

claimants were required to prove their claims in court, BSA's and the BSA Related Parties' overall liability would be materially less than that which key claimant constituencies in this case evidently hope to obtain under Trust Distribution Procedures that do not provide for any careful scrutiny of the claimants' claims.

Having said this, Hartford supports the relief sought in the Motion. If nothing else, a continuation for a reasonable period of the Preliminary Injunction will allow all parties in interest to focus at this critical juncture in this Chapter 11 case on a possible global settlement, and the Debtors' reorganization efforts, rather than litigation.

WHEREFORE, Hartford respectfully joins in BSA's request in the Motion for an extension of the Preliminary Injunction.
