Dear Justice:

I was a [REDACTED] I enjoyed the Cub Scouts – it was a great experience so I looked forward the BSA participation. Unfortunately the was a Scout leader who took me another direction which became a life long problem.

[REDACTED] There was a designated camp ground there. Looking back, one leader would take me to the [REDACTED] Honestly, I can't remember how many times this happened—I'd rather forget. I didn't understand that I should report this to my parents, another leader, or anyone else.

[REDACTED] when I was [REDACTED] I dated different women and we enjoyed many university events and other [REDACTED] [REDACTED] I met a special woman and we had a daughter, but [REDACTED] and I had many issues—looking back I am to blame.

I began to think the issue might be that [REDACTED] Into [REDACTED] the was with a [REDACTED], but again, each one failed—I was to blame. By the [REDACTED] I decided that I did not want to be with anyone.

Currently I live with my dogs. They are great companions, but I still feel that this distaste for a relationship is not how things should have ended up.

This is my life and I have learned to live with it. Please keep this in confidence as I feel so much shame and it would be so much worse if my name got out.

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]
