep an open mind on 25 that until you hear the discovery schedule argument.

1 But there's just one other thing that I think -- 2 and it's not really an insurance issue, per se, but this 3 thing about the coalition fees. I know Your Honor probably 4 feels that all of the issues we've talked about can be dealt 5 with at confirmation. You know, you've heard, respectfully, 6 why we disagree on that. But you know, we -- you know, we 7 all listen to the Court very closely.

8 But there's an issue that can't be -- the bell
9 can't be unrung on, that I would suggest that there -- you 10 know, it might make sense to address, you know, now. We 11 might even try to bring a summary judgment motion to do it -- 12 if that's what Your Honor wants, before solicitation. But 13 that is, again, this issue about the fees being put back into 14 the plan.

15 I just think having those -- the coalition fees in 16 the plan is -- it's going to raise issues about tainting of 17 the vote, one way or the other, no matter what, and that -- 18 it's like, consistent with your pre -- the Court's prior 19 order, as I seem to -- as I understood it, was that basically 20 the coalition would be free at the end of the case to bring a 21 motion on to seek its fees, and that that motion would make 22 its -- you know, present its case on whether they had, quote, 23 "made a substantial contribution" or not, and that they would 24 present evidence, et cetera, along those lines.

25 I see no prejudice to the coalition being to --

1 you know, that that's the way to do it and that it shouldn't 2 be in the plan. It's like having it in the plan, you know, 3 creates this whole specter that the vote is tainted by what 4 we believe to be a conflict associated here. And we will 5 argue that there is a conflict because of how the majority of 6 the coalition clients declined to be Brown Rudnick paying 7 claimants. And now Brown Rudnick is imposing, in essence, 8 those fees on them through the plan itself.

9 And we think, as we've said, that that's tied 10 directly to the master ballot issue and how they're trying 11 to, you know, basically, you know, get the claimant lawyers 12 themselves, who are, in fact, taking 40 percent of the money 13 here, to, you know, bring about that master ballot vote. So 14 we think that should come out because it can't -- that bell 15 can't be unrung.

16 We also think that's -- although it's the tail 17 that's wagging the dog, it's one that is just -- is 18 encouraging the case not to settle because it's promising 19 them another $900,000 every month that they litigate the 20 case, instead of trying to work to resolve the case, so I'd 21 ask you to consider that.

22 And thank you very much, Your Honor, otherwise, 23 for hearing us.

24 THE COURT: Thank you.

25 Mr. Plevin.

1 MR. PLEVIN: Your Honor, I will be very brief, and 2 I'm not going to veer into scheduling at this point. I just 3 want to tie together a couple of things that Mr. Rosenthal
4 and Mr. Schiavoni said.

5 Mr. Schiavoni said the policies here are not check 6 writing machines. And why is that? If Your Honor were to 7 look at the actual policy language, you would see that the 8 insurers have to pay in only two circumstances:

9 First, when there's a judgment after an actual 10 trial. Obviously, "actual trial" means a trial, an adversary 11 event with people on both sides putting in evidence. There's 12 case law that says that a settlement by a debtor with its 13 creditors is not an actual trial. That should be self-14 evident, but that's the first time that an insurer has to 15 pay. And obviously, a judgment after an actual trial carries 16 certain -- it shows that it's a real result because a jury or 17 a judge has made a decision based on evidence presented in a 18 contested proceeding.

19 The other instance in which an insurer has to pay 20 under the policy language is where there is a settlement in 21 writing, agreed to by the insured, the claimant, and the 22 insurance company because, as Mr. Schiavoni pointed out, the 23 insurers have the right to defend claims, and that includes 24 the right to settle claims. And so, if an insurer settles a 25 claim, it takes on an obligation to make a payment pursuant

1 to a settlement agreement.

2 Those are the only circumstances in which an 3 insurer has to pay. And when you talk about what Mr.
4 Schiavoni called the "trust adjudication procedures," versus 5 trust distribution procedures, you see that.

6 Now how does this play out in the coverage
7 context? You asked Mr. Rosenthal a question about this.
8 What would happen outside of the bankruptcy context is, if an 9 insured settles without the consent of the insurance company, 10 often they'll do so because they'll say the insurer isn't 11 defending or the insurer is not -- hasn't accepted a 12 reasonable settlement offer and is hanging the insured out to 13 dry.

14 But if they settle on their own and then seek 15 insurance coverage, the insurer has the opportunity to 16 litigate in the coverage case whether the settlement was 17 reasonable because courts will often allow an insured to 18 settle, notwithstanding the insurer's right to be involved, 19 if the settlement is reasonable. And then, in that case, the 20 coverage case -- the coverage court looks at how the 21 settlement was entered into, was it at arm's length, how does 22 it relate to the amounts being sought, what were the defenses 23 that were being asserted, and can make a determination as to 24 whether the settlement is actually reasonable.

25 That's not the situation that we would have here

1 because, in that litigation, it's the -- the arguments are 2 being made by the insured on the one hand and the insurance 3 company on the other hand. And the insured says I think this 4 is reasonable and here's why; the insurance company says I 5 think it's not reasonable and here's why.

6 But the one thing that the insured doesn't get to 7 do in that circumstance is to say, not only do I think it's 8 reasonable, but here's a confirmation order by a Federal 9 Judge, a Federal Bankruptcy Judge, who says she thinks it's 10 reasonable, too. And that gets presented to the trier of 11 fact in the coverage case.

12 What they're trying to do, Your Honor, is have you 13 put your thumb on the scale and allow the insured, in that 14 context, to make the argument to the jury or the trier -- or 15 the bench, depending on how the coverage case is being 16 litigated, and to say we think this is reasonable, and part 17 of the reason is because the Bankruptcy Judge said so.

18 And remember, as Mr. Rosenthal pointed out, you're 19 being asked basically to make decisions about the 20 reasonableness of determinations by the settlement trustee, 21 who hasn't been appointed yet, who is going to be make 22 those -- going to be making those decisions after 23 confirmation of the plan. And so that illustrates, I think, 24 why, as Mr. Schiavoni put it, these findings are toxic and 25 they're prejudicial. And you know, we just can't abide them.

1 And with that, I'm going to just say I have lots
2 of things to say about scheduling, but I'm going to defer
3 those until later. Thank you.

4 THE COURT: Thank you, thank you.

5 Okay. I'm going to give the plan proponents an 6 opportunity to respond -- not the plan proponents, I'm 7 sorry -- the debtor and/or the FCR or the coalition an 8 opportunity to respond to these arguments. But I really do 9 want a focus on why these findings are necessary and 10 appropriate, the import of them as to how they will be used, 11 and why aren't the trust distribution procedures just an 12 intra-creditor -- and by that I mean intra, I guess, abuse 13 claim creditor -- allocation mechanism.

14 And that goes along with questions I've had and 15 somewhat posed, probably not in this case, about the genesis 16 of the trust distribution procedures and why there's even a 17 trust advisory committee made up of plaintiffs' lawyers and 18 why the settlement trustee is often chosen by those lawyers
19 and why -- I understand why the FCR, certainly in an asbestos 20 case, gets a role because I think it's required in the 21 statute. But given how these procedures, the trust 22 distribution procedures -- I don't know if they've evolved or 23 they've always been that way.

24 But it does seem curious that the beneficiaries of 25 the trust influence the procedures under which they receive a

1 distribution, if it's binding on others. And if you go back
2 to just general trust law, a settlor chooses a trustee, a 3 settlor decides the provisions of the trust, and the 4 beneficiary is just a beneficiary.

5 So I'm -- we're going to take a break, we're going 6 to take about 15 minutes, and I'd like to hear a response.

7 But I think I said back in May I don't anticipate 8 making any coverage decisions, and I still do not intend to 9 make any decisions that are properly decided in a coverage 10 action. And perhaps juxtaposed against this is that this is 11 a collective procedure. And I don't have however many days 12 of a hearing and then it has no impact, right? It has to 13 have an impact. But it shouldn't have an impact beyond 14 what's necessary for me to decide confirmation issues. So I 15 want to see that.

16 Mr. Patterson?

17 MR. PATTERSON: Your Honor, before you turn to the 18 debtor, I wanted to address some of the issues that 19 Mr. Rosenthal and his colleagues addressed, and it might be 20 helpful if I do that before that. I'm happy to do it right 21 after the break. It should be about five or ten minutes,
22 Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Yes, I'll hear people in response, and 24 that can go beyond the debtors and the FCR and the coalition.
25 I'm happy to hear from others.

1 MR. PATTERSON: Thank you.

2 THE COURT: But those are the -- those are the 3 issues that I see, the big picture issues. That's apart
4 from, I guess, the initial comments Mr. Rosenthal made about 5 some uncertainty we still have in this plan. But I'm more 6 interested in the bigger picture issues of the trust 7 distribution procedures.

8 So we're going to take 15 minutes. I don't know 9 what time it is. It's 12:06. Come back at 12:20. We're in 10 recess.

11 (Recess taken at 12:06 p.m.)

12 (Proceedings resume at 12:22 p.m.)

13 THE COURT: This is Judge Silverstein. We're back
14 on the record.

15 Ms. Lauria.

16 MS. LAURIA: Thank you, Your Honor.

17 I was just going to briefly outline how we had 18 allocated responsibilities on the debtor/FCR/coalition side 19 of the ledger, so that you're not hearing repeated arguments.

20 With respect to the insurance and trust issues 21 that you raised, Ms. Quinn, whose hand is up, as well as 22 members of the coalition, will be taking the lead role on 23 those arguments, so I'm going to pass the podium off to them 24 or the virtual podium.

25 I also heard issues from Mr. Rosenthal and

1 Mr. Schiavoni concerning the timing uncertainty point, 2 coalition fees, the third-party releases, thirty-five-
3 hundred-dollar expedited distribution, "liquidation of claims 4 for voting purposes" -- those are my words, not 5 Mr. Schiavoni's, but I'm trying to boil that down -- issues
6 with the proofs of claim and good faith. All of those types 7 of issues, I will be taking on in responding to those.

8 But Your Honor, my sense was you wanted to dive 9 right into the insurance issues. So, if it's okay, I'll 10 table that laundry list that I just mentioned. I would like 11 to come back to those and respond to those, to the extent you 12 think it would be helpful. And in the meantime, I'm going to 13 hand it off to -- I see Ms. Quinn, Mr. Molten, and 14 Mr. Goodman, so one of them I think are going to take the 15 lead on the insurance issues. Maybe Ms. Quinn is first up.

16 THE COURT: Ms. Quinn.

17 MR. STANG: Your Honor, I'm sorry. I thought
18 Mr. Patterson was going to address the Court.

19 THE COURT: Mr. Patterson, the only thing I want a 20 response to is -- right now, is the insurance issues. So I
21 don't actually really care, in particular, what order they go 22 in, but that's what I am -- the findings and the insurance
23 issue.

24 MR. PATTERSON: I can limit my remarks to that 25 topic at this point, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. PATTERSON: Thank you, Your Honor. Tom
3 Patterson.

4 Our concern with the findings is that they do lie 5 at the heart of the architecture of the plan, and one of the 6 principal reasons for that is because of the involvement of 7 the local council settlements.

8 Mr. Rosenthal alluded to the Combustion 9 Engineering case, which dealt with the assignability of 10 nondebtor insurance under a plan and said that the Bankruptcy
11 Code powers do not extend to that extent. And the Court 12 asked whether or not the savings language that has now been 13 introduced to the plan would be sufficient to eliminate that 14 defense on the part of the insurers. And the answer is, for 15 a couple of reasons, that it's not.

16 One reason is the reason that Mr. Plevin 17 articulated, which is that, even apart from assignability of 18 insurance rights, the local council settlement and 19 contributions represent -- has the potential to trigger a 20 variety of coverage defenses, including consent to settlement 21 and the cooperation clause.

22 And the risk is that entering in a settlement 23 without consent can, in some jurisdictions, limit coverage or 24 void coverage. It can limit coverage to the amount of the 25 settlement that was paid -- in this case, that could be the

1 amount of the local council contribution -- or it could void
2 coverage in other circumstances.

3 Second, Your Honor, the savings language provides 4 an additional coverage defense that is not otherwise present
5 because -- and by the way, I mean, it -- I have a full 6 appreciation for the irony that I'm articulating coverage 7 defenses, but I am articulating ones that the insurers have 8 passed on to me, so I do not feel that I am providing any 9 insights that they don't have.

10 But with regard to the assignment issue, if a 11 debtor -- well, a nondebtor in this case -- channels its 12 liability to a trust, then you have separated the liability 13 on the claim from the insurance, and there is a significant 14 coverage defense that the insurer has at that juncture, in 15 fact, if sued by the local council, that the local council no 16 longer has an indemnity right because it no longer has the 17 liability on the underlying claim.

18 And so, you know, our feeling is that these 19 coverage defenses are significant, at a minimum. They would 20 take a considerable amount of time to resolve through, 21 likely, appellate decisions in more than one jurisdiction, 22 and that they provide an incentive, given the architecture of 23 the plan, for those who are advancing this plan at this point 24 to settle insurance at almost any price to avoid the flaw 25 that the settlement has a tendency -- has had a tendency to 1 create.

2 So I had other comments that I wanted to make that 3 keyed off things that Mr. Rosenthal and others have said, but 4 Your Honor asked me specifically with regard to insurance, 5 and so I'm limiting my comments to that at this point.

6 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

7 Ms. Quinn.

8 MS. QUINN: Good afternoon again, Your Honor.

9 Kami Quinn, insurance counsel for the FCR. And I am going to 10 respond to some of the insurance issues that were raised this 11 morning.

12 First, very briefly on neutrality, because I think 13 it's very clear that Your Honor has heard this, has read the 14 briefs, has read the cases, has considered this issue very 15 carefully. There is no requirement that any plan be, quote, 16 "insurance neutral." Insurance neutrality is a standing 17 doctrine that just has no relevance in a case where insurers 18 are being heard on every issue.

19 In the case -- in the neutrality cases, debtors 20 and plan supporters voluntarily made a strategic choice to 21 carve out insurers from otherwise generally applicable
22 provisions, but that sort of choice is not mandated anywhere.
23 And as an aside, Your Honor, remembered the GIT case and the 24 holding there exactly correctly. So neutrality isn't an 25 issue that needs to be reached in this case because no one

1 has sought to deny the insurers standing.

2 Instead, because of that, the insurers have 3 pivoted to the idea that these findings impermissibly alter 4 their contract rights. They don't. But Your Honor has 5 expressed some concern about these findings and we -- and the 6 insurers have raised them today, and so we can talk about -- 7 let's talk about these findings one by one.

8 And I don't intend to argue the truth of the 9 findings. I just want -- this argument is to make clear 10 that, if we are able to convince you of their truth through 11 evidence and legal argument between now and confirmation that 12 these findings are appropriate for you to make in this 13 context and that they are not coverage determinations.

14 So I will start by being very clear. We have 15 heard you. We do not intend to issue coverage rulings in 16 this case. The findings do not ask you to. They don't ask 17 you to interpret a state law coverage issue, to review a 18 single policy, to single out insurers for any particular 19 treatment. They don't ask you to determine the impact of 20 your findings on subsequent coverage litigation, nor do they 21 ask you to determine what impact or rulings will not have.
22 And they don't ask you to determine that any insurer has an 23 obligation to pay any particular claim.

24 All of the arguments about what the policies cover 25 or, as Your Honor has characterized, what product the debtor

1 bought, including all of the issues raised in pre-petition
2 litigation, remain wholly unaffected; issues like the number 3 of occurrences, whether and for which carriers the first 4 encounter is the appropriate trigger, whether SIRs and 5 deductibles apply, whether there's intentional conduct 6 related limitations to the policies. All of those are 7 preserved for coverage litigation.

8 But the honor -- but the insurers have 9 characterized these findings as "coverage findings." Indeed, 10 Mr. Schiavoni went so far last week to say that the findings 11 require you to find that there is coverage for the claims.
12 And today, you said that all coverage needs to be decided 13 here. These findings unequivocally do no such thing.

14 So I will take each of the findings that 15 Mr. Rosenthal raised in turn, and we can go through them.
16 And the first is the assignment -- is the insurance 17 assignment. This is -- courts in this circuit have been 18 making this finding in the context of mass tort cases with 19 respect to debtors' coverage for almost a decade now. It is 20 settled bankruptcy law and uncontroversial on the point of 21 the debtors' coverage.

22 The insurers have argued that it's not appropriate 23 to extend this finding to nondebtors. Your Honor noted that 24 the finding actually only requires you to find it -- to find 25 that the assignment is appropriate to the extent of 1 applicable law, that there is a savings here, to the extent

2 that applicable law -- which we're not asking to determine -- 3 doesn't permit this finding, doesn't permit this assignment.

4 And so we think it's an appropriate finding. We 5 think that there is no question that findings about the 6 validity and the applicability of a transfer of the insurance 7 rights under a plan is the appropriate finding for a 8 Bankruptcy Court to make in the context of confirmation. And 9 we either will or we won't convince you that this assignment 10 is appropriate, or that the finding is appropriate to make to 11 the extent that -- of applicable law and to the extent that a 12 nondebtor policy can be assigned under applicable state law 13 (indiscernible)

14 (Participants speak simultaneously)

15 THE COURT: Excuse me. Please check your audio.

16 Ms. Quinn.

17 MS. QUINN: Okay. So that's assignment. Unless 18 Your Honor has any questions on that, I'll go on to the TDPs.

19 THE COURT: No. I will confess that I hate these 20 provisions in an order that say "to the extent of applicable 21 law" because it just leaves issues open. But I take it the 22 arguments that would be made are the ones I've seen in the 23 papers about being able to -- the conduct has already 24 happened.

25 MS. QUINN: Correct.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MS. QUINN: That is exactly correct, yes.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MS. QUINN: Okay. So the TDP. The TDP finding 5 says:

6 "The procedures included in the trust distribution 7 procedures pertaining to the allowance of abuse claims and 8 the criteria are fair and reasonable, based on the 9 evidentiary record offered to the Bankruptcy Court."

10 So we spent hours this morning listening to 11 arguments which boiled down to the insurance position -- the 12 insurers' position that the TDPs are not, in fact, fair and 13 reasonable. I'm not going to address whether or not they are 14 fair and reasonable because that is a question that we need 15 evidence, as it says in the finding. We will get -- we will 16 find -- we will get evidence, we will argue these issues. If 17 we can't convince you of the truth of the finding, then, 18 obviously, you won't make the finding. But that's a 19 different question than whether or not it is appropriate to 20 make this finding in the context of your confirmation order.

21 So I'm -- and on this one, I think you put this 22 exactly right last week, when you said that of course Your 23 Honor can find that a settlement embodied in a plan is fair 24 and reasonable in the context of a confirmation order. Of 25 course you can. But that you -- but that you will not be

1 finding whether the insurance policies that the debtor 2 bought, whether the product that they purchased covers that 3 settlement. That's perfect. That's -- and we agree 4 completely.

5 THE COURT: So is the -- what's the 1129 standard?
6 Is there an 1129 standard that these findings go to or is 7 this -- you're considering this a settlement?

8 MS. QUINN: We're considering this a settlement.

9 THE COURT: So it's not an 1129 standard, not part 10 of the 1129 standards. So this is a settlement. And who is 11 it a settlement among?

12 MS. QUINN: It is a settlement among the abuse 13 claimants and the debtor and the local councils and, to 14 the -- and potentially others, to the extent that there are 15 separate provisions relating to chartering orgs, such as 16 TCJC, who have their own issues.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MS. QUINN: So -- and I will point out that 19 Mr. Rosenthal raised the issue of, you know, these will 20 create all -- this terrible precedent. Unfortunately, the 21 horse is out of that barn. These findings that a TDP is fair 22 and reasonable have been made in Brower, Christy, Western 23 Asbestos; all of them included those findings. This is 24 not -- this is not brand new.

25 And because it's a recent case, where confirmation

1 findings were disputed by insurers in a mass tort case, I can 2 talk about, if you're interested, the findings that Judge 3 Drain just made in Purdue on these issues, I can compare and 4 contrast a little.

5 Judge Drain made a finding that the settlements 6 reached between the debtors and the opioid claimants, as 7 embodied in the plan, are fair, equitable, and reasonable, 8 and were entered into in good faith, based on arm's length 9 negotiations, and the various intercreditor allocation 10 agreements and settlements are fair, equitable, and 11 reasonable. And that's essentially what we're asking for 12 here.

13 Judge Drain went on to say some more stuff, 14 including that such negotiation, settlement, and resolution 15 of liabilities will not operate to excuse any insurer from 16 its obligations under any insurance policy, notwithstanding 17 its terms, including consent to settle or pay first or other 18 provisions in non-bankruptcy law. That's not in our finding, 19 not what we're asking Your Honor to find, and an issue that 20 will be determined in the coverage litigation.

21 What the insurers are asking you to -- go ahead.

22 THE COURT: Is that in the form of order? Is that 23 where those findings come from?

24 MS. QUINN: Judge Drain's?

25 THE COURT: Yes.

1 MS. QUINN: Uh-huh, yes.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MS. QUINN: What the insurers are asking you to do 4 is prejudice how a coverage court will use a finding that the 5 TDPs are fair and reasonable. They're asking you to 6 determine what their -- what the rights to defend under a 7 policy -- insurance policy are, what circumstances they get 8 to exercise those rights. And they are asking you to say 9 what a coverage court can and cannot do this -- with that 10 finding.

11 Mr. Plevin said, well, in the tort system, we 12 would get to litigate whether the settlement is reasonable in 13 a coverage action. But nobody is precluding Mr. Plevin from 14 litigating whether this settlement is fair and reasonable. I 15 mean, we're just saying he only gets to do it once. The 16 insurers are definitely going to litigate whether these TDPs
17 are fair and reasonable; indeed, I think they started today.
18 They just don't get to do it twice.

19 But this doesn't -- but a finding of fair and 20 reasonable TDP doesn't require you to determine that that's 21 the standard by which insurance policies pay, that insurance 22 policies pay fair and reasonable settlements entered into 23 without their consent, that fair and reasonable means the 24 same thing here that it means in a coverage court. All 25 it's -- the findings say what they say. And all of the 1 insurers' concerns about how they might be used are just 2 that.

3 I mean, they're free to make those arguments to 4 the coverage court about why it would not be appropriate to 5 use that finding for that purpose here, or why that findings
6 doesn't mean that they have a coverage obligation. Nothing
7 about that finding says insurers have to pay any claim. It 8 says the TDPs are fair and reasonable.

9 THE COURT: For purposes of 9019. Is that the 10 right -- is that the right standard of 9019?

11 MS. QUINN: I think so. I think fair and 12 reasonable with respect to all parties.

13 If the insurers come in and -- if the insurers
14 come in and litigate for days in front of Your Honor about 15 whether the TDPs are fair and reasonable as to them -- which 16 is what they will litigate, which is the issue they're 17 litigating, right? Then they should be bound by the results 18 of that litigation. They don't get to try it once then and 19 then determine -- and then, if they lose, try again somewhere 20 else.

21 THE COURT: Well, but I thought I heard you say -- 22 well, I guess the question is: Does the 9019 standard -- 23 assuming I approved a settlement, does the 9019 standard meet 24 whatever standard one would use to determine if there was a 25 coverage obligation?

1 MS. QUINN: I don't know. I mean, that's an issue
2 I think that will be decided by a coverage court, right?
3 Because the standard doesn't require you to define -- to find 4 that it meets the standard of an insurance policy,. It 5 requires you to find that it's fair and reasonable.

6 THE COURT: I don't know if that's the 9019
7 standard or not, but I'll take a look at the 9019 standard.
8 I think that's the standard, the four-part Martin standard.
9 I'm not sure it's fair and reasonable. It's sort of the same 10 question I asked with respect to the RSA. What does "good 11 faith" mean in this context? Is that part of the standard?

12 And that's why I asked you what part of the 1129
13 standard is this because I'm going to be deciding 14 confirmation issues at confirmation. And I don't know that I 15 have to determine what effect my ruling has down the line. I 16 don't know --

17 MS. QUINN: We --

18 THE COURT: -- that I could --

19 MS. QUINN: We agree.

20 THE COURT: -- or that I should.

21 MS. QUINN: Right.

22 THE COURT: But I'll be looking at the settlement 23 standard then --

24 MS. QUINN: Right.

25 THE COURT: -- because that's what you're telling

1 me this is, a settlement.

2 MS. QUINN: Well, I think that -- I think that it
3 may be the case -- and I'll defer to some of my bankruptcy
4 lawyer colleagues on the coalition who are going to talk next 5 about, you know, whether or not there's other bases for this 6 finding of fair and reasonableness. But the finding is fair 7 and reasonable, and it is not a finding that fair and 8 reasonable is a coverage standard or that fair and reasonable 9 means that an insurance company has to pay.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MS. QUINN: And the same goes, essentially, for 12 the third finding, which is the right to payment. And I 13 can -- I will, again, you know, defer a little bit to my 14 bankruptcy brethren to talk about the specifics of this. But 15 this is a statement of what the right to payment is under the 16 Code. This is -- what this is, is a statement of how 17 claimants' claims will be liquidated. And Your Honor 18 mentioned that this is something that goes to how assets will 19 be distributed amongst these claimants.

20 And this finding is -- it's necessary for the 21 plan. And the reason why that it -- the reason why it's 22 necessary, to be clear here, to make this finding is in order 23 to describe appropriately what the settlement is that's being 24 reached in this plan.

25 Let me just take a step back here. The debtors

1 here, they -- in the negotiation between the debtors and the 2 claimants, the debtors looked at this big liability and said 3 we think insurance coverage covers most of it, so we will 4 give you, trust claimants -- you have the right to pursue 5 coverage for the claims, the same as we would have had, 6 because, absent this bankruptcy, we think insurance would 7 have covered most of this, and then we'll negotiate with you, 8 you know, based on our ability to pay and a whole bunch of 9 other factors of, you know -- and the insurance has some 10 holes and, you know, gaps and whatever, and we're going to 11 negotiate with you a number 200 million or so, and that's the 12 amount we're going to give you to fill those holes and gaps 13 and that should work. And that's the settlement that was 14 reached.

15 Absent this finding, there is a danger that the 16 settlement is interpreted as something else, which is that 17 the debtors paid $200 million to resolve what is, by their 18 own estimates, almost seven -- up to potentially $7 billion 19 in liability, and according to the -- you know, to the 20 victims' representatives, a whole heck of a lot more. And 21 the -- so they settled the whole liability, the whole 22 billion -- multi-billion-dollar liability for 200 million and 23 maybe the right to pursue their reimbursement claim for that.

24 And that's not a deal that the claimants would 25 have agreed to. And so what the need, the necessary for this

1 finding is, is to make clear what deal was reached in this 2 court. And we think that this is the only -- this is, of 3 course, the Court that is appropriate to make clear what the 4 nature of the settlement in the plan is, the plan settlement
5 that is reached in this Court.

6 Again, it does not require the Court to say that 7 the policies cover any of this settlement. If, as Your Honor 8 posited last week, the policies say we only cover the amounts 9 contributed by a debtor to a trust in bankruptcy, they still 10 say that and a coverage court will enforce that. That's what 11 it says that they pay. If the policies don't cover any of 12 the claims at all, they don't cover any of the claims.

13 But this is a clarification of what the deal is, 14 which is that the debtors are transferring their rights to 15 pursue coverage for the claims, not their right for 16 reimbursements of the amount paid and not limited to their 17 right to pursue reimbursement of the amounts paid to the 18 trust, that they paid to the trust, because that wasn't the 19 settlement of the whole liability, and that's it. Those are 20 the -- those are the three findings.

21 THE COURT: Well, isn't there an easier way to say 22 that, that doesn't use words like "allowed" and things like 23 that, that get interpreted certain ways?

24 MS. QUINN: Is there is an easier way -- well, I 25 mean, there -- is there -- there's an almost infinite number

1 of ways to say it, so possibly yes.

2 (Pause)

3 THE COURT: Yeah, I think this one is an -- well, 4 this is interesting because I would think this should not be 5 so controversial, but it is, apparently, relative to 6 insurance coverage issues. And this is not the only context 7 in which we see this issue arise; and, yet, it seems to -- 8 it's an issue for insurance coverage. Cases are coming out 9 different ways on it, not bankruptcy cases, non-bankruptcy
10 cases. Okay.

11 (Pause)

12 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Quinn?

13 MS. QUINN: And that's all I've got, unless you 14 have additional questions for me. I can turn it over to 15 Mr. Goodman, who's going to talk some more about the 16 bankruptcy basis for some of these and the need for 17 discovery.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

19 Mr. Goodman.

20 MR. GOODMAN: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Eric
21 Goodman, Brown Rudnick, counsel for the coalition.

22 To answer the last question, the standard under 23 Bankruptcy Rule 9019 is fair and equitable. This comes from 24 the 1968 Supreme Court decision in Anderson, which held that 25 the rule that plans of reorganization be both fair and

1 equitable applies to compromises in a bankruptcy case. We 2 can quibble over "equitable" and "reasonable," but I think 3 the import of both words are roughly the same in this 4 context.

5 With that answer provided, Your Honor, I would 6 like to come back to a question, beginning -- that you posed
7 at the last hearing because, frankly, that's what I'm 8 prepared to talk about first, which is: Which of the 9 findings are legal issues, which are factual issues, and what 10 discovery is necessary, and how does all of this relate to 11 plan confirmation? And I'm going to try to do my best to 12 answer those questions very directly.

13 There are five findings in the plan that were in 14 the restructuring support agreement. They appear on 15 different paragraphs in the plan, in Article 9(a)(3). I'm 16 going to refer to them as "Findings 1 through 5," for the 17 sake of simplicity.

18 Two findings that I'll discuss in a moment are 19 purely legal issues, two are obviously factual issues, and 20 the third is hybrid because it has to do with appropriately 21 documenting or clearly documenting what our settlement is.

22 I'll start with the two legal issues, and I'm not 23 going to spend a lot of time on the first because I think 24 this has been already discussed at length, which is:

25 Finding 1 appears in Article 9(a)(3-Q), which is

1 that the plan be binding on all parties-in-interest. This 2 finding, obviously, does not require this Court to interpret
3 any insurance policies or make any coverage determinations, 4 nor does it require the Court or even ask the Court to 5 rewrite any insurance policies. This finding is about basic 6 principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel, as they 7 have been applied in bankruptcy cases for years.

8 Judge Drain did address this exact issue last 9 month in Purdue. He held, and I quote:

10 "There is no concept or requirement that a plan be 11 insurance neutral."

12 I presume that Judge Drain read Combustion
13 Engineering and Global Industrial because the same insurance 14 lawyers in this case cited those cases to him and argued that 15 issue in front of Judge Drain. Obviously, they lost.

16 I would go further and say that, because the 17 bank -- because of the Bankruptcy Code, the plan here
18 actually has to be binding on the insurers. The insurers, 19 including Century, claim that they are creditors.
20 Section 1141(a) mandates, therefore, that they be bound by 21 the confirmation order. So, as to Century, there's just 22 simply no way that they could not be bound.

23 In addition to that, the insurers here have 24 notice. They are active participants in the case. If we 25 were to pull all of the transcripts at the end of this case

1 and see who spoke the most, I would put my money on 2 Mr. Schiavoni. Third Circuit case law requires that, when a 3 party appears, litigates, objects, and an order is entered, 4 that order is binding on that party. This is a legal issue,
5 not a factual issue, so I don't think there is any discovery 6 needed for this.

7 So that moves on now to Finding Number 2, that is 8 the insurance assignment must be authorized. This is in 9 Article 9(a)(3-J) of the plan. And this also is a purely 10 legal issue and one that does not require the Court to 11 interpret any insurance policies or make any coverage
12 determinations or rewrite the terms of any insurance 13 contracts. Parties are free to argue that the insurance
14 rights are or are not assignment at plan confirmation. I 15 think we have the better argument under Third Circuit law 16 that this is a legal issue on which discovery is not 17 necessary.

18 Before I move on, I want to make a very keen 19 observation, which is this:

20 As the Court well knows, sometimes parties change 21 their mind during a bankruptcy case. You hear counsel for 22 AIG and Century say last week and again today that their 23 clients simply cannot settle unless they get finality.
24 Finality. That is an important word, "finality." Let me
25 explain what I think they mean by "finality."

1 Many of the insurers want to settle. The BSA
2 policies that they issued years ago have multiple insureds.
3 In some years, it's the BSA and the local councils; in other 4 years, it's the chartered organizations are also insureds.
5 That's why 1976 is so magical, not just because it's a 6 bicentennial year, but chartered organizations are not 7 additional insureds under the BSA policies pre 1976.

8 The chartered org proposal that you've heard so 9 much about and will probably hear more about is entirely 10 insurance driven. When the insurers say that they are 11 settling, what they want is to buy back the policies, which 12 means that you have to collect all of the rights from all of 13 the insureds. It's kind of like a game of monopoly. You 14 have to own all three properties before you can build a 15 hotel. There are the BSA rights, there are the local council 16 rights, and there are the chartered org rights. You put all 17 three together, assign those rights to the settlement trust, 18 and then you can settle with the insurers.

19 The insurers that want all of the rights -- there 20 are insurers that want to settle and they want all of the 21 rights to be assigned to the settlement trust. The insurers
22 that have not settled may stand up today and say, Judge, you
23 cannot approve these assignments. But they may be standing 24 before you at plan confirmation saying, Judge, you absolutely 25 have to approve these assignments, we consent, I changed my

1 mind.

2 I mention this today only because this Court does 3 not know, right now, if any insurers are actually going to 4 appear at confirmation and object to the assignment. We are 5 here on a disclosure statement. This is clearly a 6 confirmation issue and one that I don't even know how you 7 sort out today.

8 Finding Number 3 is the finding that the, quote, 9 "right to payment" that the holder of an abuse claim has 10 against the debtors is the allowed value of the abuse claim.
11 This is in Article 9(a)(3-F) of the plan. This finding is 12 based on quotes from and is worded entirely based on the 13 definition of "claim" set forth in Section 101(5) of the 14 Bankruptcy Code.

15 As a legal matter, a survivor's right to payment 16 from the debtors is not what the debtors can afford to pay.
17 If that were true, no debtor would ever be insolvent.

18 Now I want to be clear on one point. We are not 19 asking the Court to rule on what the insurers must pay. If 20 you look very carefully at this finding, you'll see that the 21 word "insurer" does not appear anywhere in this finding. I 22 would very much like to put a finding like this in front of 23 the Court that said the insurers must pay, but I think I know 24 what the Court's answer would be.

25 This finding, the one that is actually in the 1 plan, as opposed to the one that is invented, doesn't say 2 anything about insurers being liable. Insurers can and will 3 argue post-confirmation that their policies do not require 4 them to pay any of the claims determined under the TDP. What 5 we are doing is making it clear what the terms of our 6 settlement are and what we are agreeing to.

7 We believe and what the plan settlement reflects 8 is that the debtors will fund a trust. That trust will 9 assume liability for and will be responsible for paying abuse
10 claims. The debtors are making a contribution to the trust.
11 That contribution is not the same thing as the liability that 12 the debtors estimate to be between 2.4 and $7 billion.
13 Rather, it is just a contribution. The trust will pursue and 14 liquidate the trust assets and the trust will make 15 distributions to survivors based on their claims. And as the 16 Court noted, those distributions must be made on a pro rata 17 basis, based on the allowed amount of the claims.

18 The settlement that we support and will recommend 19 to tens of thousands of survivors to vote in favor of is the 20 settlement reflected in the plan, which does not wipe out or 21 extinguish billions of dollars in liability for a mere 22 $220 million.

23 We have to be clear about what we are agreeing to.
24 I don't want anyone to say that we agreed to a settlement
25 that we did not, in fact, agree to. Neither you, nor I can

1 control what a coverage court does with the confirmation
2 order, no question. But I learned years ago from a veteran
3 banking attorney at Sullivan & Cromwell that sometimes you 4 have to use very clear language on issues that are obvious to 5 you, in order to make aspects of a deal clear to parties that 6 haven't lived it.

7 We have to be very clear about what we are 8 agreeing to. I don't want anyone to say that the right to 9 payment that the abuse -- holders of abuse claims have is the 10 $220 million that the debtors are contributing to the trust, 11 and I don't want anyone to say that we supported a plan or a 12 settlement that meant that. Parties that settle have a right 13 to know what the settlement is.

14 And I'll note this is a confirmation issue for us 15 because we don't support a plan of reorganization that is 16 intended to effectuate a discharge of the insurers' potential 17 liability, whatever that may be.

18 I will also note that, if the plan is delivering 19 or is intended to deliver a, quote, "Fuller-Austin result," I 20 don't see how the Court could approve a channeling injunction
21 under Millennium. Fuller-Austin, in my view, was incorrectly 22 decided, but it was incorrectly decided because of ambiguous 23 language in the plan and the confirmation order. That is not 24 a mistake we care to repeat. This is a confirmation issue 25 and it goes to the heart of the plan because of the 1 channeling injunction and our need to know what our 2 settlement is, and it's clearly stated.

3 So that leaves Finding Number 5. This is that the 4 TDPs are fair and reasonable based on the evidentiary record
5 offered to Bankruptcy Code at the confirmation hearing. This 6 is set forth in Article 9(a)(3)(R) of the plan. This is -- I 7 call it the lightning rod. This is the one that gets all the 8 attention, Your Honor, so let's talk about it.

9 This finding does not ask this Court to interpret
10 any insurance policies or make any coverage determinations.
11 And I'm going to be very, very clear on what I'm about to 12 say. No one is asking you to find that the insurers must pay 13 the $3500, we are not asking for that finding. No one is 14 asking you to find that the insurers must pay any claim 15 determined under the TDP; we are not asking you for that 16 finding. And no one is asking you to find that the insurers 17 must pay time-barred claims, we are not asking for that 18 finding. Those are straw man arguments.

19 We want an evidence-based TDP. What does that 20 mean? We want a TDP that is based on and mirrors the 21 debtors' historical settlement practices and experience in 22 the tort system. Under what circumstances did the debtors 23 agree to settle abuse claims prior to the bankruptcy? And 24 there are a lot of them. What did they agree to pay? What 25 did the insurers agree was a reasonable settlement? What

1 evidence has to be produced by the survivors? That is what 2 we're trying to do.

3 We want the Court to approve a process that's fair
4 and reasonable and equitable based on the evidence. A couple 5 things follow from this.

6 First, this is obviously a confirmation issue, not 7 a disclosure statement issue. The evidence in question has 8 not been offered. The insurers are entitled to produce their 9 own evidence, we hope they do, but the Court cannot judge the 10 evidence until we get the plan confirmation.

11 Second, discovery. The evidence needed on this 12 topic is in the debtors' possession, custody, and control, 13 and I know this because this evidence has already been 14 produced. The debtors know their own settlement practices 15 and they know how much they have paid to settle abuse claims.
16 And the insurers have all of this information too because 17 they approved the settlements and they also have been given 18 access to the same information.

19 There was the discussion last week about the Bates 20 White report and the TDPs. The Bates White report is based 21 on an analysis of the settlement data. In terms of timing, 22 in terms of which came first, the chicken or the egg, the 23 Bates White report came first, the TDPs followed by several 24 months. And the point of the TDPs was to reflect the 25 debtors' own historical practices and settlement values. The

1 data the debtors have already shared and was used to create 2 the TDPs doesn't need months and months of discovery, 3 everyone has it.

4 And I'm going to make this point because I think 5 it's obvious, but it needs to be said, discovery from 6 survivors or law firms would not be relevant to this finding 7 at all.

8 I want to be clear on another point: this finding 9 does not ask the Court to determine how many valid claims
10 there are. The findings and orders put the reasonableness 11 and the fairness of the matrix values and the procedures
12 before the Court, they do not put a --

13 THE COURT: Well, what 1129 standard does that go 14 to?

15 MR. GOODMAN: This goes to the 9019 standard that 16 Ms. Quinn mentioned, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Okay, so this is another 9019 issue.

18 MR. GOODMAN: Yes, it is.

19 THE COURT: And why -- and who is it a settlement 20 among?

21 MR. GOODMAN: Again, it would be a settlement 22 among the abuse survivors and the debtors.

23 THE COURT: Why is the debtor a party to that 24 settlement?

25 MR. GOODMAN: Because they are the party who is 1 liable for the abuse claims and they are the proponent of the 2 plan.

3 THE COURT: Well --

4 MR. GOODMAN: I also think it would be --

5 THE COURT: -- but -- but they --

6 MR. GOODMAN: -- I'm actually --

7 THE COURT: -- are providing a number, they're 8 providing an amount, they're making a contribution and then 9 they're gone, not unlike many debtors, mass tort or not, not 10 unlike many debtors. The settlement with the debtors is 11 their contribution. So how is this a settlement among the 12 debtors and the abuse survivors?

13 MR. GOODMAN: Well, Your Honor, I think the Court
14 could entertain the settlement of a claim under 9019. Here 15 we have --

16 THE COURT: A claim.

17 MR. GOODMAN: -- here we -- yes. I mean, if there 18 was a claim filed against a debtor, let's just say you had an 19 ordinary trade claim filed for a million dollars, the debtors
20 were to file an objection to that claim, the parties 21 negotiated and agreed on a settlement of that claim, I 22 believe that would be brought before the Court under 9019.

23 And I will amend my prior response, Your Honor.
24 Actually, that also is 1129, because the 1129 fair and 25 equitable is actually what informs the 9019 issue. So I

1 actually think that it's both 1129 and 9019.

2 THE COURT: I find --

3 MR. GOODMAN: We can get more --

4 THE COURT: -- I find -- I have said on any number
5 of occasions that I do not believe a plan to be a settlement.
6 The plan gets imposed on people, it's not a settlement. And 7 I get asked to make all kinds of findings at confirmation 8 that I don't find are appropriate. So far, nobody has been 9 able to convince me I'm wrong on that one point, but that's 10 why I want to understand what the finding is and who is the 11 settlement among. I get the intra-abuse creditor nature of 12 the settlement. I'm not sure I understand at this point how 13 the debtor -- the debtors' interest in the allocation of 14 funds that it has contributed and to which it has no more 15 liability, it's contributed, it's done.

16 MR. GOODMAN: Well, the liability here is being 17 assumed by the trust, so it's not --

18 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

19 MR. GOODMAN: -- disappearing, it continues on and 20 that liability has to then be determined post-confirmation in 21 accordance with the procedures. Again --

22 THE COURT: Well, an allocation does, yeah. An 23 allocation does, which goes back to my question about why, in 24 fact if the debtor was on the other side of this issue, why 25 does it leave it to a trustee it didn't choose and a trust

1 advisory committee made up of plaintiffs' lawyers?

2 MR. GOODMAN: Oh, I see the issue. Yeah, I think 3 the concern that you're raising is that, once this process
4 goes into effect and the debtor steps away post-confirmation, 5 the debtor can't really control what happens in that process.
6 And, you know, the insurers have painted a picture of all of 7 the tort lawyers in this case effectively settling with 8 themselves and, you know, presenting inflated claims. No, I 9 hear that point. I don't know, though, how this issue is 10 really before the Court on this one. I mean, it's the 11 debtors who have proposed the plan; it is the debtors who 12 have put forth the TDP based on their own historical 13 settlement practices and values.

14 So, given that the debtors are the plan proponent, 15 I don't think that they can absolve themselves of 16 responsibility on this one until the confirmation order is 17 entered.

18 THE COURT: I hear you, but the concern I have I 19 want directly addressed, the concern I have in this case and 20 others, and it's how are these trust distribution procedures 21 negotiated and who is it a settlement among or is it really 22 just an allocation among claimants. And, again, it's really 23 no different than any bankruptcy case in which the debtor 24 makes a contribution and then they don't care how it gets 25 whacked up, right? Here's -- I get to give this amount and I

1 walk away, I get my discharge, I don't care how it's whacked
2 up.

3 This is -- the trust distribution procedures are 4 in essence the whack-up, right? That's what it is. Maybe I
5 have to rule on them and maybe I don't, but that's what I'm 6 trying to figure out. And then, of course, what's going to 7 be done with them later on down the line. Maybe I need to 8 know, maybe I don't, but what 1129 standard is it that I have 9 to make these findings on. And if it's not an 1129 standard, 10 if it's a 9019 settlement, then who is the settlement among, 11 for real. And those are the questions I have.

12 MR. GOODMAN: Your Honor, thank you, and normally 13 I'm prepared for everything, but on this one I actually think 14 I want to go back and do some more research and homework on 15 this in terms of what 1129, 1123, and 9019 say on these 16 issues.

17 But I would note this point, because I was 18 recently dealing with a similar issue in front of the Ninth 19 Circuit where a party contended that a specific provision in 20 trust distribution procedures simply had to be struck down 21 because the trustee could go rogue and not comply with it.
22 And, you know, my response to that was, wait a second, you're 23 not really objecting to the procedures, what you're claiming 24 in advance is you think that people won't comply with them, 25 you think people won't follow the procedures, and that's

1 really not fair. I mean, I think what you're doing is you're 2 sort of prejudging or assuming ahead of time that the trust
3 distribution procedures won't be followed, that the trustee
4 won't do his job; that the parties administering the claims 5 won't do so with integrity in regard to their fiduciary 6 obligations.

7 I don't begin my day with those assumptions. I 8 think that we have to assume that if procedures are 9 propounded or put forth by the debtors in terms of what they 10 think is fair and reasonable based on their historical 11 settlement practices, if that is being imposed on the 12 survivors here, because the survivors are not free to 13 allocate among themselves how this gets divvied up, you know, 14 here, Your Honor, it's different. It's not as though all of 15 the tort lawyers are getting in a room and deciding how these 16 funds get allocated among themselves and, you know, how the 17 claims are allowed, that would be a negotiated TDP, this is 18 an evidence-based one. This is where the debtors are coming 19 in and saying these are our practices, these are the values 20 where we settled claims, this is what we required before we 21 would enter into a settlement with an abuse victim and 22 they're imposing that process on us.

23 We're accepting it because the debtors have a need 24 and I think they have an obligation to put forth procedures 25 that are fair and reasonable, as opposed to ones that are

1 just arbitrary and capricious. That obviously wouldn't work
2 in a bankruptcy case.

3 So I do think that the debtors have an interest in 4 this. I will argue now and argue, I believe, in the future
5 that the debtors are a part of this from a settlement 6 standpoint because right now they have the liability for 7 these claims and they are trying to resolve the abuse claims
8 in this bankruptcy case. If we don't resolve the abuse 9 claims, Your Honor, a lot of money has been spent here for 10 nothing. That is something that we have to achieve and I 11 think that this goes to the heart of that resolution.

12 And if I did not answer your question, Your Honor, 13 I'll be back and I will read more cases.

14 THE COURT: I'm not sure it's in the cases. I've 15 been looking for this.

16 MR. GOODMAN: I appreciate that.

17 The last finding, Your Honor, good faith. No one 18 has talked about this, at least the insurers didn't. That's 19 in Article 9(a)(3)-T of the plan. The Court obviously has to 20 make a good faith finding in order to confirm a plan, that's 21 what Section 1129(a)(3) says. This is also a factual issue.
22 And I raise it -- you know, a few things.

23 First, we can't avoid this. This isn't really 24 coming from the findings, this is also coming from 25 1129(a)(3).

1 Regarding discovery, my understanding is that the 2 insurers want to pierce the mediation privilege and take 3 discovery on how the TDP was negotiated; I think that would 4 be wrong. Whether the TDPs and the plan were proposed in 5 good faith I think follows from what those documents say. I 6 don't think the mediation discussions would necessarily 7 inform that, but that issue, the reason I'm flagging it now, 8 is going to be one on which there are going to be discovery 9 disputes. Obviously, there are things that the insurers are 10 going to want that the debtors are probably going to oppose.
11 If the debtors were successful in piercing the mediation
12 privilege, there will be a lot of discovery that I'll want 13 from the insurers that they probably will then oppose.

14 So I'm just flagging that issue, Your Honor, now 15 because I know that one of the things that we are trying to 16 get through for purposes of today or this week is an 17 appropriate schedule going forward on discovery issues.

18 THE COURT: How does this finding -- and I think 19 1129(a) (3), good faith, is what the Third Circuit says it is 20 for confirmation, not some other good faith standard that 21 might be out there or not a general good faith standard, but 22 good faith as the Third Circuit defines it in collection with 23 1129(a) (3).

24 But how does this, if at all, since you've brought 25 up mediation privilege, how does this align with the position

1 that the -- that we just discussed with respect to finding R 2 that the debtors' part of the settlement of the TDPs, that 3 they were involved, is this involved with the good faith
4 finding, is that something I have to be concerned about 5 breaking mediation privilege on? How do those two -- and I 6 don't know, I'm asking -- how do those two findings mesh, or 7 are they separate?

8 MR. GOODMAN: My answer to the question posed is 9 that those two findings are separate and distinct, but I do 10 think that there is going to be some overlap, and I think 11 that they are the two factual issues that will be before the 12 Court at plan confirmation and, therefore, I think it follows 13 that those are the two issues on which there's going to need 14 to be discovery.

15 And I don't know that I can go much further than 16 that at this point other than to flag those issues, but I 17 will say this -- and we'll get there later when we talk about 18 scheduling -- if you think in terms of are the trust 19 distribution procedures reasonable based on the debtors'
20 historical practices. If you asked the question, you know, 21 about the plan itself being proposed in good faith, the 22 discovery necessary to inform the Court and for the Court to 23 rule on those issues I don't think is going to be this six-24 to-eighteen-month-long circus that would involve going out 25 and deposing thousands of abuse survivors, because I just

1 don't know what -- I mean, I would -- I think the Court
2 should hear from the abuse survivors at plan confirmation, I 3 don't want to be glib on that issue, I think what they have 4 to say is extremely valuable and important.

5 I listened to the hearing last week, Your Honor, 6 and I heard Mr. Washburn speak. I thought he did so very 7 eloquently and I appreciate the time that this Court afforded 8 to him in listening to him and considering his views on these 9 issues. So those are obviously extremely important. But in 10 terms of the issues before the Court and getting through the 11 1129 issues, good faith and the fair and reasonable I think 12 are what will -- what are and should inform the discovery 13 that's necessary to get through plan confirmation.

14 And I hate the fact that I did not give you a 15 direct answer to your question, it's just that I feel as 16 though I need to give a little more thought to that before I 17 come back with an answer.

18 THE COURT: Thank you.

19 MR. GOODMAN: Your Honor, I have nothing further, 20 unless you have more questions for me.

21 THE COURT: No. Thank you.

22 MR. MOLTON: Your Honor, may I go next?

23 THE COURT: Do you have a separate topic from Mr.
24 Goodman?

25 MR. MOLTON: I do, Your Honor. I didn't expect

1 to, but I didn't expect to be involved in this afternoon's
2 discussion. But Your Honor has asked about trustee selection
3 and TAC, which is something that I know a little about. So 4 I'd like to talk about that, Your Honor, and address those 5 issues, which are separate from the insurance and the 6 findings issue. So I'm not going to repeat anything that 7 you've heard from Ms. Quinn or Mr. Goodman, and I'm going to 8 be concise, Your Honor, and I'm going to cut to the chase 9 pretty quickly.

10 Your Honor, with respect to trustee selection, 11 there's nothing remarkable or unusual with respect to how 12 trustees are picked in mass tort cases. As Your Honor noted 13 at the date of confirmation -- or the date the debtor emerges 14 from bankruptcy, I think you just said then they're gone and 15 that's true, and that's true of the debtors here and the 16 local councils here.

17 This is not like a charitable trust, Your Honor, 18 where the settler and the settler's wishes remain primary, 19 and the settler needs to retain control over those wishes.
20 Here, Your Honor, it's something even greater than that, it's 21 Your Honor's confirmation order and the plan and the plan
22 documents, which include -- and I'll get to this in a 23 minute -- the trust agreement, which will be approved by Your 24 Honor, and the TDP -- again, which will be approved by Your 25 Honor.

1 Indeed, Your Honor, contrary here to settlement 2 trusts or other assorted private trusts, family trusts, in 3 the mass tort context it is usually the settler, the settler 4 itself -- himself, itself -- that is at fault for the wrong 5 for which the bankruptcy occurred and which led to the 6 creation of the trust.

7 The beneficiaries here, Your Honor -- and here we 8 understand we're at about 80,000 beneficiaries, at least as 9 we count them now -- need to be assured and to be comforted
10 that the person, he or she, that's in charge of the trust 11 understand his or her job, have absolute independence -- and 12 I'll use that again -- subject, subject to what I just 13 mentioned, what I call the constitutional documents, because 14 I do represent trusts, Your Honor, in major mass tort cases, 15 and the constitutional documents for a trust and for the 16 trustee is Your Honor's confirmation order and the plan.

17 So somebody that has independence with integrity, 18 bona fides, expertise, and a reputation for getting these 19 very, very -- in this case, as Your Honor remarked, perhaps 20 one of the most challenging cases done. Your Honor should be 21 advised that it's been my experience that never is a trustee 22 selected for which the debtor doesn't have input, doesn't 23 have a say, whether it be express, you know, conditional 24 approval or otherwise. And this was a plan, Your Honor, that 25 contains a trustee selection that is being put forward by the 1 debtor. So I just want to say that.

2 Some recent examples, Your Honor, you know, that 3 show exactly what I'm saying is PG&E, where the Honorable 4 John Trotter, appellate -- retired appellate judge from 5 California, was named a trustee under similar circumstances.
6 In Purdue, I know there are -- I won't say dozens, but a 7 multitude of trusts that are in the process of either having 8 been created or will be created that this process is 9 undergoing.

10 In Takata, Your Honor, in this very court, the 11 trustee came out of the TCC process, I think, with a 12 nomination or selection in which the TCC participated and is 13 operating those trusts.

14 I'm going to get back to the point, though. The 15 point is what Mr. Goodman identified, is what's to stop a 16 trustee, as Your Honor said or suggests, from going rogue, 17 being in the bad, doing whatever he or she feels is 18 appropriate under the circumstances. It's Your Honor's 19 confirmation order and Your Honor -- and the plan, which 20 contains the trust agreement and contains the TDP, which are 21 approved by the Court after notice, opportunity to object, 22 and a determination by the Court about what's right or what's 23 wrong in it. That's as tight as it gets, Judge.

24 I think, you know, somebody used the word -- you 25 know, I forget what -- it was (indiscernible) -- but this

1 whole issue on trustee selection, I'll use a French word,
2 actually a Yiddish word -- I always say, here's a French 3 word -- boogie monster, it's the boogie monster in the 4 room -- because at the end of the day, Your Honor, if Your 5 Honor takes a look and I've asked for -- I didn't expect to 6 talk on this, Your Honor, at this length today, so I don't 7 have the docket number of the most recent trust agreement
8 that's been filed with Your Honor for Your Honor's 9 consideration, but I do want to note a couple of things in 10 it, Your Honor.

11 Section 1.7 of the trust agreement -- and these 12 are really tight -- from my perspective, Judge, a lot of work 13 went into this trust agreement and from all of the parties, 14 and that includes the TCC -- paragraph 1.7, "Jurisdiction.
15 The bankruptcy court shall have continuing jurisdiction with 16 respect to the trust; provided, however, the Courts of the 17 State of Delaware, including any Federal Court located 18 therein, shall also have jurisdiction shall also have 19 jurisdiction over the trust." That's our Stern v. Marshall 20 proviso, I gather.

21 In any event, Your Honor, the ability to run rogue 22 is proscribed by a -- what would be a court-approved trust
23 agreement which contains at Section 8.5 -- and I hope I'm 24 reading the most recent provisions -- "Modification.
25 Material modifications to this trust agreement, including the

1 exhibits hereto" -- which are the TDP -- "may be made only 2 with the consent of the trustee, a majority of the STAC" -- 3 which is the equivalent of what folks call the TAC -- "and 4 the FCR, which consent in each case shall not be unreasonably 5 withheld, conditioned, or delayed, and subject to the 6 approval of the bankruptcy court; provided, however, that the 7 trustee may amend this trust agreement from time to time 8 without the consent of approval or other authorization of, 9 but with notice to the bankruptcy court to make minor 10 corrective or clarifying amendments necessary to enable the 11 trustee to effectuate the provisions of this trust agreement, 12 provided such minor corrective or clarifying amendments shall 13 not take effect until ten days after notice to the bankruptcy 14 court," therefore giving anybody in the world who's following 15 your docket an ability to put their hand in the air and say, 16 no, no, no, no, no, that's not a clarifying amendment or a 17 minor corrective change, that is a substantive modification.

18 "Except as permitted pursuant to the preceding 19 sentence," it goes on, "the trustee shall not modify this 20 trust agreement in any manner that is inconsistent with the 21 plan or the confirmation order without the approval of the 22 bankruptcy court. The trustee shall file notice of any 23 modification of this trust agreement with the bankruptcy 24 court and post such notice on the trust website."

25 Your Honor, that's the answer to your question, I

1 respectfully submit.

2 Second, the TAC, Your Honor asked about the TAC,
3 what we call the STAC. If Your Honor looks at the trust 4 agreement, you will see they have absolutely -- by the way, 5 I'll go back a second. Judge, how many times in a week when 6 I get a question on some of the other cases that I represent 7 trusts on, which include Takata and include PG&E, I get a 8 question and the first thing we do is let's go to the -- you 9 know, not let's go to the videotape, let's go to our 10 constitutional documents. That's the answer to your 11 question.

12 Our trust agreement, Your Honor, prohibits, does 13 not allow, does not contemplate, does not envision any of the 14 TAC members from having a role in claims administration, 15 that's not what they're there for. They're there to provide 16 their experience, expertise, ideas, et cetera, in a 17 cooperative, consultive way in order to make the trust work.

18 We articulate in the trust agreement, Your Honor, 19 those matters requiring consultation by the trustee with the 20 TAC, what's called the STAC in the FCR -- and that's 21 paragraph 5.13, Your Honor, of the trust agreement -- stuff 22 that folks who -- folks who have an overriding interest in 23 seeing beneficiaries treated fairly arguably should be 24 consulted on it.

25 And by the way, Your Honor, you know, I tried to 1 find it in the time, but my understanding is the trust

2 agreement -- and I could come back to this because I know
3 it's in others -- say that the TAC members have a 4 fiduciary -- they don't become a TAC member without 5 accepting this -- a fiduciary obligation to the 6 beneficiaries.

7 So 5.13, "Matters requiring consultation. The 8 trustee shall consult with the STAC and the FCR on the 9 following: the selection or replacement of the claims 10 processor; two, the forms of a release to be executed by a 11 beneficiary; an annual estimate of the budget of trust-12 operating expenses" -- always an issue -- "and the 13 administration investment of assets of and expenses to be 14 charged against the future abuse claims reserve."

15 Again, all issues in which you would think that 16 folks acting in an advisory fashion as fiduciaries for the 17 beneficiaries might have views on and might help -- help -- 18 the trustee with its, his or her, independent decision-19 making.

20 Section 5.14, Judge, then articulates the matters 21 requiring the consent of the STAC or the FCR with respect to 22 decisions of the trustee, "(a) the determination of the 23 initial payment percentage and any subsequent adjustment of 24 the payment percentage." That's the amount, the pro rata 25 payment based on the corpus of distributable assets in the 1 trust that will go to claimants. Clearly, the bedrock rule

2 of bankruptcy is pro rata, pro rata, pro rata, nobody wants 3 to be in a position where too much money is being given, 4 thereby leaving folks later on who are later in the 5 submission of their claims, have more difficult claims, and 6 their determination is made later from not getting the same 7 pro rata amount.

8 So that's A, consent for that, consent of the TAC
9 for any proposed modification of the indemnification
10 provisions of the trust agreement. That's clear because they 11 are indemnified parties as fiduciaries.

12 "(c) any proposed sale, transfer, or exchange of 13 trust assets above bracket a certain amount," and that's 14 going to have to be determined. Any proposed sale of trust 15 assets below that amount shall not require the STAC or the 16 FCR consent.

17 Next, 4, "Any apportionment, appointment, or 18 retention of the special reviewer or any successful special 19 reviewer in the event of a vacancies." The special reviewer, 20 Your Honor, is a position -- and I don't want to get too much 21 in the weeds but will have appellate-like overview of any 22 what I call insurer -- post-effective date insurer or 23 chartered organization settlements by the trustee."

24 And then also with respect to -- again, I don't 25 want to get too much in the weeds -- there's various way in

1 which folks who -- beneficiaries can exit into the tort 2 system whether or not they exit.

3 "Consent," item 5, "any proposed material 4 modification to the trust agreement or the TDP, if and as 5 required by the consent provisions set forth herein."

6 And of course, that would of course at the end of 7 the day require Your Honor's final approval.

8 Next, "Any proposed increase or decrease in the 9 size of the future abuse claims reserve," again, another 10 unremarkable instance in which the TAC would have consent 11 rights over the independence of the trustee.

12 And, lastly -- and this is the special situation I 13 talked about -- "the commencement or continuation of a 14 lawsuit by a direct abuse claimant against the trust pursuant 15 to a tort election" -- and I'm not going to get too far in 16 the weeds on that, Your Honor -- "and approval and execution 17 of any global settlement subject to the terms of another 18 provision of the trust."

19 All of those are pretty unremarkable. You know, 20 it's the same thing, Your Honor, with respect to what I would 21 call a non-ordinary course -- non-ordinary course sale by the 22 debtor, it's going to -- the debtor just doesn't get to do 23 it, it's going to have to require further approval here by 24 the TAC, under certain circumstances and in accordance with 25 the trust agreement. And there's specific provisions as to 1 how that happens and, again, it's pretty detailed and I'm not 2 going to get into it.

3 So that's my, hopefully, not too long answer to 4 Your Honor's questions. And if Your Honor gives me leave, I 5 would just like to -- since I guess I'm batting clean-up 6 here -- just address just a number of other points that were 7 made earlier in the day that don't necessarily relate to 8 those issues but relate to a few others. I promise, Your 9 Honor, I'm going to be very brief. May I?

10 THE COURT: Well, I thought I was going to hear 11 from Ms. Lauria on those. Let me hear from Mr. Harron on 12 these specific issues, I want to finish this out.

13 MR. MOLTON: Okay. Thank you, Judge.

14 MR. HARRON: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Mr. Harron.

16 MR. HARRON: For the record, Ed Harron for the 17 Future Claimants' Rep.

18 I want to address three issues that Your Honor has 19 been focused on: the specific issue of the structure of the 20 trust and the trust administration, why the findings are 21 appropriate, and why the findings don't render the plan 22 unconfirmable.

23 First a simple point on the trust structure. This 24 trust structure follows a structure with which Your Honor is 25 well familiar, the non-mass tort cases. As Your Honor is

1 aware, in the non-mass tort cases where there's a settlement 2 trust or litigation trust, it's almost always the case that 3 the beneficiaries of the trust are the unsecured creditors 4 and that trust -- that the trustee is selected by the 5 creditors committee and the oversight of that trust is 6 handled by an analog to the creditors committee comprised of 7 the same or a subset of the members.

8 So, really, there's nothing different here. And 9 the reason that you have -- the only real difference is you
10 have an FCR and that's in part because of the long-tail
11 nature of the trust. And really, for example, the payment 12 percentage is a spot where an FCR is helpful to provide a 13 counterbalance to the committee representing the interests of 14 current claimants, when the trustee is forced to evaluate the 15 payment percentage. The current claimants, obviously, always 16 want the trust to pay out as much as reasonably possible as 17 soon as reasonably possible. It's incumbent upon the future
18 claimants' rep to make sure that the payouts are consistent 19 with our view of the trust's future liabilities.

20 So, really, these trusts follow the same structure 21 that you see in the non-mass tort cases except for the 22 addition of the future's rep, which we think is appropriate 23 based on the application of a payment percentage and the 24 long-tail nature of many of the torts.

25 That's all I have on that topic, Your Honor,

1 unless you had questions.

2 THE COURT: No. I mean, I think that's a fair
3 analogy, but I think it -- it's again because the debtor is 4 out of the equation and you have a liquidating trust that's 5 for the benefit of creditors. So, yes, I think it's -- 6 you're right and I think it follows that.

7 MR. HARRON: But keep in mind, Your Honor, that 8 it's not only the creditors that want the debtors to be out 9 of the equation, the debtor wants to be out of the equation.

10 THE COURT: Yes.

11 MR. HARRON: The debtor wants to be fully and 12 finally resolved of this issue and, therefore, it walks away, 13 but as part of that walk-away the parties with a financial 14 stake need some reasonable assurance that the trust is going 15 to work and that the trust will operate in a way that it 16 preserves the value of the estate assets, and that's all 17 we're asking for here.

18 So, you're right, the debtor has a stake in making 19 sure that the trust serves its purpose and obtains the 20 support of the survivors and meets the requirements of the 21 bankruptcy code, primarily because they want the finality of 22 the injunction. But really during the case the debtor has a 23 strong interest in making sure the trust is appropriate and 24 satisfies all those concerns. It's not until the case is 25 over on the effective date when the debtor really has -- no

1 longer has an interest in it.

2 So I don't think it's fair for anyone to suggest 3 that the debtor has no interest in how these procedures work.
4 The debtors want to vote and the debtors want the procedures
5 to comply with the bankruptcy code. The claimants want the 6 procedures to work in a way that maximizes the value of the 7 assets or, at a minimum, doesn't diminish the value of the 8 estate assets, and that takes me to my second point.

9 Your Honor, insurance is a significant asset,
10 particularly for future claimants. Our future claimants 11 primarily are those claimants right now who are under 18. In 12 our view, they'd have full access to insurance to cover their 13 claims -- and these are claims for which Century does not 14 provide coverage -- absent the bankruptcy, they'd be paid in 15 full. Even were the Scouts to liquidate, these future 16 claimants could go out and sue the chartered orgs and access 17 this very same coverage. We don't need the Scouts, we don't 18 need the bankruptcy to get paid from insurance.

19 So, in our view, we want assurances that when this 20 case is over the bankruptcy has done no harm to the ability 21 of claimants to recover insurance, the Boy Scouts' insurance, 22 to the very same extent they could before the bankruptcy.

23 For example, Your Honor, and as I've mentioned, 24 it's important to the BSA that they kind of put this issue 25 behind them. And one of the things for which they've

1 negotiated is that the claims will be resolved pursuant to a 2 trust. Subject to some limited exceptions, claimants no
3 longer will name Boy Scouts or other participating parties 4 when they seek to get paid on their claims.

5 You may recall, Mr. Plevin mentioned earlier today 6 that it's his view -- and, anecdotally, he's asking you to 7 make a coverage finding when he suggests to you what the 8 policies say, but it's his view that the insurers don't have 9 to pay a thing until the Boy Scouts or other parties are 10 named in a lawsuit. We have to reconcile these interests, 11 the interests of the claimants in preserving the insurance 12 asset and the interest of the Boy Scouts in no longer being 13 named as defendants in lawsuits, and we have to do it in a 14 way that doesn't allow lawyers like Mr. Plevin to argue in 15 the future that, hey, because the injunction doesn't allow 16 claimants to name the Boy Scouts, you no longer have 17 coverage, that's what we're trying to do.

18 So, Your Honor, there's a fair and equitable 19 component in Section 524(g). As Mr. Rosenthal noted, this is 20 not an asbestos case, but I think even Mr. Rosenthal would 21 concede that analogies are drawn from 524(g) in non-asbestos 22 mass tort cases.

23 The 524(g) provision to which I allude is Section
24 524(g) (4) (B) (ii) where it talks about the relief -- 25 "identifying the debtors and other third parties in an

1 injunction with respect to such demands, i.e. future
2 claimants, is fair and equitable with respect to the persons 3 that might subsequently assert demands."

4 And that's our point, Your Honor, we think this 5 plan is only fair and equitable if it doesn't prejudice our 6 ability to obtain insurance to the same extent we could 7 access that insurance pre-bankruptcy. In our view, that's 8 what the findings do. They don't expand the estate's rights, 9 they just make sure that the insurers don't opportunistically 10 utilize the bankruptcy to create defenses to coverage that 11 didn't exist before the bankruptcy occurred. And, as I 12 mentioned a few days ago, we believe that's consistent with 13 Section 524(e) of the bankruptcy code, which makes clear that 14 the discharge of the debtor shall not release co-liable third 15 parties.

16 Your Honor, to my final point, you know, and 17 essentially why this plan should go out with our proposed 18 findings, the standard for denying a disclosure statement 19 based on the terms of a plan is basically the plan could not 20 possibly be confirmed. It's often referred to as un-21 confirmable on its face. Your Honor, I'd suggest to you that 22 if you review the insurers' arguments in opposition to the 23 findings, their premises almost exclusively on factual
24 conjecture. They speculate about the plan proponents'
25 motivations, they speculate about the quality of the claims

1 to be resolved by the trust, they speculate about the manner
2 in which Boy Scouts resolved claims prior to the bankruptcy, 3 they speculate that they're only liable if cases are taken to 4 judgment when we all know that they paid plenty of cases in 5 settlements and not judgments, they speculate about how we 6 might want to use these findings in other cases. When Mr.
7 Rosenthal told you that the only party that's conceded that 8 they're opposing these findings for purposes of other cases 9 is Mr. Rosenthal and his clients, when he told you we won't 10 settle because of this precedent.

11 So, Your Honor, we'd suggest that if they need to 12 rely on factual speculation that supports our suggestion, 13 that we be allowed to make a factual record and that we'll 14 refute each and every one of the things they said, and we'd 15 like to do it at confirmation. As a matter of law, that 16 would suggest that these findings are inappropriate, but 17 we've explained as a matter of law why they are.

18 Now, Your Honor, one thing you did not hear from 19 the insurers at all today was how these findings prejudice
20 their interests as creditors of the estate, not one mention 21 of it. They're here today arguing in their capacity as 22 debtors of the debtors and debtors to the claimants.

23 And why do I mention that, Your Honor? Well, I 24 get the sense that Your Honor is struggling with how best to 25 move this case forward, how best to do it quickly,

1 efficiently, and in a manner that preserves Scouting, and 2 you're wondering whether these findings will bring the 3 insurers to the table or prolong confirmation. And I would 4 suggest to Your Honor that with the limited time you have to 5 hear from all of us and review our pleadings, you know, I'm 6 very sympathetic, that's a tough position for you to be in, 7 and I think the more appropriate route is just to defer to 8 the law and the bankruptcy code and what renders a plan not 9 confirmable on its face.

10 And I would also add, Your Honor, that the estate
11 fiduciaries, the debtor, the future rep, we have no 12 independent financial incentive, which is unlike the 13 incentives of the insurers. The debtor; the future rep; the 14 Coalition, to the extent they're a fiduciary, which I believe 15 they are; and the TCC, who supported these findings when we 16 negotiated the term sheet -- I'm not certain today whether 17 Mr. Stang supports them still, but when he signed the RSA he 18 did -- all of the estate fiduciaries view these findings as 19 part of a package, which we believe is the most efficient and 20 appropriate way to get this case to confirmation. And we 21 would suggest that our role as estate fiduciaries should 22 entitle us to more deference than what you're hearing from 23 insurers acting in their capacity as debtors of the debtor.

24 Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Thank you.

1 Okay, we're going to take a break at 2 o'clock.
2 Mr. Stang, you have the floor between now and 2:00 --
3 Eastern, because you're on the West Coast.

4 (Laughter)

5 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor. I just -- this 6 might in the nature of the cleanup. You had asked earlier in 7 the hearing whether you were going to be asked or have you
8 been asked to determine the value of the claims and will you 9 be asked to do that. And I think you said, well, no one has 10 asked me yet. And there was an allusion, it may have been by 11 Mr. Rosenthal, to the aborted estimation motion. We do think 12 that you're going to have to value the claims in the context 13 of determining whether Master Mortgage has been met, whether 14 the Hartford TCJC settlements are fair to meet the 9019 15 standard or whatever conditional standards may exist because 16 they're in the plan, and also the best interests test.

17 We have filed an application to employ a valuation
18 expert. That application is pending, that is why we sought 19 to employ that firm, and we think that you will be asked to 20 value the claims, at least in the context of those three 21 matters, if not others.

22 Thank you, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Thank you.

24 Okay, Mr. Rosenthal, you have like 11 minutes.

25 MR. ROSENTHAL: Your Honor, I was wondering if you

1 wanted a response or if we wanted to take a break. I'm fine 2 with --

3 THE COURT: No, let me hear from you,
4 Mr. Rosenthal.

5 MR. ROSENTHAL: Okay. First, Your Honor, I tried 6 to write down things as they were said, but I would say to 7 Your Honor, just to address sort of the fundamental point, I 8 have never thought of the TDPs as a settlement. I think what 9 we have here is a plan. As Your Honor correctly indicates, 10 the settlement between the debtor -- is between the debtors 11 as to how much they will have to contribute to the plan, and 12 that settlement is measured -- because that's what all plans 13 do -- that settlement is measured by the 1129 standards.

14 As you were saying, it's not really a settlement 15 with the debtor. What really happened here is that the 16 claimants went out and they reached a deal with the debtor to 17 resolve the debtors' liability for an agreed amount of money 18 that the debtor thought was a pretty good deal and, in 19 exchange, the TDPs and the -- you know, the drafting of the 20 TDPs to the claimants, so that they could, as you were 21 saying, whack up whatever money came into that trust in 22 whatever way they thought appropriate. I don't think the 23 debtors had anything to say about that, I don't think they 24 had a dog in that fight.

25 One of the things that you heard people say is

1 that, you know, this -- these TDPs reflect what the debtor
2 was doing in the tort system in historical norms. That is 3 absolutely not true. There were very few cases in the tort 4 system. The historical norms, on average, were substantially
5 lower than what's being allowed here. This is no different 6 than in an asbestos where the debtor -- you know, the debtor
7 turns over, you know, the keys to the trust to the claimants
8 and they figure out how to -- you know, how to distribute it.
9 In some cases, for example, in asbestos, meso claimants, they 10 don't get treated the same as other claimants in the trust, 11 they get a disproportionately high recover because that's a 12 negotiation that has occurred between the claimants' lawyers 13 themselves.

14 So I think the appropriate way to look at this is 15 as a confirmation issue, the appropriate standards are the 16 1129 standards.

17 There was some discussion, Your Honor, about a 18 trustee, why it wasn't chosen by the debtors and why a TAC.
19 So just a little background there. Obviously, this is -- 20 this comes from, originally, from the bankruptcy context.

21 When the debtors struck their deal, they didn't 22 really care what the deal looked like. They didn't care how 23 the money was distributed, so they didn't care who was 24 distributing it. I'm betting, Your Honor, that if you have 25 cases where, in fact, the debtor has an ongoing or a parent

1 company has an ongoing obligation to fund, that they would be 2 extremely interested in who the trustee would be.

3 In many of these cases we have three trustees to 4 represent various interests that sort of play off of one 5 another. Here, we have one trustee that has connections to 6 the, you know, has connections to the claimants, including 7 the FCR, and is given wide discretion to allow claims 8 pursuant to these procedures.

9 The TAC is a typical, you know, the trust advisory 10 committee is a typical mechanism for a trust. Their role is 11 really to sort of be the watchdog of what the trustee does, 12 and I think that's the same here.

13 One of the things that was pointed out, I think, 14 by Mr. Molton, in terms of the modification, is that they 15 have to come back to the Court for any modification. I would 16 suggest to you that this is, again, this is exactly what Mr.
17 Molton said. This is, again, the claimants wanting 18 safeguards against themselves. They made this decision to 19 whack it up a certain way and they don't want the trustee to 20 change that decision, either without their consent or without 21 coming back to the Court, and that's the purpose, in this 22 TDP, of that provision.

23 Just briefly on Ms. Quinn's remarks, she had 24 argued that the findings don't really make determinations; 25 obviously, Your Honor, I disagree, and I think they can be

1 misused to imply that they, and suggest that you made 2 determinations, and certainly can be done to do unless you 3 clarify exactly what you're doing and what you're not doing.

4 And I think she or one of the others went on to 5 say that the insurers shouldn't get two bites at the apple.
6 I think this was made whether in response to one of my 7 comments or Mr. Plevin's, but this is exactly the point I was 8 making. This is intended to be determinative. Their view is 9 she couldn't get two bites at the apple.

10 The first bite is this Court's determination, and 11 then they're going to go to a coverage court and say, you 12 already decided it, Your Honor. They shouldn't get two bites 13 at the apple.

14 One of the things that was mentioned by, I think,
15 Mr. Goodman is that I hadn't talked about the good faith 16 finding. I was about to talk about that, but we got waylaid 17 at the time. I agree that 1129(a)(3) requires a good faith 18 finding, but it requires a good faith finding with respect to 19 the plan, and they want to extend that finding to the trust 20 distribution procedures, which we think is not appropriate, 21 and it's inappropriate for all the reasons that I've been 22 discussing, which is to say, these weren't negotiated 23 procedures. And so, what went on while the claimants were 24 deciding how they wanted to whack up these values isn't 25 proper for this Court to consider or opine on.

1 There was a reference, Your Honor, Ms. Quinn tried 2 to say -- and I knew she was going to do this because she was 3 very active in Purdue -- she tried to argue that, you know,
4 the horse is out of the barn, that Judge Drain had decided 5 that, you know, a plan should not be insurance-neutral. I
6 don't think that's what Judge Drain decided, Your Honor.

7 As Ms. Quinn, herself, argued to Judge Drain, the 8 Purdue case was sui generis and didn't have a broader impact.
9 There were, in fact, no findings in Purdue that approved TDPs
10 or liquidations of values. What was involved there was a 11 settlement, similar to the sort of the settlement between the 12 estate and, you know, between the debtors -- with the 13 debtors.

14 This time, though, it was a settlement, it was a 15 third-party settlement with the Sackler (phonetic) family.
16 So, I don't think that Purdue is analogous to this case, nor 17 do I think that it opens the door. But if it does, Your 18 Honor, I think it goes back to a point that I was making, 19 that they're trying to use this Court to build on that case
20 to change the insurance neutrality doctrine or the doctrine 21 that you shouldn't -- in my view, that's the doctrine that 22 you shouldn't be altering the contractual rights of insurers 23 to something different, that you are able to alter the 24 contractual rights of insurers.

25 You had mentioned something about one of the 1 findings, I think it was T, something like that, that the 2 finding about, you know, is any amounts -- they use loaded

3 words. In each of these findings they're using loaded
4 words -- allowed -- whatever. Of course, the reason, I 5 think, Your Honor, they're using these loaded words is 6 because they want to squeeze them within the parameters of 7 allowed claims.

8 You know, the normal way you might -- you would do 9 something like this in an asbestos context, for example, is 10 their treatment, the treatment would be, you know, the 11 treatment of the asbestos claimants here, abuse claimants is 12 the treatment they get in the TDP, period. That's the 13 treatment.

14 Let me -- I have a couple more things and then 15 I'll let us break. One of the questions you asked me was 16 about expedited distributions and saying isn't this really 17 just a convenience payment?

18 I don't think it is, Your Honor. First, we don't 19 make $3500 convenience payments in these situations. We, 20 generally, would make smaller payments, and, of course, this 21 is in addition to the comment I made about no ability of the 22 trustee to object.

23 But I think another equally important point is 24 that these claims would never have been brought in the tort 25 system. You know, for $3500 even, how many of these claims

1 would make it to the tort system?

2 It costs more than that to put the litigation
3 together and bring the claims. So, these claims, and this is 4 more of an observation, you know, many of these claims would 5 never have been brought, and so this $3500 times 10,000 or 6 20,000 or 30,000 is a lot of money.

7 You had asked me on Ohio State, the Ohio State
8 decision, whether it was decided on an aggregate basis and I 9 got about a hundred emails from the insurers, some of the 10 insurers over the last 30 minutes saying it was that the 11 abuse was in, I think, 1998 and there was a two-year abuse 12 statute relevant there, and, you know, this was 20 years 13 later.

14 So, one more thing -- no, I don't think I have 15 anything further. Thank you very much for the time, Your 16 Honor.

17 THE COURT: Thank you. We are going to take a 18 break, because, while I could continue, my staff needs a 19 break and they're, as we know, the most important people that 20 we have to be concerned about here, so we're going to take a 21 break.

22 But let me ask you one question, Mr. Rosenthal. I 23 mean, you would agree that the settlement that the debtor is 24 making in this case is not just their contribution; it's also 25 the assignment, contribution, whatever you want to call it,

1 their right to insurance or insurance proceeds or their 2 whatever rights they have under the policy to the trust.

3 MR. ROSENTHAL: I would.

4 THE COURT: Okay. We're going to take a break.

5 It's two o'clock. We're going to take a break until 3:00 and 6 we'll be back.

7 We're in recess.

8 COUNSEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

9 (Recess taken at 2:00 p.m.)

10 (Proceedings resumed at 3:03 p.m.)

11 THE COURT: This is Judge Silverstein. We're back
12 on the record in Boy Scouts.

13 MR. ABBOTT: Thank you, Your Honor. Ms. --

14 THE COURT: I --

15 MS. ABBOTT: Go ahead. Your Honor, do you have a 16 desire about how we proceed from here?

17 THE COURT: So I have thoughts about what I've 18 heard to date. Mr. Schiavoni, I see your hand is up. I'll 19 give you five minutes.

20 MR. SCHIAVONI: Just, what if I just do it in a 21 minute because what I'm --

22 THE COURT: Better.

23 MR. SCHIAVONI: Better, good. Here's what I'm 24 going to suggest to Your Honor if you could, you know, please 25 give some thought to in essence reserving decision or -- or

1 discussion here until you hear now argument on the schedule
2 because I think you've gotten a flavor, like one of the 3 things we suggested the other day when -- or I did when we 4 talked about this argument was how together with the -- with 5 the -- one informs the other so to speak. Okay?

6 Whether or not Your Honor determines that a 7 particular finding can or could not be made, and you may well 8 decide the more prudent thing to do is to await confirmation 9 and make that decision. There's a secondary issue with 10 regard to each one of these, but, you know, frankly, I would 11 suggest that you've got to really look at them collectively.

12 And that is how they impact discovery, okay, and 13 the schedule because I think you've gotten a flavor that this 14 is -- these are not pure issues of law, that these are driven 15 by, I think, intense analysis of what happened. The notion 16 that you're going to make a finding clarifying what the deal 17 is without having any of the documents before you of what the 18 deal is, in fact, right that was actually discussed among the 19 parties, how you're going to make findings that are very 20 broad on good faith instead of limited without having the 21 documents about the transaction, how you're going to make 22 some sort of finding that these are procedures that would 23 adjudicate 82,000 claims without actually having claimant 24 discovery and what not, it all implicates discovery. And, 25 you know, the flip side of all of this is that, you know, the

1 debtor is saying do this discovery. You're going to hear it
2 in 60 days and that you serve one set of discovery requests
3 and that's it. And it's like, you know, we -- we get it all 4 done before Christmas. It's like when, you know, bottom line 5 when this hits the circuit, it's like if, in fact, it's 6 presented just because I got -- I'm almost at the minute
7 mark, it's like what comes out is that like in some 60-day
8 proceeding, we generated an adjudicated result for 82,000 9 claims, you know, exceeding $100 billion or $200 billion, or 10 whatever the number is now. You know, that tells its own 11 story. This is not -- this is -- it's com- -- this is off 12 the rails as far as what the ask is for the findings and what 13 the -- the -- the discussion is on the discovery.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Okay. Well, let me
15 give some thoughts and let me say this wasn't part of what I 16 was thinking about, but in terms of the appellate process
17 it's an important part of any case. And it is a part of a 18 case. And I think my job is to do -- is to make the best 19 decision that I can make, and then if parties disagree with 20 that decision, they take it up, and that's part of the 21 process. I've said this in other cases. It doesn't offend 22 me. It's part of the process. It's how it works. My job is 23 to make the best decision that I can make based on the 24 presentations, factual and legal arguments that are presented 25 to me.

1 But I do have some thoughts because I think these 2 findings have clearly been a focus of many hearings before
3 me, and they are a focus of the parties and not -- in terms 4 of sending the plan out, not in the sense that a plan would 5 be patently unconfirmable as a matter of law without these 6 findings, but that people are telling me that -- people, 7 the -- the -- in particular, I guess, I'm hearing it from the 8 coalition, the FCR, are telling me that these findings are 9 necessary for their clients to support the settlement.

10 That's what I'm hearing. It's not hearing as a 11 matter of law there's some patently unconfirmable plan in 12 front of me but that these findings are necessary.

13 So let me -- I'm not going to satisfy everybody, 14 but let's walk through some of them and I will give you some 15 thoughts.

16 The first one, and I am looking in the plan, 17 Article 9, paragraph 3, J was the first condition precedent.
18 The insurance assignment is authorized as provided in the 19 plan, notwithstanding any terms of the policy or provisions 20 of non-bankruptcy law and that the settlement trust is a 21 proper defendant for abuse claims to assert the liability of 22 the protected parties to trigger, I guess that's an insurance 23 concept, such insurance rights, et cetera.

24 I will be making a decision on the insurance 25 assignment for the debtor's policies, for sure. That's a

1 matter of law, and I believe there's law in the Third Circuit
2 with respect to it. And I will respect that law and apply 3 that law with respect to the debtor's policies.

4 And it strikes me that the settlement trust has to 5 be an appropriate person to assert rights with respect to the 6 debtor's policies or else we couldn't be here and no mass
7 tort claim -- no mass tort case would work. It just doesn't 8 make any sense.

9 With respect to non-debtor policies, I understand 10 that that is a different issue, and the debtors have proposed 11 a workaround. And we'll see if that workaround works.
12 That's what people have suggested. It might. As I said, 13 it's not a workaround that I particularly care for, 14 generally, on principle, but nonetheless it's what's being 15 put in front of me, and I think I can probably rule on that.

16 With respect to "Q," the plan, the plan documents, 17 and the confirmation order shall be binding on all parties in 18 interest, I will say there what I say oftentimes in the 19 context of a confirmation order, a sale order, et cetera.

20 This provision really tells us who a plan binds, 21 and the code and the case law tell -- case law explains it.
22 Okay? That's who I can bind. I don't think I can do 23 anything other than that, and that includes the code 1141, 24 case law interpreting 1141, doctrines of res judicata, 25 collateral estoppel, doctrines of a plan as a contract, et

1 cetera.

2 So mirror the code. Okay? Some -- some judges
3 used to say, yeah, here's my two-page confirmation order. I 4 confirmed your plan. Okay? And then all of the effects that 5 it has, it has. But here is a mirror the code.

6 I'm going to skip down to T. The plan and the 7 trust distribution procedures were proposed in good faith and 8 sufficient to satisfy the requirements of 1129(a)(3). I'm 9 going to apply 1129(a)(3) in accordance with Third Circuit
10 law. Whether you can sweet the trust distribution procedures 11 into that or not, I don't know. But I'm not sure I should be 12 doing that. It's the -- the -- the requirement of 1129(a)(3)
13 is with respect to -- let me make sure I'm right, the plan, 14 which might encompass a lot of things.

15 The plan has been proposed in good faith and not 16 by any means forbidden by law. That's what I am supposed to 17 find, and what was interesting, when I went back and looked 18 at these conditions precedent, is many of them contain a 19 specific reference to a code section or 9019. They give me a 20 frame of reference as to what I am supposed to be guided by.
21 Some of these do, and some of these that we're looking at 22 don't, but I think it's interesting that it highlights the 23 fact that for certain of these findings there's no reference 24 to the code or any provision of the rules.

25 Okay. I think those three are pretty, quite

1 frankly, easy, and they're within my -- the general bailiwick
2 of a confirmation hearing. And I don't think those are 3 different than what I would have to find, except for the 4 insurance assignment, obviously. The insurance assignment
5 is -- is specific to here, but the bindingness of the plan, 6 1129(a)(3), that is the same as any other plan that is put in 7 front of me than where I have to contend with it on 8 confirmation.

9 Finding or condition precedent R, the procedures 10 included in the trust distribution procedures pertaining to 11 the allowance of abuse claims, and the criteria, et cetera, 12 are fair and reasonable. I'm still not sure what this falls 13 under in terms of a plan confirmation standard.

14 If I have to find because it's contested, if it 15 is, that the trust distribution procedures or the claims 16 amounts in the matrices are appropriate, acceptable, I don't 17 know, part of a negotiation. I don't know what I'm going to 18 find out there, I may make that kind of a finding. But it's 19 certainly going to be constrained by the type of hearing that 20 I have and the purpose of the hearing. And that's the 21 context in which I will make any such findings.

22 I don't know if fair and reasonable is the 23 standard, nor, quite frankly, do I know how that could 24 possibly impact anybody -- any insurance company's 25 obligations under a plan -- under their policies. I don't

1 know if those are magic words or not magic words. I suspect 2 they are not the words in the policy.

3 With respect to condition precedent S, the right 4 to payment that the holder of an abuse claim has against the 5 debtors, or another protected party, is the allowed value of 6 such abuse claim, as liquidated in accordance with the 7 distribution procedures, and is not the initial or 8 supplemental payment percentage or the contributions made by 9 the debtors. Again, I don't know what standard this would 10 fall within, but I think there's some general things we can 11 say about this.

12 A claimant's right to payment, and that does come, 13 someone said this, right from the definition of a claim.
14 Somebody has a claim. There are other contexts in which we 15 look at what their claim is, which might be analogous here, I 16 don't know. But if someone is adjudicated to have a claim 17 for $1,000 and there's a bankruptcy distribution of 10 cents 18 on the dollar, it doesn't mean their claim is $100. Their 19 claim is still $1,000. Whether they will be ever able to 20 collect that amount from anybody else is a different issue.
21 Maybe there's a guarantor who will pay them the other $900.
22 Maybe that guarantor doesn't have to pay them the other $900
23 because their contract of guarantee limits it.

24 But we know that there are bank -- we know that 25 rarely do creditors receive 100 cents. They get some sort of

1 bankruptcy distribution, and I think anybody looking at a 2 bankruptcy distribution would not say that that person didn't 3 have a claim for the full amount of their claim, whatever it
4 is. I would hope that's not controversial.

5 What I think is controversial about this paragraph 6 is how can -- is -- is -- how does that work in the insurance
7 coverage context? What does a policy provide for? What does 8 it say it covers? What product did the debtors buy? And so 9 this paragraph is probably the one I find most concerning in 10 terms of not knowing how it might be used later on down the 11 line, but I think there's some -- ought to be some 12 fundamental universal first principles about claims that I 13 think parties could probably agree to.

14 And then some other court looks at it and applies
15 it to particular contracts and a particular context. But I 16 will say that that paragraph S to the extent it has to be in 17 the form that is in this condition precedent is something 18 that I might not feel comfortable with in the way it's 19 written. And, as I said, the most troubling in that regard, 20 and I don't think anyone should be surprised by this, are 21 condition precedent R and S. But I think that there are some 22 fundamental principles behind some of this, particularly S, 23 that parties presumably could agree on.

24 And that's the guidance that I can give.

25 Other than that, I think, again, context matters.

1 I don't know what's going to be put in front of me. Somebody
2 says parties are on, you know, shifting. I would say a lot 3 of the parties have shifted their positions, depending on 4 whether they're in agreement in a particular time with what's 5 going forward or not. So -- and that's not surprising. It 6 happens in cases, and that's where we are in this case.

7 So I don't know if that was helpful or unhelpful,
8 but that's the best I can do at this point in time. I do 9 think, though, that to the extent that these particular 10 findings are gating issues for somebody who is supportive of 11 this plan, you need to give some thought to my comments.
12 Okay. Let's move on.

13 Ms. Lauria?

14 MS. LAURIA: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 Appreciate that feedback, and presumably we may 16 have another break today and we'll circle up with the other 17 co-proponents to determine what their reaction is or their 18 initial reaction to Your Honor's remarks. But we appreciate 19 that very much.

20 Your Honor, by my count we had another six or 21 seven issues that were raised in Mr. Rosenthal's remarks. I 22 didn't see any of them as rising to the level of patently
23 unconfirmable. I'm happy to address any or all of them. I 24 do think, importantly, we should address the timing and the 25 uncertainty point that he raised because I feel that is an

1 issue that we've been confronting regularly. And as 2 Mr. Kurtz said last week it's something that is critically 3 important to the debtors and so I want to get that on the 4 table.

5 And then, again, happy to respond to, and I can 6 list them again, the handful of other issues that he 7 mentioned.

8 You know, Mr. Rosenthal opened his remarks today
9 by saying, you know, we don't think that this disclosure 10 statement should be sent out now for solicitation, that we 11 should hold off a couple of weeks because right now we don't 12 have anything close to global consensus. And as Your Honor, 13 and probably more particularly your chambers, is painfully 14 aware, there have been multiple times during this case that 15 due to where we're at in mediation we have contacted chambers 16 and we've asked chambers to push something off so that we can 17 continue to mediate.

18 We have done that when we have felt we are on the 19 brink of something that could be, you know, a game changer 20 with respect to the case itself.

21 We are not there, Your Honor. This is -- we are 22 at the point where we have a plan that is substantially 23 mature, and it is ready to go out for solicitation. No 24 amount of mediation is going to change the core and 25 fundamental principles of this plan of reorganization,

1 subject, of course, to the remarks that Your Honor just made,
2 which we want to circle up with our colleagues about.

3 I didn't hear anything that necessarily should 4 change folks' minds, but right now I think we have a core 5 plan that is ready for solicitation. Importantly, from the 6 continued mediation perspective, we think mediation should 7 continue. We will continue to mediate with the chartered 8 organizations. We will continue to mediate with 9 Mr. Rosenthal and the other insurers. In fact, the nice 10 thing about this plan, now that we have one very significant 11 insurer on sides, that's Hartford, and one very significant 12 chartered organizations on sides, that's -- that's LDS or 13 TCJC, we've had someone wearing the hat of an insurer and the 14 hat of a chartered organization review the plan and comment 15 on those terms.

16 So as we look forward, additional settlements are 17 really bolt-ons to the structure that we already have and 18 that were already contemplated by the plan of reorganization 19 itself. No amount of time is going to change that, and, in 20 fact, as you heard from Mr. Kurtz last week and myself at the 21 outset of the hearing last week, time is not the debtor's 22 friend.

23 By the time we get to March, our trust
24 distribution is going to go down to zero from a cash 25 perspective, and the rest of the plan becomes significantly

1 infeasible if not infeasible and would have to be recut. So 2 time is not our friend, and we are ready to launch.

3 In terms of there's too much uncertainty, I can 4 tell you, Your Honor, there are numerous members of the 5 coalition law firms or in state court counsel that I think 6 are here to tell you today that it's not uncertain, that 7 state court counsel representing 81 percent of abuse
8 claimants are here in support of the plan.

9 The coalition lawyers and state court counsel 10 affiliated with them have worked incredibly hard through the 11 mediation process. They have literally shown up at every 12 mediation session for the last year, probably before that.
13 These were hard fought negotiations through mediation that 14 the coalition and FCR and debtors worked very, very, very 15 hard for. So to suggest there's some sort of uncertainty or 16 a lack of global consensus, I think we have numerous 17 individuals on the line today, Your Honor, that will tell you 18 that's just not the case.

19 Have we reached agreement with all of our 20 insurers? Clearly not, and we are looking forward to 21 continuing to negotiate with them. We clearly have not 22 reached agreement with all of the chartered organizations, 23 and we're looking forward to continuing to negotiate with 24 them. But that doesn't change the fact that we have a huge 25 ground swell of support for this plan today and, again, Your

1 Honor, I haven't heard anything that renders this plan
2 patently unconfirmable under American Capital Equipment that 3 should prohibit it from going out the door and being 4 solicited and getting that process started.

5 We also think it's critically important, and 6 you'll hear from Mr. Kurtz on this later in today's 7 presentation that we think it's critically important that the 8 timeline for confirmation discovery get kicked off 9 immediately.

10 So that, I think, was something that was very 11 important for me to address with the Court, Your Honor. In 12 terms of the other issues, I'm going to tick them off just to 13 see if there's something that you want to hear more about.

14 We heard about the coalition legal fees. In 15 short, we thought it was appropriate at the RSA phase given 16 the amount of energy that the coalition put into this, we 17 heard Your Honor at the RSA say it's premature for me to 18 endorse this today. Let's see where this case comes out.
19 That's why it's baked into the plan because that's at the 20 tail end. That's when you know when these cases come out.
21 They've worked hard.

22 They're continuing to work hard, and the debtors
23 thought it was appropriate.

24 On third-party releases, and I believe 25 Mr. Patterson also referenced this in one of his pleadings,

1 Mr. Rosenthal indicated that we've got it backwards, that the 2 debtor's claims are indeed derivative of local councils and 3 chartered organizations, not the reverse. That's just wrong,
4 Your Honor.

5 As you know from the first day of this case, the 6 Boy Scouts of America was congressionally chartered with the 7 mission of scouting in 1916 pursuant to an act of Congress.
8 It is only the national organization that has the ability to 9 grant charters to provide scouting throughout the United 10 States.

11 National controls the delivery of scouting at a 12 local level, and so these are, in fact, we are the scouts, we 13 are the scouting movement, we hold the congressional charter, 14 and no one has asserted, and, in fact, we haven't seen any 15 complaints where the national organization is getting accused 16 of some sort of vicarious liability on the part of the local 17 councils or on the part of chartered organizations.

18 In fact, you'll remember, Your Honor, I think it 19 was three months into this case, I think it was our first 20 contested hearing on the preliminary injunction, pre-21 bankruptcy case, these complaints defined scouting as 22 scouting, national local counsel and at the local 23 organization unit level. But that's a factual issue. That's 24 not an unconfirmable on its face, Your Honor.

25 But I did -- it's an important legal issue that

1 you will hear a lot about and a factual issue to the extent 2 there's issues with the third-party releases.

3 You've heard a lot about the $3,500 expedited
4 distribution. That's going to come up, again, when we deal
5 with the committee's motion. Mr. Rosenthal raised issues 6 concerning whether there would be an adequate basis to pay
7 out on those $3,500 claims. Again, I don't want to belabor
8 that point now. I'm just going to make two observations.
9 One, the expedited distribution has been tossed around a lot 10 over the last four days of court.

11 Two important things: One, in order to receive 12 the expedited distribution, the party had to have 13 substantially completed their proof of claim form. And, two, 14 the individual had to sign their proof of claim form. It 15 could not have been signed by an attorney. The TDP has 16 always said it had to have been actually signed by the 17 claimant itself to be eligible.

18 I have to correct the record from Mr. Schiavoni 19 who suggested that the majority of the proof of claim form 20 was background information concerning the individual. That's 21 just not true. It's 12 pages. 8 of those pages pertain to 22 questions related to abuse, scouting, chartered 23 organizations, the relationship with the abuser. There's one 24 page on background, two pages on instructions, one signature 25 page.

1 And then, finally, I think you heard a lot about 2 good faith. That is clearly a factual issue. Whether it's 3 in the 1129(a)(3) context or not, we will be prepared at the 4 confirmation hearing to demonstrate that the debtor satisfies 5 all of the 1129 standards for receiving confirmation of the 6 plan, including 1129(a)(3), and that's just not a reason to 7 prevent the plan and the disclosure statement from going out 8 for solicitation.

9 So that was a very fast canvassing of the issues
10 that you heard about. We're happy to go into more of them 11 now, later, but we don't think there's anything here that 12 should prevent this plan from being solicited.

13 As I said, Your Honor, I know there's coalition
14 folks here that may want to be heard. In fact, I see 15 Mr. Rothweiler has raised his hand, but unless you've got 16 questions for me, that's where -- where I think we see the 17 world.

18 THE COURT: Thank you. No, I don't have any 19 questions from you. I am going to want to hear more about 20 the $3,500 expedited distribution in the context of the 21 committee motion or the change to the plan, and so we'll deal 22 with that. But, no, I don't need anything further on the 23 other issues you ticked off quickly for me.

24 MS. LAURIA: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Okay. I do see Mr. Rothweiler.

1 MR. ROTHWEILER: Your Honor, can you hear me?

2 THE COURT: I can.

3 MR. ROTHWEILER: Very good. Thank you, Your 4 Honor. I appreciate the opportunity to speak. Let me just 5 introduce myself since I haven't been before the Court 6 before. My name is Ken Rothweiler. I am a cofounder of the 7 firm of Eisenberg, Rothweiler, Winkler, Eisenberg, and Jeck.

8 I think I need to tell you a little bit about my 9 background, Your Honor, because it may be relevant to some of 10 the comments that I will be making so that you know a little 11 bit about my history. I am here in Philadelphia. I have 12 been a trial lawyer for 40 years, and when I say I've been a 13 trial lawyer, I've actually tried cases. I've tried cases 14 from my first day out of law school, and I -- I've never been 15 in the practice of trying automobile cases or slip and fall
16 cases. I've tried cases that are catastrophic injury cases.
17 My clients are brain-damaged individuals, paraplegics.

18 The most severely injured amongst all claimants
19 are the claimants I've represented for 40 years.

20 I've also represented sex abuse clients that I'll 21 tell you more about. In my career, Your Honor, I've tried 22 over a hundred trials to verdict, so I have extensive 23 experience in a courtroom. I don't have extensive experience 24 in a courtroom like this, Your Honor, so I'm unfamiliar with 25 bankruptcy court but I've learned a lot over the last 19

1 months. It's a whole different way of practicing law, and I
2 must say just as an aside that you have amazing stamina and 3 patience because some of these hearings go extremely long and 4 it tests my own stamina and patience. So I just wanted to 5 say that to you.

6 THE COURT: Well, welcome to the Wild West, which 7 is what my former partners who were litigators thought about 8 whenever I asked them to come into bankruptcy court.

9 MR. ROTHWEILER: That's what I've heard.

10 Your Honor, I'm -- I'm one of those lawyers that 11 you would say I try one case at a time. I represent one 12 client at a time. It's very unusual for me to represent any 13 more than one client. The only exception was I was one of 14 the counsel that represented the Amtrak victims that got 15 hurt, severely hurt and killed here in Philadelphia a number 16 of years ago. I represented a dozen or so of those Amtrak 17 clients to a successful conclusion, and that's probably my 18 only example of representing more than one client in -- in 19 any litigation.

20 I should tell you that I'm a proud member of the 21 Plaintiff's Bar here in Philadelphia. I have served as 22 president of the Philadelphia Trial Lawyers Association and 23 also of the Pennsylvania Trial Lawyers Association. I've 24 represented, you know, over 15,000 plaintiffs trial lawyers 25 before the Harrisburg legislature fighting tort reform and

1 other issues that came before the Plaintiffs Bar over the 2 last 40 years.

3 So I'm steeped in the tradition of a plaintiffs 4 trial lawyer, Your Honor. I'm proud to be one, and I've 5 heard -- on these hearings I've heard some innuendo about and 6 insinuation about plaintiffs' trial lawyers. I can tell you
7 that that hurts. It comes -- it comes as an offense to me 8 because those of us that try cases risk everything going into 9 a courtroom representing clients with by the way no guarantee 10 of ever being paid. I work on cases for years, years without 11 any guarantee of ever being paid.

12 I spend hundreds of thousands of dollars on cases 13 and through the workings of other lawyers in my office and 14 through discovery and through the different things that we 15 have to do. We hopefully are successful at the end of the 16 day.

17 So just a little bit of editorial comment there,
18 Your Honor, but I just think that I needed to say that. I
19 have to tell you, Your Honor, that I did not intend to speak 20 during any of these hearings. That was not my goal. I have 21 very able counsel with Mr. Molton and Mr. Goodman to speak 22 for us, which they have done.

23 But hearing some of the objectors, I felt I needed 24 to speak and address some issues and to provide the Court 25 with context.

1 And to start off with, Your Honor, I would just 2 like to respond to one thing that Mr. Rosenthal said earlier 3 today, and I -- and I wrote it down when he said it, and he 4 said many survivors oppose the plan.

5 I don't know what Mr. Rosenthal's definition of 6 "many" is, but I can cite some facts for you. In the RSA, 41
7 firms supported the RSA, 70,347 survivors supported the RSA.
8 And, Your Honor, that was before the Hartford deal, and that 9 was before the LDS deal.

10 What was in the RSA at that time was $850 million 11 that was coming from the BSA and the local councils. Through 12 the hard work of a lot of people, we've now increased that 13 amount to $1.9 billion, and we're not done yet. We're 14 nowhere near done, and as we put more money into that trust, 15 the amount of people that agree with the plan and will vote 16 for the plan goes up, because as you can tell a lot of the 17 survivors if you talk to them, the ones that are opposed, 18 they're opposed because they believe there's not enough money
19 to fund the trust. Well, we're working on that every day.

20 Your Honor, for the last 19 months, I've done
21 nothing other than work on this 24/7. I've not worked on one 22 other case other than this case. Through the last 19 months, 23 I've suffered through COVID. I got COVID. My mother died as 24 a result of COVID. It's been, you know, a very traumatic 25 experience for me and for my law firm. So people are hard at 1 work, and we're hard at work because we believe that these 2 survivors need to be compensated and they need to put this 3 behind them. And time is not their friend.

4 During the pendency of this bankruptcy, I've had 5 clients that have died. I've had clients that have committed 6 suicide. Time is not the friend of survivors, and I believe 7 the Court, you know, needs to know that and needs to hear 8 that.

9 With regard to the objectors, last week, Your 10 Honor, I heard two -- and we call them state court lawyers in 11 bankruptcy court, but, you know, in my world we call them
12 plaintiffs lawyers. State court lawyers is a little bit of a 13 different term for me.

14 But I heard two state court lawyers speak, and 15 they're both prominent state court lawyers and I have a lot 16 of respect for both of them, but they do not speak for the 17 majority of the survivors.

18 My firm represents over 16,800 survivors. We 19 represent the largest group of survivors in the bankruptcy.
20 Your Honor, the amount of survivors that my firm represents 21 is twice as many survivors then the entire TCC combined. So 22 we believe that we have a loud voice in this bankruptcy.

23 We also believe that we have a fiduciary right, 24 you know, obligation here. I know that the TCC is -- has 25 been appointed by the U.S. trustee and serves as the 1 fiduciary, but with the amount of clients that we represent,

2 Your Honor, we believe that we have that same fiduciary 3 obligation.

4 I think I need to give Your Honor some context of 5 how we got here. Why so many cases? You know, Mr. Schiavoni 6 said how did there become such a case explosion? And when he 7 has said that and when he has been before this Court, there 8 was always at least from my perspective an implication by 9 Mr. Schiavoni that somehow plaintiffs' lawyers were the cause 10 of the explosion in cases.

11 Let me make this clear for everybody listening.
12 Pedophiles are the cause of the explosion. Pedophiles is the 13 reason why there are so many cases, not plaintiffs' lawyers, 14 and that needs to be said because plaintiffs' lawyers are 15 just representing those survivors. It's the pedophiles that 16 are the enemy, not the Plaintiffs Bar, not plaintiffs' trial 17 lawyers.

18 We're doing our best to do what we can for the 19 survivors.

20 And I think I need to tell Your Honor how I became 21 involved in this -- this -- this litigation, and how it
22 progressed for me. And I need to tell you we need to go back 23 to 2013 for that description and that story because a young 24 man walked into my office and sat right there in my couch in 25 my office, 24 years old. He told me a very compelling story

1 about being abused by his scout master when he was 12 years 2 old.

3 And as he told me the story, tears down his face
4 and down my face. He told me about for 12 years he kept it
5 to himself, never told his mother, never told his best 6 friend, never told his girlfriend, and he was married at the 7 time, never told his wife.

8 Told me he was suicidal during that time period.
9 But he told me he needed to get his story out, and he thought 10 I was the lawyer to take on the case. Well, we worked on the 11 case, we took depositions, and the case settled as it was 12 coming up for trial. It was a very, very compelling case, 13 and it was a significant settlement, probably the largest 14 settlement of any single case that the Boy Scouts have ever 15 paid on. And that's probably still true today.

16 And to be honest with, Your Honor, I thought it 17 was a single case. I thought it was just another one of the 18 cases that of a plaintiff that I represented in my forty 19 years' practice, but it wasn't. It wasn't, and -- and two 20 years later, Your Honor, CNN Did a ten- minute feature on 21 that case, and if anyone is interested you can still see that 22 case on YouTube on the internet, and as a result of that case 23 getting some publicity, I started to get referrals for, 24 again, single cases from around the country. I got them from 25 the West Coast, from the East Coast and from all over.

1 And every one of those cases, Your Honor, we 2 settled, and some of those cases had very significant statute
3 of limitations issues, but you know what good lawyers can 4 figure out arguments to overcome things like -- problems like 5 statute of limitation problems. And the BSA paid on every 6 single one of those cases.

7 And then the bankruptcy occurred. And why was 8 there this explosion, Your Honor? Why all of the sudden did 9 it go, as Mr. Schiavoni said, from 200 cases or maybe 1,000 10 cases to this 82,000 cases? You know and I wrestled with 11 that question myself, and you know the answer I came up with.
12 People that have suffered sexual abuse who have suffered in 13 science now realized that there was a whole community of 14 people out there that the same thing happened to them over 15 the decades, and it gave them comfort. If you listen to the 16 survivors, they will tell you that the most comforting thing 17 in this whole saga has been that there are tens of thousands 18 of other men that it happened to and they also suffered but 19 now they were a community together.

20 Mr. Buchbinder, when we were interviewing for the 21 TCC committee, he heard hundreds of those stories.

22 I sat in a room with him while he listened to 23 those stories, you know, and -- and they're compelling and 24 they're unbelievable that this kind of thing, you know, has 25 gone on in America where there's been tens of thousands of 1 pedophiles that have caused this situation.

2 Then what happened, Your Honor, we -- we formed 3 the TCC. When I say we formed it, I was on the TCC, and my 4 firm was on the TCC, and we had a representative, a survivor,
5 on the TCC. And I came to know the people on the TCC, who I 6 very much respect.

7 And I came to know two other firms on the TCC,
8 Andrews and Thornton, and Ann Andrews, who was one of the 9 people I got to know. Slater, Slater and Schulman from New 10 York City. I got to know Adam Slater very well, and we 11 started to understand, Your Honor, that between our three 12 firms, we represented over 40,000 survivors. And we 13 understood what goes on in bankruptcy court where there has 14 to be votes at the end, and we understood that we had a 15 big -- big position in the bankruptcy because of all of the 16 clients that we represented.

17 After five months of being on the TCC, Your Honor, 18 we realized that we had unresolvable differences in 19 philosophy with the TCC, and what we decided to do, our three 20 firms, is we decided to form an ad hoc committee called the 21 coalition.

22 And I have to tell you, Your Honor, this is - - 23 this took a lot of thought and a lot of consideration from 24 all of our firms. I mean I have a firm of ten lawyers. I 25 don't have a big firm. We handle big cases, but it's not a

1 lot of lawyers that make up my firm. We knew that we were 2 going to have to assume the financial burden of going forward 3 as an ad hoc committee. That means paying the -- the 4 bankruptcy lawyers, paying all of the professionals, the 5 financial advisor and everybody that we would need in order 6 to go through the bankruptcy. And it was a big decision, but 7 between Ann Andrews, Adam Slater, and myself, we said to 8 represent the survivors the way the survivors need to be 9 represented, we need to band together in order to represent 10 the survivors. And, hence, the coalition was formed.

11 Your Honor, we now represent over 65,000 survivors 12 between all of the members of the coalition committee and 13 it's not just our three firms. Other firms have joined us as 14 well with thousands of clients that they also represent.

15 Your Honor, by contrast, the TCC represents about 16 6,800 survivors. So they represent 6,800, and we represent 17 65,000. And we actually represent more than that when you 18 add all of the survivors and the survivors' lawyers that are 19 not part of the coalition per se but are people that support 20 the coalitions' positions.

21 And, Your Honor, I think it's important for you to 22 realize that the three firms rallied around a common goal and 23 mission. And here is our common goal and mission: No 24 survivor would be left behind. All survivors would be 25 compensated. Philosophically what we thought, Your Honor, is

1 if someone was sexually abused by a Boy Scout leader in New 2 York, which is an open state, and if someone was sexually 3 abused by a scout leader in Alabama, which is a closed state, 4 it shouldn't make a difference. It shouldn't make a 5 difference. Sexual abuse is sexual abuse. Their lives were 6 still as scarred whether they lived in New York or they lived 7 in Alabama. And we took a pact that we were going to 8 represent them equally.

9 Our second common goal and mission was that the 10 survivors need to be compensated in their lifetimes. Most of 11 my clients, Your Honor, are between 60 and 70 years old.
12 Time is not their friend, as I said before. As I said 13 before, clients have died.

14 Time, time, time is important, and what I've 15 realized in this bankruptcy is time keeps moving on, and for 16 the survivors it's just not something we can tolerate. We 17 get calls every day about when is it going to be over, when 18 is it going to be over. It's been a year and a half. It's 19 hard to give them an answer, Your Honor, because as I said, 20 you know, I'm a plaintiffs' state court lawyer. We normally 21 know the timeframe. If a case comes into my office today, I 22 can look the client in the eye and say you're going to have a 23 trial in two years. Put it in your -- put it in your 24 calendar right now. We're going to be trying your case in 25 two years, and they get resolution to their case in two

1 years.

2 And that's a wonderful thing. It's just not quite 3 the same that I've learned in bankruptcy court.

4 Your Honor, there's been some criticism of what 5 people have called the mass tort lawyers and let me just take 6 two seconds and talk about that. I've never really dealt 7 with mass tort lawyers because that's not my practice. These 8 are some of the most outstanding lawyers I have ever dealt 9 with. You talk about committed lawyers? Most of these 10 people are working 24/7, and this is their only case, as it's 11 my only case. That's how strongly we feel about the 12 dedication that we need to have for the survivors.

13 They deserve nothing less than that. I've learned 14 a lot from these lawyers who have been in bankruptcy court 15 and understand what needs to be done.

16 And I have to tell you, and I'll say it publicly,
17 I really appreciate it because there's a lot that I didn't 18 know and they've opened my eyes.

19 But there's been some criticism about that, you 20 know, mass tort lawyers about the contact they have with 21 clients. Well, I can tell you, and this is true for all of 22 the people in the coalition, that contact with clients is 23 constant. With my firm, we have -- we get over 2,000 calls a 24 month where we advise clients as to what's going on. We have 25 monthly updates with them. We send out to them a written

1 monthly update every month. There's been 18 of them so far.

2 We have phone calls daily, like I said, and we 3 have Zoom calls and we have video discussions with them, and 4 we plan on having, we plan on expanding that, Your Honor, so
5 that we have more planned Zoom calls so we get a bigger 6 audience and we get them to see what we're doing and we get 7 the opportunity to answer those questions.

8 There's a TCC survivors committee, and I know a 9 lot of people on that committee, Your Honor, because like I 10 said I was on that committee for five months.

11 And those survivors are really no different than 12 every other survivor. They all have their own story, and 13 they're all compelling, and they're all very sad. But we put 14 together our own survivors' advisory committee. As a matter 15 of fact, last night we had a meeting of that committee.
16 They're from California and from New York and New Jersey and 17 Texas, from all over the country.

18 And we listen to them. What are your concerns?
19 What do you -- what do you need more from us so you can 20 weather the storm, as we go through this bankruptcy? And 21 it's -- it's a very tough thing to tell them that they have 22 to wait, and I don't like using that word when I say to them 23 you have to wait.

24 Now the question has been, Your Honor, what has -- 25 you know, what has the -- what has the coalition's goal been

1 in this bankruptcy? Well, the goal is very simple. It's to 2 formulate a confirmable plan to compensate all survivors.

3 Well, let's talk about that a little bit.

4 What has the coalition done to move that goal?

5 Well, there's been the BSA deal. The coalition was 6 instrumental in getting that deal done, Your Honor.

7 You can ask Ms. Lauria and Mr. Andolina the 8 coalition's participation because it was daily and we worked 9 and we worked and we worked on it.

10 And then there was the local counsel deal.

11 The coalition was instrumental in getting that 12 deal done. You can ask Mr. Mason about that because he saw 13 what the participation was from the coalition. Then there 14 was the Hartford deal, tough deal, tough deal, and when I saw 15 it was daily, it was -- it was daily and it was -- it really 16 was 24/7. We needed to get that -- and you can ask 17 Mr. Ruggeri and you can ask Mr. Anker about the coalition's 18 participation in getting that deal done because it was 19 significant. And I dare say that that Hartford deal would 20 have never gotten done but for the coalition.

21 The LDS deal, you can ask Mr. Bjork and 22 Mr. Austin, the LDS deal, the coalition was instrumental in 23 getting that deal done. Because, again, Your Honor, going 24 back to what I said before, time is not the friend of the 25 survivors. And you know what, as a plaintiff's lawyer, I

1 know, you know what, if I stretch it out, maybe I can get 2 more money, maybe I'll have more leverage. But that takes 3 time.

4 Appeals, litigation is not the friend of 5 survivors, at all.

6 We've put together, Your Honor, $1.9 billion 7 that's going to go into a trust, and we're just getting 8 started. We spent all day in New York yesterday with 9 Century. We're trying to work on getting deals done. It's a 10 difficult process, probably the most difficulty in my 40-year 11 career. But I know it can get done because there's a lot of 12 talent. On this screen, as I see all these lawyers, these 13 are some of the most talented lawyers I have ever dealt with 14 in my entire career. And I know it can get done.

15 So we're talking with Century. We're talking with 16 AIG and Mr. Rosenthal. We're talking with the Catholic 17 Church, and we're talking with the Methodists, and we're 18 talking with the Episcopalians, and we're talking with the 19 charters. We're going up to New York again. I just got back 20 from New York. We're going back up. I'm going back up 21 tomorrow, again, for two days of mediation where we're going 22 to be talking with some of the charters and some of the 23 insurance companies. So we plan on that $1.9 billion that a 24 lot of people will criticize yet, and they use the math and 25 they say it's so much per -- per survivor. Well, that's 1 really kind of an inadequate description of the amount of 2 money that we're getting into the trust because as we talked 3 about different people will get different amounts depending 4 upon, you know, the criteria, whether they satisfy the 5 criteria or not.

6 And we intend to at least double that number, Your 7 Honor. I'm going out on a limb by saying that, but that's 8 the goal because our goal is to get as much money into that 9 trust as possible. Now, there's been some objectors out in 10 the public forum in the media that have criticized the 11 coalitions as sellouts, and I take that as an extreme 12 offense.

13 For the record, Your Honor, the coalition along 14 with the FCR and the BSA has to date put together the largest 15 compensation fund for survivors of sexual abuse in the 16 history of the United States. Let me repeat that. The 17 coalition along with the FCR and BSA has to date put together
18 the largest compensation fund for survivors of sexual abuse
19 in the history of the United States. That's a true 20 statement, and we're only halfway there.

21 In contrast, Your Honor, the TCC has put together 22 no deals with insurers or chartered organizations. They just 23 have been in the position of objecting to everything the 24 coalition has done. And I would suggest to the TCC that as 25 fiduciaries of all the survivors, they spend the time helping

1 to enlarge the compensation fund rather than objecting and 2 creating roadblocks for the survivors.

3 Your Honor, the -- there's many lawyers on the TCC
4 that are my friends. I've developed friendships with them
5 over the course of this 19 months. I've spent a lot of time
6 working with them, and when I formed the coalition with Ann
7 Andrews and Adam Slater, I still reached out to the TCC
8 because I didn't consider us to competing forces. I 9 considered us to be all working for survivors because we are 10 all working for survivors. So I arranged Zoom calls with the 11 TCC and with other members of the coalition to see where we 12 could drive together and work together for the benefit of the 13 survivors. I arranged a meeting in New York where we all -- 14 everybody flew in. We had dinner together, the TCC and the 15 coalition. We broke bread together to come to agreements so 16 that we could move this forward and so there wouldn't be 17 roadblocks. We met in Chicago, and I -- I -- I still today 18 consider many of the TCC lawyers are my friends. But we're 19 all working in the same direction, Your Honor. We're working 20 for survivors. We're all in this together. I invite all 21 objectors to come join us to build the largest fund for all 22 survivors so they can be properly compensated. They deserve 23 it, Your Honor. These survivors have suffered enough. They 24 don't need to wait any longer, and I hope this process 25 concludes quickly.

1 Thank you very much for giving me the time, Your 2 Honor. I really appreciate it.

3 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Rothweiler. Okay. I
4 see hands. Mr. Stang, I will let you speak. I'm sure you 5 want to respond. I don't think -- but let's realize it's 6 4:00. There are things we need to get done today, and over 7 the course of any number of hearings now, I've heard from all 8 sides of all issues. And I recognize that you and members of 9 your committee may disagree with much of what Mr. Rothweiler
10 has said. So please appreciate that I understand that.

11 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Mr. Stang?

13 MR. ABBOTT: Your Honor, may I be heard briefly --

14 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 MR. ABBOTT: -- before we get to Mr. Stang, Your 16 Honor, just briefly on timing?

17 THE COURT: Mr. Abbott?

18 MR. ABBOTT: Your Honor, we have spent, obviously 19 a number of days in front of the Court, and I appreciate 20 Mr. Rothweiler's passion. I appreciate the passion that he 21 has aroused in other folks who are on this Zoom call. But it 22 is critical, Your Honor, that we get to the scheduling
23 process.

24 THE COURT: We're going to get to it.

25 MR. ABBOTT: I just want to make that clear.

1 Mr. Kurtz has been waiting patiently, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: And I have views on it.

3 MR. ABBOTT: Okay. Thank you.

4 THE COURT: Yes. Thank you.

5 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor. I had to take 6 a really deep breath during Mr. Rothweiler's prepared 7 comments. For someone who was not anticipating speaking, he 8 certainly read off his script explaining why his -- he and 9 his other law firm coalition members are entitled to a 10 substantial contribution so that the fees that Mr. Molton has 11 incurred are reimbursed to them or perhaps never having to be 12 paid by them.

13 And what he has said really reflects a 14 misunderstanding of what the TCC is about and how survivors
15 are to be treated in this case. He said I was on the TCC,
16 referring to himself. He was not on the TCC. Mr. Kennedy, 17 Mr. Humphrey, and seven other survivors are on the TCC. They 18 are the fiduciaries.

19 He said the TCC represents 6,800 people. Again, 20 he doesn't understand the role of the TCC or for that matter
21 his role or for that matter I'll pick out one of my state -- 22 one of the state court counsel who represents committee
23 members, Mr. Modus' role. The -- Mr. Humphrey, Mr. Douglas, 24 Mr. Kennedy represent the constituency. No attorney 25 represents the constituency.

1 He said the TCC met with the coalition in Chicago.
2 No, it didn't. Mr. Kennedy did not appear at that meeting.
3 Mr. Humphrey was not at that meeting.

4 Mr. Greer (phonetic) was not at that meeting. Mr.
5 Tabone (phonetic) was not. He met with other lawyers because 6 this is about control. He told you how they represent 7 upwards of what, 70,000 people. Well, he may, but this is 8 about them thinking that they should run the case because 9 they think -- think they have the votes.

10 They thought they should have had control of the 11 committee, but Mr. Buchbinder and his staff appointed one 12 committee member, if you -- if you look at it from this 13 perspective, one committee per law firm, and that really 14 torqued them. They couldn't stand that because as they 15 started amassing clients, I believe Mr. Molton referred to 16 them as inventory last week, they thought, wow, this really 17 isn't fair. We've got survivors making decisions for 18 survivors. We represent all of these people. We should be 19 making decisions for the survivors.

20 And then he criticizes the TCC for not making any 21 deals. Well, you know what, I could make a deal with 22 Mr. Schiavoni in five minutes. I just have to meet his 23 number. I could make a deal with Mr. Ruggeri in three 24 minutes. I just have to match his number. So if I want to 25 race to the bottom, I'm faster than anybody, but that's not

1 the TCC's goal. The TCC's goal is to get as much as possible
2 for survivors.

3 You know how much someone who was anally 4 penetrated is going to get in an open state using their 5 current settlement number? $57,000, that's how much -- and 6 our chart that's going to go into the disclosure statement is 7 going to say that. You know how much you're going to get in 8 the next lower-tiered state, Judge? $34,600. You know what?
9 I'll double that.

10 I'll take Mr. Rothweiler at his word and say he's 11 going to double that. $68,000 for multiple penetration
12 claims in Oregon or Washington. Well, congratulations. You 13 all did a great job. That is not the goal of the TCC. The 14 TCC opposed the settlements that have been reached because 15 they are race to the bottom settlements. And the Mass Tort 16 Bar, the lawyers who have multiple clients have an agenda 17 that is beyond simply in my opinion maximizing the return to 18 clients because at some point a third or 40 percent of a big 19 number is a big number, and it doesn't matter how much each 20 person gets. But if I had experienced sodomy in California 21 and you tell me I'm getting $58,000, I'm not accepting that 22 settlement.

23 And we will see how many people accept that kind 24 of settlement. So I may be right. I may be wrong, but to 25 hear a 15-minute presentation that was an opening statement

1 for a substantial contribution claim, frankly, was 2 inappropriate. It shouldn't have been done, and I hope we 3 don't have to hear it again before we get to the -- before 4 the hearing on their substantial contribution motion. Thank 5 you, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay, thank you.

7 We're going to get to scheduling now, and I don't 8 have my calendar. So we're going to take five minutes. I'm 9 going to get my calendar, and we're going to talk scheduling.

10 We're in recess.

11 UNIDENTIFIED: Thank you, Your Honor.

12 (Recess taken at 4:02 p.m.)

13 (Proceedings resumed at 4:06 p.m.)

14 THE COURT: This is Judge Silverstein. I'm not 15 sure if I'm a minute or so early. So let's give people time 16 to get back on.

17 (Pause)

18 THE COURT: Mr. Kurtz, I have some thought about 19 scheduling, but I will hear from you initially.

20 MR. KURTZ: Thank you. Thank you very much, Your 21 Honor. Glenn Kurtz, White and Case, on behalf of the 22 debtors.

23 Hopefully, this will be a little less energetic, 24 but interestingly enough, we have some similar impact on 25 abuse victims because as the Court well knows time is money

1 here not just in the traditional sense of having less cash on 2 the balance sheet, but in the direct sense of having reduced 3 cash contributions to the trust, which is in effect the 4 proverbial melting ice cube. And so we really have something 5 to -- to work hard at here in addition to feasibility issues 6 and the like.

7 It struck me that the request for a lengthy period
8 of time between solicitation and confirmation was unusual.
9 We did a little research on that. We looked at Delaware 10 confirmation cases, big -- what we thought were larger cases, 11 and confirmed that the average time period between 12 solicitation and the confirmation hearing is 46 days. And 13 Hertz was 42 days, and so we think, of course, the request 14 for six months and five months, which are 3.5 to 4 times more 15 than the normal period of time is pretty excessive.

16 We also don't think as much time is needed here 17 for a couple of reasons. One, we're not starting from 18 scratch. I mentioned this before, but I went back and 19 confirmed that we started producing information to -- to the 20 objectors in March of 2020. We have produced information 21 relating to historical claims, local councils' information 22 related to the debtor's insurance, financial condition, it's 23 organization, board minutes, and other documents and we've 24 also produced for deposition the CEO, the chairman of the 25 board, and the financial restructuring expert here. So we're

1 pretty far down the line the way we see it.

2 We also believe that in addition to the normal 3 interests and simply having more time, which is fairly common 4 place in most cases and particularly for somebody that is 5 seeking to avoid relief, there does seem to be I think pretty 6 clearly an independent interest in having some delay. And I
7 think even this exercise has reflected that because the time 8 you have for discovery is from a start date to an end date.

9 And so, therefore, everybody should be looking for 10 a very early start date because the earlier you start the 11 more you can get done, and here we've had a lot of 12 resistance. We've been raising this for a while now, and the 13 objectors won't agree to a start date. They didn't even want 14 Your Honor to hear confirmation scheduling until this week.

15 So -- so there's a lot -- there's sort of a lot of 16 indications including all of the requests for adjournments or 17 not to set schedules that we think are kind of transparent
18 here.

19 Also, if the objectives were really concern about 20 the amount of time that they needed in order to complete 21 discovery, then, of course, they would be starting just as 22 soon as they could, as opposed to resisting the start. I 23 think there's a certain amount of vigilance that should be 24 expected of a party that's complaining about timing here.

25 They have known that we had intended to proceed,

1 and I know we're not getting that anymore, but we had 2 intended to proceed on December 9th and yet we didn't have 3 any document requests or any discovery requests. They 4 haven't been propounded even though it was at least 5 conceivable we would have been successful on that.

6 Your Honor stated at least as of the August 30 7 hearing that, quote, "Think about how discovery is going to 8 be conducted to promptly get us to a confirmation hearing."
9 So the parties have been on -- on notice for a few weeks now 10 that we really needed to get moving on it. You stated more 11 than once last week that there's nothing that would keep 12 people from pursuing discovery now, and -- and the only thing
13 I really heard is we don't have an approved disclosure 14 statement. That -- that's language. The deal terms are what 15 they are. The objections are what they are.

16 They are free to and needed to serve and pursue 17 discovery kind of vigilantly, I think, before they watch the 18 ice cube melt a little more. There was certainly no reason 19 they couldn't serve discovery. If it turned out that 20 something got mooted, then we simply wouldn't have produced 21 it, or we could have made a motion for a protective order, 22 which is something that Your Honor raised last week as well.

23 I think you're going to hear that there is some 24 need for a substantial amount of discovery. I don't think 25 there is any more need for discovery here in -- in any

1 greater volumes than in most cases. As I said, we've already 2 given a lot of the discovery. I think a lot of the issues
3 Your Honor is going to need to grapple with to the extent 4 they don't get resolved between now and confirmation are 5 largely legal. And insurance neutrality, probably largely --

6 THE COURT: Excuse me, please. Excuse me,
7 Mr. Kurtz. Please check your audio.

8 MR. KURTZ: I think insurance neutrality is 9 largely a legal issue. I think third-party releases is 10 largely a legal issue. Certainly, there will be some 11 questions about good faith. There will be some questions 12 about the TDPs, but nothing that is not manageable within the 13 normal time period, much less what I think is already going 14 to be somewhat extended.

15 I guess the last issue is how do you populate the 16 schedule once we have a hearing date, and I think the best 17 way to deal with that is wait for Your Honor to give us 18 something on the schedule, and then we can work something 19 out. I don't know how difficult that should be. I think 20 there's more than enough time, if we were fortunate enough to 21 get January, which would leave close to four months, there's 22 plenty of time for us to take discovery. Get all of the 23 objections on file. Get all of the replies and proceed.

24 So I -- I -- I do want to express appreciation for 25 the accommodations Your Honor has given us through the course

1 of the case. I appreciate your schedule is very busy. I 2 appreciate January is particular busy. As fiduciaries of the 3 estate, dealing with maybe a melting ice cube trust, we sort 4 of feel compelled to just ask for the earliest possible date, 5 especially since we still have a period of time before 6 emergence even after a confirmation approval assuming that 7 one is forth coming, during which time, of course, we are 8 continuing to kind of burn off cash.

9 So we're hoping that there's some flexibility 10 there, Your Honor. We'll do everything we can on our end to 11 expedite matters, and -- and -- and we appreciate any 12 accommodation you could afford us.

13 THE COURT: Thank you. I do have some things in 14 mind.

15 Mr. Plevin? Mr. Plevin, you are muted.

16 MR. PLEVIN: Thank you, Your Honor.

17 Let me first start by responding to some of the 18 points that Mr. Kurtz made, and then I want to talk about the 19 impact of the findings and what we heard earlier today about 20 the insistence on going forward with those and the factual 21 nature of several of the findings and how that impacts 22 discovery.

23 Mr. Kurtz ended by saying that what he was 24 suggesting the Court do is pick a date, and then we'll fit 25 the schedule to it, and then to me that's just completely

1 upside down as to how we ought to proceed, and it's contrary 2 to what Your Honor has said not only in this case but in 3 other cases about the need for due process.

4 To just fit litigation deadlines into a date, a 5 confirmation hearing date that's chosen for no reason other 6 than for convenience, makes little sense. You need to look 7 at what are the issues, what are the discovery needs, how 8 quickly can the parties move, and build the schedule out 9 based on that.

10 This is not -- Mr. Kurtz gave a couple of 11 examples. This is not a case that's a pre-pack where there's 12 not going to be a contested evidentiary proceeding. This is 13 not a case in which the debtor simply sells its assets and 14 disappears in which there's not a contested evidentiary 15 confirmation hearing. This is a different kind of case, and 16 it needs to be treated as such.

17 Mr. Kurtz talked about some information that had 18 been made available. He talked about the fact that some 19 information had been produced. AS Your Honor heard last 20 week, almost all that information is locked up in mediation 21 confidentiality and can't be used.

22 He said they made people available for 23 depositions, and that's true but that was with respect to the 24 RSA, not with respect to confirmation issues, which are 25 completely different. So maybe there's a little bit of 1 streamlining that can be done because we don't have to ask

2 people about their background when they've already been asked 3 about that, but it's not a substitute for discovery.

4 So in setting the schedule here, Your Honor, the 5 real question is what do we need to litigate, and we've 6 pointed out in our objections and you heard robust argument 7 today about the required findings under the plan, which we 8 think are purposefully designed to prejudice the insurers, 9 and I'm not going to repeat that except I want to make one 10 point that I -- I didn't have a chance to make earlier today, 11 and that's with respect to 10M of the plan or X.M, which is 12 the insurance neutrality clause.

13 And what makes that so important, Your Honor, is 14 that that clause said that the -- that the policies are 15 subject to the findings of the Court and the terms of the 16 plan. So when you heard argument earlier today about how 17 there was no effort to modify the policies or seek insurance
18 coverage rulings, the plan itself in Section X.M tells you 19 that that's wrong, that what the debtors and their supporters 20 are trying to do is use the confirmation order and the plan 21 to modify the terms of the insurance policy.

22 And that means that we have to have the right to 23 contest those findings, because if we were simply to go away 24 and not participate in the confirmation hearing and evidence 25 were presented and Your Honor issued the plan with their

1 findings, our policies will have been modified in a 2 prejudicial way. And so I -- I needed to point out Section 3 X.M to the Court.

4 I also heard Ms. Lauria say that they would circle
5 up and I guess the 5-minute break we just had probably wasn't 6 long enough for them to do that about reactions to Your 7 Honor's discussion of the proposed findings.

8 Before Ms. Lauria, earlier today we heard from 9 Mr. Harron, from Ms. Quinn, that they were -- they believe 10 the findings are appropriate, they are entitled to them.
11 Mr. Goodman explained in some detail how some of these 12 findings were evidentiary based, there had to be a record 13 made under the terms of the findings, and he -- he 14 acknowledged that some of these findings required evidence.

15 So we have a situation where the debtors and the 16 plan supporters want findings that are based on evidence that 17 we believe are highly prejudicial, and you can't deny us 18 consistent with due process the right to go get that 19 evidence.

20 So the debtors really - there are two basic 21 pathways here, Your Honor, and they have a choice of which 22 path to go down. One is the path of an expressly insurance-23 neutral plan, one that does not include these findings, does 24 not prejudice the insurers. If we go down that path, then 25 maybe Mr. Kurtz can have the confirmation hearing he wants in

1 January because there would not be a need by the insurers to 2 contest the findings in the plan, but if the plan -- if the 3 debtors and the plan supporters want to go down the other 4 path, which is the one that we believe prejudices the 5 insurers, then we need discovery. And what do we need 6 discovery on and what do we need to litigate?

7 We need to litigate insurance neutrality. We need 8 to litigate the reasonableness of the values in the TDPs, the 9 base claim values, the maximum claim values. We need to 10 litigate the process by which the TDPs came into being. We 11 need to litigate the impact of the TDPs on the insurers. We 12 need to litigate the role and the discretion of the 13 settlement trustee. We need to determine whether the 14 settlement trustee has conflicts. We need to litigate 15 whether the settlement trustee ought to be selected by the 16 debtors or by other parties or by the court. We need to 17 determine whether his -- if we could, to what extent the 18 settlement trustee's future decisions on claims that have not 19 been fully presented are reasonable or could be reasonable.
20 We need to talk about and litigate the plan's goal to 21 preclude insurers from raising effective coverage defenses.

22 And, Your Honor, if you want to know how this is 23 being set up to prejudice the insurers, you need only look at 24 the proposed letter from the coalition and the FCR that is -- 25 that was filed, I believe last night, to go out with the --

1 with the plan and the disclosure statement where they explain 2 in so many words that the purpose of the plan is to put the 3 screws to the insurers and make them pay more.

4 So that's what we need to do. The items we would 5 be seeking in discovery include the following: Documents 6 related to the formulation of the plan and the settlement of 7 claims thereunder. We were told earlier today that the TDPs
8 are an evidence-based plan. We -- we seem to think that -- 9 we tend to think that's completely wrong because when claims
10 were settled before bankruptcy, they were settled, as I 11 mentioned earlier today, in an adversary process in a court 12 with people on opposite sides with the Boy Scouts seeking to 13 either establish they're not liable or if they are liable, 14 that they're liable in a lesser amount than the plaintiff 15 wanted.

16 That is not the structure that is being proposed 17 here. So if it is going to be an evidence-based TDP
18 structure and that's the contention, then we need to find out 19 what happened all along in the history of the Boy Scouts 20 settling claims. And it may be -- Mr. Goodman said the 21 insurers have that information.

22 My clients are an excess insurer. We were only 23 involved in a very, very small number of claims before 24 bankruptcy. We don't have access to all that information.
25 So we need to find out what the course of dealing was and how

1 the settlements took place.

2 We need to get the documents relating to abuse
3 cases that were dismissed or resolved without payment. What 4 defenses were asserted? How were they successful? Why were 5 they successful? We need to get documents related to Eric 6 Green's relationship with parties in this case, and 7 communications related to his selection as trustee. We need 8 to get information regarding the negotiation and history of 9 the current version of the TDPs, the debtor's input into 10 those issues, the evidence of the roles of the various 11 parties in the drafting of the TDPs, and the basis for the 12 values in the TDPs.

13 And we need to get the information about the 14 course of dealing. We need to get information not only 15 regarding the debtor's own liabilities as a historical 16 matter, but we're being told that these values to some extent 17 may wrap in sex abuse settlements from other cases. If 18 that's the case, we'd want to know if that's the contention.
19 We'd need discovery on that.

20 I mentioned course of dealing. One thing you 21 might look at is the combustion engineering case where the 22 Third Circuit looked at the course of dealing in terms of how 23 claims were handled pre-bankruptcy. We would need to 24 establish the insurer's non-involvement in the creation of 25 the TDPs. We would need financial information regarding the 1 claims against and assets of the parties who would become 2 protected parties under the plan, which could include issues 3 regarding which assets are restricted and not available for 4 contribution to the trust, something that several weeks ago

5 we heard Mr. Brown talk about at great length.

6 Some of these requests, Your Honor, will 7 predictably become enmeshed in issues of mediation privilege, 8 particularly when we talk about good faith. The debtors 9 acknowledge this. They have filed a motion, which I think of 10 at least as sort of an abstract motion that is not tethered 11 to any specific discovery in the confirmation context, and 12 that motion is calendared for hearing on October 19th.

13 We know that no matter what discovery requests we 14 make now, the debtors are going to object to producing 15 anything they feel is subject to that privilege.

16 Depending on the outcome of the Court's ruling on 17 that, we could get a significant additional production on 18 October 19. I'm sure that it makes no sense in anybody's 19 mind to start depositions before October 19 and then re-start 20 them and take them over, again, after October 19. So that's 21 a problem. This whole issue of mediation privilege, which 22 was highlighted in the RSA context has to be addressed.

23 The schedule that the debtors proposed in 24 connection with their fourth amended plan was not only too 25 compressed but it was also illogical. And I -- I sort of 1 hear them now saying they're not going with that schedule,

2 maybe they are. They certainly didn't propose one since last 3 week.

4 We submitted a revised proposal. We heard the 5 Court say 217 days is not going to do it. We went through 6 our proposal and shut out about 35 days, which I think is 7 cutting it to the bone.

8 The TCC did the same thing with their -- well, 9 actually they submitted a new proposal. Their proposal ends 10 up roughly the same time as ours, roughly a little bit 11 earlier, but I'm going to talk about some of the respects in 12 which their proposal is not logical. But the debtors haven't 13 given us anything to chew on, only a request that you set it 14 for the earliest possible date, and somehow we're going to 15 figure it out later.

16 But they don't put any effort into deciding what 17 it is that we need to -- that we need to litigate or why.

18 So our -- our proposal, and I realize, Your Honor, 19 we may have done a disservice to the Court a little bit 20 because we started in a different place than the TCC. We 21 based all of our days on days after approval of the 22 disclosure statement, but we didn't assume a date for that.
23 They did assume a date, and so they went with October 1st.

24 So I put together our schedule and tried to 25 compare it with theirs to see where we came out.

1 There's a lot of similarities between the two 2 proposals but let me just talk about some of the differences 3 that we think that doesn't make sense.

4 The TCC has a deadline to depose fact witness -- 5 let me start one other place. We put in a deadline to serve 6 initial written discovery, and I think that's clear -- that's 7 important, Your Honor, because we're prepared and will be 8 prepared to submit comprehensive document requests, as 9 comprehensive as we can make them based on what we know now.
10 But that can't be the last time we're entitled to serve 11 discovery requests.

12 Things come up in depositions. Things come up in 13 discovery. One of the things we know, one of the lessons
14 from Imerys is that voting issues came up once the vote 15 tabulation was done. So the debtors had a deadline in their 16 proposal for written discovery. Ours is for initial written 17 discovery, and I think that's appropriate.

18 When we get to the deadline to depose fact 19 witnesses, we said 75 days after approval of the disclosure
20 statement. If you take the TCC's assumption that October 1
21 is the date, then our 75 days ends December 15, which is 33
22 days after our proposed date for completion of document
23 production. So that would mean the comprehensive document 24 requests go out.

25 They're responded to much more quickly than the 1 federal rules require.

2 We get the documents, we have a chance to look at 3 them, schedule depositions, we have 33 days to take 4 depositions. The TCC, as I read their proposal has set up a
5 9-day deposition window. We have experience with deposition
6 windows in Imerys and they just don't work. Everyone tries 7 to go to the end of the window, and then we end up taking 8 depositions after the window is over.

9 I had emails today about what's happening with 10 expert depositions in Imerys where there's going to be at 11 least one if not two or three depositions taken after the 12 window by agreement.

13 So but even so their -- the TCC's deposition 14 period is December 14 to 23. Our deposition deadline would 15 actually be in the first part of that range, December 15th.

16 The TCC shaves some time off their schedule by 17 having initial expert reports due on December 17, which is 18 right in the middle of the fact deposition window. So to me 19 that makes no sense. I think you need to finish the fact 20 depositions before you can have initial expert reports, and 21 we provided 15 days after the end of depositions for fact 22 depositions, rather for expert reports.

23 Rebuttal expert reports, I mentioned last week the 24 eight days allowed by the debtors in their schedule just is 25 undoable, unworkable. It's not enough time to figure out

1 even what rebuttal expert you need, let along go out and 2 recruit one and have that person prepare a report. The TCC
3 gives 28 days for rebuttal reports. Our proposal gave 25 4 days. I think that is probably the irreducible minimum for 5 that.

6 Deadline to depose expert witnesses, the TCC
7 shaves that down to seven days after rebuttal reports are 8 due. We gave 20 days for that. Again, I don't think that's 9 an unusual or too long a figure for expert reports. The TCC
10 has us filing motions in limine before deposition 11 designations, so we wouldn't even know what the deposition 12 designations are when the motions in limine would be due.

13 And the TCC's proposal ends on February 28th, Your 14 Honor. Ours ends on March the 30th. So -- and I should say 15 a couple of things, Your Honor. There's no explicit.
16 There's no explicit time in our proposal for voting-related 17 discovery, which -- which could happen. It may be necessary 18 as -- as I heard the colloquy's last week a lot of the issues
19 about the voting are going to be decided at the back end. So 20 it's reasonable to think you may need some time for discovery
21 of voting issues. We certainly did in Imerys. There is no 22 time in this proposal for any delays caused by motions to 23 compel or motions for protective order. And as Your Honor 24 pointed out last week, there's not only the perhaps more 25 exotic discovery issues but the regular discovery issues that

1 pop up that may have to be addressed by the -- by the Court.

2 I think there needs to be some time, obviously 3 we've got this mediation motion that's set up for October 19.
4 But that's as I said, an abstract thing that may not work.

5 So that's our proposal, Your Honor. We think that 6 ending up where we propose is as I said the irreducible
7 minimum, this would be the end of March.

8 You know, I've -- I've -- I'm not going to go
9 through my biography the way some others do, but I litigated 10 pre-packs in the asbestos world 20 years ago, and I used to 11 tell people then that we were litigating at the speed of 12 sound, just to give them an idea of how crazy it was. This 13 schedule that we've proposed is litigating at the speed of 14 light. It's much faster.

15 It's hard for me to envision as a litigator how we 16 are actually going to get through this schedule. I think the 17 experience we've seen in Imerys is instructive in that, you 18 know, we set an aggressive schedule and even though the 19 debtors wanted to keep the schedule, they have come to the 20 court and asked for relief sometimes just because it wasn't 21 working.

22 I think what we've proposed is something that has 23 a chance of working, and if the parties work hard we could 24 stick to it. But the main point I want to leave Your Honor 25 with is the schedule ought to be driven by the issues that

1 need to be litigated. And if we're going to have to litigate 2 the findings, the factual basis for the findings, as 3 Mr. Goodman acknowledged earlier today, and the impact on the 4 insurers of those findings, I think we can't do this in -- 5 in -- in January or even February. I just don't think those 6 dates are workable. Thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Let me note one 8 difference between Imerys and this case, and there are many, 9 but one significant difference is that Imerys is not 10 operating anymore and Boy Scouts is.

11 Mr. Brown?

12 MR. BROWN: Thank you, Your Honor. For the tort 13 committee. Much of what the committee and its professionals 14 are so concerned about has been articulated by Mr. Plevin.
15 There are a couple of additional issues that I wanted to 16 highlight for the Court. I mean I think the -- the overall 17 concern is that certainly the proposed schedule that we saw 18 last week was far more than a scheduling order. And whether 19 it was intentional or -- or not, and I'm going to try not to 20 pass judgment on that. But it was going to have the impact 21 of imposing unworkable limitations on the committee's 22 professionals and its experts to discover and put before the 23 court what needs to be discovered and put before the court in 24 order for the survivors who do not support this plan and do 25 not want to be bound by a non-consensual third-party release

1 and a channeling injunction, it will deny them the 2 opportunity to make that case to you, as to why the national 3 mortgage factors are not met here.

4 And, in particular, Mr. Plevin highlighted I think 5 a lot of what the insurers need to do from their perspective
6 in terms of investigating the underlying claims. And there 7 is a massive amount of data and discovery that needs to be 8 obtained and analyzed and synthesized.

9 As Mr. Stang mentioned earlier today, we have a 10 pending application for our experts on that. We've had 11 extensive discussions with them about how much time they will 12 need after they get the data in order to file their expert 13 report.

14 And the sequencing proposed by the debtor was 15 just -- was shocking. I mean it was a matter of days.

16 I mean and that's never been done in a case. I
17 mean you look at Imerys, you look at Purdue, the timeframes
18 that are allotted from the time that documents are produced 19 to when expert reports are due, in this case I believe they 20 are -- well, initially it was a matter of expert reports were 21 due November 8, four days after fact discovery is completed.

22 That's what the debtor's initial proposal was.
23 That -- I mean I just think that's exemplary of what the 24 debtor is trying to do to the committee and their ability 25 to -- to put on an effective showing at confirmation.

1 This idea of -- well, the issue you -- I think you
2 asked, am I going to be required to make an aggregate
3 determination of claims. And there was discussion about, 4 well, the estimation motion is off so maybe you don't. But 5 you clearly will. I -- one of the master mortgage factors is 6 whether or not the plan pays all or substantially all of the 7 claims of the class that's going to be impacted by the 8 channeling injunction and release.

9 So if there's going to be non-consensual releases 10 in this case, we're going to have to know what the claims
11 are. Our experts --

12 THE COURT: Doesn't the committee know what the 13 claims are? The committee has been telling me what the 14 claims are.

15 MR. BROWN: I think we have -- we are retaining 16 experts to tell me what the claims are.

17 THE COURT: When are those on? I don't recall 18 seeing any of -- of a motion, but when did you schedule those 19 for a hearing?

20 MR. BROWN: I'm going to defer, if I may, 21 because -- to Mr. Stang or Mr. Lucas on that.

22 THE COURT: Fair enough, but -- okay, go ahead.

23 MR. BROWN: So the same -- the same issue with 24 respect to claims is going to come up with respect to the 25 best interest test, and it's going to come up at least a

1 subset of the claims in connection with the Hartford
2 settlement.

3 It's a great deal of the same data. It all 4 funnels into what the -- what our expert is going to say on 5 this and how much time it's going to take to gather the data, 6 how much time it's going to take for them to synthesize it,
7 put it in an expert report, have their depositions taken.
8 There's going to be another - - you know, this is going to be 9 a battle because the debtors are going to have their own
10 experts and we're going to have to rebut those. Maybe it 11 will be the same expert. Maybe there will be a different 12 expert, I don't know yet, but that's a huge concern of ours 13 here is time to do discovery, time to get the expert reports 14 done, time to get the rebuttal reports done.

15 Some of the things, also, that are going to come
16 up here, I mentioned last time and I got a lot of pushback
17 from Mr. Kurtz, about -- but whether I accurately 18 characterized it or not, but the fundamental truth is we have 19 been trying for -- since early last week to address the issue 20 of the local counsel designations confidentiality. Virtually 21 everything they produced has been designated confidential.

22 Clearly, it's not all confidential.

23 BSA has -- the protective order requires BSA to 24 facilitate this -- this declassification. We're not getting 25 where we need to get. We don't have the issue resolved.

1 It's likely going to require a motion, and that's 2 going to take time, and it may require additional discovery 3 to get documents that were not -- that have only been 4 produced in the context of mediation and for which a 5 mediation privilege is being claimed.

6 There's the mediation privilege issue, and I -- I 7 think that this is -- this was raised by Mr. Plevin, but that 8 the issue really boils down to BSA and Hartford and any other 9 parties that are going to settle, they are seeking a good 10 faith determination with respect to the plan. They're 11 seeking a 9019 determination with respect to fair and 12 equitable.

13 Are they going to offer the mediation at the -- 14 the fact of mediation as evidence of good faith and 15 reasonableness? If they do, then is that not a waiver of the 16 mediation privilege? You can't use that privilege as both a 17 sword and a shield, and if they're going to advance the 18 mediation as evidence of reasonableness or good faith, then 19 they can't hide discovery. They can't preclude discovery on 20 how the sausage was made.

21 I think that's similar to what Mr. Plevin was 22 saying, but we have the very same concerns because -- and so 23 that motion is going to be heard, that -- not until 24 October 19th. Then there will be fights over the mediation, 25 over the mediation privilege, and what the nature of the 1 discovery is.

2 There is no discussion in the debtor's version of 3 a schedule for any discovery on voting integrity, and we 4 think that issue has been raised.

5 It's come up. We've built it into our schedule, 6 and we think it is critical that there is time allotted for 7 that, and that's not something that can be done right away.

8 And I also just want to point out that, you know, 9 in Mr. Kurtz's initial statements he was critical of all the 10 objectors for not having already launched their discovery.

11 Yet, I have a recollection that Century was just 12 stopped in its tracks on doing discovery that hadn't yet been 13 teed up because the disclosure statement hadn't been approved 14 and the plan wasn't at issue.

15 So, you know, you can't have it both ways. I 16 think everybody has been holding their powder on discovery
17 because of what happened with Century. This isn't at issue 18 yet. I mean technically I thought what the Court said was 19 the plan isn't yet a contested matter.

20 THE COURT: I don't think I said that.

21 MR. BROWN: No, you didn't say -- so I think that 22 is how it was interpreted.

23 So in any event, it hasn't been a foot- dragging 24 exercise. There was concern that plan discovery was not yet 25 ripe.

1 So if you have any questions, I am happy to answer
2 them, Your Honor, but those are, I think, you know, those 3 reflect some profound concerns that we have. And I just 4 think as somebody -- well, for all of us who are going to be 5 impacted by this schedule, there is just, you know, there - 6 there's an element of what's doable and what's -- you know, 7 what is humanly possible and what the debtor is proposing,
8 had initially proposed, it's just not humanly possible to do 9 what needs to be done in this very complex case with multiple 10 issues in anything that resembles a competent way in the 11 timeframe that the debtor is proposing.

12 THE COURT: I agree that competing time concerns
13 are an issue, but what nobody has really disputed is that BSA 14 is going to run out of money if we don't get this thing
15 going, that the contribution from the BSA clearly goes down 16 every month that we continue to have -- that we don't have a 17 resolution of this matter, and, you know, this debtor doesn't 18 make a product. It's not -- it's a different kind of entity, 19 and we can't lose sight of that.

20 I'll hear from Mr. Ryan and then maybe we should 21 take some break. I forgot about the need to caucus about my 22 thoughts with respect to the findings. But I'll hear from 23 Mr. Ryan first.

24 MR. BROWN: Well, Your Honor, just before -- 25 before that, just I wanted to answer your question about

1 our -- our expert. It was -- the expert is Claro (phonetic)
2 and the application was filed on September 17th. So I'm 3 sorry, I just wanted to address your prior question.

4 THE COURT: Thank you. When's it going to be 5 heard? Not until the 19th? We may be able to speed that up.

6 MR. LUCAS: Well, Your Honor, this is John Lucas.
7 It was filed, and the objection period runs on the -- I don't 8 have my glasses on, the objection period runs on the first, I
9 believe, of October. And so assuming there are no objections 10 and we don't receive anything, we'll be able to submit an 11 order under COC.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Mr. Ryan?

13 MR. RYAN: Thank you, Your Honor. Jeremy Ryan on 14 behalf of the Catholic and Methodist Ad Hoc Committees. I'll 15 be brief, Your Honor, I just -- as we're discussing these 16 30,000-foot issues, I didn't want people and Your Honor to 17 lose sight of this isn't Hertz. This isn't a plan that 18 leaves creditors unimpaired, and in fact, to the contrary 19 here, Your Honor, you have a plan where you have 24,000 20 chartered organizations who didn't file proofs of claims who 21 aren't creditors of the estate and you have a plan that 22 proposes to strip them of their property rights and insurance
23 policies, proposes them to deem them to grant releases. It 24 proposes to do a lot of things to people who aren't creditors
25 of this Court, who are not participants in this proceeding,

1 and whether that can ultimately be done or not is going to be 2 left for another day. But there is a substantial question of 3 how much due process do people, who aren't creditors whose 4 property rights are being taken away under a plan need to get 5 in all of this and the notices of what's going to happen to 6 them.

7 How much due process do we need for the 16,000 8 chartered organizations who filed proofs of claims, who 9 aren't sophisticated parties? They don't have access to the 10 unlimited budget many of the parties here have, and how long 11 do they need to have to get to understand and receive these 12 things and have a long enough period to vote.

13 So as we're talking about due process and the 14 timeline of this, and we're certainly not advocating for a 15 March -- a March confirmation date, but I don't want to lose 16 sight of the fact that this is not a 42- day case or a 50-day 17 case or a 60-day case.

18 Now, as Your Honor noted last week, there's at 19 least 60 days that you have to give notice to people. And we 20 need to be cognizant of the tremendous amount of people who 21 aren't sophisticated parties and who aren't even creditors 22 whose rights are being taken away under this plan. So I just 23 think we need to have that -- have that perspective, as we 24 look at trial dates, and as we look at a calendar and when 25 things go out for solicitation and for notice and when people

1 have to object and respond by. Thank you.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

3 Ms. Lauria, how much time do you want to caucus
4 with the FCR and the coalition about my remarks with respect
5 to the findings and what you're hearing in terms of discovery 6 that is generated from certain of those findings?

7 MS. LAURIA: Your Honor, I'm just looking at my 8 clock right now. I see it's 4:50. I know we've had a long 9 day, but I think we want to achieve as much as we can today.
10 So I would say we come back in 15 or 20 minutes if that works
11 for the Court.

12 THE COURT: That's fine. Let's take 20 minutes 13 and let's see -- let's see where we -- where we are, and, 14 again, I think the two findings that in my mind create the 15 most issues are the condition precedent R and S, as they are 16 currently drafted. We're in recess.

17 MS. LAURIA: Thank you.

18 (Recess taken at 4:50 p.m.)

19 (Proceedings resumed at 5:12 p.m.)

20 THE COURT: This is Judge Silverstein. Ready to 21 get back on the record?

22 MS. LAURIA: Your Honor, this is Jessica Lauria.
23 We were just gathering. I see folks from the coalition and 24 FCR back on the line, so I think we are ready from our 25 perspective.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MS. LAURIA: So we spent the last 15 or 20
3 minutes, Your Honor, specifically focusing on R and S 4 although we take your remarks on the other provisions as 5 helpful. And I guess what I would say is this: We do think 6 there may be a mechanism to tighten the language with respect
7 to R. We certainly take your point that any findings you 8 make do need to be limited by the type of hearing that you 9 are hearing those findings, and certainly we think that's in 10 the 1129 context, 1129(a)(1), which I think could incorporate 11 in 1123(a)(3).

12 There may necessitate a 9019 standard. I don't 13 know that we need to make a determination right now. It 14 sounds like this could even be an issue that needs to be 15 briefed but suffice it to say I think the parties certainly 16 understand that you're only making a ruling under the legal 17 regime that is presented to you, that this Court has the 18 power to decide and not some other legal regime.

19 With respect to S, Your Honor, certainly 20 appreciate what I will call your Fuller-Austin observations, 21 that the fact that the debtor is, for example, contributing 22 $220 million, bankruptcy dollars, to the trust doesn't 23 necessarily mean that that is establishing the aggregate 24 claim liability.

25 I think, as you noted, this one is controversial,

1 and it's also complicated for us to -- and it was a little 2 too complicated for us to determine in the 10 or 15 minutes
3 how we were going to address the Court's rulings. But I 4 think I don't necessarily want to speak for the others, but 5 I'll speak for the debtor. We heard you loud and clear, and 6 we understand that this language needs to be tightened for 7 the purposes of the proceeding and for what is in front of 8 the Court and not for other purposes. I don't know if the 9 FCR Coalition would like to weigh in on that.

10 THE COURT: Okay. I'll -- I'll make one other 11 comment, which maybe I shouldn't, but I will. I wrote this 12 down when Mr. Rothweiler was speaking. He said they had a -- 13 this is my word, sort of a fundamental principle, no survivor
14 left behind. A very laudable goal and a -- and a call that I 15 think the survivors can make. But I don't know that 16 that's -- that that's a -- a deal that the insurance 17 companies made when they issued policies.

18 So, again, and it's not the first time by the way
19 that I've heard that -- that sentiment or in the papers
20 somewhere. Okay?

21 Listen, here are my thoughts on -- on scheduling.
22 We need to get this on the calendar. Parties need to get 23 going on discovery. There's going to need to be abbreviated 24 time frames to determine issues and that I recognize also 25 puts quite frankly pressure on me as well to decide things in 1 a timely fashion of disputes that get put in front of me.

2 But this is not, as I've already said, this isn't 3 Imerys. It's not Purdue. Okay? Those are very different 4 cases.

5 This is case of a not-for-profit entity that as I
6 recall is right now going through its fundraising season
7 while it's in bankruptcy. It's going through its membership-
8 raising season while it's in bankruptcy, and I think Boy 9 Scouts, but as importantly, and I'll stress that, as 10 importantly, survivors need to know is there a resolution 11 here or not. So this needs to be scheduled, and I'm looking 12 at starting a trial on January 24th.

13 I recognize that is an incredibly tight schedule.
14 That does not go -- I'm not -- it's not lost on me. That 15 will mean that, again, timeframes need to be shortened for 16 production of documents. Time frames will need to be 17 shortened to resolve discovery disputes. If there's going to 18 be an assertion of media privilege that is getting in the way
19 of documents and I have not seen what the debtors have filed 20 yet, that's got to be resolved.

21 I will tell you, as I think I've said in this 22 case, I'm sure I did because I had it here. I probably had 23 it in some other cases recently. There's got to be a balance 24 in the mediation privilege when you want certain findings at 25 confirmation. Not everything is going to be able to be

1 protected, and we're going to have to find the balance.

2 It is hard to decide these privilege issues in the 3 abstract. I did that recently in Imerys. Then I get 4 documents in front of me, and it makes me have to rethink
5 what I did. It's very hard to do it in the abstract, but I 6 will take a look at that motion. We're going to start on the 7 24th of January.

8 I will give the parties an opportunity to see if 9 they can arrange a schedule. If not, I will hear that 10 promptly, and I'll impose a schedule. But in the first 11 instance, I'm going to let the parties see if they can work 12 it out.

13 I think it's an appropriate schedule. I think 14 it's a doable schedule with cooperation. I recognize it's a 15 tight schedule, and -- but I think all parties agreed at 16 various points in this case that from their different 17 perspectives there needs to be an -- an endpoint where we 18 know whether there's a confirmable plan or not. And we'll 19 see.

20 MR. KURTZ: Thank you very much, Your Honor, 21 for -- for setting the schedule. Glenn Kurtz. We will be 22 seeing you somewhat shortly on the motion for a protective 23 order. I tried not to make it abstract. Tried to tie it to 24 specific documents, which will be pulled and available for in 25 camera review if Your Honor chooses to do so or at least by

1 very specific categories.

2 So we look forward to resolving that. I hear you
3 on the balance. Ultimately, we have to figure out what that 4 is. We don't have anything to hide. IF it's protected and 5 it doesn't have to go out, we're happy with that. If it's 6 not protected and it does have to go out, we're happy with 7 that as well, Your Honor.

8 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, we have before you a 9 motion to shorten notice on the motion to compel the 10 documents withheld by Mr. Green on the assertion of the in 11 preparation for mediation privilege, as yet to be recognized, 12 and another motion to compel on shortened notice against the 13 debtor with respect to the documents that concern the 14 modified plan. We didn't sit on our rights in those regards 15 at all. All of the third-party aggregators have failed to 16 comply with the subpoenas.

17 I -- you know, the coalition partners of those 18 folks are not cooperating. We'll bring motions on shortened 19 notice if necessary to try to move those along. You know, 20 cooperation is sort of like the hallmark of, you know, moving 21 on an expedited schedule. So we need that from the 22 coalition.

23 THE COURT: It is. I will take a look at those, 24 and we'll get a hearing scheduled on those. Hopefully I can 25 announce it tomorrow when we're going to have a hearing on

1 those matters, but that's going to be the hallmark is parties
2 cooperating and getting documents and other discovery out.

3 Okay. Ms. Lauria?

4 MS. LAURIA: Thank you, Your Honor, and we will, 5 obviously, work on putting together a proposed scheduling, as 6 Mr. Kurtz suggested. I think what that leaves for purposes 7 of rounding out the disclosure and solicitation process are 8 three issues. And maybe I would propose to go in this order, 9 just because of the impact that the issues may have on the 10 documents.

11 The first is how to treat that $3,500 expedited
12 distribution election because that flows through the ballots
13 and the plan and the disclosure statements, and I do believe 14 it is one of the truly remaining substantive issues left it 15 may make sense to take that first.

16 Next, we have, and I think Mr. Ollinder (phonetic) 17 will go through with you anything that may remain on the 18 disclosure statement. Knock on wood, we've been 19 communicating with folks during the course of today, and I'm 20 hoping that those are relatively limited issues. And then, 21 finally, I believe Mr. O'Neal will pick back up with the 22 solicitation procedures, everything other than that $3,500 23 expedited distribution. Also, I understand that he's had 24 some constructive conversations with the TCC Today, so 25 hopefully we've rounded those out as well.

1 I'm not sure if you want to turn to any of that 2 tonight, Your Honor. I'm ready to go on the $3,500 expedited
3 distribution issue and why the change was made to the ballot 4 over the weekend if that makes sense.

5 THE COURT: Yes, let's do that.

6 MS. LAURIA: Thank you, Your Honor, and what I'd 7 like to do is just give you --

8 MR. STANG: Excuse me, Your Honor, that is our 9 motion. I think that's our motion. I don't know why 10 Ms. Lauria is addressing something that we filed. It's not 11 an order shortening time. We haven't had a ruling on it, and 12 it's -- if you think that the $3,500 issue and our 13 classification motion are the same thing, we're the ones that 14 filed it.

15 MS. LAURIA: Your Honor, we --

16 THE COURT: Okay, well, the debtors have made a 17 change -- the debtors have made a change to their plan, so 18 I'm going to hear both of you.

19 MR. STANG: Okay.

20 THE COURT: Don't worry about it. No one gets an 21 advantage over the other, but there's a change in the plan.
22 I noticed it in the plan, and let's talk about it.

23 MR. STANG: Okay.

24 MS. LAURIA: Your Honor, and I certainly didn't 25 mean to cut the TCC off in that regard. We did make the

1 change to the plan. I thought it would make sense to explain 2 why. Also, we didn't file a written objection simply because 3 we haven't had the time to do it. So I thought it might make 4 sense to put some perspective on this. What I'd like to do
5 is just give a brief, a very brief history of the $3,500 6 expedited distribution and then go into why it is that we 7 made the change over the weekend to the plan and the ballots.

8 And I guess I would chalk this up to the category
9 of no good deed goes unpunished in this case. You know, 10 throughout 2021, this literally the entirety of this year 11 we've had various conversations with parties on all sides of 12 this proceeding concerning some sort of expedited 13 distribution mechanic. That includes both folks on the 14 survivor side and folks on the -- on the insurer side.

15 And when we came to resolution around the RSA with 16 the TCC and the coalition, we all agreed to a $3,500 17 expedited distribution. And that was embodied in both the 18 fourth amended plan, the RSA, as well as the plan that we 19 went forward on, the fifth amended plan.

20 When we came to that understanding, speaking for 21 the debtors and really for myself in particular, because I 22 probably was at the middle of this decision, we were 23 contemplating two different mechanisms for soliciting -- I'm 24 using that in the little "s" sense of the word -- soliciting 25 the elections on the expedited distribution. The first was

1 just getting those indications through the trust process
2 itself, and, in fact, as I mentioned earlier in the hearing,
3 there is a mechanism in the TDP and this existed, you know,
4 well before this weekend where the trustee would, in fact, 5 review the proof of claim, insure that the proof of claim was 6 substantially complete, and insure that the individual itself 7 signed the proof of claim form, not just the attorney, but 8 the individual itself signed the proof of claim form. So we 9 thought about doing an election mechanism in connection with 10 the TDP.

11 The second option was in connection with the 12 balloting process, and that is what we elected to do, again
13 going back to the fourth amended plan. The logic behind 14 that, Your Honor, was really one of efficiency and ease of 15 administration for both the claimants themselves as well as 16 the trust. Our view was we were going to be sending out a 17 massive solicitation to 82,000 individuals, and with that 18 touchpoint with those individuals we should gather as much 19 information as we possibly could, including whether or not 20 those individuals wanted to take the $3,500 election.

21 As you undoubtedly saw in the confirm- -- in the 22 disclosure statement objections, we received a ton of 23 objections from the insurers to the $3,500 election. And 24 those were along the lines of some of what you heard from 25 Mr. Rosenthal and Mr. Schiavoni today that the debtors were

1 attempting to do vote buying by putting the $3,500 election 2 on the ballot, that we were trying to carry the class by 3 buying votes with respect to that election. And I can assure 4 you, Your Honor, that is absolutely not what our intention 5 was ever with respect to that $3,500 election.

6 But we proceeded to keep it on the ballot as we 7 went into last week's hearing. And as we sat there, and I
8 think it was on the 23rd, when we got to the solicitation 9 procedures, we heard Mr. Stang and Mr. Smola describe very 10 convincingly the complications with the balloting process 11 here, and in particular the fact that we included on the 12 ballot this election to settle a claim, you know, not just 13 whether or not you're going to vote up or down on the plan 14 but actually settle a claim.

15 And, you know, when we went back and looked at the 16 transcript, Mr. Stang made a very impassioned speech about 17 the fact that due to rules of professional conduct an 18 attorney has an obligation to consult with its client about 19 the settlement of any claim.

20 And as we heard Mr. Smola further describe the 21 difficulties that many of the plaintiff lawyers have in 22 communicating with their clients due to confidentiality
23 concerns and the sensitive nature of the claim, it struck us
24 as, you know, we had added that to the ballot to try to ease 25 the administrative burden on both the plaintiffs and the

1 trust, but it became apparent after last week that we were, 2 in fact, increasing the burden, maybe unnecessarily so, on 3 the plaintiff lawyers.

4 In fact, we have 70 to 75,000 individuals that are 5 represented by counsel. Whether those individuals are 6 completing master ballots or not, that's a lot of people.
7 That ranges from lawyers representing one person or a few 8 hundred persons to, I think, Mr. Smola indicated he 9 represents 4,000 persons, to Mr. Rothweiler who said his firm 10 of 10 lawyers represent 16 to 17,000 people.

11 As you know, and we just heard, we're on a very 12 tight timeframe. We are contemplating a 60-day solicitation 13 period, and from our perspective for those lawyers to advise, 14 based on what I heard last week on whether you could or 15 should elect the option, it depends on a couple of things.

16 One, first you have to determine whether your 17 client is eligible, so whether they did complete a proof of 18 claim and whether they signed it. We've now heard that, I 19 think, 20,000 amendments have been made to the proofs of 20 claim. A big number of those are to substitute individual 21 signatures for attorney signatures, but that sort of part one 22 is assessing that.

23 And, next, you need to assess whether or not the 24 client should, in fact, take the $3,500 election.

25 So it struck us that we were maybe asking for too

1 much on the ballot given the timeframe and given the number 2 of claimants that are indeed represented by counsel and given 3 their ability to determine eligibility versus, you know, 4 whether or not they should even take the settlement.

5 So we thought in the face of that, and I think 6 Your Honor said last week, the expedited distribution is 7 turning into the tail that's wagging dog. That is never what 8 we intended with the expedited distribution, so if that's 9 going to be a hardship on plaintiffs, I think our view was 10 take that off the ballot.

11 The TCC we now understand didn't like that. They 12 want that on the ballot. I think that from our perspective, 13 you know, there may be a balance where it can remain on the 14 ballot but rather than jam people with the voting deadline 15 and particularly those individuals who are represented by 16 counsel who needs to advise all of their clients whether 17 they're eligible and whether to accept you can have it on the 18 ballot and then also have an opportunity to take the election 19 via the trust process or via the trustee, we don't like that.
20 That sounds kind of confusing to me.

21 But at the end of the day I think we were just 22 simply trying to strike the balance between making the ballot 23 less complicated, not forcing individual lawyers to feel like 24 they needed to provide individual advice to clients on 25 eligibility and whether or not to settle and sort of delink

1 it from that process and, again, also delink it from the 2 accusations that we're trying to do some sort of vote buying 3 because that was certainly never the intention.

4 I have looked at the TCC's classification motion.
5 I'm happy to respond to that now, too. We don't think it's 6 appropriate, and we think it's legally wrong. But just to be 7 clear, when we made that change to the ballot believing that 8 change was really in the wake of I think what we all heard 9 last week in terms of extreme complications around the voting 10 process itself. That was the genesis for the change.

11 You know, under bankruptcy rule 3013, one, we 12 don't have an accepted plan yet. 3013 speaks to an accepted 13 plan and whether we need to look at classification in the 14 context of an accepted plan. God willing we get to an 15 accepted plan, but those aren't the facts before us today, 16 and, secondly, we think classifying the direct abuse claims 17 in the same class is appropriate.

18 1122(a) says substantially similar claims go 19 [interposing] the same class. As I read the committee's 20 pleading, I think maybe what they're talking about is 21 disparate treatment within the class. And the cases that 22 have evaluated disparate treatment under 1123(a)(4) have all 23 concluded that so long as you give everyone an equal -- first 24 of all, it specifically speaks to giving a creditor the 25 opportunity to take less.

1 And it, second, speaks to the case law that is 2 speaks to sort of an equal opportunity that the opportunity 3 to take an election is given equally to all class members.
4 So we don't think it's appropriate now. We don't think it's 5 correct to separately classify them. We're happy to brief 6 that more fully in connection with the confirmation hearing, 7 but we really don't think that's an issue that pertains to 8 the ballot or not or trying to deconfuse the ballot. I think 9 they're simply suggesting that there is some difference 10 between, I don't -- big claims and small claims. And we just 11 don't think that's appropriate under the law to distinguish 12 folks on that basis.

13 So, again, happy to do a hybrid if people think 14 that's more appropriate. I think that's confusing. We 15 thought the ballot was over burdening people, but that's the 16 background, and that's how we found ourselves here today on 17 that issue.

18 THE COURT: Thank you.

19 Mr. Stang?

20 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor. Today's my 21 birthday, and so I maybe as a present I can get an extra five 22 minutes.

23 MR. GOODMAN: Your Honor, I don't mean to 24 interrupt Mr. Stang, but there are others who may want to 25 speak in support of this and I think Mr. Stang is going to 1 speak in opposition. I wasn't sure if you wanted me to go 2 now or wait until later.

3 THE COURT: Mr. Stang, what would you prefer?
4 It's your birthday.

5 MR. STANG: Let's hear it all at once, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Mr. Goodman?

7 MR. GOODMAN: Okay. I was right, to be fair.

8 Again, Eric Goodman, (inaudible) counsel for the 9 coalition. The plan, as filed by the debtors back in April, 10 provided for a $1,500 expedited distribution. That was under 11 the global resolution plan but not the toggle plan. That's, 12 you know, April, so many months ago.

13 That did change under the plan filed in July. The 14 amount of the expedited distribution went up from 1,500 to 15 3,500. We also insisted on upping the standard. The 16 requirement changed so that the proof of claim must be 17 complete and signed by the survivor under penalty of perjury.
18 That was added by the coalition and the TCC.

19 The TCC back in July supported the expedited
20 distributed. Since the RSA terminated, the TCC has made it 21 clear that this was going to become a significant voting and 22 plan confirmation issue for them.

23 In addition, the insurers I think have always 24 consistently suggested that they would argue that the 25 expedited distribution was the equivalent of buying votes.

1 I will fight very, very hard on issues that I
2 think are major issues, issues that I care about, issues that 3 are important to survivors and the survivors receiving a fair 4 recovery in this case.

5 I don't agree with the insurers. I don't agree 6 with the TCC, but I also know a distraction when I see one.
7 I think that the trustee should be able to pay nuisance 8 values, especially when the payment is less than the cost of 9 reviewing the claim.

10 I also think that it might be a bit unfair at this 11 point for people to make the election of 3,500.

12 You heard from Mr. Rothweiler that the amount of 13 funding in the trust could go up significantly in the coming 14 months. So it may be, you know, unfair to even ask people to 15 make that election right now.

16 Given those factors, we support the debtor's 17 change in this regard. I do think it gets rid of an issue of 18 potential distraction. Given the current state of affairs, I 19 do think it makes sense for this to be something that is done 20 later and not at the voting stage. Thank you, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Thank you.

22 Mr. Patterson?

23 MR. PATTERSON: I was going to defer to Mr. Stang, 24 Your Honor. I'm on Mr. Stang's side.

25 THE COURT: All right. Okay.

1 Mr. Stang?

2 MR. STANG: Thank you, Your Honor. Your Honor, 3 this is not an example of no deed -- no good deed goes 4 unpunished. This is an example of no self-serving deed goes 5 un noticed because that's really what's happening here.

6 This is not a gesture by the debtor to relieve 7 over-burdened state court counsel from actually getting the 8 informed consent of their clients. Not a single person at 9 the hearings last week said that they couldn't effectively 10 communicate with their client regarding this election.

11 In fact, the debtor's schedule, the abbreviated 12 schedule you just heard about was on file. No one said they 13 couldn't accomplish this. For all of my differences with 14 Mr. Rothweiler, he said just within the last two hours that 15 they are in constant contact with their clients, fielding 16 thousands of phone calls a month, regularly communicating 17 with them in some fashion.

18 So this idea that the debtor is doing the 19 plaintiffs' bar a favor, it's a favor no one asked for. And 20 so I really think that we need to look at this from two 21 perspectives.

22 One is should it be a separate class. That's the 23 subject of our motion, and should it be on the ballot because 24 those could be two different things.

25 Now, you said last week that it was important to

1 understand the voting, to see where this -- on this issue
2 where the support was coming from. That's how I interpreted 3 your comments, and we cited to the transcript in our motion.

4 The elimination of the $3,500 election from the 5 ballot makes it impossible to track who's voting for this 6 plan as -- if you think of them as people who elect for the 7 3,500 and people that will go into the TDP either to litigate 8 their claims if that's permitted under the TDP or through the 9 TDP process.

10 If you don't make people indicate their election 11 on the ballot, we will never know the level of support that's 12 being given to the class by those folks because one thing -- 13 everyone talks about we've got to put this stuff in context.
14 Here's the context. No court since these abuse cases started 15 being filed in 2002, I think, has ever crammed down on a 16 survivor class. No one. But what is going on here is that 17 the plan proponents want that class to be as big as possible
18 and to get them all to vote yes.

19 If this is a separate class, those yes votes, the 20 people electing for the 3,500 don't count towards the vote 21 tallies on the impaired class. They don't want that. This is 22 in effect kind of stuffing the ballot box. I thought it was 23 gerrymandering, but it's really stuffing the ballot box.
24 They want as many yes votes in there as possible, and that's 25 a creditor who is going to get 2,500. They want that person

1 to vote yes. And you'll come out with the 80+ percent 2 approval rating of this by that class.

3 But if those people who are getting at least below 4 $3,500 under the TDP and when you look at the chart that we 5 have proposed and the debtor has accepted for inclusion in 6 the disclosure statement, there are a lot of people $3,500
7 and under and there are a lot of people in that -- in a 8 higher number, maybe 5,000, 7,000 who will take the 3,500 and 9 not take the risks and the delay associated with being in the 10 TDP.

11 So that's what's really going on here. They want 12 to maximize the people in the class, get them to vote yes, 13 and then those people may elect the 3,500 but they have in 14 effect they've impacted the voting, and, frankly, I think 15 they have distorted the voting.

16 When I spoke to this issue last week, and I think 17 I -- Mr. Smola will speak for himself. We didn't say that it 18 was too complicated or that the professionals couldn't do it.
19 We talked about integrity, the integrity of the voting 20 system, making sure that counsel who was signing the master
21 ballot were acting in the first capacity as Mr. Goodman 22 described it as kind of collectors of the ballots. And that 23 there were no shenanigans going on with people not accurately
24 recording their client's vote. Or in the second capacity, 25 actually making the decision themselves, which would be

1 backed up by power of attorney, which issue I think we've 2 resolved as we'll get through the solicitation motion. But 3 no one opposed the idea that they couldn't communicate with 4 their clients effectively to get an informed consent on what 5 to do.

6 I don't think the hybrid that Ms. Lauria was 7 suggesting really makes sense because it doesn't give you 8 that measure of who is supporting the plan in that class.
9 Whose money is really at risk? Who's rolling the dice and 10 who is not? Because the $3,500 if you take that election, 11 you're not rolling the dice. And while it is true that the 12 trustee does have to check to make sure that the signature is 13 on the claim form and that it is substantially completed, 14 that's not really a -- in my opinion a substantive review 15 process. That's checking a signature block and seeing how 16 many answers were given. It's not even looking at the 17 answers.

18 I don't think is an issue of vote buying because 19 if you put those people in a separate class, and every plan 20 that I've had any experience with has always had the 21 convenience class, the nuisance class, as someone described 22 it as a separate class. Well, if they're in a separate 23 class, they're not -- the vote buying is not an issue because 24 they're not tilting the impaired class to acceptance.

25 So I think that if you have separate

1 classification this concern about vote buying goes away.

2 3013 does not deal with a, quote, "accepted plan."
3 It's not what the language says. It says for the purposes of 4 the plan and its acceptance, the court may on motion direct 5 determine classes or creditors.

6 It doesn't say after the plan has been accepted or 7 after voting is completed. This is the time to do it. This 8 is the time to make the plan accurately reflect what is going 9 on in the case.

10 And everyone will have the opportunity to take the 11 election. There will be no discrimination amongst abuse 12 survivors, but if you take the election, you're in an 13 unimpaired class and you're deemed to have voted yes. Well, 14 you're unimpaired. I guess you're -- you're not voting at 15 all, I'm sorry. You're not voting at all. I get an -- I 16 get -- I get an erasure on that one because it's my birthday.

17 I made a mistake, and so to me this is about 18 integrity of the voting system, being able to keep track of 19 who is voting how and how that is really going to affect your 20 view of where the support is coming from in the plan, and if 21 you do it any other way, we will never know if, in fact, the 22 survivors whose claims are really at risk are supporting 23 this.

24 People have called this the tail wagging the dog.
25 I don't -- you may have -- I think you may have used that

1 expression, Judge. We don't know that.

2 There could be 10,000, 15,000, we estimate using 3 our chart the TDP values that we're talking about that 4 possibly as many as 25,000 people might be making that 5 election because under the distribution scheme and given the 6 current plan settlements, that's about how many people it 7 might make sense to take that election. It cries to the 8 inadequacy of the settlements, please. We won't get started 9 on that, but this is not the tail wagging the dog. This may 10 be the dog.

11 So, Your Honor, we think it makes sense. It 12 reflects the concerns you expressed last week. We think 13 keeping it on the ballot absolutely is necessary so we can 14 track where the support of the survivors really is and whose 15 money is at risk here, if you will, and we think it should be 16 in a separate class to avoid the issue of vote buying, and we 17 think it makes it cleaner. So that's all, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Thank you.

19 Mr. Patterson?

20 MR. PATTERSON: Thank you, Your Honor. I lack the 21 history that so many people here have, and so I look at it 22 very, very simply. This is a plan that provides for 23 alternative treatments. The two alternative treatments give 24 the claimant a fundamentally different interest or stake in 25 the outcome of the plan.

1 One, reduces the claim if pertinent or actually 2 potentially increase their distribution to $3,500. Accepts 3 that, executes the required releases and moves on with life.

4 The second is going to be tied up with the TDP
5 process, payment percentages, hold backs, whatever set aside 6 there is for the futures and all the rest of that 7 architecture for many, many years and except getting more 8 money overtime, hopefully, maybe not, but agreeing to take 9 that risk in exchange for potentially a greater distribution.

10 Ex ante, leaving everything else aside, leaving 11 this case aside, ex ante, those are two different classes, 12 and that is why the first time I think I drafted a plan and I 13 had a little nifty -- I thought I could collapse it and I put 14 in my little trade class, this is what you get, but if you 15 agree to reduce your claim, then you get this little amount 16 of money, and I thought I had made an efficient move. And we 17 went to a disclosure statement hearing, it was a small case, 18 and the partners let me kind of run with it so I could get my 19 nose bloodied and learn how to practice law. And I did. The 20 judge said those are two classes, Mr. Patterson. Those 21 people have different rights. Those are different classes.
22 Read 1122 before you come back. And so that's -- that is the 23 correct analysis.

24 Now, this Court need not resolve the 3013 motion 25 in the sense of deciding they're separate classes today, but

1 this goes back to what the history that I am familiar with,
2 which was last week. And I raised this issue because I
3 wanted to make sure, we were talking about a number of issues 4 related to how we're going to count the votes, how we're 5 going to measure the votes for master mortgage, and I said
6 and by the way, Your Honor, I just want you to know we may 7 bring a 3013 motion because we think these people are 8 fundamentally in a different class.

9 And, Your Honor, said -- you know, I think I'm not 10 surprised given the papers that that is something someone is 11 going to do, and we'll have all the information. And I was 12 completely satisfied with that because having the information
13 is the important part here. At the end of the day, the Court 14 can decide the 3013 motion later, but the balloting issue is 15 really the key issue.

16 And I don't think you need a starker case than to 17 look at combustion engineering, and when that case went up to 18 the Third Circuit and the fact that the vast majority of the 19 votes have been delivered by people whose rights were 20 fundamentally different.

21 They, in that case they were receiving some money 22 from one trust and had a spillover claiming to the other 23 trust in a small amount.

24 And the Third Circuit -- in that case it was an 25 artificial impairment case, but the principle is really the

1 same. And the debtor is given a certain amount of discretion 2 with regard to classification and treatment, but when the 3 purpose or when the underlying effect of that is to conceal 4 what the real support is for the plan by people who have a 5 real and meaningful economic stake in it, or to separate out 6 people who have a different economic stake in it, then that 7 is improper classification or improper treatment.

8 Your Honor, I think this issue of eligibility and 9 the other little things, that's a complete red herring. The 10 election can be I elect to take this treatment, but I 11 understand that I have to comply with the requirements of the 12 trust in order to receive it.

13 That -- this is not something that ought to get in 14 the way. We heard loud and clear from the coalition lawyers 15 that they were able to do all the solicitation necessary, and 16 the idea that there has been a revisiting of this principle 17 with regard to the 3,500, frankly, it doesn't really -- it 18 doesn't really hold water.

19 Finally, Your Honor, with respect to the point 20 that the integrity of the balloting could be put at issue, 21 first, no one has said that. That's speculation. I think 22 it's a red herring, but even leaving that aside, this is an 23 election that's going to have to be made at some point. And 24 a 60-day balloting period that we have for this purpose given 25 the focus that people are going to have on this process,

1 given the materials that they are going to be receiving, 2 given the communications that all of the lawyers are going to 3 be making with their clients, there is no better time to 4 ascertain what the claimant's preference is in this regard 5 than now.

6 This is the time when they are focused on the 7 issue. To suggest that they would get a standalone piece of 8 paper at some point in the future that advises them about it, 9 that wouldn't be meaningful. This is the time that they are 10 focused on it. This is the time that people are in 11 communication with them.

12 Your Honor, I was a little disappointed to see the 13 switch about. I understand that the debtor wants to have a 14 valid vote and a meaningful vote to record the votes on the 15 plan and really gauge the support, and I think if they really 16 want to do that, they would want to know are people who are 17 accepting this plan truly the people who are impacted by the 18 insurance settlements, who are impacted by the third-party 19 releases, who are impacted by the loss of their rights in the 20 tort system? And that's what this gauges, Your Honor.

21 I'm happy to answer any questions the Court has.

22 THE COURT: Thank you. I don't have any 23 questions.

24 Mr. Smola?

25 MR. SMOLA: Thank you, Your Honor. Can you hear

1 me okay?

2 THE COURT: I can.

3 MR. SMOLA: I'll just be very brief. With respect 4 to Ms. Lauria's point about the $3,500, frankly, that is the 5 least of a plaintiff's lawyer's concern for the informed 6 consent they need to obtain for their clients. A yes vote in 7 this case, as I have sort of said three or four times now, 8 potentially compromises a case against a third party, a local 9 counsel, and potentially compromises a case against another 10 third-party non-debtor, a chartering organization, and every 11 lawyer that votes yes in this case is going to have to get 12 affirmative consent from their clients in order to execute 13 that vote and is going to have to inform their clients that 14 they are potentially compromising those other cases.

15 Certainly, the $3,500 was an additional 16 consideration, but it's really those first two considerations 17 that drive the communication we as plaintiff's lawyers have 18 to get from our clients in order to compromise their claims 19 by way of a yes vote.

20 Thank you, Judge.

21 THE COURT: Thank you.

22 Ms. Lauria?

23 MS. LAURIA: Thank you, Your Honor, and I will 24 also be brief. I want to just put some meat to the bones of 25 something that Mr. Goodman said, which is from the

1 plaintiff's perspective, as the settlement amounts increase
2 in this case, so do their recovery percentages under the TDP 3 matrix.

4 And I'm going to point the Court to the blackline 5 disclosure statement that we filed in the overnight hours.
6 It's docket 6385-2, and I'm going to ask the Court to turn 7 to -- it's page 40 of 507 of the PDF or page 33 of the 8 disclosure statement itself.

9 And while you're getting there, Your Honor, I just 10 want to set the stage for what this is. Mr. Stang has 11 referenced multiple times that they prepared a recovery 12 chart. It provides for pittance of recoveries, and that the 13 debtors endorsed it, apparently, by putting it in the 14 disclosure statement, and, therefore, that proves that a huge 15 number of folks may take the $3,500 under our plan.

16 That's simply not the case. What Mr. Stang failed 17 to mention was that the debtors provided their own recovery 18 chart where we took the TDP values. We applied the scaling 19 factors as they pertain to the -- and, again, Your Honor, 20 it's page 33 of the black line, page 40 of 507 of docket 21 number 6385-2. We applied the scaling factors for the 22 statute of limitations, and then we applied various recovery 23 percentages at both the base claim amount under the TDP, as 24 well as the max claim amount. The base claim amount of 10 25 percent we calculated based on the Bates White estimation of 1 a 7.1 billion trust applying the Hartford distribution, the 2 distribution from the local councils, as well as the $100

3 million Delaware Statutory Trust note, as well as the debtors 4 own contribution. The 63 percent recovery is assuming the 5 valuation is at Bates White's low end, which is $2.4 billion, 6 but, again, utilizing the same assumptions and then it is our 7 contention, of course, that claimants may receive up to a 100 8 percent recovery as additional insurance settlements come in 9 the door based on the Bates White estimation.

10 And if you just glance through this chart, you 11 will see whether you're talking about in-statute claims for 12 non-touching that appears on page 35, or out-of-statute 13 claims versus various states in the scaling factors, the 14 difference between a 10 percent recovery or a 63 percent 15 recovery could formulate the difference between electing a 16 $3,500 expedited distribution or not. You see that 17 repeatedly including even in the more severe abuse claim 18 category types.

19 So we do think that more information, and, again,
20 this is just to add to Mr. Goodman's point, there is a 21 dramatic difference between recovery percentages depending 22 upon the dollars that are in the trust and also depending 23 upon the ultimate value of the -- the liabilities that the 24 trust is confronting.

25 Beyond that, Your Honor, I will say that as we

1 said, I guess it was last week, we think many of the voting 2 issues can be dealt with on the back end. Maybe we 3 misinterpreted the statements of counsel last week at the 4 hearing, but at the end of the day we felt like this truly 5 was turning into the tail that was wagging the dog and that 6 it was appropriate to remove it from the ballot.

7 Thank you, Your Honor. Unless you have any 8 questions for me, that concludes our views of this topic.

9 MR. STANG: Your Honor, may I make one comment 10 about this issue of the moving target of the settlements?

11 THE COURT: Yes.

12 MR. STANG: I think this works, I think this might 13 work. The notion that I heard was essentially let people opt 14 into it later at some undefined period of time after the 15 effective date. And that, of course, is the problem that I 16 tried to identify. I thought Mr. Patterson made it as well, 17 that we just don't know if the people voting yes really have 18 skin in the game.

19 But you could have an approach that says you have 20 to make the election, and you can opt out later.

21 If it turns out that on the effective date of the 22 plan they've doubled, just to use Mr. Rothweiler's hopeful 23 example or even, you know more than doubled the settlements, 24 people might go, you know what, maybe I shouldn't have taken 25 that election. But we don't know. There could be no more

1 settlements. I have no idea who Mr. Schiavoni is talking 2 about talking to in settlements. I thought he was talking to 3 us, but apparently not because he met with the coalition 4 yesterday, but we don't know. The settlement numbers might 5 not change at all, so the idea that someone makes the 6 election, we know they are electing, and they can, in effect, 7 opt out of that election so that they are not damaged by an 8 increasing pot of money. Maybe that is a resolution to this, 9 but we really feel the need to keep track of who's making 10 this election so we can see if it's skewing the voting, and 11 the idea that we could take up the classification issue at 12 the confirmation hearing is interesting. Maybe that's a way 13 of doing it, but we really need to identify these folks so we 14 can see whether people with significant interest in the 15 issues that Mr. Patterson identified are voting yes or not.

16 THE COURT: Mr. Goodman?

17 MR. GOODMAN: Thank you, Your Honor. Eric
18 Goodman, counsel for the coalition. I'd just like to speak 19 on one issue. 1122(a) provides that a plan may place a claim 20 or interest in a particular class only if such claim or 21 interest is substantially similar to the other claims or 22 interest. I think we satisfy that here plainly because all 23 of the claims in Class 8 are survivor claims. On the 24 treatment issue, that's actually an 1123(a)(4), not 1122, and 25 1123(a)(4) provides that the plan shall provide the same

1 treatment for each claim or interest of a particular class 2 unless the holder of a particular claim or interest agrees to 3 a less favorable treatment of such particular claim or 4 interest.

5 The plan does provide for the same treatment. It
6 provides the same options, you know, what people decide to do
7 later on if -- if they decide to accept less favorable
8 treatment for reasons that are personal to them, I don't 9 think that impacts the analysis under 1122 or 1123 at all.
10 That's my only point, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: So I haven't read the motion yet.
12 That's my -- I have to confess when I heard it was under 13 3013, I said what rule is that, but the but I see it's there, 14 and my gut reaction is it's not a classification issue 15 because all of the holders in the class have the same legal 16 rights vis-à-vis the debtors, and because they all have the 17 same options. They all have the same opportunities with 18 respect to their recoveries, depending, of course, on what 19 abuse they suffered.

20 But -- so I don't know if it's a classification
21 issue, but my gut reaction is it's not. But the reason I 22 thought this information would be helpful had more to do with 23 the channeling injunction request and the third-party release 24 request that I'm going to be -- that I'm being asked to make.
25 And not necessarily a cram down issue, although I guess I

1 hear that, too. But or the channeling injunction and the 2 third-party releases appropriate under the relevant
3 standards?

4 And in that regard, I thought it would be helpful
5 to know who was voting and what their choice is. Of course, 6 I could have been in a situation where there was no choice.
7 You just -- there's no convenience class. You just are 8 funneled into the trust, and if you end up with, you know, 9 $19 for a non-touching claim on a 10 percent recovery, then 10 you get $19. You don't have the option to get $3,500. But 11 I'll confess I hadn't -- I did note these charts. I hadn't 12 thought about this issue in connection with the charts.

13 I do think counsel is going to have to have 14 communication with their clients with respect to voting on 15 this plan, and it's a complicated plan and it does -- even 16 whether one accepts it or rejects it is a complicated 17 decision, much less whether one accepts the particular offer
18 of $3,500.

19 I don't know if it's a classification issue, but I
20 think it's important to understand the vote. I don't know 21 about an opt out. I don't know if that's something the 22 debtors or anyone else would accept. So I think it needs to 23 stay on the ballot.

24 MR. PATTERSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Thank you.

1 MS. LAURIA: Your Honor, we will conform the 2 ballots and the other documents back to the format that they 3 were in on this topic previously.

4 THE COURT: What else can we accomplish this 5 evening? There were two -- two other topics, Ms. Lauria.
6 Let me see my notes.

7 MS. LAURIA: Yes, Your Honor, it was sort of 8 clean-up on the actual disclosures on the disclosure 9 statements and then resolution of any open issues with 10 respect to the solicitation procedures.

11 Both of those topics are being handled by the team
12 in the White and Case conference room, which I cannot see. I 13 might as Mr. Linder if he is somewhere near the camera to let 14 us know if one or both of those topics are a size that can be 15 dealt with still this evening.

16 MR. LINDER: Good afternoon, Your Honor, White and 17 Case. As for the disclosure statement itself, we're 18 certainly a long way off from where we were with 170
19 objections last week. I think we're -- we're down to maybe 20 four issues that I have on my list. So I think that's 21 something discreet enough that we might be able to accomplish 22 in the time remaining today.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Let's see if we can knock those 24 out.

25 MR. LINDER: Great. Thank you, Your Honor.

1 As Ms. Lauria mentioned, we've been working 2 extremely hard since we broke last week -- I think it was 3 last Thursday -- to revise the disclosure statement, the 4 plan, the solicitation materials and the various exhibits and 5 schedules to account for the revisions that the debtors 6 agreed to make during the hearing last week as well as the 7 items that the Court directed us to include in a revised 8 version of the documents.

9 We've also worked to reconcile our comments with 10 the numerous objectors' comments, and we believe that the 11 draft we filed in the early morning hours today at Docket 12 Number 6385-2 that's the redline is very close to resolving 13 all of the disclosure statement objections.

14 Again, as I mentioned, I believe there are four 15 categories of issues that I'm aware of so I would propose to 16 just walk through each of those in turn, starting, Your 17 Honor, with the future claims disclosures.

18 Your Honor will recall that certain of the 19 objectors asked for disclosures with respect to an estimate 20 of the future abuse claims so that they could better 21 understand what effect if any those claims may have in terms 22 of dilution, potential dilution of their recoveries, vis-à-23 vis future abuse claims.

24 We have conferred with the FCR's counsel over the 25 weekend, Your Honor, and the FCR has preliminarily estimated

1 that future abuse claims in number are projected to equal 2 approximately 14 percent of the number of abuse survivors
3 that are not future abuse claims. And in value, Your Honor, 4 are projected by the FCR to equal approximately 21 percent of 5 the value attributable to abuse claims that are not future 6 abuse claims.

7 Your Honor, from the debtors' perspective, those 8 numbers I just want to be clear do not comport with our view
9 or our analysis. We're continuing to engage in discussions 10 with the FCR's representatives with respect to their 11 preliminary projections, but regardless, Your Honor, we will 12 continue to confer with the FCR and include -- we would 13 propose to include in a further revised version of the 14 disclosure statement what I suppose would be the solicitation 15 version those estimates.

16 And, specifically, in the version that we filed
17 last night, Your Honor, the main provision that we included 18 is on page 96 of the redline, and what that essentially has 19 is a placeholder for the projected amount and value that I 20 just recited. And, again, that's on page 96 of the redline.
21 It indicates both the FCR's forecast and our dispute of those 22 forecasts based on our own valuation expert's analysis of 23 future abuse claims.

24 We've also added, Your Honor, risk factors to 25 emphasize that there is a risk, that the projected value of 1 claims is higher than the debtors range or that the types

2 of -- or that the claims that could be allowed in amounts 3 higher than the total projected ranges for each type of 4 claim, which could also reduce recoveries for holders of 5 compensable claims. That risk factor is on page 275 to 276.

6 So with those changes, Your Honor, we believe that 7 that is sufficient disclosure on the topic of future abuse
8 claims. And we propose to memorialize that in a further 9 revised version of the DS.

10 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, our just -- our one 11 concern about that is that there's no explanation of the 12 methodology that was -- that's applied to come up with the 14 13 to 21 percent.

14 MR. MONES: Your Honor, this is Paul Mones. May I 15 speak?

16 THE COURT: Yes.

17 MR. MONES: Thank you, Your Honor. I am and have 18 been since the beginning of this future claims, since a 19 future claims representative has participated been very, very 20 concerned about the methodology of arriving at this number 21 considering the on-the-ground reality of states which allow 22 repressed memory and the number of juveniles who -- people 23 under the age of 18, who are -- would not have filed given 24 the nature of the criminal justice system as it's been 25 applied in the last 3 to 5 years with regard to

1 organizational -- abuse in organizations like the Boy Scouts 2 whereas back in the 60s, 70s, 80s, 90s, the numbers of 3 reports of sexual abuse that were -- that were reported to 4 law enforcement were less, the numbers now according to law
5 enforcement research, et cetera, at least in institutions,
6 not in family matters has significantly been altered. So I
7 hope we would have a -- echoing perhaps Mr. Schiavoni's 8 comments we would have an opportunity in some way to have an 9 evidentiary hearing on the way in which this number was 10 formulated because, again, purely in my opinion I think those 11 numbers are way, way off.

12 MR. LINDER: Your Honor, if I could briefly 13 respond. Our understanding is that this analysis, again, is 14 preliminary. Ankura is the FCR's valuation expert. With 15 respect to substantiating the value, that's obviously 16 something that we would expect to happen at confirmation.

17 THE COURT: I think there will be discovery on it.

18 MR. MONES: Thank you, Your Honor.

19 MR. STANG: Your Honor, may I make a comment on 20 this?

21 THE COURT: Yes, Mr. Stang.

22 MR. STANG: Your Honor, first of all, whatever is 23 going to be expressed in terms of the FCR's opinion should 24 not be in percentages, it should be dollar amounts or number 25 of people. One shouldn't have to go back and compute

1 percentages. There's just no reason. But we received a 2 draft redline of the plan a little past midnight on Monday.

3 It was not marked confidential. It was not marked 4 subject to the mediation privilege, and that e-mail or in 5 that draft redline, it said that the FCR estimates there are 6 11,300 future claims and 5.055 billion dollars in value.

7 Now, I'm not a math whiz but 5 billion dollars is 8 more than 21 percent of the high-end range of the debtor's 9 estimates at 7 billion. So when they say percentage of 10 value, I have no idea what the value means.

11 And I have a communication. I presume it came 12 from the debtor that the FCR was estimating these claims at 13 11,300 people and 5.055 billion dollars.

14 Would someone please explain to me how we got from 15 Monday at 12:40 a.m. with those numbers to what we just 16 heard?

17 MR. LINDER: Your Honor, before the FCR responds, 18 what I would note is that my understanding is the FCR does 19 not adopt the debtor's estimation. It does not adopt our 20 range of values, just to respond to Mr. Stang's comment. But 21 with respect to the propriety of how the estimation is 22 expressed, I would defer to the FCR.

23 MR. SMOLA: Your Honor, can I just be heard for 24 just very briefly? I think this should be a very simple 25 disclosure. How many future claims are projected in terms of 1 numbers? How many of those are repressed memory claims, 2 meaning claims that can come from policies in the 70s and 3 80s? How many of them are minor claims? We heard the FCR 4 earlier saying they felt many of these were minor claims that 5 would be fully insured. Is it 8,000 minor claims? Is it 200

6 minor claims? What is the projection, and what is the total 7 estimate for future liability?

8 It's relevant for two reasons in disclosure. One 9 is where do these claims fall in the insurance picture? Are 10 they for minors who were abused in the last decade, or are 11 they going back to the Hartford era, Century era, and other 12 non-aggregate limits? And, two, it may dictate how the FCR
13 discovery goes. If there is 11,000 claims, that discovery 14 may need to be robust. If it's much less than that, it may 15 not need to be so robust. So I think a simple disclosure 16 will -- will put us on the right path in my view.

17 MR. BRADY: Your Honor, Robert Brady for the FCR.
18 Both of those statements are correct, what Mr. Stang saw in a 19 black line and what the debtors propose to put in now. So we 20 can express this in either way.

21 I think the debtor preferred percentages.

22 But we do expect this to be the subject of 23 discovery, and we are prepared to sit down with the TCC, the 24 coalition, and anyone else who wants to understand the 25 methodology and we'll present that to them. But we always

1 expect that this would be a confirmation issue, and we're 2 making the disclosure now because the Court asked us to. And 3 we understood that the Court asked us to list the number of 4 claims and the amount.

5 The fact is Mr. Stang has said these claims are 6 worth over $100 billion. The debtor believes they are 7 somewhere between 2 and 7, and the FCR has his own view as to 8 what the value of the claims are.

9 THE COURT: Okay. So let's --

10 MR. LINDER: Your Honor, just to be clear on the 11 percentage versus the dollar amount, the reason the debtors 12 prefer the only apples-to-apples comparison that can be made 13 is with respect to numbers of claims given the disparity
14 between the FCR's valuation number and the debtor's valuation
15 number. Doing a percentage allows an apples-to-apples 16 comparison to be made.

17 MR. STANG: Your Honor, I'm just not sure what the 18 apples are. It's 14 percent of the value if it's $5 billion.
19 If my math is right, it's $25 billion in claims because 20 that's 20 percent, 5 percent is 20 -- that's the math, I 21 guess. I guess I just don't understand what the value means.

22 I understand the people because we know there's 23 82,200 some odd. That's easy. I just don't understand the 24 value side of it. Just give us the number like Mr. Smola 25 suggested.

1 THE COURT: I don't understand it either. I wrote
2 it down, but I wasn't quite sure what it -- what it meant or 3 what it was correlated to. And so, Mr. Brady, it's 21
4 percent of value, whatever that value happens to be? Is 5 that -- is that what Ankura's opinion is, or do they have an 6 opinion on a number?

7 MR. BRADY: They have run the claims through the 8 TDPs, and they have an opinion on the value of the claims run 9 through the TDPs.

10 THE COURT: So it's as run through the TDPs?

11 MR. BRADY: Correct.

12 THE COURT: Okay with some, I suppose analysis as 13 to what they think are the appropriate scaling factors?

14 MR. BRADY: Correct.

15 THE COURT: Just explain that in a sentence and 16 give out the numbers.

17 MR. LINDER: We will work with the FCR, Your 18 Honor, to do that.

19 THE COURT: Thank you.

20 MR. ROSENTHAL: So, Your Honor?

21 THE COURT: Mr. Rosenthal?

22 MR. ROSENTHAL: Yes, it's Michael Rosenthal of 23 Gibson Dunn. So what the FCR is going to give is -- is -- is 24 an aggregate number, a percentage, and the actual -- the 25 actual number of claims, an aggregate value and the

1 percentage of that value to a total value, all three of those 2 things. Is that what we're looking for? I heard 11,300
3 claims. I heard $5 billion, and I heard $5 billion 4 represents 21 percent of something.

5 THE COURT: That sounds -- you could put the 6 percentages in. That's fine, and that one sentence or so on 7 just what Mr. Brady explained. Then it's discovery.

8 MR. LINDER: With that, Your Honor, I propose to 9 move on to the next, the second of the four categories.

10 THE COURT: Yes.

11 MR. LINDER: That is the plain English summary
12 document. This is -- this is a document that was actually 13 appended to the revised solicitation procedures order that we 14 filed, docket 6386-1. I'm raising it in the context of the 15 disclosure statement, Your Honor, because Mr. Ryan had 16 suggested that it would be an efficient means, an effective 17 means of communicating with charter organizations with 18 respect to information contained in the disclosure statement.

19 And, Your Honor, this was exhibit 12, and that 20 starts at page 243 of 256 if you're looking at the stamp at 21 the top.

22 THE COURT: Page 243, okay.

23 MR. LINDER: Your Honor, we spent a good portion 24 of our day on Friday and Saturday, the debtors did, working 25 with the ad hoc committee of local councils preparing the

1 draft that is appended to the revised solicitation procedures
2 order. We sent this draft in substantially this form to all
3 of the objecting parties including Mr. Ryan and the other 4 representatives of charter organizations. We sent that on 5 Saturday afternoon. We then sent a further revised version
6 to all parties including Mr. Ryan on Monday.

7 Last night at about 7 p.m. Central Time we 8 received preliminary comments from Mr. Ryan, and we made good 9 faith efforts after we received those to incorporate as many 10 comments as we could, given the time constraints and the 11 number of documents we were working to file.

12 The document that's before Your Honor is -- it's 13 about a ten-page document, and it's comprised of four items.
14 The first is -- is about nine pages of frequently asked 15 questions regarding the treatment, I don't know if treatment 16 is the right word, but the effect of the plan on charter 17 organizations with respect to what we view as their three 18 options under the plan.

19 The first is to become a participating charter
20 organization, and that is the "default" option. The second 21 is to negotiate a settlement by which they can become a 22 contributing chartered organization, and then the last is to 23 opt out of that treatment assuming that the charter 24 organization is not a debtor in bankruptcy.

25 So we've set forth several FAQ on each of those

1 options, a table at the back of the document that attempts to 2 summarize the three options on a single page, as best we can 3 in terms of what the contribution that's required to be made 4 by those charter organizations and the protections that the 5 charter organizations would receive under the plan for each 6 option.

7 There's also an opt out election form. Mr. Ryan 8 had requested that rather than the more informal method of 9 contacting the debtors to opt out of becoming a participating 10 (inaudible) that there actually be something that looked more 11 like a ballot that could be opted out, that could be 12 submitted as an opt out.

13 We've prepared that. That would be -- that is 14 proposed to be remitted to our claims and noticing agent.

15 And, finally, we would propose to append to the 16 summary and FAQ a confirmation hearing notice so that parties 17 know what the relevant objection deadlines are and the 18 proposed date for the hearing on confirmation of the plan. I 19 understand from communications with Mr. Ryan during the 20 hearing, Your Honor, that there are a number of items that he 21 would propose be added to this document. We've been trying 22 to balance the desire, Your Honor, to have this be a concise 23 and effective summary against what we view as a risk of this 24 taking on a life of its own and becoming in essence a mini 25 version of the disclosure statement. The disclosure

1 statement has already been heavily negotiated.

2 So what I'd propose to do, Your Honor, is to in an 3 attempt to make sure all the information that Mr. Ryan 4 believes should be included in this document is included is 5 to add a section perhaps before the chart that and some of 6 the examples of what Mr. Ryan would like articulated in this 7 document are voting, means by which holders of indirect abuse
8 claims, most of which are charter organizations can vote 9 their claims be effective, the releases and injunctions on 10 charter organizations, et cetera.

11 What I would propose to do would be to add a 12 section that bullet points out some of those items and cross-13 references the disclosure statement and where those -- where 14 all of those items, all of which have been articulated in the 15 disclosure statements can be found.

16 All of the indirect claim holders, indirect abuse 17 claim holders who are charter organizations will be receiving 18 the disclosure statement as part of their solicitation 19 package, so from our perspective, we think that is an 20 appropriate way to balance the charter organization's desire 21 for a one stop shop for all of this information against this 22 document again taking on a life of its own.

23 THE COURT: Mr. Ryan?

24 MR. RYAN: Thank you, Your Honor. We do -- we 25 do -- first, we commend a lot of effort went into getting

1 something into -- an effort to put into plain English. You
2 know, what our hope is and what we thought the Court agreed 3 with was that charter organizations need something that gives 4 them the entirety of what they're being asked to decide on in 5 plain English. And there's -- there's two components to 6 that. One is the three options for the releases and the 7 treatment with respect to all chartered organizations, and 8 also the creditors, and there are 16,000 creditors needed to 9 understand that part of the disclosure statement in plain 10 English as well.

11 So, addressing half of -- half the loaf, and then 12 giving them a key that points them back to the disclosure 13 statement in our view is -- just falls a little short. I 14 understand the concern of not wanting a 50-page document, 15 but, you know, we gave them a turn that we think has a lot of 16 those concepts in 10 pages. We think it can be done. We 17 think we're losing the goal of plain English if we say, hey, 18 there's going to be some maybe consensual, maybe not 19 consensual third- party releases. Here, go look in the 20 disclosure statement for where they're discussed, and then 21 you're going to find a whole lot of defined terms that you're 22 going to have to go into a plan to understand. It's just 23 leading them down the rabbit hole that we're trying to avoid, 24 which is these are not sophisticated people who don't 25 understand legal documents and not to have them wade through

1 a disclosure statement which requires page flipping back to a 2 plan to read one definition, to read another definition.

3 We think we can get this all in there in plain
4 English simply. There are a lot of very important concepts
5 that aren't in right now. Most notably, it doesn't speak 6 anything about the 16,000 charter organizations that have to 7 vote, that are entitled to vote.

8 It doesn't say anything about the third-party 9 releases, consensual or non-consensual and those things need 10 to be in a plain English document. Those are some of the 11 most important things that are going to be going on with 12 respect to a chartered organization. There's a whole list of 13 other things, Your Honor, that I could run through at a high 14 level that it doesn't have. I think probably, Your Honor, 15 and I'm expecting that based on where this was in the revised 16 proposed solicitation procedures order, you haven't looked at 17 what the debtors have done either.

18 Perhaps the simplest thing to do to save everyone 19 a lot of time on this is you have what the debtor submitted.
20 We'll be happy to -- to send something over to the Court 21 under a notice of filing of what we think can be done, and 22 Your Honor can take a look at those two. And if you have 23 some discreet questions between the two, you know, this thing 24 is not getting printed tomorrow. We have time tomorrow. We 25 can have a much more discreet hearing with less than 260

1 people. This is not an issue that affects the vast majority 2 of people who are on this line, and that gives the Court the 3 time to not have us negotiate line by line but just see two 4 different presentations. Ultimately, both of them asked and 5 say that it's a court-approved document, so let the Court -- 6 you know, we'll live with what the Court chooses.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Why don't you submit what you
8 want and I'll take a look at it, but are the chartered 9 organizations with their creditor hat on going to receive 10 another plain English document that --

11 MR. RYAN: No.

12 THE COURT: -- deals with --

13 MR. RYAN: No, Your Honor, this is the only - - 14 that -- and that is part of the problem. This is the only 15 plain English document the debtor is proposing to send out.
16 And the genesis of this was chartered organizations need to 17 know everything that affects them in plain English. So, 18 again, that is my half a loaf comment is telling them about 19 the options under the plan with respect to releases, and 20 claims, and channeling, and contributions, it completely 21 doesn't tell them about their -- their rights as creditors, 22 the effect of signing the ballot, what happens if they don't 23 opt out of the consensual releases.

24 None of that's in there in plain English, and 25 that's exactly the kinds of things that we think creditors

1 need to know. Chartered organizations need to know as 2 creditors casting a ballot.

3 THE COURT: Okay. I'll take a look at what you 4 submit.

5 MR. RYAN: Thank you, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Mr. Schiavoni?

7 MR. SCHIAVONI: Your Honor, I'm happy that maybe 8 I'll have an opportunity to give my final round of comments
9 to Mr. Ryan this evening, and then either he'll include them 10 or you can look at them. Two critical elements of this 11 that's not really there is really an explanation of in the 12 Hartford settlement there's a clause that says that 13 Hartford's coverage is going to be released. There's just no 14 disclosure really of what that means in this settlement.

15 There's the same thing with regard to in the 16 Hartford settlement the deemed release that's to be part of 17 the TDP that's a condition of the Hartford settlement, 18 there's no disclosure of what that means here either. And 19 it's like the most fundamental thing that strikes me as wrong 20 with that is that you've really got to go to Page 4 of what 21 is a dense single-spaced document to realize that you're not 22 getting, you're left un protected and that there's 35,000 23 claims going to be coming at you and no one is representing 24 you in the bankruptcy.

25 I mean Mr. Ryan is like carrying a big load, but

1 there's no committee, there's no one representing them, and 2 you know to the extent some of these folks maybe think, you 3 know, I don't want anybody to be pointing at like the 4 carriers are representing them.

5 So I think it should be clear that they're un -- 6 you know, they're unrepresented, and the net result of this 7 death trap provision is that they're -- it's like even under 8 the election or the -- the -- the negative assignment, 9 they're left uncovered, you know, for all these claims.

10 So it's just, you know, it seems like the very 11 first question is, is the effect of the plan, will it release
12 me, and the answer is no. Local counsels get full release, 13 and you don't. You don't have counsel in the case, but I 14 will give those comments to Mr. Ryan and we'll see what 15 happens.

16 MR. RYAN: And, Your Honor, we'll welcome those 17 from Mr. Schiavoni. I will say, I didn't want to go into 18 this, but the lack of disclosures regarding the Hartford 19 settlement are one of our biggest concerns.

20 You know, the document right now doesn't tell 21 people, it says, hey, you'll have your insurance rights. It 22 doesn't tell them the Hartford rights are gone. It doesn't, 23 you know, and there's been a substantial movement in some of 24 the things, Your Honor, but we know from Boy Scouts own -- 25 they've taken positions on pre- 1976 local counsel insurance

1 coverage and whether it -- it covered chartered 2 organizations. If you look at the first version of the 3 latest disclosure statement, it said there's no coverage for 4 you guys.

5 You know, we know from the Boy Scouts own 6 documents that 300 local councils participated over an eight-7 year period in a blanket policy that covered charter 8 organizations. So there's concerns about that. Now, that 9 has been fixed, but one of our concerns has been that there's 10 been a lack of adequate diligence into some of the things 11 that under the rubric of the Boy Scouts believe -- well, the 12 Boy Scouts believed until we pointed them to their own data 13 room that there was very little coverage for local -- for 14 chartered organizations under the local counsel policies.

15 You know, Mr. Linder had said to you last week 16 that, you know, the Boy Scouts never agreed to defend and 17 indemnify chartered organizations. There is a resolution of 18 Boy Scouts in response to the handling of sexual abuse claims 19 that says Boy Scouts shall defend and indemnify against 20 claims, and that was specifically enacted with respect to 21 abuse claims. And it was not a go forward defend and 22 indemnify. It was any claim regardless of when time was 23 occurred.

24 So there is that kind of lack of Folsom disclosure 25 that concerns us that is -- we only know what we know as far

1 as what beliefs are there. I mean there's a whole
2 representation as to what the Boy Scouts believe chartered 3 organizations thought 60 years ago about a charitable 4 doctrine of immunity.

5 Things like that don't need to be in there, but,
6 you know, I think if you look at the evolution, there's been 7 some improvement but that shouldn't have to be the parties 8 say, hey, your own documents.

9 There's a corporate resolution that says, you will 10 defend and indemnify. It should just say we agree to defend 11 and indemnify you, and as Mr. Schiavoni mentions, we want to 12 make clear that people -- just saying you're still exposed to 13 lawsuits in the court system, people need to know you can't 14 defend on boy scouts to honor their prior promises. Those 15 things need to be clear.

16 That's not a -- that's not a belief. Those are 17 facts, and those need to be prominently disclosed to people 18 because they've always been subject to sexual abuse claims.
19 But what they need to know is that the Boy Scouts are no 20 longer going to defend and indemnify them.

21 Those kinds of things need to be made clear that 22 they won't have insurance from the Hartford.

23 That's what we need to get out to these people in 24 plain English. Thank you.

25 MR. LINDER: Your Honor, I would just ask that

1 if -- if there's going to be a submission by Mr. Ryan that we 2 impose some parameters on when that -- when that might be 3 filed, just in the interest of finalizing our documents.

4 THE COURT: Well, I don't know. Everything is 5 last minute. People are working as quickly as they can.
6 Debtors are. Other people are. He said he'd do it at some 7 point tonight. We'll look at it tomorrow. That's all I can 8 ask.

9 MR. ROSENTHAL: And, Your Honor, I only have my 10 hand up because I would hope that Mr. Ryan would include us 11 in those discussions, please.

12 MR. RYAN: Absolutely, Mr. Rosenthal.

13 THE COURT: This is clearly an important issue, 14 and it's -- and it's an issue that really only surfaced in 15 court in a significant way recently so --

16 MR. RYAN: And, Your Honor, I know I said tonight, 17 but I'm already looking at 6:40, so it may be tomorrow 18 morning. I will tell you that.

19 THE COURT: I'm not staying up waiting for it, 20 so --

21 MR. RYAN: I appreciate that. You know, our 22 clients have the resources they have. We don't have, you 23 know, go to trial in 20 day resources like some of the other 24 people on this call.

25 THE COURT: I know, but, no, my only point is this

1 is a very important issue, these chartered organizations and 2 their ability to understand what's happening, especially 3 given the way this is structured. And as with many things in 4 this case, it's complex and I don't know that there's a lot 5 of precedent for this.

6 So communications with the chartered organizations
7 really need to be helpful. That doesn't mean add another 50 8 pages to it. I don't know that that makes it helpful, but 9 they need -- it needs to be helpful so that they understand 10 what's going on.

11 MR. MONES: Your Honor, could I have 30 seconds, 12 please?

13 THE COURT: Mr. Mones?

14 MR. MONES: I would just refer the Court to Dale 15 versus Boy Scouts of America, which is a 2000 United States 16 Supreme Court decision that gave the Boy Scouts of America 17 the right to exclude gay scout leaders.

18 Part of that decision was that the Boy Scouts of 19 America control the hiring, firing, and even to that point, 20 sexual preference of the scout leaders gave no discretion to 21 the charter organizations or to the counsels in this regard 22 with regard to the Boy Scout's control over the core issue of 23 scouting, which is the identity of the scout leaders.

24 So I would just offer to the Court in evaluating 25 this in the future because it's been a centerpiece of the Boy

1 Scout's liability over the last 16 to 18 years in state court
2 litigation that the United States Supreme Court at least has 3 decided at least partially about this issue about the duty
4 owed by and the control of the Boy Scouts of America over 5 their charter organizations since the charter organizations
6 do select the scout leader. Thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Next?

8 MR. LINDER: Next, Your Honor, we have the third 9 issue, which is that we've been advised by Mr. Patterson that 10 the revised description of the source (inaudible) waiting is 11 in his view not clear and appears to be contrary to the 12 representation that only affected claimants would receive 13 shares of non-BSA- sourced assets. Your Honor, the language 14 that he's referencing is on page 240 of the red-line 15 document.

16 MR. PATTERSON: It's on page 6385-2, yeah,
17 page 240. Thank you, yeah.

18 THE COURT: I have to switch documents.
19 Okay, thank you.

20 MR. LINDER: And you'll recall, Your Honor, that 21 last week it was noted that the language only used the term
22 in part with respect to the non-BSA-sourced assets. It only 23 referenced part of those assets being allocated among holders 24 of claims that relate to the -- the source of the assets 25 being attributed.

1 And -- and -- and we were specifically we were 2 discussing the TCJC settlement. We've revised that, Your 3 Honor, to provide that it's either all or in part those 4 assets are being contributed to the trust and then being used 5 to pay holders of claims, again, that relate to the 6 contributor in question. I think that is now clear. The 7 only instance in which the TCJC contribution under this 8 revised provision, which just parenthetically, Your Honor, is 9 really a recitation of what is now in the revised trust 10 distribution procedures on the same topic.

11 The only instance in which the funds would be used
12 to pay claimants other than TCJC claimants is if as a 13 predicate all TCJC claimants were -- their claims were all 14 satisfied in full from those proceeds, and then the 15 overage -- I think it's the last sentence of this -- this 16 provision in blue, if there's a remainder after the 17 satisfactions of all relevant holders, then that remainder 18 shall be distributed to all holders of abuse, allowed abuse 19 claims in accordance with their payment percentage.

20 THE COURT: Okay. So I get that sentence, that 21 last sentence, but what does all or in part mean?

22 MR. RYAN: Your Honor, what I understand it to 23 mean is that we really don't know what the terms of a future
24 settlement with another organization might provide for. So 25 this is intended to permit flexibility with respect to

1 further settlements. The TCJC settlement is predicated on 2 those proceeds going only to TCJC claims with the remainder 3 being distributed to other claimants if there is any. But 4 this is intended to preserve that flexibility in the event
5 that further settlements provide for different terms.

6 THE COURT: Mr. Patterson, what's your concern?

7 MR. PATTERSON: Well, is there a statement
8 somewhere in the disclosure statement that the TCJC proceeds 9 will be used only to pay TCJC claimants up to the full value 10 of their claims?

11 MR. RYAN: Your Honor, I believe where we put that 12 and for the front we have summary bullets. This is on page 13 14 of the redline, and it is at the top of page 14 there is 14 a -- a new sentence that states that the TCJC contribution 15 will pay claimants with a claim against TCJC in addition to a 16 pro rata share of trust expenses.

17 MR. PATTERSON: I didn't read that to be 18 exclusive, and then when I read the source affected waiting 19 language that said in whole or in part, I read them as 20 consistent with each other. But if the intent is on page 14
21 that -- that it's only, then I would ask that it's TCJC's 22 contribution will go to pay only abuse claimants with a claim 23 against TCJC.

24 MR. RYAN: That's fine with us, Your Honor. We're 25 happy to make that change to clarify.

1 MR. PATTERSON: But with that, I understand there
2 is no flexibility with regard to TCJC other than with regard 3 to an overage, and there is flexibility with regard to any 4 future settlement.

5 THE COURT: That's how I understand it now. Okay.
6 I think that fixes that problem.

7 MR. RYAN: Correct.

8 And, Your Honor, that brings us just to the last 9 category, which is really a catch-all. We would just note 10 for the record that we've been conforming changes to the 11 disclosure statement to reflect changes to the solicitation 12 procedures, and we'll continue to do that. And so there may 13 be further changes on that front. It's not really a disputed 14 category, but I wanted to note it for the record that our 15 further revised version of the disclosure statement will -- 16 will account for anything else that's discussed on the record 17 today or tomorrow.

18 THE COURT: Okay. So what do we have for 19 tomorrow?

20 MR. PATTERSON: Your Honor, I just -- before we 21 finish, I had one other comment regarding the plan and 22 disclosure statement.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. PATTERSON: And it goes to -- the easiest 25 place to see it is I'm in document 6385-1, PDF page 12 of 1 416. And it's the definition of abuse claim.

2 THE COURT: So that's in the plan?

3 MR. PATTERSON: Yeah, it's in the plan, Your
4 Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I don't have the docket items
6 on here. Plan page 12?

7 MR. PATTERSON: Your Honor, it's definition 18.
8 It's on page 4 of my version.

9 THE COURT: Definition 18, abuse. Okay.

10 MR. PATTERSON: So I'm -- my concern with regard 11 to this definition is two-fold, and this deals with whether 12 or not the release, which uses the term "abuse claim" is 13 broader than the Court indicated as being confined to 14 scouting-related activities.

15 So my first concern is that and the architecture 16 of this definition is that the first 12 or so lines down to 17 the provided, however, those first 12 lines that's just -- 18 that is what applies to the debtor, and then the proviso 19 introduces the concept of what this application of this 20 definition of abuse to protected parties, chartered 21 organizations and so forth or just chartered organization -- 22 contributing chartered organizations to begin with.

23 And the way that proviso works is it says that 24 provided, however, with respect to a contributing chartered 25 organization, abuse claim is limited to and then there was a

1 whole series of provisions. It's limited to a claim that's 2 attributable to, arises from or based upon in whole or in 3 part abuse that took place occurred prior to the petition
4 date. And I'm concerned with that in whole or in part 5 because of some of the claims, and this is, ultimately, Your 6 Honor, a confirmation issue. But we're going to get to 7 confirmation and we're going to be making this argument, and 8 I just want to be clear if this is the release that the 9 debtor wants to go out with, then that's the definition they 10 want to go out with.

11 So that's the first concern. And the second is 12 when it says that is limited to a claim that's attributable 13 to --

14 UNIDENTIFIED: Do you need the papers to deal with 15 this or --

16 THE COURT: Excuse me, Mr. Patterson. I'm hearing
17 somebody's cross conversation, we're all hearing it.

18 Mr. Patterson, yeah?

19 MR. PATTERSON: Thank you, Your Honor. It has a 20 series of includings, so the first one is about five lines 21 down, including a claim that seeks monetary damages, 22 including fraud and the inducement, including negligent 23 hiring, including any theory, and this is the key one, 24 including any theory based on public policy or failure to act
25 by a protected party and so on and so forth, or for whom a

1 protected party or limited protected party is alleged to be 2 responsible in connection in whole or in part with the 3 contributing charter organizations involvement in or 4 sponsorship of one or more scouting units. The -- as I read 5 the grammar of this section, the limitation of involvement in 6 the scouting units is applicable only to the prior including 7 any theory based upon, but not applicable to the entire 8 proviso.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I had to write on 10 something like this once. I think it was on a dip document, 11 what did the proviso mean, and what did it relate back to,
12 and, you know, pulling out Scalia's book on -- shoot, what's 13 the one he and Garner have on different --

14 UNIDENTIFIED: Yeah.

15 THE COURT: Yeah, that one, and, you know, we 16 don't want to end up in that situation. So I would ask the 17 parties to look at the definition of abuse claim to make sure 18 that it or its use in the releases is clear that there is no
19 non-BSA-related activity or conduct that is being released
20 here because I think that is just basic to what we're doing.

21 And if there is a protected party that has 22 exposure or liability and I'm not prejudging any of that, but 23 they have exposure in more than one capacity in a BSA-related 24 and a non-BSA- related, that the non-BSA-related conduct is 25 not being released. It's not being included here.

1 MR. PATTERSON: And just given the way that these 2 documents inter-relate with each other, I mean it's 3 frequently the case that you put a sentence like that in.

4 THE COURT: Yeah. It may be the -- I hate these 5 sentences, too, for the avoidance of doubt or notwithstanding 6 the above, or, you know, all the sentences we hate that are 7 qualified, but it might be very necessary in this context to 8 be clear on that.

9 MR. LINDER: I think what I'd propose to do, Your 10 Honor, and I'm happy to work with Mr. Patterson on this is to 11 move that qualification relating to involvement in or 12 sponsorship of scouting units that key nexus between the 13 abuse and scouting, to move that up to maybe right after the 14 proviso to make it apply to everything that comes after or 15 otherwise to make it -- make it work better because we 16 certainly don't want any implication that we're hiding the 17 ball or otherwise constructing this provision to accomplish 18 something that I think you represented last week we're not 19 trying to accomplish. We're only (inaudible) in scouting-20 related claims.

21 MR. PATTERSON: That certainly helps, and it takes 22 away my opportunity to argue the -- the rule of the prior 23 antecedent or the last antecedent.

24 THE COURT: Yeah, whatever that is.

25 MR. PATTERSON: Whatever that is, exactly.

1 But -- but even with that, Your Honor, when we 2 have these terms that say arises from, is based upon, results 3 from in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, or relates 4 in any way, that -- we -- we -- I think we would benefit from 5 having the stop sign as well because this definition can take 6 you a long way before you stop if you don't understand the 7 Court's intention that this is not intended to apply to non-8 scouting-related abuse.

9 THE COURT: Right. I -- I do think that it would 10 be helpful. You know, you -- this is one sentence that's a 11 page, and I think it would be helpful if -- well, fix this 12 however best grammatically it works to accurately reflect 13 what we're talking about. But I also think it would be 14 helpful to have a separate sentence from this definition that 15 makes it crystal clear that no non-BSA-related conduct is 16 being released. I think that is really helpful, and it will 17 be helpful down the line, and I think it's non-18 controversial. So let's just make sure it says that.

19 MR. BJORK: Your Honor, may I be heard very 20 briefly? Jeff Bjork from Latham and Watkins.

21 THE COURT: Mr. Bjork?

22 MR. BJORK: Hi. Here on behalf of TCJC. I'm 23 happy to look at the language because I think in part it's 24 our language that we've been working with the debtor on. I 25 would just say that in terms of the unrelated to scouting

1 absolutely is not covered, not intended to be covered by the 2 scope of the TCJC injunction. But the settlement does 3 encompass any allocated liability that relates to scouting-4 related conduct.

5 All I'm raising, Your Honor, is it's complicated
6 because it's -- it's claim by claim, fact by fact, and I
7 don't want to get into it right now because it's late for you
8 especially. But it is something that I was going to call 9 Mr. Patterson about and we're speaking to Mr. Smola about 10 because it's not -- it has to encompass our allocated share 11 as part of the settlement. And so there's mixed facts 12 depending upon the claimant and the claim. Every claim that 13 was filed in this case asserts it's BSA related.

14 And they may also, certain claims, assert that 15 there is some church connection as well.

16 THE COURT: Yes.

17 MR. BJORK: That's fact-specific.

18 THE COURT: Yes.

19 MR. BJORK: So I'm not trying to prejudge it now.
20 I'm just saying it's something that we would want to brief to 21 you and -- and -- and argue at the appropriate time.

22 MR. PATTERSON: If that's the case, that could be 23 fairly straightforward, because then you would take out in 24 whole or in part, and you would just define the -- allocable
25 liability. And keep in mind, Your Honor, I'm not consenting

1 to any of this. I'm just trying to make it accurate or 2 understandable for -- for someone like me.

3 MR. BJORK: I think our concern, Mr. Patterson 4 is --

5 THE COURT: He says modestly. So I'll let the two 6 of you all speak and --

7 MR. BJORK: Okay.

8 THE COURT: -- loop in the debtors obviously on 9 this, but, yes, we had sort of a similar discussion I guess 10 it was last week that about allocable shares. And I -- that 11 concept I fully appreciate, and, yes, if some jury were to 12 say 10 percent is allocable to BSA and 70 percent is 13 allocable to the church, and, you know, whatever is left, 20
14 percent is allocable to some family member, that's -- I 15 understand those distinctions, and I think that is what this 16 needs to reflect.

17 But, yes, the allocable share of the church's 18 liability that's BSA-related, I understand to be being 19 released, and I don't think Mr. Patterson disagrees with 20 that. So it just has to be accurately reflected.

21 Hopefully I didn't confuse things more on that.

22 MR. PATTERSON: Crystal clear.

23 MR. BJORK: Tom, I'll call you shortly.

24 THE COURT: Okay. What else?

25 MR. LINDER: I think that's it, Your Honor, on

1 disclosure statement.

2 THE COURT: Okay. So --

3 MR. SCHIAVONI: I'm sorry, Mr. -- Your Honor, 4 there was a schedule of insurance policies that was going to 5 be added to the disclosure statement. I'm just not sure 6 whether you ended up adding the -- a column for the SIRs and 7 the deductibles to it.

8 MR. LINDER: Your Honor, we did file revised 9 schedules to -- those are schedules to the plan, schedule 2 10 and schedule 3. We made extensive modifications to those 11 schedules.

12 THE COURT: I would ask that you take a look at 13 it, Mr. Schiavoni. I do remember quickly thumbing through 14 schedules that had changes to them. Why don't you take a 15 look, and if there's any issue contact Mr. Linder.

16 MR. LINDER: I think the issue on that, Your 17 Honor, and I'm recalling that correspondence that we had with 18 Mr. Schiavoni, is that the SIRs and deductibles as opposed to 19 the other projected information that's set forth on that 20 chart are disputed.

21 So I believe what we did is we dropped footnotes
22 in an appropriate place indicating that those are disputed 23 issues among debtors and certain carriers. So from our 24 perspective I don't believe it would be appropriate to try to 25 shoehorn that into the chart that was just intended to 1 contain objective information with regards to the policy.

2 MR. SCHIAVONI: But, Your Honor, it's my 3 understanding and it's like I -- it's like I'm reading as 4 fast as I can, but it's my understanding that a change was 5 made to the plan or maybe it was the disclosure statement, in 6 connection with Zurich and others that modified the 7 description of the SIRs and then sort of adopted the -- that 8 there are, in fact, SIRs.

9 So if that's the case, and, again, we can try to 10 look at it overnight and deal with Mr. Linder tomorrow about 11 it, but they should be described and if just to, quote, 12 dispute whether other things are SIRs or deductibles. It 13 seems like if you're going to present, you know, occurrence
14 limits, you might as well, it's like it's totally misleading
15 not to present the retain limits and the deductibles. It -- 16 it -- it gives a completely misleading presentation of the 17 chart.

18 MR. LINDER: I would note, Your Honor, that my 19 colleague, Adrian Azer, who is with Hanes and Boone, BSA's 20 insurance coverage counsel is available to address this issue 21 as well to the extent --

22 MR. AZER: Your Honor, may I be heard briefly on 23 this?

24 THE COURT: Mr. Azer?

25 MR. AZER: Going to Mr. Schiavoni's point, we and

1 the FCR and the coalition did negotiate language with Zurich
2 and certain insurers on this issue. I don't think there was 3 any concession as to the existence of the SIR. Again, going 4 to Mr. Schiavoni's point and Your Honor's comment, to the 5 extent, Mr. Schiavoni you would like to talk about it we are 6 certainly happy to go off line and address that language and 7 address any comments you have to the schedule and try to work
8 through it and come to some resolution that's acceptable.

9 But, yeah, I'm not sure the language we negotiated 10 with Zurich made that concession.

11 Ms. Quinn -- I don't know if Ms. Quinn has any 12 further addition on that.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Well, Mr. Schiavoni, I'll let 14 you talk to Mr. Azer about this. I want to make sure you 15 have a chance to look at the language and look at the chart, 16 which I'm looking at, and let's see if that can be worked 17 out.

18 MR. SCHIAVONI: Terrific.

19 THE COURT: If not, I'll address it tomorrow.

20 MR. SCHIAVONI: Great.

21 MR. LINDER: Now I think we're done, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay. So tomorrow we may have some 23 cats and dogs disclosure statement, but I also have 24 confidence that you all are going to resolve all of this 25 overnight, and then what else?

1 MR. LINDER: I Believe the last remaining category
2 is -- is the solicitation procedures order, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Okay. So that, the solicitation
4 procedures order, and the plain English, which might be 5 included in that, the plain English charter -- chartering 6 organization issues we've talked through?

7 MR. LINDER: Correct, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

9 MR. STANG: Your Honor?

10 THE COURT: Mr. Stang?

11 MR. STANG: The TCC, on its own behalf, and the 12 FCR and the coalition jointly have filed proposed letters. I 13 am extremely sensitive to editing someone's letter because I 14 don't want them to edit mine, but there is one statement in 15 the FCR coalition letter that I think is really inaccurate.

16 And I don't know if you want to -- it's literally 17 one sentence. And if you wanted to do that now, we could, or 18 if that's part of the solicitation, tomorrow.

19 THE COURT: Have you all discussed it? Have you 20 discussed it with them?

21 MR. STANG: We -- we -- I have not, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Then I'd like you to discuss it with 23 them first.

24 MR. STANG: Okay.

25 THE COURT: Okay. I'm just making a list.

1 So the proposed letters, the plain English,
2 chartering organizations, the solicitation procedures,
3 meaning disclosure statement. That should be it. Okay.

4 MR. ABBOTT: Your Honor, Derek Abbott, as long as 5 we're talking about tomorrow, Ms. Johnson had asked us to 6 remind all of the parties that the Zoom information that they 7 used for today's hearing is what they should use for 8 tomorrow.

9 We understood the Court had reserved noon on in 10 the afternoon, but there might be some greater specificity 11 that the Court could share with us at this point.

12 THE COURT: Yeah. I've got a morning evidentiary 13 hearing so we're going to start at 1:30.

14 And I think I will be on time. If I find out that 15 I am going to be significantly late, I will let you know, but 16 I think that should do it from what counsel in the matter is 17 telling me and my own guesstimation.

18 MR. ABBOTT: Very well. Thank you, Your Honor.
19 Much appreciated.

20 THE COURT: So you'll have some additional time, 21 not to come up with more issues but to resolve the issues we 22 have on the table that are remaining. No more new issues.

23 MR. RYAN: Your Honor, the only -- the only thing
24 I would say is some of us are going to have to leave 25 relatively mid-afternoon to late afternoon to catch flights

1 for the mediation in New York.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Shoot. Okay. Let's -- let's 3 say 12:30, instead of 1:30. That gives us an additional 4 hour, but I'm hoping that should be enough.

5 MR. RYAN: Thank you.

6 THE COURT: Because I certainly want people to get 7 on their planes.

8 MR. SCHIAVONI: I was holding out hope that Your 9 Honor was going to say get a good night's sleep and stuff.

10 THE COURT: No. I don't get one, you don't get 11 one. Okay.

12 MR. SCHIAVONI: That was an attempt at humor, Your 13 Honor. I'm sorry.

14 THE COURT: It's been what?

15 MR. SCHIAVONI: It was an attempt at humor. I --

16 THE COURT: I'm smiling.

17 Okay. Okay, counsel. Well, thank you. That 18 concludes tonight.

19 I will see you tomorrow at 12:30.
